WINE INDUSTRY CATASTROPHE?

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

PEAK representative bodies say the Riverland is at risk of “long-term economic” catastrophe, unless direct support is provided for the South Australian wine industry.

The Advertiser on Monday reported local grape growers were “grappling with one of the worst crises to hit the industry”.

Riverland Wine general manager Alex Cannon-Leyson said local grape growers were unable to rely on government financial support.

“It has been made very clear to Riverland Wine that no vine pull or exit support is on the table and that there will be no assistance for the sustainable clearing of blocks from State or Federal Government,” Ms Cannon-Leyson said.

Operation Eclipse seizes tobacco stockpile

ILLICIT tobacco products worth $8.1m – some of which were believed to be going to regional areas such as the Riverland – have been seized by South Australian detectives.

Police made the seizure on August 13, at an Edinburgh industrial warehouse.

The stockpile consisted of 8.6 million cigarettes worth almost $6.9m, 1.35 million tobacco tubes, worth $674,000, and just over one tonne of loose tobacco, worth $500,000.

Operation Eclipse commander, detective chief inspector Brett

Featherby, said it was believed the distribution warehouse was being used to supply illicit tobacco retail outlets in regional, and metropolitan, areas.

“This is a major blow to an organised crime syndicate involved in the illicit tobacco market in South Australia,” he said.

“Operation Eclipse continues to successfully identify opportunities to disrupt organised crime syndicates driving the illicit tobacco market in South Australia.

“Investigations are also continuing to identify and disrupt those involved in the cross-border trafficking of illicit tobacco into South Australia.”

Mr Featherby said ongoing investigations had resulted in organised crime syndicates changing their operating model and tactics to prevent disruption by law enforcement.

“Investigations of this nature are complex and take time, this is one of a number of large seizures subject to ongoing investigations,” he said.

“Co-ordination of a whole SAPOL response has suppressed and disrupted the activities of organised crime syndicates driving serious criminal offending aligned with the illicit tobacco market in SA, including arsons and offences of violence.

“The response has had a significant impact on organised crime financial operations and criminal activity and will continue to do so.”

To date Operation Eclipse activities have resulted in assets worth $22.8m being restrained, plus the seizure of more than $2.5m in cash, and $36.8m in tobacco products.

The stockpile included 8.6 million cigarettes, and more than one tonne of loose tobacco.

Motorists busted for drink, drug driving

TWO motorists have been charged by police for driving while intoxicated within the region last weekend.

At approximately 1.30pm, on Friday, August 22, a 54-year-old Berri man was reported for driving while disqualified on Worman Street, in Berri.

He allegedly tested positive to cannabis and methamphetamine. Prescription medication was seized from his vehicle, which was also defected.

At around 9pm, on Saturday, August 23, a 23-year-old man was stopped on Amy Street, in Barmera, and reported for drink driving, returning a reading of 0.065.

Seven drivers across the Murray Mallee region were also detected for drug driving offences between August 22, and August 25.

Each was issued an immediate loss of licence and will face court pending forensic analysis.

First-hand look at fruit fly response at the Field Days

LOCALS will get a hands-on look at South Australia's front-line fruit fly defence when the Fruit Fly Response Team from the Department of Primary Industries and Regions (PIRSA) heads to the 2025 Riverland Field Days.

From releasing sterile fruit flies to managing fruit fly detection locations, the response team will showcase how the program is helping to protect the Riverland, and how residents can increase the impact on getting fruit fly out of the region.

"Our biggest message is simple," general manager of the fruit fly response program Jason Size said.

"If you've got a tree in your yard then you're part of the solution. Keeping your garden clean, picking fruit before it falls, and knowing what to look for all helps keep fruit fly out of the Riverland."

- Visitors to PIRSA's stand will get:
- practical tips for garden hygiene and fruit fly prevention.
 - a close-up look at the sterile insect technique (SIT) program.
 - advice on how to spot fruit fly signs early.
 - answers to questions from biosecurity experts.

"We're releasing millions of sterile flies across the region to suppress wild populations," Mr Size said.

"But that only works if people back us in at home. It's a team effort, and the community is the most powerful part of our response."

PIRSA staff will also share updates on detections, show the equipment they use, and offer guidance on safe fruit disposal.

Creativity with a cause: student competition returns

This year's Field Days event also celebrates a new Sticker and Poster Competition, a chance for local students to help spread the fruit fly message in their own words and designs.

Each winning school will receive $200, thanks to support from Citrus SA and the South Australian Avocado Growers Association. The Sticker Competition is open to students in years 4 to 6, while the Poster Competition is for students in years 7 to 9.

Finalists will be on display at the PIRSA stand (sites 311 – 315, Third Avenue), where visitors can cast their vote for the People's Choice award. Winners will be announced during the event.

Entries close at 5pm on Friday. For templates and entry info, visit the website (fruit-fly.sa.gov.au), or email (PIRSA.fruitfly@sa.gov.au).

Visit PIRSA at the Riverland Field Days, on September 12 and 13, and find out how you can protect your patch.

No flies were detected in 32 of the 56 Riverland outbreak areas during the past fortnight.

$250,000 funding for Stoney Pinch Sands

A RIVERLAND quarrying company has received $250,000 in funding to invest in methods to rectify silica deficiency in soils, and improve the ability for plants to grow and thrive.

Renmark-based business Stoney Pinch Sands was one of 14 Australian businesses to be supported by the Federal Government's Growth Program, with the funding encouraging a potential for businesses to commercialise and scale up, while also building manufacturing and industrial capability for the future.

"Stoney Pinch Sands is a great local success story, which now has the capability to expand even further," South Australian Senator Don Farrell said.

"The (Federal) Government will continue to back projects like that of Stoney Pinch Sands to secure local jobs, boost our economy and strengthen local supply chains."

Minister for Industry and Innovation, and Minister for Science, Tim Ayres said "the (Federal) Government's Industry Growth Program is providing real support to Australian businesses that are pushing boundaries and opening up new frontiers."

"The Industry Growth Program invests in local jobs and local people with great ideas, keeping manufacturing, local industry and Aussie talent here at home: a key enabler of a Future Made in Australia," Mr Ayres said.

"This support also helps pave the way for these local businesses to step into international markets and take Aussie innovation to the world."

Further details will be provided in the next edition of The Murray Pioneer.

Early-Stage Commercialisation, and Commercialisation and Growth grants, are open to businesses who choose to apply following participation in the Industry Growth Program Advisory Service.

Applications for the Advisory Service are open on an ongoing basis.

RPSMF choir teachers honoured for years of service

THE Riverland Primary Schools' Music Festival (RPSMF) entered its 29th year last night, and it continuing to showcase the passion and talent of our region's young singers — thanks in large part to a team of dedicated volunteers and educators.

Last year's concert series included a special celebration, as several long-serving contributors were farewelled, and recognised for their outstanding service to music education in the Riverland and Mallee regions.

End of an era for four RPSMF stalwarts

Joanna Whitehead, Karyn Clarke, Sue Press, and Cathy Miegel were each acknowledged during the 2024 festival for their longstanding commitment and leadership within the RPSMF.

Joanna, who joined the festival team in 2018 as regional co-ordinator, played a pivotal role in steering the festival through the challenges of the Covid-19 pandemic. Her leadership ensured that students still had the chance to perform during that difficult period, with concerts taking place at Loxton and Waikerie Lutheran schools. This effort earned the Festival an Australia Day Event of the Year award. Joanna was recently endorsed by the SA Public Primary School's Music Society as a life member, a rare honour, recognising her outstanding loyalty and service.

Karyn and Sue were described as a “powerhouse” behind the success of both the RPSMF, and Berri Primary School’s choir. Over the past decade, they volunteered hundreds of hours, supporting choir conductors, stage managers, festival bands, and soloists and hosts. Their energy, passion, and belief in young people have left a lasting legacy.

Cathy, who stepped down from her RPSMF roles at the end of 2023, had contributed more than 20 years to the festival. Beginning in 2000 as a choir teacher at Lameroo Area School, she later became choral conductor, and served as musical director in 2020 and 2021. Her blend of conducting and musical theatre skills inspired countless children over the years.

Celebrating the arts

The 2024 Festival repertoire was themed around the arts, and once again featured the visual talents of local artist Belinda Cale. Belinda generously donates her time and materials each year to create stunning artwork that complements the musical program. She was presented with an award during last year's series in recognition of her continued support and contribution.

A new chapter begins

In 2025, Kirralee Baldock joined the RPSMF team as the new regional co-ordinator. Taking up the reins from Joanna, Kirralee has supported the Festival tirelessly, contributing countless hours behind the scenes — dotting the i's, crossing the t's, and ensuring every detail is in place to help bring the 2025 Festival to life.

Final preparations underway

Rehearsals are complete, and final preparations are now taking place in schools across the region as students gear up for this year's performances. Year 4, 5, and 6 students have shown impressive focus, enthusiasm, and musical ability throughout the rehearsal process.

Much of this success can be credited to the tireless work of choir teachers, who dedicate countless hours throughout the year to preparing their students—musically, and also in confidence, teamwork, and stage presence.

“As the festival approaches its 30th anniversary, we’re reminded that behind every successful choir is a passionate, hard-working choir teacher,” a festival spokesperson said.

“If your child has had the chance to sing on stage at the Chaffey Theatre, AEC, or Festival Theatre — thank a choir teacher today.”

The 2025 Riverland Primary Schools' Music Festival will be held at the Chaffey Theatre, tonight and tomorrow. Tickets are on sale now.

Issues with Oodla Wirra quarantine station?

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

PIRSA HAS reiterated it continues to take the risk of fruit fly incursions into the Riverland “seriously”, despite reports some protocols went unfollowed at a South Australian quarantine station.

Concerns have recently been raised to The Murray Pioneer regarding the effectiveness of vehicle inspections for potential fruit fly host material being undertaken at the Oodla Wirra quarantine station, outside of Peterborough.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said strict measures surrounding fruit fly were necessary to protect local horticulture production.

"I am disappointed to hear reports that PIRSA staff are not consistently following biosecurity protocols," Mr Whetstone said.

“These reports undermine the confidence and patience our community has in this government’s response to fruit fly.

“There are zero strikes and zero excuses for bringing fruit and vegetables into South Australia. These laws are in place to help protect our primary producers who work so hard to produce fresh fruit and vegetables as part of a billion-dollar industry.

“To successfully tackle fruit fly, both government and community must vigilantly work together – everyone must play their part.”

However, a PIRSA spokesperson said the department takes “all complaints seriously and investigates where possible, including reviewing camera footage to ensure staff are undertaking the necessary vehicle checks”.

The spokesperson said the location, and staffing levels, at Oodla Wirra meant inspecting every vehicle would be an inefficient process.

“PIRSA inspectors do an excellent job of helping to stop fruit fly and other biosecurity threats from entering South Australia, in often trying circumstances,” the spokesperson said.

“The Yamba quarantine station operates under a zero-tolerance policy and is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

“The Oodla Wirra quarantine station operates under a different policy where not every vehicle is checked, as it is not staffed at all times, and is not on a border, however inspectors do aim to stop and speak with every vehicle passing through. There may be occasions due to safety and traffic flow where vehicles are passed through quickly.

“PIRSA has reminded staff at Oodla Wirra of the importance of vehicle inspections, noting there are many locals who pass through this station regularly who are familiar to the PIRSA staff, and are aware of the rules.”

It is understood more than 28 tonnes of produce were confiscated at the Oodla Wirra station in the first three months of 2025.

Wine industry catastrophe?

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

PEAK representative bodies say the Riverland is at risk of “long-term economic” catastrophe, unless direct support is provided for the South Australian wine industry.

The Advertiser on Monday reported local grape growers were “grappling with one of the worst crises to hit the industry”.

Riverland Wine general manager Alex Cannon-Leyson said local grape growers were unable to rely on government financial support.

“It has been made very clear to Riverland Wine that no vine pull or exit support is on the table and that there will be no assistance for the sustainable clearing of blocks from State or Federal Government,” Ms Cannon-Leyson said.

“We also understand that there is currently no support planned to mitigate the biosecurity risks posed by unmanaged vineyards.

“Riverland Wine is continuing to urge our members to make balanced decisions heading into vintage 2026, while also advocating for urgent, targeted assistance to rest vineyards, manage climbing input costs and support transitions to alternative crops.”

However, Ms Cannon-Leyson said Riverland Wine was still highlighting the need to support growers in transitioning to different crops.

“Feedback from our members suggests the current (Regional Riverland wine grape growers have been advised to avoid any reliance on potential economic support for vine pulls, or to exit the industry. PHOTO: supplied Investment Corporation) loan framework is not delivering the outcomes needed on the ground,” she said.

“We are strongly advocating for the introduction of low-interest loans and direct subsidies to enable growers to diversify and adapt sustainably.

“Without such support, the region risks catastrophic long-term economic and environmental decline.”

Australian Grape and Wine chief executive Lee McLean said consideration of potential socio-economic risks could decrease the risks seen in previous vine pull schemes.

“Our industry is facing an incredibly difficult period, with many growers under enormous pressure,” Mr McLean said.

“What we want to avoid is a situation where people are forced out of grape growing because they have no other option.

“A well-designed, carefully considered support scheme could help smooth this transition, particularly for older growers approaching retirement, allowing them to exit the industry with dignity and some financial security.”

Mr McLean said the integration of “stronger rules for grape purchasing” was also vital for industry sustainability.

“Dr Craig Emerson has recommended a mandatory code of conduct, which we welcome, but it is critical that growers are directly involved in shaping the code to avoid unintended consequences,” he said.

“With the right design, such a code - including fair and transparent payment terms, earlier indicative pricing, and effective dispute resolution - would give growers greater certainty and the ability to make business decisions with confidence.

“If implemented, it could be in place by the 2027 vintage.”

A late bloomer?

MADISON EASTMOND

THE Riverland is finally in bloom, and despite the late flowering, growers are optimistic weather conditions indicate a positive harvest is ahead.

Though between 10 and 14 days late for local almond growers, Riverland orchards have finally hit their peak flowering period, making for spectacular sights across the region.

Renmark-based grower, and G.J. Gardner Homes Riverland director, Sam Pearce said the upcoming season looked promising.

“The (blossom period) is seasonal — last year’s harvest was particularly early, and year the harvest has been particularly late,” Mr Pearce told The Murray Pioneer.

“It happened very suddenly, and now with the predicted warmer weather, everything should go great.”

Though welcoming the recent rain for the region, Mr Pearce said the fall “would not make much difference” for the current crop.

“During flowering, we actually prefer not too have too much rain,” he said.

“However, any rain is good rain for the region, and it would be great for everyone to see a lot more.”

THE YEARS GO BY

LoxStory, Peter and Carla Magarey

Blooms and vine pulls

THE blossoming almond trees seen throughout many areas of the Riverland over the past week are a welcome indication that spring is just around the corner, and the harshly cold mornings we were seeing during this year’s winter are finally beginning to draw to a close.

