Welcome to the 2023 Riverland Field Days

We are proud and excited to bring the Riverland's largest event for you to enjoy. Showcasing the latest in new technology, exhibiting the old and providing entertainment, food and refreshments, we are sure that there is something for everyone to enjoy.

If the last few years of Covid-19 have taught us anything, it's the importance of community and about simply being with each other, which is why we are so excited to celebrate all that the Riverland has to offer at the 2023 Field Days.

As so many of you know, Field Days started in the early settler's fruit blocks where the innovative thinking and hard work of our predecessors was shared for the benefit of all in our community.

We are proud to continue this tradition by presenting today's forward thinking, proactive and community-minded exhibitors and sponsors.

We would like to recognise these exhibitors, large and small, and thank them for their efforts.

We have to acknowledge that there would be no Field Days without the people that attend on a yearly basis and we are grateful for your continued support and can't wait to enjoy the 2023 Field Days with all of you.

This event cannot run without the fantastic effort from our loyal and hardworking volunteers and committee members whose dedicated work make for a seamless and enjoyable Field Days.

In closing, I would encourage everyone to come along to see what our exhibitors can offer, while enjoying a great day of attractions, entertainment, food and maybe a catch up with old friends.

See you there!

Emma's sights set on a family-friendly event

ELYSE ARMANINI

THE new manager of Riverland Field Days says organising the upcoming event for the first time has been a challenge, but a rewarding one.

Emma Gwiazda took over the role when Tim Grieger retired earlier this year, after more than two decades of involvement in the event.

"It's been a good learning experience for me, considering the size of the event to organise," Mrs Gwiazda said.

"It's the largest that I have personally organised so it was a nice challenge for me. It's been great working alongside the committee, and they have been very supportive of me in my first year.

"Tim as the outgoing manager has also been very supportive.

"It's just been a really good year, and it's looking pretty good. We have quite a few new exhibitors coming in this year, and lots are returning.

"There will also be a few new entertainment options for kids, and bigger kids too. I'm really looking forward to the event."

As a mother of two young children – a two-and-a-half-year-old and a seven-week-old – Mrs Gwiazda and her family will be looking for "anything to keep my eldest entertained" during the two-day event.

"We'll be visiting all of the tractor things because he is obsessed with tractors and mowers," she said.

"We have a little hobby farm ourselves, so we'll be looking for a few things in the ag sections.

"It will also be good to look around at the different stalls in the exhibition and marquee pavilions, to see what everyone in there has to offer."

Ticketing options for this year

SEVERAL options are available to purchase tickets to the 2023 Riverland Field Days.

Tickets are $20 online and at the gate, or $18 for early birds at selected venues, while students and children under 18 are free to enter.

RIVERLAND VENUES FOR EARLY BIRD TICKETS ARE:

- Berri VIC
- Barmera VIC
- Woody's Variety Store, Waikerie
- No. 1 Home and Gifts, Waikerie

Tickets are available by cash or card from these venues up until close of business on Thursday 14 September.

"You can purchase tickets online, even on the days of the Field Days event, and the price won't change regardless of when they are purchased," said Emma Gwiazda, Field Days manager.

Limited cash will be on hand at gates, and EFTPOS machines will be operating.

"We are accepting cash at the gates, but there won't be much change available," Mrs Gwiazda said.

"We're encouraging people to bring either the right amount of money for the amount of people in the group and just be aware that we might not have change for bigger notes."

Organisers say having online bookings helps to reduce the workload on the Field Days volunteers, and is a convenient way for patrons to get their tickets.

We look forward to meeting you

At Veterans SA, we envisage a strong, vibrant, well-supported and represented veteran community and we are excited to have the opportunity to meet with local veterans and their families at the 2023 Riverland Field Days on 15-16 September.

We are collaborating with ex-service organisations to bring information and services directly to veterans and their families. Our partners will be available to provide face-to-face advice and information as well as enable connections with other service providers who can offer further support.

Rev it up

A RACE car simulator is sure to attract plenty of attention once again this year.

Rev It Up Racing is bringing a multi-person simulator to the Riverland Field Days, sponsored by Flight Motors.

Children, teenagers and parents, or partners and friends, can test their skills against each other to find out who the fastest driver is.