The vivid pink and white colours that are filling the orchids are somewhat indicative of the fortuitous circumstances currently surrounding the almond industry, with seemingly ever-increasing international demand, particularly from India and China, pushing up prices, and economic returns for growers.

However, as good as the situation may be for almond growers at the moment, the picture for the local wine industry, and Riverland grape growers, still appears quite bleak.

As can be read in today’s edition, the time before the 2026 harvest and vintage is beginning to run out, with seemingly still too many acres of vines in production, and still too much wine sitting in tanks, to provide any assurance that the economic picture could turn around any time soon.

We are now seeing the terminology grow more serious, with more suggestions of a vine pull, and clear messaging for grape growers to examine their financial sustainability.

It’s probably another example of the agricultural battle always being difficult to win, and it will be interesting to see if the cyclical nature observed with grape prices will also be applicable to almonds.

Continuing to inspire

SOMETIMES the toughest circumstances can be turned into the most inspiring stories.

The efforts of the Riverland team ‘Al’s Gals and a Guy’ in fundraising for the 2025 Coastrek event – which is this year supporting Beyond Blue – have certainly captured some attention.

With well-known faces such as Grant Schwartzkopff among the ranks – as detailed in today’s edition of The Murray Pioneer – the group has, at the time of writing, raised the most donations of any team taking part in the hiking challenge, which will involve a 35km journey along the Fleurieu Peninsula.

The team’s total currently sits at more than $9100, while Grant, along with fellow team members Margaret Howie and Anne Noack, all sit inside the top 12 in terms of individual amounts raised.

It is another testament to the Riverland’s community spirit that even under the pressure caused by current cost-of-living difficulties, locals have provided such high levels of support

These stunning figures are truly reflective of the impression Grant, and other members of the team who are regular community volunteers, have had on the Riverland, and also of the continuing positive impacts from the work of Alan Coulter, whom their team is named after.

Despite his own current health challenges, there’s no doubt Alan would want to continue being a positive influence for people’s physical recovery from injuries and other accidents, and he would be hugely proud of the efforts the team have put toward fundraising and increasing awareness for mental health, something so needed particularly in regional South Australian communities.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Opinions expressed in Letters to the Editor are those of the writers, and not those of the Murray Pioneer.

Help older grape growers retire

ABOUT 30 years ago Riverland wine grape growers were transitioning to mechanised vineyards.

They were transitioning away from labour-intensive hand pruning in the cold of winter, hand picking in the heat of summer, and open channels and furrow irrigation.

They were transitioning to pipeline-metered water and efficient irrigation systems, aided by government incentives and infrastructure initiatives.

Winemakers and growers celebrated their clean, green, quality-enhanced, cost-efficient production, and they all prospered.

But the government also legislated to detach water allocations from irrigated land and commoditised irrigation water.

That allowed banks to force growers to sell water allocations to reduce debt when grape prices fell. The sting in the tail of this is now being felt in the loss of permanent water entitlements to irrigation farmers.

For established older Riverland wine grape growers whose blocks’ productive income is their superannuation, these are hard times. Blocks are hard to sell and grape prices are forecast to continue at below the cost of production.

Growers want to hand their vineyard over to their children and retire – because they are too old to replant to different plantings and wait the six-plus years to become profitable.

The government could create a window of opportunity, for one year, for grape growers aged over 75 to pass their vineyard onto their children, and exclude that vineyard from the five-year wait, so they can immediately become eligible to apply for a pension.

Becoming eligible for some aged pension support – without any changes to other pension conditions – could allow older grape growers to retire with some dignity.

One-sided view of conflict

IN response to Judy Bamberger’s letter (‘Strong action needed now’, Murray Pioneer, 13/8/25), I feel she is presenting a one-sided case that puts the State of Israel in a poor light.

Firstly, can she explain why the Hamas leaders lived in 5-star hotels sitting on billions of US dollars while their people are starving?

Most have since been assassinated, but where are the billions?

I suggest the murderous thrives called Hamas – an offshoot of the Egyptian Muslim Brotherhood – stole the money meant for the Palestinians.

Why won’t any neighbouring Muslim countries take the Palestinians in significant numbers?

I suggest they know the Palestinians are dangerous people, many radicalised under Hamas.

I however agree, the Palestinians are victims of oppression and neglect, and being used as human shields during conflict – but at the hands of Hamas and not the Israelis.

Recognition a step toward peace

I WRITE in response to Tony Pasin’s claim in The Murray Pioneer (‘Statement on recognition of Palestine’, letters, 20/8/25) that recognising Palestine is “reckless”.

As a mother, family member and member of a community guided by principles of justice and human dignity, I found his characterisation misleading and unjust.

True recklessness lies in perpetuating a status quo that denies millions their fundamental rights to statehood, dignity, and self-determination under international law. Recognition is not a reward for violence but a necessary step toward a just peace, which can never be built upon the foundation of prolonged occupation and despair.

Contrary to Mr Pasin’s assertion, the Albanese Government has clearly stated that Hamas has no role in Palestine’s future. Recognition strengthens the hand of diplomatic efforts and undermines the extremists who thrive on the hopelessness born from a lack of political progress.

The claim that this places Australia “out of step” is factually incorrect. Australia is not stepping away from its allies, but stepping towards the global to assist. The government was pleased to have the assistance of local farmers who rapidly took up leases. This experiment was a wonderful success and the line became the cheapest broad-gauge railway ever made in Australia. As a result of the opening of the district, 290 settlers had been placed on the land. The opening of the railway was a simple ceremony. With onlookers on both sides of the line, a length of waste twine was stretched across the track. At consensus.

As of writing, 145 of the 193 UN member states recognise the state of Palestine. By acting now, Australia is joining numerous commonwealth countries, such as Canada and England, along with key European partners like Spain, Ireland, and Norway, all of which have made this same principled decision in advocating for a political solution over endless violence.

Following a failed status quo has delivered nothing but decades of bloodshed. If we truly want peace, justice cannot be postponed.

Recognising Palestine is not reckless; it is a necessary and indeed a moral step towards the equality, security, and lasting peace Palestinians deserve.

We’re failing older Australians

MORE than 87,000 older Australians are waiting for the in-home care they deserve.

Caring for, respecting and supporting vulnerable Australians is an important responsibility of the Federal Government.

With an ageing population and a growing desire to age at home, older Australian’s deserve a system that is responsive and sustainable.

Clearly the Albanese Labor Government is failing in this task.

The Albanese Labor Government has abandoned older Australians who need support to stay independent in their own homes, with the waitlist for home care packages almost tripling in the past two years.

The government promised to deliver an additional 83,000 packages from July 1, 2025, but has broken this promise, leaving more than 87,000 older Australians waiting for a home care package.

I have spoken to many older Australians and their families in Barker who are enduring lengthy wait times for the care they have been assessed as requiring. This is completely unacceptable and older Australians simply cannot continue to languish on wait lists or unable to access the services they require.

My Coalition colleagues and I support the current Senate Inquiry into this government’s failure to reduce home care wait times and this time, the locomotive moved forward and ‘breasted the tape’. The success of this railway opened the way for government support for the ‘five fingers of rail’ into the Northern Mallee. The fifth line was from Wanbi, north to Yinkanie which was opened in August 1925. The 100th anniversary of the opening of the Yinkanie line will be celebrated at the Loxton Historical Village September 6, 2025.

delivery of their promised home care packages.

This inquiry will also examine the impacts of these delays on aged care service providers, including on their workforce.

Please be assured that I will continue to fight to ensure that the needs of older members of communities throughout Barker are met.

Older Australians who choose to age at home must have access to the care and support they need.

No productivity crisis in Australia?

NEW research by The Australia Institute reveals there is little evidence of a ‘productivity crisis’ in Australia, despite claims to the contrary from business leaders and politicians.

Like the rest of the world, productivity has been sluggish since the Covid pandemic, but that is largely due to businesses failing to adequately invest in machinery, equipment, technology and skills, at a time when many are recording record profits.

The research also reveals that disappointing productivity is not the cause of the problems facing Australian households, like falling real wages, high prices, high interest rates and the unaffordability of housing.

Key findings of the research include:

- ❑ If real wages had grown at the same rate of productivity since 2000, average wages would be 18 per cent - or $350 per week - higher.
- ❑ Australian businesses now invest less-than-half as much in research and development as those in other OECD countries.
- ❑ Higher productivity does not automatically ‘trickle down’ to workers in terms of improved wages or living standards.
- ❑ Productivity benefits are trending toward high-paid execu-facebook/themurraypioneer

tives, shareholders and profits, rather than workers.

Business claims that productivity can be improved by wage cuts, tax cuts, deregulation or reduced unionisation are false.

The idea that workers should ‘tighten their belts and make do with less’ to improve productivity is a lie.

Productivity has become an excuse for big, profitable businesses to do whatever they like.

Peter Dutton said he’d tear up the new right-to-disconnect laws, saying they hampered productivity, as if allowing employers to call staff any time of the day or night would somehow make them more efficient. This research dispels that kind of nonsense.

Australia’s so-called ‘productivity crisis’ is massively exaggerated. Low productivity is not to blame for the problems facing households today, like soaring interest rates, prices or low wage growth.

This research also shows that sluggish productivity is caused by companies investing far less in things like machinery, equipment and research.

The benefits of productivity should not go straight to profits, shareholders or fat cat CEOs. They should be shared with workers in the form of wages which grow at a similar rate.

That way productivity would deliver its true purpose: to provide economic prosperity and a higher quality of life for everyone.

Better health access, stronger communities

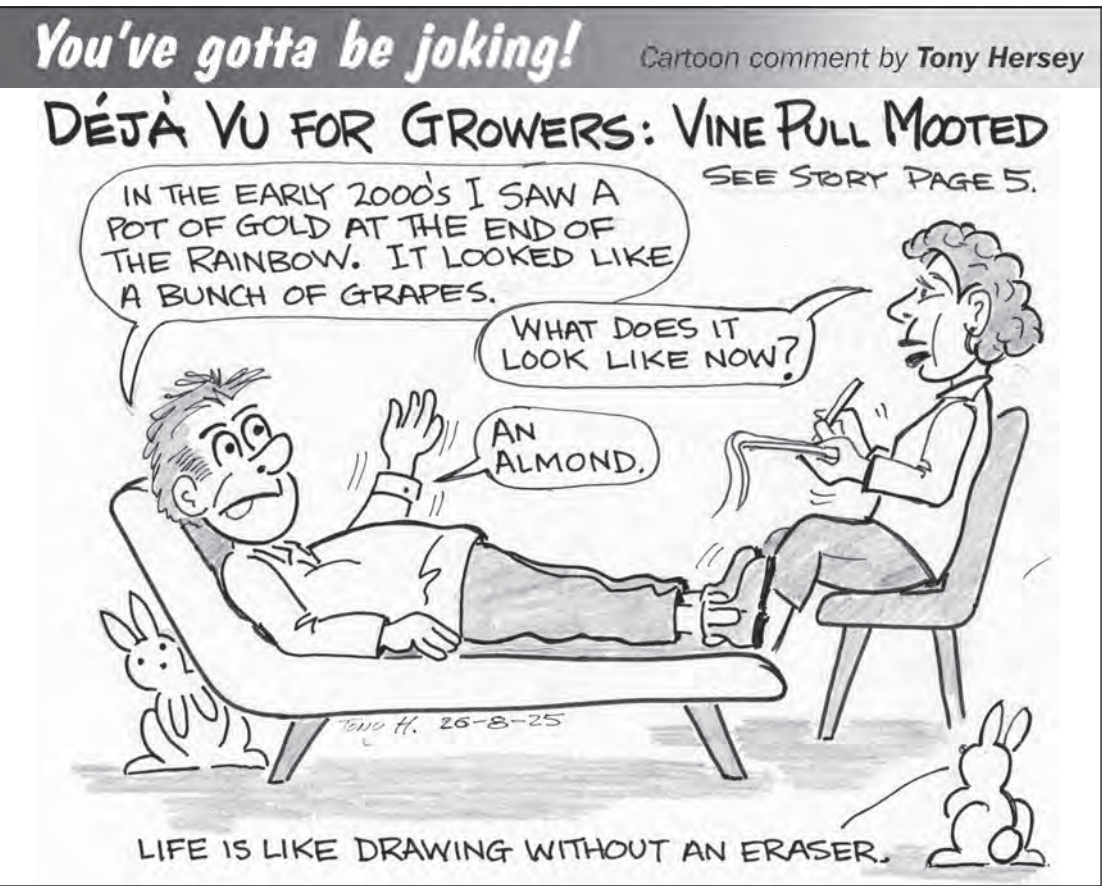

AS Australia marks National Farm Safety Week, the Australian College of Rural and Remote Medicine (ACRRM) is calling for greater support to ensure farmers and their communities can access high-quality, local healthcare.

Investing in the health and wellbeing of rural and remote communities is essential to creating safer farming environments.

Farming is one of the most physically and mentally demanding jobs in Australia, and our farmers face unique health and safety risks every day.

To support safer farms, we must support the health of the people who run them — that means having skilled, locally based doctors who understand rural and remote life and can provide care when and where it’s needed.

Rural generalists (RGs) are the specialists who are central to the solution. Rural generalist doctors bring advanced skills in emergency medicine, mental health, surgery, maternity care, anaesthetics, and more - and are trained to deliver whole-of-life care in settings beyond the urban footprint.

Whether it’s responding to a machinery accident, providing mental health support via telehealth, or managing chronic disease, RGs are vital to the fabric of healthy rural communities.

ACRRM is the only medical college dedicated to training a Rural Generalist workforce. Investing in RGs will not only improve rural health outcomes — it will help stabilise the rural medical workforce and support the sustainability of rural towns.

Healthy farmers mean safer farms. It’s time we recognised that building up rural healthcare is part of building up rural Australia.

Drive down energy bills for all

GOVERNMENT rebates that boost the number of EVs feeding energy back into the grid would lower power prices for all Australians, according to new modelling by the Electric Vehicle Council.

Vehicle-to-grid (V2G) technology, known as bidirectional EV charging, allows energy stored in EVs, which are ‘giant batteries on wheels’, to be sent to the energy grid.

The modelling shows that over five years, a $3000 government rebate towards a V2G charger would create more than $4500 in downward pressure on electricity bills across Australia.

That means for every dollar spent supporting V2G, $1.50 comes back through lower wholesale prices and a reduced need for additional capital expenditure on power infrastructure.

Additionally, an EV owner who participates in V2G could earn around $1000 per year for exporting power from their car to the grid when demand is high.

The EVC proposes the federal government include V2G chargers in its $2.3 billion home battery program to provide more value for money to the taxpayer.

The EVC estimates that 600,000 EVs doing V2G could match the output of NSW’s Eraring power station operating at full capacity. With the federal government’s initiative, more Australians can get onto V2G quicker and we can shut down coal-fired power stations sooner.

V2G has huge potential to make electricity cheaper for everyone and help stabilise the energy grid.

Just as Australia became a rapid global leader in rooftop solar, we have the opportunity now to lead the charge in vehicle-to-grid uptake.

EVs can store up to five-times more energy than a typical home battery. That’s a huge untapped resource sitting in driveways and with the right technology, we can use it to save money and support the grid, and make the whole system more reliable for everyone.

V2G enables EV owners to feed stored power back into the grid during periods of high demand, when electricity is most expensive and vulnerable to disruptions like blackouts.

V2G allows EV owners to drive down power bills not just for themselves but for all Australians. EV owners could earn $1000 annually by sending energy from their electric vehicle to the grid. Over five years, they can contribute more than $4500 in broader community benefits competitive season in 2026.

PAMELA Loveday

This year’s Riverland Rose and Garden Festival program looks that help reduce energy bills for everyone.

Unlocking this energy from EVs brings huge financial benefits that are in the national interest. We need to encourage more people to use V2G chargers, which cost about the same as the average home battery at around $10,000.

We’d like to see the Federal Government roll out a $3000 rebate for V2G chargers so that more Australians can use this technology to generate lower power prices for themselves and others.

Australia is home to more than 350,000 EVs, and a high proportion live in the middle and outer suburbs. With some EVs now around $30,000, the upfront cost is making it more affordable for more Australians to make the switch to cheaper-to-run cars.

V2G unlocks the full benefit of EV uptake in a way that helps everyone, EV owner or not.

A lesson we learnt from rooftop solar is that support from the government during the early years of adoption is essential to build momentum.

Over time V2G chargers will become increasingly affordable and more Australians will embrace this technology. But to get the ball rolling a rebate would be enormously constructive.

V2G offers more than lower energy bills, it can also improve the resilience of the energy system especially during severe weather events.

While V2G is an emerging technology in Australia, a small group of early adopters have exported power to help stabilise the grid.

Hard work reaps Waikerie rewards

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

THE $4.6m Waikerie Riverfront Community Hub project is being hailed as a model for other local communities to follow.

Barker MP Tony Pasin, at the recent Grand Opening of the facility, said the development had become one of his favourite projects in the electorate over the past 13 years.

“It formerly was another project at Waikerie, the dome at the bowling club, but you have now taken that title,” he said.

Mr Pasin said both these projects in the town had demonstrated what a community could achieve through collaboration and commitment.

“You are blessed at the Waikerie Football Club to have the strongest of strongest communities,” Mr Pasin said.

He paid tribute to how the community, the football club, and the District Council of Loxton Waikerie worked together with the State and Federal Governments to make the vision of the hub a reality.

Mr Pasin congratulated District Council of Loxton Waikerie CEO David Beaton for the concept of building the hub on the river side of the oval.

He said the council’s support in providing the club with an interest-free loan of $1m, to be repaid over 30 years, enabled him to assist in ensuring the project was able to receive a $1.5m grant from the Federal Government’s Building Better Regions Fund.

The project also received $1.5m from the State Government’s Local Government Infrastructure Partnership Program.

Council also provided an additional $600,000 to support the completion of the project, and assistance with landscaping budgeted at $80,000.

Mr Pasin praised the Waikerie Football Club’s strong culture, which he said helped drive the development of the hub, and paid tribute to the women involved with the club.

“You are a powerhouse behind this footy club, all of you, and it means it is more than just a footy club, it is a community place,” Mr Pasin said.

“I am very fond of the concept of a third place, we all go to work, we all have homes, we pray that we all have homes, and then there is that third place we go to.

Mr Pasin said in Waikerie the football club was more than just a club, but it was a third place, where the community made connections.

“In some places that I visit, footy clubs are very ‘blokey’ places, but not here at Waikerie, it is a whole of community and that is why you have this magnificent facility,” he said.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone also congratulated the Waikerie Football Club on the completion of the hub.

He said its delivery was a “long standing commitment by the community and the footy club”.

Mr Whetstone praised the council’s project manager of the hub Daniel Brown on his dedication to the development.

“For those who knew what was going on behind the scenes, they would understand just how committed he was to making sure this project went ahead,” he said.

Elizabeth MP Lee Odenwalder, who was representing Premier

Peter Malinauskas, described the riverfront community hub as an “amazing facility”.

“It is perfectly placed with the football ground and near the river, it is beautiful,” he said.

Mr Odenwalder also congratulated those involved with the hub project.

“It shows us what happens when state, federal and local governments work together and in tandem,” he said.

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER and MADISON EASTMOND

A RIVERLAND team have already raised more than $9000 — and counting — for mental health and wellbeing services ahead of a 35km charity coast-line trek next month.

Riverlanders Grant Schwartzkopff, Marg Howie, Anne Noack, Rosemary Lott, and Mel Hettner, are part of the AI’s Gals and a Guy team that will participate in Coastrek’s South Australian Fleurieu Peninsula hiking challenge on September 5, hoping to raise $500,000 for mental health service Beyond Blue.

“It all started off at Alan Coulter’s gym, because we all went out there,” Mr Schwartzkopff said.

“We were sitting in a café afterwards one day, and someone suggested we do this walk — it all evolved from there.”

With the hiking adventure set to run from

Parsons Beach, through to Victor Harbor, the local team have been both preparing and fundraising hard for the challenge these past several weeks.

Along with walking distances “steadily increasing”, the hard work of the AI’s Gals and a Guy team have also placed them as the top overall fundraisers, with $9,131, and Mr Schwartzkopff and Ms Howie in the top five, collection more than $3000 each.

“We’ve had some huge donations,” Mr Schwartzkopff said.

“It’s astounded me. We’re not people that want to go out asking, but everyone has seen it and has decided to support us.

“It’s been the Riverland as a whole too, the donations have been coming from all the towns”.

Liz hits run 200

A DESIRE to consistently challenge herself has seen a Riverland fitness enthusiast recently reach a 1000km running milestone.

Well-known Renmark woman Liz Bull completed her 200th park-run earlier this month, with the momentous achievement taking approximately five years within the Riverland group to complete.

“I was enticed into it by a friend, who I had been walking with for years,” Ms Bull said.

“I’ve never been a runner, (but) it was New Year’s Day about five years ago that (I started). I went out the next week... I ran a little bit because I thought I would get there quicker, so that was my motivation.

“As time went on I set myself little goals, and it got easier. Then my goal became to run 5km without walking, and often I do that.”

Though joining the Park-run group later in life, Ms Bull said it was the challenge, and the people, that have made running her passion.

Ms Bull started participating in the Parkrun initiative approximately five-years ago.

“I always say that I think it’s hilarious I started running when I was 64 — I almost wish someone had tried to get me running earlier,” she said.

“The Parkrun group here is great, because some of the city ones are enormous.

“Here a lot of us know each other, so it’s really encouraging — they’ve really supported me to keep going.

“You get to know people better... and the scenery along the river is gorgeous.”

Ms Bull hoped members of the local community would give Parkrun a try.

“I encourage people to come along and do it,” she said.

“You don’t have to run — a lot of people walk.

“I feel the fittest I have in my life, and I feel a lot more energetic.”

Numerous other well-known local faces, such as Magic 93.1 radio personality Benny Carpenter, are also regular Parkrun enthusiasts.

William Buck opens regional scholarship applications

ACCOUNTING and advisory firm William Buck is now accepting expressions of interest for the second year of its Regional Scholarship program, following the successful launch that saw Loxton student Tyler Hobby become the inaugural recipient in 2024.

The scholarship, which provides $15,000 over three years, plus mentorship and work experience opportunities, was created to address the unique challenges faced by regional students pursuing commerce-related tertiary education.

William Buck South Australia managing partner Adrian Chugg said this scholarship would further strengthen the firm’s ties with regional South Australia.

“The scholarship reflects William Buck’s deep regional roots, with one-third of the Adelaide office’s partners originating from regional South Australia,” Mr Chugg said.

Regional communities have been fundamental to our growth and success.

This scholarship is one tangible way we can invest back into these communities and help talented young people build careers in finance and accounting.

“Tyler’s journey this year has validated everything we hoped to achieve with this program.

“Watching him transition into his university studies, while starting to build meaningful connections with our team, demonstrates the real impact this scholarship can have.”

The comprehensive support package extends well beyond financial assistance.

Recipients receive dedicated mentorship from William Buck professionals who understand the regional experience, having made similar transitions themselves.

The program also includes four weeks of paid work experience during the student’s second year, and potential employment pathways upon graduation.

Now studying a Bachelor of Accounting and Finance at Flinders University, Mr Hobby said the scholarship addressed specific challenges regional students often face, including relocation costs, limited local opportunities, and distance from professional networks.

“The financial support helps with the practical challenges of studying away from home, but the mentorship and industry connections will be invaluable,” he said.

“Having mentors like Ben Trengove and Ben Davies, who both come from regional backgrounds, means they truly understand the journey.”

Expressions of interest are open for students beginning their first undergraduate degree in an Accounting, Finance, Commerce, Business, or related fields at a South Australian university in 2026.

For more information, including full application details, eligibility criteria, and application forms, visit the website (www.williambuck.com/lp/william-bucks-regional-commerce-scholarship-sa).

Help the Pioneer’s phone recycling campaign

HELP The Murray Pioneer collect 100 unused phones by the end of December, and win prizes along the way.

They are hidden away in that dreaded box of cables and electronics that deep down we all know we will never use.

It’s time to spring clean, so dust off the boxes, search the drawers, and bring those phones to the Pioneer between now and the end of the year.

The Pioneer has registered as an official drop-off point for the mobile phone recycling program MobileMuster.

Simply bring your old mobile, charger, smart watch or fitness tracker to The Murray Pioneer’s Renmark office, at 78-80 Ral Ral Avenue, the Loxton Pioneer office, at 52 East Terrace, Loxton, or The River News office, at 12 Peake Terrace, Waikerie, to receive an entry into the lucky dip draw for mystery prizes. One phone means one entry.

Research shows just over one-in-three Australians currently have at least one non-working mobile phone in their homes, yet many are unaware of how or why to recycle them.

Whether a phone met its fate underwater, in the laundry, on the dancefloor, or simply faded away in a drawer, 96 per cent of its materials – including precious metals and plastics – can be recovered and repurposed into new products, keeping them out of landfill and in the circular economy.

MobileMuster head of operations David Robb said “almost 13 million mobiles are sitting idle in homes across Australia, (but) whether it’s cracked, drowned, or run over in the driveway, it can still be put to work again through recycling”.

Winners will be announced in The Murray Pioneer’s final edition for 2025.

Why recycle your old phone?

- 12.7 million unused phones are sitting in homes across Australia.

- 34 per cent of Australians have at least one broken, unused phone in storage.
- 95.8 per cent of materials in a phone can be recovered and reused.

What we accept for recycling?

- All brands and models of mobile phones.
- Mobile chargers and accessories.
- Wearables including smart watches and fitness trackers.

NOTE: Mobile phone batteries should be kept within the phones for our collection. If batteries are damaged, swollen or leaking, then they are not to be included.

A rose fest gala in (Greek) style

MADISON EASTMOND

GREEK cuisine, wine, and entertainment will welcome Riverlanders at this year’s sparkling event of the season – the annual Riverland Rose and Garden Festival Gala Dinner.

Taking over the Renmark Function Centre on Friday, October 10, from 6pm, the Riverland Rose and Garden Festival’s Gala Dinner is set to dazzle attending locals, and visitors, to a magical night of food, wine, and fun.

“We’re going to have mezze-style platters,” Riverland Rose and Garden committee member Glenda Malinovski said.

“We’ll have entrees, nibbles and snacks when people arrive, followed by a beautiful dinner, and Greek sweets at the end.

“Each table will also have a complimentary bottle of red and white, from Domenic Wines.”

Guests of the gala are also asked to ‘dress to impress’, with the committee also searching for their second Riverland Rose, while also— not forgetting the men — we will be looking for a ‘thorn’ among the beautiful roses.

With hats and flower-themed headpieces highly encouraged, the best-dressed attendees are encouraged to give their name to the committee when they arrive for the chance to be crowed and win an array of cash prizes and vouchers.

“We have over $1000 in prizes for the best dressed,” Ms Malinovski said.

The evening will also include a monster cash raffle, with a $2000 top prize up for grabs, and “much more”.

“Tickets will be available on the night for the monster cash raffle if some remain — only 200 in total will be sold,” Ms Malinovski said.

“Our major lucky door prize is valued at over $300, and that’s two nights in the Durham Apartments, in Glenelg, from the Legacy Group, in Partnership with 5RM.

“Everyone who buys a ticket to the Gala Dinner will get an entry to the draw, but if you buy a ticket before September 10, you receive a bonus entry.”

With the hall set to be decorated by Occasions Event Hire, the venue will look the part, and a mix of Greek and Australian music, provided from Adelaide-based DJ Stelio, will be the night’s entertainment. Ms Malinovski said attendees “don’t have to be involved with roses, or gardens, to come along and enjoy the evening.”

“It’s a great excuse to get dressed up, maybe win a couple of prizes, and have a really good time,” she said.

Tickets are $90 per person.

Renmark High School is choosing kindness

MADISON EASTMOND

A RIVERLAND school has taken a stand against bullying, helping local families and students navigate mental health challenges, and create a kinder, safer world. Marking the recent Bullying No Way Week earlier this month, mental health advocacy service Dolly's Dream hosted several workshops at Renmark High School last week, with the events hoping to prevent bullying and provide support for youth mental health and wellbeing. Created when Kate and Tick Everett lost their 14-year-old daughter Dolly to suicide in 2018, Dolly's Dream provides free support and resources — a 24/7 help line, a parent hub, a Beacon Cyber Safety App, and school workshops — encouraging students and parents to develop safer, and supportive communities.

With Dolly's Dream running a Supportive Partners workshop, that was open to all across the region, and several kindness workshops for students, Renmark High School wellbeing and engagement leader Jacinta Coombe said the events were a great way “to begin discussions” about bullying and mental health. “Bullying is something that deeply impacts young people, and kindness is free,” she said. “So, we are really trying to encourage students to make decisions that help foster a sense of belonging throughout the school.” Attending a kindness workshop and joining in on a whole-school effort to inscribe more than 400 paper butterflies with a personal pledge of kindness, Renmark High School year 9 students Summer and Maria said they “have spent a lot of time being able to encourage and show kindness” to their peers. “Having Dolly's Dream here has created a lot of awareness around bullying,” Maria said. “It's definitely shown students how being kind and positive to one another can make a huge difference to someone's day or experience at school.” Summer said she hoped to see students continue to perform both small and large acts of kindness on campus. “Even if it is small, a kind act can inspire other people to take (positive) action,” she said. Both Maria and Summer said they were happy Renmark High School are giving students an opportunity to learn from organisations like Dolly's Dream. “I think if people continue to be kind to one another, and learn how important that is, it can create a positive culture,” Maria said.