Race against each other on the virtual race track for the ultimate bragging rights at site 506.

V8 Lawnmowers back at Field Days

A V8 engine in a lawnmower? Correct.

They are coming back to the 2023 Riverland Field Days – sponsored by Eastside Bearing & Brake Supplies – after a popular inaugural challenge last year.

See the V8 enthusiasts test their engines on the track at site 950 in 9th Avenue.

Challenge heats will be on at 11am, 1pm and 3pm each day.

Attractions aplenty for young and old

THERE will be something for everyone on offer at the 2023 Riverland Field Days.

Field Days manager Emma Gwiazda said people interested in wildlife and scaly creatures will be catered to once again with two zoos returning for the iconic event.

“Black Snake Productions brings the snake pit, which is more of an educational tool as well as entertainment for those who like the slithery things,” Mrs Gwiazda said.

“Jamie and Kim’s Mobile Zoo allows kids to go and see different animals – lots of our native animals will be on show.”

For the younger visitors, Marianna the Mermaid and her pirate friend will provide entertainment and photo opportunities.

“Marianna is new to the Field Days event this year,” Mrs Gwiazda said.

“She is quite popular with the little kiddies throughout the region whenever she comes.”

Rev heads and lawnmower enthusiasts have not been forgotten according to Mrs Gwiazda.

“We have Rev It Up Racing coming back again this year, as well as the V8 Lawnmower challenge,” she said.

“They are a bit of fun for the kids, and their dads, I would say.”

Horse lovers will delight in two options, with pony rides available towards the back of the Field Days site, and Miracle Park Stables, from Monash, exhibiting for the first time.

“Miracle Park Stables are an NDIS provider here in the Riverland who help people with mental health and disabilities,” Mrs Gwiazda said.

“They will have a pony there for people to pat, or put flowers in its hair – which is something a little different.

“It’s a good chance for people to learn about equine therapy too. Mel and Pete would be more than happy to explain what they do and the benefits of it to anyone who asks.”

“People interested in wildlife and scaly creatures will be catered to once again with two zoos returning for the iconic event.”

Signature agricultural event returns

THE Riverland Field Days is steeped in history, commencing with 26 exhibitors in 1958, and growing numbers each year.

It was originally known as the Field and Gadget Day, where locals would enter new inventions and gadgets that made farming and growing a little easier. Today we look and marvel at new technologies that make farming that much easier.

This year marks the 64th annual event and is now the interface between farmers and suppliers and the benefits that come from an established collaboration with business, industry, government, grower and producer organisations.

With its diverse range of 350 exhibitors from across Australia, the Field Days event features broadacre farming equipment and machinery, while showcasing products to empower individuals and businesses to stay up to date with the industry’s latest trends and advancements.

The ever-changing face of these industries means that farmers are constantly reevaluating practices seeking the most efficient way to grow and market their produce.

The social and economic value for our local communities highlights the importance of sustainable agricultural production, which contributes more than $14 billion to South Australia’s economy.

However, in short, you, the attendees and the support of our local community are what makes field days so special.

On the other hand, if you are visiting, I encourage you to take some time to explore the unique tourism experiences on offer while you are in the region.

With so much to see and do, plan your visit, make an occasion of it, and stay nearby.

A new generation of food and wine establishments has emerged, we have an abundance of award-winning restaurants, breweries, distilleries, and cellar doors, all set close to the banks of the majestic River Murray.

There are plenty of accommodation options in the region and you’ll experience great local hospitality.

My electorate office will be located at site 526B, so please feel free to drop by and have a chat.

See you there.

BankSA stage offerings

EVERYONE will be entertained throughout the two-day Field Days event this year with fan favourites and new performers taking to the BankSA stage.

Friday will feature two Ag Art Fashion Parades, Rivergum Christian College, Waikerie High School, Loxton High School and the Sacred Heart College Band.

Saturday will see Sacred Heart start the day off, before two more Ag Art parades and an interview with Bentley's to cap off the event.

"Bentley's is the Ag Art sponsor," explained Emma Gwiazda, Field Days manager.

"Their partners have the final slot on the Bank SA stage for an interview with one of our past chairs, Anthony Fulwood.