Hoping to lift literacy skills and encourage reading, schools across the Riverland celebrated the annual event of Book Week, from August 16 to 23, with the 2025 theme ‘Book an Adventure’, to inspire children to imagine, explore, and create. While also enjoying “a book fair, a treasure hunt, and much more”, Monash Primary and Preschool hosted their Book Week parade last Wednesday, with students getting the chance to dress up as their favourite character for the day. Monash Primary and Preschool library monitors Kate (back), Eli, Sienna (front), Kaylee, and Alyssia said “Book Week was the best time of the year”. “Reading is very calm and therapeutic,” Kate said. “You can imagine you are actually there in the story — it's a lot of fun.”

Tashara’s sweet success: How a local program is helping young people flourish in the workforce

Tashara undertook an eight-week work experience placement at Renmark Woolworths Bakery through Riverland and Mallee Enterprises. PHOTOS: supplied

FOR many young people, taking the first steps into the workforce can seem daunting. But for Tashara, an eight-week work experience placement at Renmark Woolworths Bakery has been nothing short of transformative — a stepping stone toward independence and self-confidence.

Tashara’s journey started with the support of NDIS service provider, Riverland and Mallee Enterprises, a local disability support organisation dedicated to helping individuals navigate employment opportunities. With their assistance, Tashara entered the bakery’s fast-paced environment, where she quickly adapted and thrived.

Her responsibilities were as varied as the bakery’s offerings. From coating and packing cinnamon donuts to labelling biscuits and restocking shelves, Tashara embraced each responsibility, learned the bakery’s operations, and completed training modules in line with Woolworths’ workplace values and standards.

Tashara approached every shift with determination and a can-do attitude. Supportive colleagues — including store manager Kristie Kelton, team leader Sue Schubert, and Bakery 2IC Peter Perry — were quick to recognise her contributions and provided glowing feedback at the conclusion of her placement.

Although Tashara’s placement has come to an end, her employment journey is just beginning.

GRAND NIGHT OF NIGHTS AS... Bowling Club celebrates 100 years

THE Waikerie Bowling Club celebrated its Centenary with a formal dinner attended by 110 people on Saturday night.

A feature of the evening was the return of Anne Fulwood, who was MC for the evening of celebrations, and in her familiar role as a media presenter and host interviewed guest speaker Wayne Ruediger, a world champion bowler South Australia is proud to call its own.

Apart from being one of Australia's most respected journalists with a career in television broadcasting, Ms Fulwood was born and lived in Waikerie, until moving to Adelaide to become a sports journalist with Channel 7.

Having both Mr Ruediger and Ms Fulwood on the same program for the Waikerie Bowling Club's centenary dinner was a very special occasion, and one which will go down as another important part of the club's history.

In typical style, in an interview format, Ms Fulwood got Mr Ruediger to open up about his outstanding bowling career, covering more than 200 games for the Australian Jackaroos, and career statistics for both SA and Australia.

It was interesting to learn Mr Ruediger was introduced to bowls when he lived in Waikerie, and attended the club as part of a high school visit.

He emphasised former club champion Stan Burnett took him under his wing and taught him the finer points of the game, leading him to become the bowler he is today.

Mr Ruediger later went on to bowl in tournaments with Mr Burnett, and said he will be forever grateful for that experience.

He was inducted into the Bowls SA Hall of Fame in 2024, after announcing his retirement from international bowls in 2022, citing he wanted to spend more time with his wife and three children.

"I've played at this level for 10 years and it's fair to say that it can be a bit taxing after a while, and the nature of the event calendar is quite hectic, particularly lead to Commonwealth Games and World Bowls Championships," Mr Ruediger said.

"Going away to the UK for two-and-a-half weeks to trial for the Commonwealth Games team really put things into perspective – my kids are all sporty and I wanted to be there to support them and run them around to all their trainings and games.

"I still love bowls; I'm just taking a little bit of a step back and cutting the international commitments, so I have more time for my family."

Waikerie Bowling Club's foundation years

THE first meeting to form a Bowling Club in Waikerie was held on May 25, 1925, and was chaired by Mr G.A. Edwards, chairman of the Waikerie District Council, and a committee was appointed.

Mr A.H. Headland was appointed chair of the committee of five, comprising Messrs. H.F.W. Lehmann, R. Milner, J.C. Rowe, and A. Tait.

The committee at the inaugural meeting offered the council 5 pounds ($10) per year to lease land required to build a clubhouse, and establish up to six rinks on a section of land adjacent to the Waikerie Tennis Club, in the area now occupied by the Police Station and Government Building, on Crush Terrace.

Later that annual lease was considered exorbitant, and a new lease agreement was drawn up.

Membership fees set in the first year were 2 pounds, 10 shillings ($5) for the first year, and that could be paid in instalments.

Ladies would be permitted membership for 10 shillings, which would include use of the adjacent Croquet Green, but were unable to be accepted as bowlers.

A lot of work was carried out over the following 12 months to establish the greens, with the official opening held by club patron Dr Colin Nichol, in January 1927.

The Waikerie Bowling Club affiliated with the South Australian Bowling Association in February 1927.

By July 1928 the club had 29 full members, and four non-playing members.

Members of the day became guarantors for a 200 pound overdraft, needed to build the planned clubhouse and expand the greens to six rinks.

It was approximately 1929 when matches were arranged with other clubs, and one of the first matches was against Renmark, on October 9, 1929.

That same year, Night Bowls were started, with games held on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Top bowlers of the century honoured

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

THE Waikerie Bowling Club’s 100th anniversary celebrations featured the announcement of its male and female teams of the century, and its most decorated male player and female player.

Several family members of past champions were in attendance and received acknowledgement of their achievements, some dating back to the 1930s.

This included Kym Lehmann, son of the late Ross (Snow) Lehmann, who received the award in memory of his father.

Ross was named the Waikerie Bowling Club Men’s Player of the Century.

Carolyn Thomson also received an award in memory of her late mother, Nancy Teasdale.

Nancy was named the Waikerie Bowling Club Women’s Player of the Century.

Waikerie Bowling Club president Drew Schapel welcomed everyone to the celebrations, and thanked the small-but-dedicated centenary committee for the “wonderful” job they did in planning and preparing for the event.

Members of the Waikerie Bowling Club centenary committee, Glen and Jenny Johns, said they were thrilled with the success of the celebrations.

She said the presentation by Waikerie Bowling Club member John Pick, featuring the announcement of the men’s and women’s teams and players of the centenary, was a highlight of the night.

“We were very blessed with the weather for the evening, which began with canapés outside,” Mrs Johns said.

“Everyone was able to stay outside and enjoy the dome with its lights on and beautiful food and champagne.”

Mr Johns said the history of the bowling club highlighted the important role sporting and community groups play in the area.

“We bring the community together, we support business, people attend events and friends are made through clubs,” he said.

“Clubs are a way of life for many people and it gives them a sense of purpose.”

Mrs Johns said playing bowls was an ideal way for its members, many who have retired to be active, volunteer and maintain their physical health and wellbeing.

Our local showtime on the horizon

TRADITION runs deep with the Pinnaroo Agricultural Society being one of the longest-standing organisations in the Mallee, but fresh ideas and popular entertainment will be on show in October, right next to favourite features that return each year.

The newly-titled ‘Management Committee’ are preparing to bring another Pinnaroo Show & Field Day to life, with this year’s event marking the 108th Show to be held over the last 115 years, the first taking place in 1910.

Vice president and publicity officer, Elise Kennedy, has been working on plans daily for months, even though some may only see that the event takes place for just one day in the year.

“I’ve grown up with my local show being part of who I am, as a fifth, and raising a sixth, generation on my family farm... and being on the Show Committee,” she said.

While early Shows had a large focus on the agricultural sections, the classes for grains, farm produce and wool have still held their place, but exhibiting sheep and cattle are a thing of the past for Pinnaroo.

As years have seen on-farm sales and livestock agents becoming more accessible, the need for local studs and farmers to show their livelihoods with hopes of a blue ribbon has reduced. On top of the time and energy that goes into farming operations, family life, and volunteering throughout the community, many agricultural shows have felt the struggle to stay relevant and popular.

Recent months have seen constitutional updates take place in Pinnaroo to bring the incorporated group in line with current requirements, and allow for application to the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission.

“Others find constitutions ‘boring’ or overwhelming, but I see it as a chance to define the reason the organisation exists in current times, and set the tone for moving forward,” Ms Kennedy said.

To move with the times, Pinnaroo is implementing a new computer program behind the scenes this year, one that Loxton Show adopted last year with great success. Ian Cass, immediate past president for Loxton Agricultural & Horticultural Society Inc, gave a glowing review of Showday Online at the Murraylands Association AGM, in May, that encouraged the Pinnaroo team to take the leap.

“We had over 4600 entries and there were more this year from other country areas than normal, as they were able to participate without driving to the office before the show to put in their entry details,” Mr Cass reported.

The Loxton Show will be held on Sunday October 5, and Monday October 6, with the Pinnaroo Show & Field Day to follow on Wednesday, October 8.

Loxton has maintained their Sheep and Live Steer sections, while the agricultural pavilion exhibits continue alongside an assortment of interests at both shows, as well as competitions including Yard Dog Trials, and Horses In Action. For the mid-week event at Pinnaroo, this year’s program has Trackskill V8 Ute Challenge as the headline entertainment, and the Young Judges competition returns - along with new ‘Feature Classes’ in Cookery, Needlework and Horses (Hobby Horses to be exact) designed to make entering a show welcoming to all.

So get along to an Agricultural Show, with 48 events on the SA Country Shows calendar each year, you can be guaranteed to find a community near you that is dedicated to their history with a desire to hold their place in the future too.

Nursing scholarship program now open

THE Australian College of Nurse Practitioners (ACNP) are encouraging Riverlanders to apply for the Australian Government Aged Care Nursing Scholarship Program.

Supported by a $21.5m investment from the Federal Government, more than 1000 scholarships are available — with guaranteed places for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander aged care workers and nurses — to help aged care workers and nurses progress in their careers.

Scholarship participants can complete formal qualifications in aged care ranging from a Certificate III to a Masters or undertake training in specialised areas such as clinical leadership, palliative care, dementia care and infection prevention and control.

The ACNP are also providing access to additional learning resources for scholars, including cultural safety training.

“Workers are at the frontline of our government’s aged care reforms – and giving them the development opportunities, they need to build meaningful careers will help us deliver better care to every older Australian,” Minister for Aged Care and Senior Sam Rae said.

“These scholarships will attract more nurses and aged care workers to the sector and help those already working to build on their skills and deliver the world-class care older people deserve.

“Thanks to Labor’s reforms, there is now a registered nurse onsite in aged care more than 99 per cent of the time – programs like these will help us deliver even more care for even more older Australians.”

ACNP managing director of grants and scholarship programs Leanne Boase said the organisation was “proud to be administering this scholarship program, we look forward to enhancing the outcomes of the program through great support for scholars, and promoting these opportunities for nurses and aged care workers”.

“We look forward to raising awareness of the roles of aged care workers and nurses, while supporting them to aspire to more advanced clinical roles and career paths to provide more advanced and complex care for older Australians,” Ms Boase said.

“Programs like these not only provide scholarships for study, they can promote awareness and advancement, ultimately leading to better care.”

“Thanks to Labor’s reforms, there is now a registered nurse onsite in aged care more than 99 per cent of the time...”

410 Army Cadet Unit members top SA promotional courses

THE July 2025 school holidays is when the South Australian Army Cadets hold their annual Promotion Courses for corporal (CPL), sergeant (SGT) and warrant officer/cadet under officer (WO2/CUO) courses.

Cadets give up their own school holiday time and are given the opportunity to attend these courses to give them the knowledge and leadership skills to become junior leaders within their respective home units.

This year, two of the Cadets from 410 ACU – located in Berri – saw their hard work rewarded by being awarded the Dux of their respective promotion courses.

Cadet SGT Aaron Schneider was awarded the Commander’s Gold Award for his outstanding performance on the senior warrant officer/cadet under officer course.

Cadet lance CPL Ruby Stuetzel was awarded Dux of the corporal course. It should be noted that Cadet CPL Cooper Stuetzel missed being Dux of the SGT’s course by half a point.

The cadets are commanded by CUO Joselyn Garbutt, of Berri, who has had an extraordinary year so far.

CUO Garbutt instructed on the adventure training award (ATA) course, in Tasmania, and recently competed as part of the SA Team in the Chief of Army Challenge (CoAC). This was held at the Jungle Warfare Centre, on the Gold Coast.

Both the ATA and CoAC activities require cadets to pass stringent physical tests before being selected to attend.

Officer commanding of 410 ACU, LT (AAC) Robert Stuetzel, along with parent helpers and volunteers, provide the cadets with a range of skills and knowledge that sees them grow as young leaders in our community.

410 ACU parades every Tuesday night, at 1800hrs, during school terms, at the 10/27 RSAR Army Reserve Depot, at 8 Foreman Road, Berri.

Riverlanders make an impact

MADISON EASTMOND

TWO Riverlanders have presented a first-of-its-kind survey to SA Parliament, with research findings revealing the challenges that many face while living with Tourette’s.

Contingent member, and Riverland Youth Theatre (RYT) artistic director Sam Wannan, and RYT youth intern Rowen Hurrell, joined the Tourette Syndrome Association of Australia (TSAA) to share the Tourette’s Impact Report at State Parliament last week, with the inaugural national survey communicating the difficulties faced by individuals living with tic disorders in Australia.

“It was all put together by the TSAA, which I am a part of, and they have worked together with a range of organisations and universities to research the reality of Tourette’s, the mental health impacts it has on people, and the lack of education, National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) access, and services,” Mr Wannan said.

“It’s the first of its kind, and it was a chance to present this big body of work to state politicians — it was very special to be there alongside other people with Tourette’s to share this, and feel listened to.”

Based on 206 individuals living with Tourette’s, the survey discussed diagnostic journey, the daily functional challenges of living with tics, and the varied experiences with available treatments and therapies, with statistic including:

- ❑ One-in-four people waited more than two years for a diagnosis.
- ❑ One third were not offered any services or support after diagnosis, with only 40 per cent saying their experience with treatment was positive.

- ❑ More than 80 per cent of people experience tics every day, with many saying their tics cause pain and emotional distress.
- ❑ Two-out-of-three people had been injured by their tics.

The survey also sought to understand obstacles faced in education and employment, as well as accompanying financial strains, with statistics including:

- ❑ Three-in-four respondents had been bullied at school.
- ❑ Almost one in three were bullied by teachers, with most caregivers saying that teachers had little understanding of tic conditions.
- ❑ Two-out-of-five adults said their tics made it impossible to maintain employment, with many families under financial pressure and feeling shut out of the workforce.

Finally, the survey examined the emotional and social struggles experienced by individuals, and how these factors influence overall quality of life, with statistics including:

- ❑ Almost half of children with tics showed signs of depression.
- ❑ Nearly half of caregivers said their child had expressed suicidal thoughts.
- ❑ One-in-10 children had attempted suicide.
- ❑ More than 70 per cent of adults had thought about ending their life.
- ❑ One-in-four adults had attempted suicide – five-times higher than the national average.
- ❑ Most adults said their tics had a serious impact on their mental health.
- ❑ More than half of caregivers said their own mental health had been badly affected by the demands of caring.

“These findings illustrate the significant clinical, psychological, educational, and socioeconomic impacts of tic disorders,” the report read.

“The data reveal critical gaps in diagnosis, treatment, and support systems.

“Without targeted policy and healthcare responses, individuals with tic disorders will continue to face unnecessary suffering, impaired quality of life, and remain in the midst of a mental health crisis.

“Urgent, evidence-based action is required to address these unmet needs.”

Governor’s Multicultural Awards celebrate country contributions

A NEW Regional Achievement Award has been introduced as part of the 2025 Governor’s Multicultural Awards to recognise the contributions of people and organisations in country South Australia, like the Riverland.

The award will acknowledge individuals, organisations, and teams based outside Adelaide that are strengthening their communities through cultural diversity and inclusion.

Governor of South Australia Frances Adamson said the new award reflected the important role of regional communities to South Australia’s multicultural identity.

“I have seen firsthand that multicultural-

Contingent member, and Riverland Youth Theatre (RYT) artistic director Sam Wannan, and RYT youth intern Rowen Hurrell, joined the Tourette Syndrome Association of Australia (TSAA) to share the Tourette’s Impact Report at State Parliament last week, with the pair hoping the presented findings can “finally make a difference”. PHOTO: supplied

Key recommendations included:

- ❑ That government funding be provided to develop a National Clinical Guideline for the diagnosis and treatment of tic disorders, designed for use by clinical and allied health professionals and to provide awareness and guidance to consumers and the community.
- ❑ As part of the capacity building component of the NDIS, funding should be allocated to develop a suite of resources and training programs aimed at raising awareness and improving understanding of tic disorders among key stakeholders.
- ❑ Adjust the NDIS policy settings within the National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA) to ensure that individuals with tic disorders are appropriately assessed, with those experiencing substantially reduced functional capacity receiving appropriate funding and support.
- ❑ Include targeted funding in the NDIS Foundational Supports program for services that enhance support for individuals with tic disorders and their families.
- ❑ Targeted funding be provided, beyond the NDIS’ Foundational Supports Program, for mental health and emotional wellbeing services for individuals with tic disorders and their families.
- ❑ That State and Territory Departments of Education develop clear standards for accommodations and supports for students with tic disorders, ensuring equitable access to education and provide support at the local school level for these to be implemented.
- ❑ That major medical and research funding bodies, including the National Health and Medical Research Council and Medical Research Futures Fund, invest in research dedicated to innovative treatments and care pathways for tic disorders. This could be facilitated through a National Centre of Excellence in this field.

Living with Tourette’s for the past three-to-four years, Rowen said they were “not surprised” by the research findings.

“For me, I felt like I was written off (by medical staff) immediately,” they said.

“I also felt like I had never had access to information about Tourette’s — I had no idea what I was experiencing.

“However, because of the people I surround myself with, I don’t face as much hostility as I could.

Mr Wannan hoped that the report would help more people understand Tourette’s “is not just tics”.

“It has so much to do with executive functioning — it’s a whole neurological condition,” he said.

“People have a very narrow understanding of Tourette’s, they think it’s just saying swear words — it’s not the whole picture at all.

“I think when that understanding is created, (more tolerance) and services will hopefully begin to become more accessible.”

While advocacy was their top priority, both Rowen and Mr Wannan said it was amazing to have the chance to be surrounded by others living with Tourette’s.

“I’ve only ever meet two other people with Tourette’s,” Rowen said.

“It was just fantastic, and such a good time — I heard so many amazing tics.”

Pots a plenty for weekend Annual Orchid Spectacular

THE Riverland Orchid Society looks forward to holding their Annual Orchid Spectacular this weekend, in the Berri Town Hall.

Members look forward to showing even more orchids for the Riverland public to admire.

The orchids will be judged on the Friday night by accredited Australian Orchid Council judges. They will be able to be viewed by the public on Saturday, August 30, from 9.30am to 4pm, and Sunday, August 31, from 9.30am to 3pm. Entry is only $3.

This is a great opportunity for the public to come and see the range of orchids that can be grown in the region and learn how they can grow them too.

Orchid demonstrations will be held during each day, with dividing, repotting, and mounting being some of the topics covered.

The experienced growers welcome questions while conducting the demonstrations. Fact sheets on how to grow various orchids in Riverland conditions are also available for 50c each.

Once again there will be trading tables with pots, orchid paraphernalia, and plants. This year they will also have unique wire flowers, plant stands, hangers, hooks and gifts for sale. Eftpos is available.

Three beautiful cymbidium orchids have been supplied by 3 Amigos Orchids for the raffle prizes.

A beautiful hand-sewn embroidery presented in a gold frame, hand-sewn by local member Val McBride, has been donated to the club. A silent auction will be held to determine the new owner.

Full catering is available with tea, coffee, cakes and slices, or soups, sandwiches, and savouries.

The Riverland Orchid Society was founded in 1977 and holds regular meetings. Each month they get together, bring in flowering plants, discuss orchids, have a trading table, a continuous raffle, share afternoon tea, and generally have a lot of fun. Members can learn from guest speakers, have access to plants unavailable in stores, and have the use of books and magazines in the club library.

The Riverland Orchid Society would like to thank the Berri Riverside Holiday Park, who have kindly donated cabins for their visiting AOC judges, and the Berri Barmera Council for their support.

The Annual Orchid Spectacular will be held at the Berri Town Hall, at 19 Wilson Street, Berri.

Enquiries can be to the secretary on 0439 688 483, or visit the website (www.facebook.com/riverlandorchidsociety).

SAPOL’s heartfelt plea to South Australian drivers

SOUTH Australia police are sounding the alarm after a disturbing spike in reckless road behaviour across the state, including in the Riverland, with multiple high-range drink and speeding drivers caught in recent weeks.

Police are urging all road users to take responsibility before more lives are put at risk.

In the period between August 15, and August 22 alone, SAPOL officers intercepted 11 drink drivers, many with blood alcohol readings well into the high range.

A statement on the SAPOL website said “these are not isolated incidents, they are symptoms of a deeper problem, one that demands urgent attention”.

“Speeding continues to be another deadly contributor... these behaviours are not just illegal, they are lethal,” the statement read.

So far in 2025, 54 lives have been lost on South Australian roads. In August, eight lives have been claimed, with six between August 12, and August 22.

Whilst investigations into the recent fatalities are still under investigation, and the cause of those crashes aren’t yet known, what we do know is the Fatal Five, dangerous road use, distraction, speeding, not wearing seatbelts, and drug or drink driving, continue to be the leading causes of death in all fatal crashes:

- ❑ Dangerous road users: 24 per cent.
- ❑ Distraction: 22 per cent.
- ❑ Speeding: 20 per cent.
- ❑ Seatbelts: 15 per cent.
- ❑ Drug driving: 11 per cent.
- ❑ Drink driving: 6 per cent.

“We will maintain a strong and visible presence on our roads,” a SAPOL spokesperson said.

“Several operations are planned across both metropolitan and regional areas.

“We will continue to target drink driving, speeding, distraction, and other dangerous behaviours, but we need the community to stand with us.”

Developing regional leadership

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

A REGIONAL Development Australia program is contributing towards assisting community leadership in the Riverland and Murraylands to undergo a quiet, but powerful, transformation.

Over two intensive days, 27 emerging and established leaders from across the region gathered to sharpen their skills, challenge their thinking, and connect with one another as part of the Regional Leadership Development Program (RLDP), funded by the State Government, through the Department of Primary Industries and Regions.

The transformative initiative is designed to build strong, capable, and community-minded leadership across the region.

The latest session, titled ‘Leading Others’, took place on July 29, and July 30, and was packed with powerful insights and personal breakthroughs.

From brain science and emotional regulation to trust-building, resilience, and courageous conversations, participants explored the full spectrum of what it means to lead effectively in rural communities.

Regional Development Australia Murraylands and Riverland (RDAMR) project manager Mandy Tennant said the workshop series was developed to reflect the real, everyday challenges faced by local leaders, in community, industry and business.

“We’re not just teaching theory,” she explained.

“We’re helping people understand how to lead with integrity, stay grounded during stress, have the tough conversations, and create environments where others feel safe to contribute.

“It’s about building capability that lasts, and that’s what regional South Australia needs right now.”

Facilitated by highly regarded leadership specialists Tanya Lehmann, of Aurora Meliora, and Susannah Dodd, of LeadersHP, the workshops brought a depth of knowledge to the room, combining neuroscience, evidence-based tools, and lived leadership practice with local relevance.

“Our facilitators bring extraordinary insight,” Ms Tennant said.

“Tanya and Susannah each understand how community dynamics, personal values, and organisational systems interact.

“They create a learning space that is both safe and challenging, exactly what real leadership development requires.”

Day one explored the brain’s response to stress, positive habit formation, and the Resilience at Work framework, a tool used nationally to help leaders manage pressure, purpose and relationships.

Participants reflected on their own wellbeing, self-leadership, and how they show up in tough moments.

On the second day, the focus shifted to interpersonal leadership: building trust, creating psychological safety, and receiving feedback.

The group explored the ‘Immunity to Change’ framework, and the ‘Trust Triangle’, prompting deep conversations about personal growth, vulnerability, and accountability.

One of the standout sessions included role-playing ‘clearing conversations’, a simple, yet powerful tool for offering feedback in a way that builds connection, rather than conflict.

“These are the conversations that shape healthy workplaces and stronger community groups,” Ms Tennant said.

“It’s not always easy, but it’s necessary, especially when we’re working together through drought, economic pressure, or community change.”

Guest speaker, Mid Murray Mayor Simone Bailey, offered her own moving leadership story, sharing reflections on advocacy, neurodiversity, persistence, and purpose.

Her honesty struck a chord with the group.

“Simone reminded everyone that you don’t have to be the loudest person in the room to be a leader,” Ms Tennant said.

“Sometimes leadership looks like quietly getting on with it, standing up for your values, or helping others see their own strengths.”

The RLDP is designed to support a pipeline of capable, values-based leaders across the Murraylands and Riverland and, according to Ms Tennant, the ripple effect is already visible.

“We’re seeing real shifts in how participants speak, listen, and interact with one another,” she said.

“They’re taking these skills back to sporting clubs, councils, farming networks, and local businesses.

“That’s the power of this program, it is grounded in the community, and it grows leaders who stay in the region and give back.”

With more sessions planned and strong demand from across the region, the program is fast becoming a cornerstone of local leadership development.

“We’ve got the talent and we’re just giving people the space, the tools, and the confidence to lead in a way that strengthens our whole region.”

Participants of the RDAMR leadership program at a recent two day session at the Mannum Motel.

Bowling club's backing for Garry's good cause

AMELIA SEMMLER

DESPITE the wet and cold weather seen on Sunday, July 27, a Riverland town stepped up to help a beloved community member in need.

The Loxton District Bowling Club recently held a fundraiser to support well-known local Garry Sichler, who has been battling a tumour in his brain since early June.

For every drink purchased on the day, $1 went towards Garry's cause.

A raffle and an auction, featuring a range of prizes that were donated by local businesses, brought in even more donations and support.

Lunch was donated, and all the funds from the catering went directly to support Garry.

The fundraiser wrapped up with more than $3000 collected, but the community's generosity kept flowing until the final tally reached $4000.

"The money's important, but it's the fact that Garry knows that people are actually there for him," organiser Kees Brandsma said.

"Even though the fundraiser was brilliant, the community getting behind Garry is the most important part.

"It turned out absolutely brilliant, everybody I asked and spoke to was one hundred percent in."

Special thanks were given to the Loxton bowls club for their generosity, and for providing the space for the day, and all the local businesses who donated for the event.

Rural Aid safeguards the next generation of farmers

RURAL Aid is raising funds to provide both immediate and long-term support for Riverland families.

Donations will help deliver practical support including hay, domestic water, financial assistance, specialist counselling services, and continued delivery of a school-based mental health and wellbeing initiative, Rural Aid's Mustering Growth program.

Rural Aid CEO John Warlters said the campaign was about much more than providing short-term support.

"If we want to keep young people on the land, we must support them now and from an early age," Mr Warlters said.

"These kids are growing up in incredibly trying circumstances, but they are also the future of farming in this country.

"Many of our farms are passed down through generations.

When we nurture country kids, when we support their wellbeing, confidence and connection to community, we're not just helping them today.

"We're safeguarding rural Australia's future."

Recent Rural Aid research highlights the scale of the challenge:

41 per cent of farming parents are most concerned about financial stability and meeting their child's basic needs.

57 per cent believe rural children need access to tailored mental health support.

83 per cent of farming families have used, or would use Rural Aid's counselling services.

For more information, or to donate, visit the website (www.countrykids.ruralaid.org.au).

Variety fundraising records are broken

WITH several Riverland entrants contributing to the final total, the 2025 SA Variety Bash has surpassed the previous fundraising record set in 2016.

Bringing together 308 colourful entrants — including two Riverland teams — on an eight-day journey across 2383km of South Australia, the 2025 SA Variety Bash has raised $2,704,300 to support children who are sick, disadvantaged or living with disability.

Lyrup's Matthew and Lisa Lloyd, and Loxton's Domenic Perre, Rhain Hondow, Simon Bullock, and Brendan Schulz were the two teams representing the Riverland for 2025, with Loxton local Lyn Appleton — riding with Orroroo team The Roo Racers — also at the starting line.

Along the way, the convoy lit up regional towns including Bendleby Ranges, Leigh Creek, William Creek, Coober Pedy, Glendambo and Port Augusta, before crossing the finish line in Tanunda last week.

The funds raised will go directly towards Variety's life-changing programs and grants, providing essential mobility equipment, educational resources, therapy services and unique experiences that positively impact the lives of children across the state.

More Hay for SA

THE Rapid Relief Team (RRT) convoy is set to bring its Farmers Community Connect initiative to Loxton with 1000 bales of premium grade hay to be donated to farmers who are doing it tough.

A convoy of nine trucks will be travelling more than 600km from Merriwagga to Paruna, ahead of the Farmers Community Connect event, on August 29.