"It will be about finding out what ways their business can assist our region's farmers and their families.

"There are lots of different things happening financially in the region's industries and we wanted to give our locals the opportunity to listen to some of these partners having a 15-minute interview with Anthony."

Riverland Field Days 2023

New faces take on Safari tradition

ELYSE ARMANINI

A NEW team has taken the reins for a popular Riverland Field Days children's activity, continuing almost two decades of work.

After years of dedication from the Renmark Children's Centre, director Gale Hansen – who was at the helm of the Safari for 11 years – felt it was time to see the Children's Safari enter a new era.

Rivergum Christian College will present the Safari, akin to the Adelaide Show's Yellow Brick Road, for the first time this month.

"We would love to say a huge thankyou to Gale and the team at Renmark Children's Centre who pioneered this incredible community initiative for children across the Riverland," said Jessica Clark, Rivergum Christian College principal.

"Their dedication and two decades of service are an amazing testament to the spirit of community and volunteering in the Riverland.

"We would also like to thank the Riverland Field Days Committee and manager Emma Gwiazda for helping us with a smooth transition."

The Safari is a family favourite for Field Days visitors, and allows exhibitors to showcase their site to all ages.

Participants take part by visiting the Safari tent (site 503, by public gate 1) upon arrival, purchasing a tote bag for $10 and collecting surprise giveaways from exhibitors using the Safari Trail map.

Mrs Gwiazda said the Safari was a "great option for families".

"You get to move around the site together... and at the end of the day participants get to have something to show for it, something to look through in the car," she said.

"While there are entertainment options available throughout the event, the Children's Safari is something the whole family can join in on."

Mrs Clark said she and the College community were "excited" to partner with the Field Days Committee to continue a long-standing part of the event.

"We feel extremely privileged to be the next local organisation to be entrusted with its co-ordination," she said.

"Rivergum has endeavoured to maintain the traditions of the Safari while bringing a refreshed look and feel that we hope pays respect to the many years of dedication by Gale and her team at the Renmark Children's Centre.

"This includes giving a new face and now a name to the iconic giraffe chosen by the Children's Centre that has become part of the Safari's identity. We're excited to introduce Archie the Giraffe as our Safari mascot and hope he brings a smile to faces of all ages.

"We certainly hope he has lots of adventures this year and in the years ahead."

Each year the Safari sells 300 starter bags with food items, gifts and promotional materials donated by local businesses, many that will not be exhibiting at Field Days, but still support the event.

"Support from local businesses and organisations is an integral part in the ongoing success of the Children's Safari. We are blessed that community support has always been strong with Field Days in exhibitors and families alike.

"We've been grateful that exhibitors have continued to show their enthusiasm to get on board as we kick off our inaugural year..."

"This has been highly valuable in ensuring exhibitors get great return on investment and the children collect some fantastic items to enjoy long after the Field Days.

"We would strongly encourage any local business or organisation considering supporting the Safari to contact us."

All about family and farming

THE Riverland Field Days, in its 64th year, has long had a strong focus on being a family-orientated event.

It is the Riverland's premier agricultural and horticultural showcase event, and has grown to cater to a broad range of interests, from cooking and gardening to recreational vehicles, fashion and music.

"Yes, it's an agricultural show and it has mostly been about the agricultural side of things throughout the event's history to provide great opportunities for our local farmers and businesses," said Emma Gwiazda, Field Days manager.

"But at the same time, our farmers are not going to want to come out just by themselves, they want their families to come out as well.

"We try and include as much for the families as we can.

"We have a large amount of apparel coming this year, and some new distilleries bringing some of their goods for us to try. We also have our local and statewide services that will have sites at the event to talk about things like succession planning, financial planning, and accounting.

"We will have home builders on site, for families who are looking at potentially purchasing land, or rebuilding a house. There will be non-local builders available for some new or different options."

Schooling and higher-education exhibitors will also be on site throughout the two days in September.

"Quite a few schools from Adelaide will be popping up to have a chat with Riverlanders, in case they're looking at sending their children to a school in Adelaide for their final years, and some universities too, to have a look at and get information on future options," Mrs Gwiazda said.

"We will also have TAFE SA set up with information on the Murray River Study Hub – a local tertiary study option for the region if your kids don't want to travel, or if you want them to stay close by."