RRT operations manager Mick Dunn said the Farmers Community Connect events were an important opportunity to come together as a community during a challenging time.

“We know a free bale of hay or two won’t end the drought, but RRT hopes to ease the burden a little and remind the South Australian farming community that they are not alone,” Mr Dunn said.

“We have got 1000 bales of premium-graded vetch hay, and we will be welcoming farmers from Paruna and surrounding areas along to the Farmers Community Connect event, on August 29, to come have a coffee or a Signature Burger on us.

“The day will give farming families a chance to catch up with neighbours, enjoy a free meal, connect to support services, before going home with donated hay.”

The Farmers Community Connect event will be held from 7am to 12 noon at the Brown’s Well Football Club. RRT volunteers will be cooking a barbeque and brewing barista-made coffee.

There will also be support groups on site, such as mental health services, rural financial counselling, and veterinary services.

To register for the Farmers Community Connect event, visit the website (rrtglobal.org/operations-appeals/farmers-community-connect-paruna-2025/).

Original Cooltong settler Tim Edmonds.

Calling Cooltong kids for 75-year celebration

A CELEBRATION of 75 years since the settlement of Cooltong is being held on Sunday, October 26, at 12:30pm, at the Cooltong Community Hall, and it is hoped that families of the original settlers will be able to attend.

There were 153 children born of the original 47 settlers and their wives, and there would now be grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, who we hope will also attend.

The Cooltong Division of the Chaffey Irrigation Area was surveyed for war service land settlement, in 1948, and was designed to have about 1100 acres under irrigation on a gentle east-and-north-facing slope, perfect for fruit growing. The original virgin scrub was cleared in 1948, and the sites for houses, sheds and Nissen huts were pegged out during 1949 and 1950, with the first families arriving in 1950.

The building of timber-framed, brick veneer houses began in 1950, with settler families living under harsh and crowded conditions in sheds and Nissen huts, without running water or electricity, until their houses were completed.

Alice Cresp, the last surviving original settler, recorded some memories of her life in Cooltong just weeks before she passed away, in 2021, aged 99 years.

She recalled being the fourth family to “move into a new life with no electricity, phones, water or roads, but we were bursting with happiness and enthusiasm”.

She paid tribute to the “gallant men and women who made Cooltong into a flourishing fruit-growing area” and recalled “paddock being transformed with horse and plough, long-handled shovels, and watering with a horse and cart”.

The original settlers were incredibly industrious, planting cash crops of tomatoes, watermelons, peas, pumpkins and carrots to provide income until the vines and fruit trees became productive, and to supplement their 5-pound-a-week government allowance.

Eventually through community fundraising and volunteer labour, the Cooltong Community Hall was built and opened in 1955, and was the place for the community to gather and hold celebrations, meetings, Christmas parties and the year 7 ‘Kick-out’ parties for Renmark North Primary School.

Cooltong was a community built on pioneering and community spirit, and helping each other when needed. Settlers and their families endured bushfires, dust storms, hailstorms and extreme weather conditions, and worked tirelessly together with their Ral Ral and Block E neighbours to build flood levies in the 1956 flood.

Through sharing the good times and the bad, lifelong friendships were cemented.

Cooltong has certainly changed over the years, from an oasis of beautiful healthy fruit trees, and well-loved, cared for homes and gardens.

However, we join Ms Cresp in remembering the “lasting friendships and all those never to be forgotten days that stem from generous hearts and hard work”.

It is this pioneering spirit and sense of community that we gather to celebrate on the 75th anniversary of the settlement of Cooltong.

We hope all descendants of the original Cooltong settlers will be able to join us for this celebration. The Renmark Lions Club will be making food available for purchase and there will also be a drinks van.

We hope to see you all there. - supplied

Olympic raises $6500 with Pink Round success

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

A RIVERLAND soccer club's recent fundraising initiative brought the surrounding community together to show support for breast cancer awareness.

Renmark Olympic Soccer Club earlier this month raised a total of $6500 for Breast Cancer Network Australia, through its Pink Round event.

Renmark Olympic secretary Penny Blackley said enthusiasm to support the cause was high among both players, and members of the public.

"We were truly overwhelmed by the positive response from the community for our Pink Round," Mrs Blackley said.

"The support from players, families and spectators created a fantastic atmosphere, and it was great to see so many people embracing the cause."

Mrs Blackley said the club was "extremely grateful" to have received a major donation from Renmark-based engineering firm Neilly Group.

"The Neilly Group's generous donation of $5000 was absolutely incredible," she said.

"For the cause, it meant a significant contribution towards raising awareness and funds for Breast Cancer Network Australia. For the club, it was a humbling reminder of the support we have within our wider community."

"That level of generosity not only boosted our fundraising efforts well beyond expectations, but also reinforced the importance of coming together for something bigger than sport."

A raffle was also held by Olympic to raise further donations, with the top three prizes being won by Kiara Lodge, Tim Morrison, and Brenton Kenefick.

Mrs Blackley said success for Olympic's teams added to the positive atmosphere.

"There were so many highlights throughout the day," she said.

"The junior carnival was a wonderful way to kick it off, with so many junior players getting involved. Our open women secured the Pink Round Cup with a 10-0 win over Berri, (and) both of our under 14 Girls teams played exceptionally well to come away with wins.

"To top it all off, our A grade men took out the premiership and it was the perfect way to finish such a successful day."

Mrs Blackley said plans had been made to ensure the Pink Round was run again next season.

"Given the success of this year's event and the overwhelming support we received, the club is certainly planning to host a Pink Round again next year," she said.

"We're committed to continuing to raise awareness and funds for such an important cause."

SANFL AROUND THE GROUNDS

ROUND 19 in the Hotplus SANFL Men's league was set to come down to the wire on the weekend, headlined by the battle for the Gallagher-Williams Cup between Norwood and Port Adelaide, at the Parade, a do-or-die clash that would decide fifth spot.

Also on the line was the possibility of the Sturt becoming the first team since Port, way back in 1914, to go undefeated in a season. The Double Blues had a tough challenge against the third-placed Adelaide.

West Adelaide were looking to finish the season on a high with a win against South, and Glenelg looked to strengthen it's title bid with a trip to the Kennel against Centrals, while on Sunday it was a dead rubber for pride between the Eagles and North.

Centrals vs Glenelg, at Elizabeth

Glenelg never looked headed, rushing to a 74-point lead at half time against Centrals. Liam McBean continued his stellar goal-kicking form, with four for the Bays, as Jonty Scharenberg collected 32 touches, as the Tigers burnt the Dogs in clearances. Luca Whitelum had a good all-round game for the Doggies, with 24 touches and seven tackles.

Central	1.2	1.3	2.4	6.6	(42)
Glenelg	7.2	13.5	16.6	20.8	(128)

Sturt vs Adelaide FC, at Unley

Adelaide became party poopers on Saturday, with a stunning two-point win over premiership fancies Sturt. Chris Burgess' four goals for the Crows put them seven-points up with little time left, and despite a late goal to Sturt's Josh Hone, it was to no avail for the minor premiers. Chayce Jones picked up 20 possessions for the Crows, meanwhile Sturt's Will Snelling dominated with 27 touches, and 10 clearances.

Sturt	2.2	6.5	11.8	13.9	(87)
Adelaide	5.1	7.2	9.4	14.5	(89)

West Adelaide vs South Adelaide, at Richmond

Westies chalked up their third win of the season against South on Saturday, with a six-point nailbiter. Despite their inaccuracy, West saw of their interim coach Sam Elliott in style, with West's Tom Morrish collecting 28 touches, and nine marks. For the Panthers, Elliot Dunkin had 22 solid touches against his old side.

West	2.4	3.8	6.10	7.14	(56)
South	3.2	3.3	4.6	7.8	(50)

Norwood vs Port Adelaide, at the Parade

In a memorable slog at for the Gallagher-Williams Cup, Norwood booked it's place in the elimination final, coming from 35 points down in the second quarter to secure a 10-point win. The big Norwood crowd was buzzing despite Port's Rory Atkin's kicking four goals in the first term. Port's Jack Watkin's had 25 disposals, while Norwood defender Pierce Seymour kicked three crucial goals for the home team. Finn Heard was BOG for the Redlegs, with 32 touches and 18 clearances.

Norwood	3.6	5.9	11.12	12.15	(87)
Port	6.5	10.7	11.10	11.11	(77)

Eagles vs North, at MTK Oval

A late Nicholas Hayes goal sunk the Roosters on Sunday in a tightly fought match from start to finish. Jimmy Rowe picked up 33 touches and a goal for the Eagles. Hugh Wissman picked up 21 touches, and Mitch Harvey scored two goals for the gallant Roosters.

Eagles	1.2	5.4	7.4	10.6	(66)
North	2.2	4.3	9.8	9.9	(63)

Getting better at outsmarting scams, but tecn creating more challenges

THE latest data shows scammers are moving potential Australian victims – including those in the Riverland - from SMS to encrypted messaging apps, which are often unable to be scanned or filtered for suspicious activity in the same way telco scam-blocking tech can detect and block scams.

As cost-of-living pressures continue to bite, scammers are capitalising on financial vulnerability – shifting tactics, adopting new applications and using increasingly sophisticated, AI-enhanced messages to catch Australians off guard.

These trends are emerging from the millions of scam threats we block every month, giving us a real-time view of how the scam playbook is evolving. In FY25 alone, we blocked nearly double the number of suspicious phone calls compared to the year before – and that’s just one of the ways we’re helping to keep Australians safer every day.

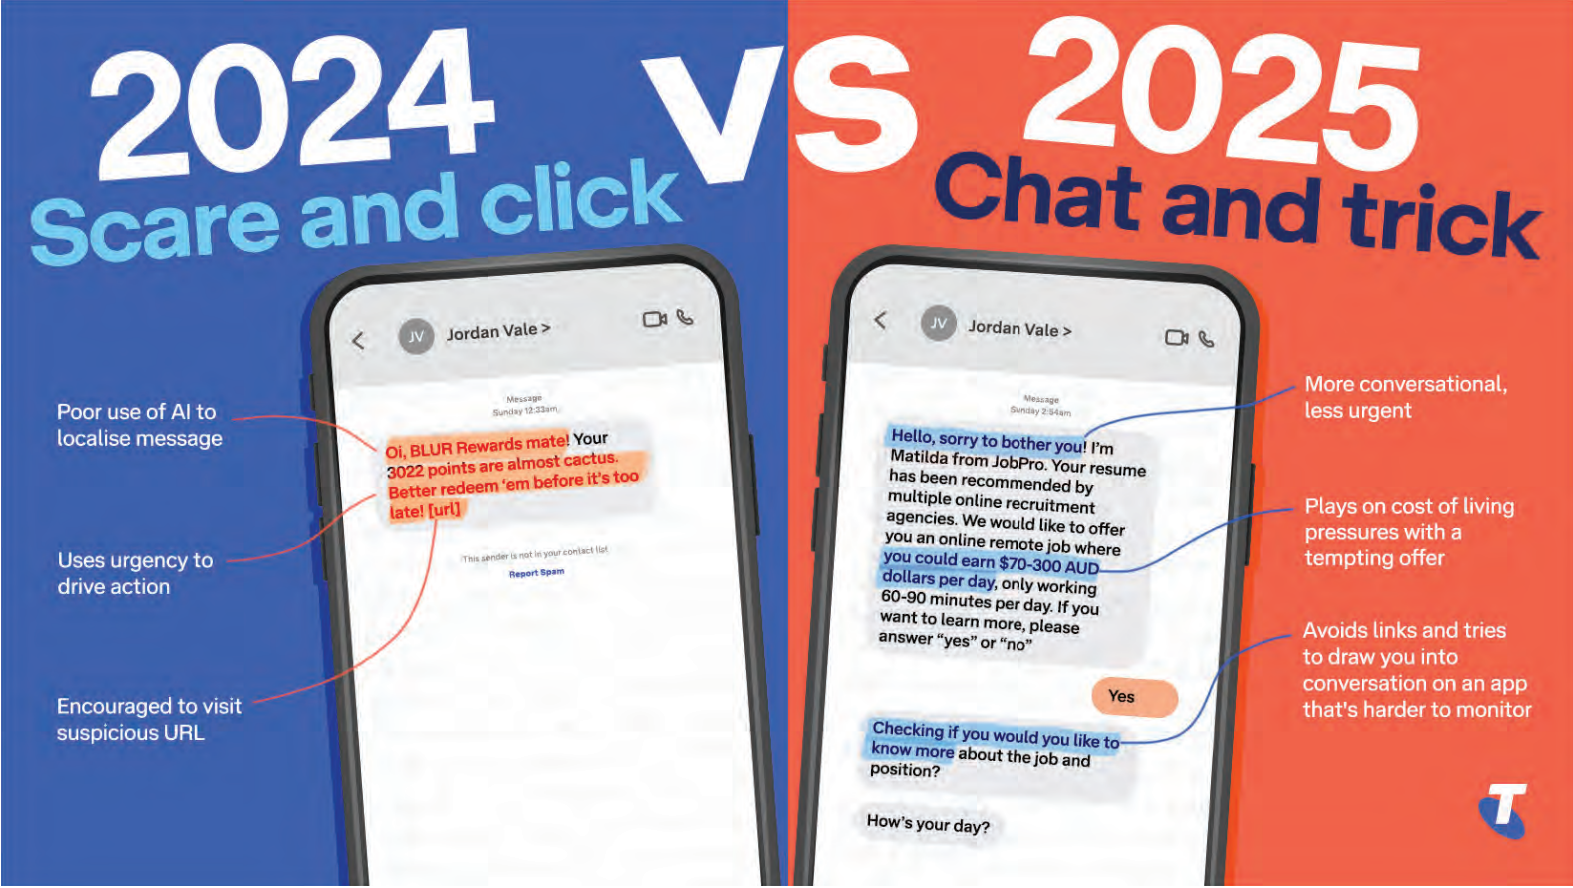

There is good news: according to the National Anti-Scam Centre’s Targeting Scams report, scam losses dropped by more than 25 per cent year-on-year (2024 vs 2023), with combined reports also down over 17 per cent.

But our customers are still on high alert, with recent Telstra data showing a 13 per cent year-on-year increase in reports of potentially unwanted, or suspicious contact, via its reporting channels.

While Australians’ ‘scam sixth sense’ is getting stronger and reversing a trend, scammers are getting more cunning — and staying one step ahead means we need to do the same.

From fake jobs to instant messaging

Through the Cleaner Pipes program, Telstra blocks an average of more than 8 million scam SMS messages a month. It’s become so effective that scammers are constantly adapting – including finding ways to bypass SMS defences and deliver more persuasive messages.

One tactic is pivoting potential victims to legitimate but more difficult to trace communication methods including over-the-top (OTT) messaging services such as WhatsApp and device manufacturer’s own messaging apps.

These apps use the internet to send messages and calls with telcos having limited visibility and control over such communication. Many also use end-to-end encryption, meaning messages can’t be scanned or filtered for suspicious activity in the same way we use our own scam blocking technology to detect and block scams.

As our ability to spot scammers’ signature ‘MO’ has become more acute, they’re experimenting with a shift away from high-volume scams designed to trick potential suspects into clicking dodgy links, or making transactions under time pressure.

Instead, some scammers are adopting a ‘low and slow’ approach, with fewer messages, that are more convincing, designed to build trust and extract valuable information over time, and enhanced by basic AI tools to craft messages that feel more local, personal and authentic – giving them a more conversational and innocuous tone.

One of the most concerning trends is the rise of recruitment lure scams. These scams prey on people looking for extra income, offering fake job opportunities that seem legitimate. But instead of asking for money, scammers request personal information – like identification documents – that can be used for identity theft, or sold on the dark web.

These scams are more conversational and persistent, often unfolding over several messages. They’re designed to feel native to the platform and emotionally relevant to the recipient – making them harder to ignore and easier to fall for.

The rise of AI-enhanced scams

As AI becomes more accessible, scammers are using it to scale their operations and refine their tactics. We’re seeing early signs of a shift toward highly targeted scams — where messages are tailored to individuals based on publicly available data or previous interactions.

For instance, there has been an increase in fake celebrity scams using AI-generated deepfakes. These scams often involve public figures, such as politicians or celebrities, to lure victims into investment scams. As AI continues to evolve, including its ability to mimic voices, it’s more important than ever to stay alert.

Adapting to help keep Australians safe

As messages become more polished and convincing, Australians need to adopt a “trust but authenticate” mindset.

Scammers are evolving — but so are we. With smarter tools, sharper instincts, and a national commitment to staying informed, Australians are better equipped than ever to stay safe.

To learn more about how we’re helping to keep Australians safe, visit Telstra’s Cyber Security Hub (www.telstra.com.au/cyber-security-and-safety), and if you suspect a misuse of service, including suspicious emails or SMS and phishing or telephone scams, report it online (www.telstra.com.au/forms/report-misuse-of-service).

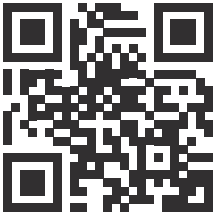

Smarter scams, smarter defences

-  Pause before responding
Even a ‘no thanks’ can confirm your number is active.
-  Be sceptical of easy offers
Jobs, money or deals that seem too good to be true often are.
-  Verify through official channels
Check official company sites or apps, and avoid clicking links in messages.
-  Be suspicious
Especially of unsolicited calls even when the caller references your name, email or other credentials to appear legitimate.

-  Protect your ID
Never send personal information to unknown contacts.
-  Watch for emotional tricks
Messages may sound friendly or urgent, but that’s all part of the hook.
-  Use security tools
Tools like Device Security Essentials from Telstra can help detect hidden threats.
-  Embrace your ‘scammer sixth sense’
Your instincts are a powerful defence against scammers – trust your gut if something feels off or too good to be true.

Roos bring Berri's season to a close

LACHLAN DAND

NEEDING almost everything to go right on Saturday afternoon, Berri was unable to pull off a minor miracle in the RFL A grade, bringing its season to a close.

Berri headed into Saturday's final minor round clash of the campaign on home turf needing to earn victory, and Renmark to defeat Loxton North to feature in the finals series.

Barmera-Monash celebrated reigning best and fairest winner Justin Bonney's 100th game, as it prepared for this weekend's qualifying final against Renmark.

However, it was Barmera-Monash that stunned the Demons from the outset, kicking the first four of the game, including the opener from the in-form Dain Austin.

Austin converted a set shot from 40m out, and the Roos added to the tally shortly after following back-to-back majors in quick succession from Matt Wilden.

Austin had his second of the game from the opposite pocket soon after, helping the Roos march to a 26-point lead.

Berri finally got its first of the game in the dying stages of the opening term, after a scramble forward saw Matthew Benson get on the end, leaving the Demons 20-points behind at the break.

Barmera-Monash cut the enthusiasm from the home supporters earlier in the second quarter after goals from Paul Spilios, and Joe Ricketts, had the margin at 31 points.

However, the hosts took some momentum into the half time interval after recruit Jake Durdin, and star key forward Darcy Minchella put Berri within 18 points at the last break.

Regan Kruger kicked the first goal of the second half for Berri, before Shay Hawkins helped the crowd roar to life after a brilliant running goal, cutting the margin to just five points.

However, a downfield free was soon converted by Steve Burton, and when Matt Wilden and Jack Albrecht kicked goals shortly after, the Roos held a 25-point lead at the last break.

With emotions threatening to boil over at three quarter time, Barmera-Monash snuffed out the chances of a late comeback after Matt Wutke goaled under pressure.

Callan Lloyd kicked a late major for the Dees late in the piece, but it was too little too late, and Berri suffered a four-goal defeat.

Barmera-Monash was already confirmed for a trip back to Berri this Saturday to face Renmark, hoping to book a grand final berth, and if it is defeated, will face the winner of Sunday's elimination final between Waikerie and Loxton North.

Milestone man Bonney was superb across half back, curbing the influence of Berri's dangerous small forward brigade, while skipper Sam Butterworth was also in strong form across the afternoon.

Jack Albrecht had what was arguably his best game of the season, while Trent Ogle showed what he can do across half back, providing run and carry.

Jacob Grieger finished a strong season for Berri and will poll well in the club's best and fairest, while Brad Rosenzweig fought hard across the day as usual.

The Roos' clash with Renmark kicks off at 2.40pm, on Saturday, and can be listened to live on 5RM from 2.30pm.

Rising stars shine bright at junior presentation day

THE best juniors in Riverland football were honoured in Barmera on Sunday afternoon, with the league's junior presentation day showcasing the best of the best.

Held at the Barmera Club, the under 13s and under 15s were the focus of the day, with the top performers in each grade recognised for their seasons.

Renmark's Ivan Atsaves took out the top prize in the under 13s competition, on the back of a dominant home-and-away season.

Atsaves recorded 27 votes, finishing seven ahead of Waikerie's Hayden Gogoll, and young Demon Charlie Wishart, with the pair tying for equal second.

Berri's Jaihlán Wilson-Lindsay took out the grade's leading goalkicker, finishing with 40 majors, while Rovers boss Luch Albanese picked up Coach of the Year.

Under 15s action saw promising Barmera-Monash prospect Shep Humphries take home the league best and fairest award, recording a massive 29 votes.

Humphries finished 10 votes ahead of Tiger Levi Milton on 19, with the Roos' ruckman compiling a dominant season.

It was a successful day for the minor premiers, as Ivan Ness took out the leading goalkicker award with 44 goals, and it was capped off by Sam Butterworth.

Butterworth, who captains the club's A grade side, made it back-to-back Coach of the Year awards with a win on Sunday.

Renmark’s Ricky Garrett takes a mark on a long lead as the Rovers completed the home and away season with an eight-point victory against the Panthers.

North nestle into the RFL’s fourth place

LACHLAN DAND

IT took a whirlwind 16 rounds, but finally the top four of the Riverland Football League’s A grade were decided on Saturday afternoon, and it was Loxton North which claimed fourth spot.

In what was an up and down season for the Panthers, they were unable to get over the line last weekend at Renmark Oval, but qualified for the finals after Berri’s loss to Barmera-Monash.

Conversely, Renmark continued its finals preparations ahead of this Saturday’s second semi-final against Barmera-Monash at RFL headquarters.

In what was a tight tussle across the game, Loxton North booted the first of the afternoon through Brok Viney-Obst, before Renmark responded with three on the bounce.

Declan Johnson, Nick Gillard, and Lachlan Lellmann all found the big sticks for the Rovers, before a late goal by Rhys Wooldridge had the Panthers nine points behind at quarter time.

The Panthers kicked the first two of the second term through Wooldridge and Akaso, before a pair of goals from Johnson stemmed the flow.

Although North did get one back, Renmark playing coach Josh Vater continued his exceptional season, and put his side 14 points ahead at half time.

Gillard booted two early second-half goals either side of Wooldridge’s third of the day, before Nick Stockman and Ricky Garrett helped the Rovers climb to a 31-point advantage.

Late ones from James Neale and Jarrod Buckley kept the Panthers in the battle, however, they still trailed by 20 points at the final break.

Missed chances from the Rovers in the final quarter gave Loxton North a late chance after Wooldridge kicked his fourth of the day, but the hosts hung on for an eight-point victory.

Second-year Panthers coach Dave Higgins praised the way his side remained in the contest, understanding that Renmark were without defeat on home turf since round two.

“We were determined to have a real go of it, and it turned out really well, and I was really proud of how the boys ground it out,” he said.

“We were obviously behind all day so we were chasing and holding on as best we could, but we played some decent footy to stay in the contest and hopefully that holds us in good stead.”

Gillard had a strong day around the ground for the Rovers and finished with three goals, while Zach Gartery won his battle in the ruck.

Vater and Harrison Brown found plenty of the ball for the hosts, but it was Rhys Wooldridge’s four goals, and Buckley’s strong efforts which kept North in touch.

In an additional blow to the defeat, the Panthers suffered a season-ending injury to Viney-Obst, while Mackenzie Hall and Scott Meneghetti will have to prove their fitness throughout this week to be selected in Sunday’s crunch clash.

Sunday afternoon sees Loxton North travel to Barmera Oval to face off against Waikerie in a huge first semi-final, with the loser eliminated from premiership contention.

North is yet to defeat Waikerie in 2025, however, it only fell to the Magpies by one point earlier on in the campaign.

Higgins said his side will need to be at their best on Sunday afternoon, with the ability to get the game on their terms to prove crucial.

“We’ve got great respect for Waikerie, and they’ve had us covered comfortably the last two times we’ve played them,” he said.

“We’ll just build on the continual build of form we’ve created, because overall we’ve been pretty consistent the last two months.

“We’ve really struggled to work Waikerie out this year, and struggled to contain them, so we’re just going to have to be playing our own game.

“We’ll just put our best foot forward on Sunday and see how it all ends up.”

Renmark’s clash with the Roos will be held on Saturday afternoon from 2.40pm, with the game to be commentated live on 5RM from 2.30pm, with the winner booking a grand final berth.

The 5RM team will back it up 24 hours later for Loxton North’s clash with Waikerie at Barmera, kicking off at the same time.

AROUND THE GROUNDS

IT was a weekend where footballers around the Riverland saved their best for the final home-and-away round of the season, with some stunning individual efforts hitting the stats sheet.

With the finals fixture now also confirmed, teams across the region’s B grade, under 18s, under 15s, and under 13s all confirmed their respective finals fates.

The B grade finals were confirmed prior to Saturday’s action, but Dan Westley helped the first-placed Roos to a massive 145-point win over Berri.

Westley was unstoppable in the victory, slaying home 11 goals, with the Roos’ 2023 premiership hero presenting his case for a possible A grade callup.

Elsewhere, Loxton got itself prepared for the qualifying final matchup against Barmera-Monash, with a 130-point win over Waikerie.

The Magpies had no answers for Loxton key forward Luke Pontt, who finished with 10 goals, while Nathan Flight finished with six of his own.

Renmark got itself ready for this weekend’s elimination final against Loxton North, taking out a 62-point win over the Panthers in what served as a preview of the game.

The Rovers allowed the visitors just one goal, with inaccurate goalkicking stopping the margin from being greater.

Under 18s matchups were also confirmed, and a 40-point win to Berri handed it the 2025 minor premiership.

The Demons suffered a grand final defeat to the Roos in 2024, but have only faltered on two occasions this year.

Berri will meet a rampaging Renmark in this weekend’s qualifying final, in what is a huge battle at league headquarters.

The Rovers delivered a 143-point win on Saturday against Loxton North, with West Adelaide youngster Sam DePalma returning to his home club in emphatic fashion.

DePalma kicked four goals, as did Ethan Evans and Isacc Morgan, with the Panthers consigned to just one win for the year.

Elsewhere, Loxton prepared for its elimination final against the reigning premier this Sunday with a 55-point victory over Waikerie.

The Tigers were electric across the day, with A grade regular Kaiden Evans having a key influence on the game.

Renmark will take on Barmera-Monash in a rematch of last year’s decider, and the Rovers claimed a 123-point win on Saturday morning.

Noah Warner’s five-goal haul was a key influence on the day, while Harry Leesue and Jack O’Bryan each slotted three.

However, Barmera-Monash proved far too good for Berri, enjoying a 130-point win at league headquarters.

Ivan Ness showed why he is one of the brightest stars in the competition, kicking nine goals, with Berri’s only reprieve coming via Jack Hunter.

A preview of this weekend’s elimination final also took place, and it was Waikerie that took out a 14-point win over Loxton.

The three best sides in the under 13s all tasted victory, with Renmark, Waikerie, and Berri all taking the points.

Renmark’s win was headed up by Zak Tucker, who slotted 10 majors, while Jaihlán Wilson-Lindsay booted seven for Berri in its win.