Let's talk about safety on your farm

MORE than 190,000 stobie poles and 35,000km of powerline are present across South Australia's cropping regions.

Both are an essential part of supplying electricity to communities across the state, but they can also pose a safety hazard needing management on farms.

On average, 20 South Australians are involved in accidents each year from farm equipment – such as trucks, tractors or harvesters – coming into contact with stobie poles or powerlines.

"A tip truck makes contact with powerlines while making a delivery, a tractor runs straight over the top of a stobie pole, a boom sprayer contacts a powerline while being raised – these are just some of the incidents that regularly occur on South Australian broadacre farms," said Paul Roberts, SA Power Networks head of corporate affairs.

"We have seen a surge in on-farm incidents with about 30 reported in (both) 2021 and 2022 and a similar number likely in 2023.

"Whether it is a farmer harvesting the crop, a contractor building a new shed, or people working in the grain-handling area of the farm, overhead powerlines are a clear hazard and a

SA Power Networks is urging farm safety after this truck's wheels were blown off when the tipper contacted an 11,000-volt powerline. Fortunately, the driver was uninjured. PHOTO: supplied potentially fatal risk to be aware of."

Mr Roberts said the reality was on-farm incidents could be avoided through ensuring farmers and farm employees have an appropriate work site away from powerlines, and undertaking thorough planning before completing any tasks.

Extra care is suggested when on-farm work involves:

- Using high vehicles or tall machinery, such as cranes or augers
- Relying on GPS to steer your vehicle

- Raising the tipper tray of trucks
- Raising farm equipment such as irrigation pipes overhead
- Climbing on top of machinery or storage silos
- Farm workers and contractors who are not familiar with your property and the location of powerlines.

What to do if contact with powerlines is made

When contact is made with powerlines, there is a high chance of electric shock. SA Power Networks should be contacted immediately by calling 13 13 66, and you should not move – preferably and if safe to stay – until the power is switched off.

If it is necessary to leave the vehicle or machinery, several steps must be followed to maximise safety:

STEP 1

Jump out and clear of the vehicle with your feet together, and do not touch the vehicle and ground at the same time.

STEP 2

Using shuffling steps with your feet close together, move calmly to at least 10 metres away.

STEP 3

Call SA Power Networks immediately on 13 13 66.

STEP 4

Stay clear of the vehicle until help arrives.

STEP 5

Wait for SA Power Networks staff to confirm that the powerline is now safe.

The Look Up and Live app is a free and simple tool to help safely plan and/or perform work. The use of the app can help minimise contact and reduce risk of injury or death from electrocution, plus damage to equipment and the electricity network.

The app is available to download via the App Store and Google Play, or visit the website (www.lookupandlive.com.au) for more information.

SA Power Networks will be on site at Riverland Field Days this month in the Exhibition Pavilion to talk about on-farm safety.

"Our people on site will be able to handle a range of enquiries about energy matters," Mr Roberts said.

"If there is something else you would like to chat about other than safety, just ask. We'll be more than happy to help."

PLENTY of Action will be available at site 631-633 at this year's Riverland Field Days.

Actions Steel – the Big Shed People – are a third-generation family business specialising in designing, manufacturing and installing heavy-duty farm sheds across South Australia, Victoria and New South Wales.

With more than 20 years of experience in the manufacturing and construction industries, Action shed designs are the perfect fit for the Australian agricultural industry.

As well as following best-practice design standards, every Action shed is built from Australian-made steel and the frame is fully hot dip galvanised after manufacture to ensure maximum durability and longevity.

This heavy-duty UB column and open-web truss frame design will be on display along with custom gutters and cladding options at the Riverland Field Days for you to view the quality of construction first hand.

The company's extensive farm shed range includes hay, grain and machinery sheds, yard covers and shearing sheds, with the added benefit of complete project management from council permit applications, right through to installation and completion.

Action's expertise and product offering also extends to in-house concrete panel manufacturing, making the company the ideal choice for farmer's building grain sheds, fertiliser sheds, calf sheds and multipurpose sheds, or those wanting to retrofit existing farm sheds with panels.

In other words Action, the Big Shed People, offer the complete package for your farm shed build.

If you are planning a farm shed build, be sure to catch up with the building consultants on site at the Action exhibit site 631-633.

In the meantime, visit the Action website (actionsteel.com.au) to learn more about the farm shed range and view the latest project photos and resources.

Alternatively, call 1800 687 888 to discuss your project.

The Action Steel farm shed range includes bulk grain storage sheds with the team managing projects from design through to permits, manufacture and installation.

All bases covered at Agri Services

MEMBERS of a longstanding Renmark agriculture business will be available to discuss all things machinery with locals at the upcoming Riverland Field Days.

Riverland Agri Services will once again be displaying agricultural machinery and equipment at site 146 during both days of this year's Field Days.

Riverland Agri Services director Maria Sialas said machinery for both small and large-scale primary producers would be showcased.

"We'll have our Kioti tractors and our Bad Boy mowers," she said.

"We're going to have Interlink sprayers, Seymour spreaders and Palonk harvesters.

"Our Kioti tractors range from 26hp to 140hp, so the smaller models can be ideal for people with (a few) acres as a house allotment.

"Our zero-turn mowers range from 48-inch to 60-inch decks, and the baby in the fleet is $7999 including GST."

Finance options are available through Riverland Agri Services for customers with ABN numbers.

Ms Sialas said the Field Days provided a "great opportunity to interact with our customers in a face-to-face setting".

Veterans SA bringing key support

THE Riverland veteran community will have direct access to essential support services at the 2023 Riverland Field Days, with five key organisations set to join Veterans SA at this year's event.

Returning for a second year, Veterans SA has again partnered with service providers to connect approximately 950 former-serving personnel and their families living in the region with veteran's services and support.

Veterans SA will be joined at the Riverland Field Days by representatives from:

- ☐ Open Arms – Veterans and Families Counselling
- ☐ Legacy Club of South Australia and Broken Hill
- ☐ Military and Emergency Services Health Australia
- ☐ Australian Partners of Defence
- ☐ Disaster Relief Australia.

Veterans SA director Chantelle Bohan said the event provided an important opportunity to reach veteran community members in the region directly.

"Our experience has found that many members of our veteran community aren't aware of the breadth of support and services available to them, and the Field Days are a great way to hear directly and connect them with services providers relevant to their needs," she said.

"The partnering organisations joining us this year can provide veterans and their families in the region with direct access to advocacy services, counselling and wellbeing support, family support and volunteering opportunities, as well as veteran concession and discount information.

"The Riverland Field Days has become a highlight on our calendar, and we look forward to engaging with the local veteran community again at this year's event."

Veterans SA and its exhibiting partners will be located at site P57 (Function Pavilion) at the 2023 Riverland Field Days in Barmera on both Friday 15 September and Saturday 16 September.

Ag Art Fashion Parade takes to the stage

AN ever-popular wearable art competition will return to the BankSA stage four times over the two-day Riverland Field Days event.

The Ag-Art Wear competition and subsequent fashion parade encourages entrants to create a piece of wearable art made with materials of an agricultural/horticultural nature, such as those produced or found on a farm or block.

Both the ag-art and up-cycled wear categories are split into two age groups: under 18 years and over 18 years.

"There are a whole heap of new art ideas this year, so we're all looking forward to seeing how that turns out," said Emma Gwiazda, Field Days manager.

Garments will be modelled and judged during parades on the BankSA stage at 10am and 1.45pm on Friday 15 September, and at 12 noon and 2pm on Saturday 16 September.

Entry into the competition is free, with cash prizes awarded to winners, announced at the final parade on Saturday.

Last year's winners were:

- Ag-Art Wear (under 18)
Floral Illusion, designed by Scarlett Drogemuller, Tess Pankhurst, Mikayla Lehmann and Lory Jungfer.
- Ag-Art Wear (over 18)
Miss Showgirl, designed by Anne Menzel.
- Up-Cycled Wear (under 18)
Gardener's Wedding, designed by Emma Plush.

- Up-Cycled Wear (over 18)
Rock-a-Top, designed by Julie Plush.

Organiser Sarah Plush told The Murray Pioneer – following the 2022 parade – she was "blown away" by the creations, and shared excitement for what this year would bring.