Pies primed for premiership tilt

LACHLAN DAND

AHEAD of a massive Riverland Football League A grade finals campaign, Waikerie is entering the post season full of confidence following its biggest win of the season last Saturday. Waikerie travelled to Loxton on Saturday with aspirations of returning to form after a disappointing loss to Berri the previous week. With a last-place finish already confirmed, the Tigers were seeking to finish 2025 on a high, as the clubs met for the fourth time this year. However, the home side's hopes were put to the sword early in the game, trailing by 17 points at quarter time. Bradley Truscott kicked the first of the game, and although Talyn Eagle kicked Loxton's opener soon after, the Pies soon got back to form. Truscott recorded his second of the day, and when ruckman Brad Burgemeister, and reigning Whillas Medallist Kade Hilton had goals, Waikerie were in total control. A high-scoring second term saw the two clubs combine for nine goals, but it was Waikerie which had the lions share, leading by 38 points at the major break. Spencely had two goals early in the game, but had his hard work undone by Tigers playing coach Nathan Brown, and Brandan Tregeagle, who kept the hosts in the contest. Yet the Magpies returned to form soon after, with goals coming from Thomas Truscott, Bradley Truscott's third, Stephen Hausler, and Cooper Mackereth. With the visitors out as far as 43 points late in the quarter, Loxton managed a late response from Kaiden Evans moments before the half time break, giving the home fans something to cheer about. A four-goal-to-one third quarter helped Waikerie keep the momentum into the final change of ends, in what was a dominant showing. Ryan Turner kicked two in the quarter, and Hausler and Spencely converted shortly after to have Waikerie as far as 61 points ahead. Luke Salmon gave the Tigers some reprieve with his first of the day, capping off a solid campaign. Waikerie found goals through Sam Trandafil and Hausler in the final term, before Tregeagle landed his second, leaving the full-time margin at 64 points. On the cusp of his first finals series as A grade coach, Waikerie boss Jackson Sutton said his side was desperate to respond after the loss to Berri the previous week, as his group attempts to time their run to perfection. "The week before against Berri was pretty disappointing, because we just let that one slip," he said. "To bounce back the way we did at Loxton was quite pleasing, so I was happy with the result. "We've sort of kept Bradley (Truscott) as a bit more of a permanent forward the last couple of weeks, and it just gives us a bit of a different look up forward. "Jack's a really strong contested mark and he's really fit and runs all day, so it's definitely nice having him across half back, because not too much gets past Jack, and he's a quality footballer. "We had a couple of tough games against Barmera-Monash and Renmark, and in patches of those games we looked quite good, but we let ourselves down with a few things and let the game get away from us. "You've just got to turn up every week in this league, and if you're slightly off, you will get found out. "Fingers crossed we can get over Loxton North this weekend, and who knows what can happen from there." Spencely dominated around the ground right throughout the afternoon, and finished with three goals, but it was Truscott who finished with four. Jarrad Bee was at his ball-winning best throughout the day, while Jack Burgemeister put in a strong performance in the back half. For Loxton, Harley Campbell and Jesse Will capped off terrific seasons in fine style, while Tregeagle was a target inside attacking 50 in a tough day for the forward half. Waikerie has been victorious against this weekend's opponent in Loxton North all three times in 2025, and ahead of this Sunday's meeting, Sutton said his side will take a lot of confidence into the match. "It's another one of those things where Loxton North is a proud footy club, so you can't rock up thinking it's just going to happen, and you've got to be switched on," he said. "They're coming off some really good form, and they tested Renmark on the weekend, and beat them earlier this year too. "They'll be full of confidence, and we'll certainly need to be at our best to get on top of them. "Scoreboard pressure is the big one, and when you have your opportunities early in the game you just have to take them, because kicking inaccurately just leaves teams in it for longer. "Momentum can change so quickly which we saw against Berri, so for us it's about following our processes and enjoying playing finals football." Waikerie will take on Loxton North, at Barmera Oval, on Sunday afternoon in the elimination final, from 2.40pm. The game will be commentated live by 5RM, who will be on air from 2.30pm on the day.

All on the line for the Bombers

JUST one round remains in the 2025 Murray Valley Football Netball League home-and-away season, and it's Brown's Well which has everything to play for. With the final four officially locked in, Brown's Well suffered a disappointing loss to BSR on Saturday, leaving it in fourth spot ahead of this weekend. BSR's penultimate round victory came in strong fashion, leading at every change after racing away to an eight-point half time lead. But it was the third quarter where the Redbacks broke the game open, kicking four goals to one, and taking the differential to 25 points at the final break, before hanging on for a 31-point victory. Matt Gibson, and Max Speyer, were superb for the Redbacks on home turf at Blanchetown, while Jordi Bibby finished with three for the visiting side in an admirable effort. Although Paringa will be without finals football in 2025, it ended the season on a high at home with a 43-point win over Sedan-Cambrai, on the back of a Dean Hill masterclass. Hill was an unstoppable force for the Swans in the victory, kicking a whopping 12 goals to help his side secure the points. Paringa were on song from minute one, with an eight-goal first quarter helping it race away to a 39-point advantage at the first break. First-year coach Shane Cooke kicked three for the Pies, as did Jackson Le Couteur, who will end their season at Cambrai this weekend against Murrayville. The Blues, who are looking to complete the perfect season this weekend, had the week off after a second-consecutive forfeit from Ramco helped them make it 13 wins from 13. Ramco is fixtured for its final game of season 2025 against Wunkar this weekend, with the Bulldogs hoping to secure a double chance. Brown's Well will need to defeat Paringa in Paruna this weekend, and hope the Roosters can topple the Bulldogs if it is any chance of finishing in the top two.

SHOT OF DREAMS: Loxton golfer David Sunman recently defied odds, scoring a hole-in-one at the Loxton Golf Club earlier this month. On the 136m, second hole, Sunman said he was pretty excited to nail the perfect shot. The ball pitched approximately 2m before the pin, before bouncing straight in. It was Sunman's first hole-in-one after playing golf for 50 years. "I was pretty excited when it went in, and everyone else was pretty excited as well," Sunman said. "I've been close plenty of times, but you need to have a bit of luck going for you too." PHOTO: Facebook

REPORTS SUPPLIED

RIVERLAND SAPSASA soccer students travelled to Gepps Cross in Adelaide last week to play at Service FM Stadium for the annual tournament.

The Riverland sides competed well, and flourished by ‘learning to play, and playing to learn’ with activities at BOUNCE and Fasta Pasta.

GIRLS – WRAP UPS SUPPLIED BY COACH JESS GRACE. DAY ONE

It was a solid start to the carnival with plenty of positives and learning moments.

The Riverland girls showed determination, teamwork, and resilience across all three matches, continuing to improve their communication and decision-making under pressure.

GAME ONE

Riverland 2 lost to Lower South East 5.

Best: Emily Hill (Berri Primary), Alyssa Minerds (Loxton Lutheran). Goals: Kate Seekamp (Monash Primary), Katerina Koutouzis (Loxton Lutheran). Captain: Emily Hill (Berri Primary).

Riverland got on the scoreboard early with strong defence and some excellent passing combinations.

Although a little nervous at the start, the girls settled into the game, creating space and working hard to mark their players.

GAME TWO

Riverland 0 lost to Barker 3.

Best: Oliva Romeo (Monash Primary), Zara Gray (Berri Primary).

The girls showed great resilience, keeping their heads up and continuing to play hard even when behind.

Their determination was evident in every challenge, and they supported one another with encouragement and teamwork right until the final whistle.

GAME THREE

Riverland 2 d Southern Fleurieu 1.

Best: Olivia Romeo, Willow Safralidis (Berri Primary). Goals: Savannah, Kate. Captain: Olivia Romeo (Monash Primary).

This match saw excellent passing and strong communication about who was going for the ball.

The team played with confidence, moving for the ball, using their voices, and working to pass then move into space to create attacking opportunities.

The defensive unit stayed composed under pressure, and the midfield worked hard to link play between lines. It was a well-deserved and hard-fought win to end the day on a high.

DAY TWO

Another strong day of soccer for the Riverland girls, with improved passing patterns, better movement, and greater organisation across the pitch.

The team continued to show resilience and commitment, supporting each other in attack and defence.

GAME ONE

Riverland 0 lost to Lower Eyre Peninsula 2.

Best: Savannah Cooper (Berri Primary), Florence Koch (Walkerie Primary). Captain: Zara Gray (Berri Primary).

Riverland started the day with good movement and sharp passing through the middle, with Olivia Romeo (Monash Primary School) delivering a well-placed early ball to create an opportunity on goal.

GAME TWO

Riverland 0 lost to Gawler 6.

Best: Olivia Romeo (Monash Primary), Kate Seekamp (Monash Primary). Captain: Kate Seekamp (Monash Primary).

In the first half, the girls struggled to use their voices, but they lifted in the second half with renewed energy and teamwork.

Determination in chasing loose balls and strong forward runs kept the pressure on the opposition.

GAME THREE

Riverland 1 lost to Hills 4.

Best: Nikita Seekamp (St. Joseph’s Primary, Renmark), Alyssa Minerds (Loxton Lutheran). Goals: Nikita Seekamp (St. Joseph’s Primary, Renmark). Captain: Olivia Romeo (Monash Primary).

Riverland came out attacking from the first whistle, creating multiple chances early. Zara Gray (Berri Primary School) made a crucial save to keep the game level, while Nikita Seekamp’s (St. Josephs School, Renmark) composure in front of goal secured the equaliser.

The team pressed well, contested the ball strongly, and looked to pass into space for attacking runs. A hard-fought game that showcased grit and smart play in both attack and defence.

DAY THREE

The final day of competition saw the Riverland girls finish strong, showing determination, teamwork, and a willingness to work hard for each other right to the end.

The focus on movement into space, communication, and defensive organisation was clear in all matches.

Riverland 0 lost to Barossa 5.

Best: Katerina, Alyssa.

Alyssa made a series of outstanding early saves to keep the team in the match.

Players worked hard to move into space to receive the ball, and clear danger from the backline.

There were some solid periods of possession and good defensive moments under pressure.

Riverland 0 lost to Lower South East 1.

Best: Clara, Aleeya

The girls showed confidence in passing the ball and were willing to go in for challenges.

Forward runs were made with purpose, and the team looked to create opportunities in attack.

It was clear that all girls’ confidence had grown from the first game until the last.

CARNIVAL WRAP-UP

Across three days of competition, the Riverland girls displayed impressive growth in skill, communication, and game awareness.

They faced tough opponents, adapted to challenges, and demonstrated true sportsmanship throughout.

From strong defensive performances and crucial saves to creative attacking play and well-worked goals, every player contributed to the team’s success.

It was a carnival full of learning, determination, and connection – values that will serve the team well in the future.

BOYS – WRAP UPS – SUPPLIED BY COACH MARTY BARBER.

GAME ONE

Riverland 3 d Whyalla 1.

Best: Aiden Walkley, Kobi Cryer, Joel Stoeckel. Goals: Kobi 2, Jax 1.

The boys got off to a good start with a win against Whyalla. It took the boys a little to get going with Whyalla controlling possession early creating many attacking opportunities.

The back four worked tirelessly to make sure we didn’t concede with Jaxon, Brax, Henry and Oskar working overtime in the first half.

We failed to create opportunities early, but some individual brilliance from Kobi Cryer saw him score twice.

The boys looked a lot more comfortable in the second half and the game was more balanced in possession and attacking opportunities.

Jax managed to score his first and the teams third goal making it hard for the Whyalla boys.

Aiden made some huge saves at important times during the game and kept us in it, and while he was unable to get a clean sheet, with Whyalla pulling one back, it was a great effort and influential performance.

GAME TWO

Riverland 2 lost to Hills 3.

Best: Henry Elphick, Lennox Kaesler. Goals: Kobi, Henry 1. Best: Henry Elphick, Lennox Kaesler

A nail biting second game against the Hills. The Hills got on top early scoring the first goal and creating dangerous attacking opportunities.

In a second half that seemed to last an eternity, the boys were unable to hold on, and Hills managed to score two very late goals to win the game.

GAME THREE

Riverland 1 lost to Barker 9.

Best: Kobi Cryer, Joel Stoeckel, Hamish Turnbull. Goals: Hamish Turnbull.

A tough game to finish Day 1 coming up against a fresh Barker team. Barker were impressive with the way they moved the ball showcasing their high skill level and fantastic teamwork.

A tough way to finish but an important learning experience going forward.

DAY TWO

GAME FOUR

Riverland 1 drew with Lower South East 1.

Best: Lennox Kaesler, Hamish Turnbull, Henry Elphick. Goals: Hamish Turnbull.

It was a tightly contested game first up on day two that ended in a draw.

As the game went on and the boys settled they started to create more opportunities and started to get more of the possession.

Hamish managed to get on the end of a through ball and scored a fantastic left footed finish from a tight angle to tie the game.

Both teams worked hard to find a winner but both back lines gave all to not concede a second goal with the match ending 1-1.

GAME FIVE

Riverland 0 lost to Barossa and Light 2.

Best: Jaxon Curyer, Joel Stoeckel, Oskar Liebich.

A tightly contested game saw both teams creating scoring opportunities.

Jax and Hamish worked hard in the forward line but couldn’t manage to score against a physical and well-structured backline.

Jaxon, Brax, Lennox and Oskar defended relentlessly and stopped the opposition attackers from scoring during open play.

Whilst we lost the game there was some notable improvements in the boys positioning and team work.

GAME SIX

Riverland 2 d Port Pirie 1.

Best: Brax Perram, Henry Elphick, Kobi Cryer, Hudson Formby Goals: Brax Perram, Kobi Cryer

A good way to finish day two with a victory over Pirie. It was our best display of team work and playing as a team.

Brax also scored a fantastic powerful, curling free kick that hit the top right corner of the net to make the game 1-1 before half time.

Kobi and Hamish put in a massive second half effort making continual forward runs to create a number of scoring opportunities with Kobi finding the net on one of these occasions to put us in front.

Hudson, Oskar, Lennox and Jaxon were solid in defence and Aiden made a couple of important saves contributing to the win.

BOYS

DAY THREE

Riverland 2 lost to Gawler 5.

Best: Kobi Cryer, Aiden Walkley, Jaxon Curyer. Goals: Kobi Cryer – 2.

The boys started the game strong and were on top early and created numerous attacking opportunities.

Kobi got on the end of a through ball and found the back of the net with a classy left foot finish.

Our defence looked solid all game with Jaxon reading the ball well and cutting out numerous passes.

Kobi stepped up and hit a long range shot theta flew in just below the cross bar to get us back in the game. Aiden was very good in goals making some big saves at important times.

Unfortunately, Gawler went on to score a few more goals. The score line failed to reflect the way we played and the boys should be happy with their efforts.

Riverland 1 lost to Lower Eyre Peninsula 5.

Best: Tyler Elphick, Hamish Turnbull, Aiden Walkley. Goals: Kobi Cryer.

A disappointing result in the last game.

The boys again played very well with the score line unable to reflect the way the game was played.

Tyler played very well in the midfield, finding plenty of the ball and created a number of attacking opportunities.

Hamish worked hard up forward chasing everything and creating opportunities including a shot from the half turn that looked like it was hitting the far corner until the keeper pulled off a great save.

The defenders and Aiden played very well, but failed to stop the opposition forwards, who managed to score some late second half goals with the game finishing 5-1.

FINAL WRAP

Overall the boys should be proud of their efforts this week.

Whilst the score lines and table may not have reflected these efforts there was notable improvements in individual performances, team structure and the way we played as a team.

Well done boys and all the best with your soccer for the rest of the season and beyond.

Pelicans women claim the 2025 premiership

BARMERA officially claimed the 2025 A grade women’s soccer premiership on Sunday, defeating Renmark 1-0 in an intense encounter at Berri.

In what was a tight tussle across the game, the score was finally separated at the 42nd minute, following a goal from Pelican Matilda Mitchell.

The result sees Barmera move six-points clear at the top of the ladder with just one round remaining, claiming the title back from Renmark ahead of the impending top four cup.

Katie Whiting and Demity Lowe fought valiantly for Olympic in what proved to be a tough loss.

Elsewhere, Berri continued its sparkling run of late season form, enjoying a 4-3 victory over Loxton on home turf.

In a high-scoring affair, the River Rangers opened the scoring through Sirat Kaur just two minutes into the game, and held a 3-1 lead at the break after Marlee Singh scored, and Kaur made her tally two.

Loxton fought back in the second half to level things just after the hour mark, but Sammy Hauptman’s 64th minute finish saw Berri over the line.

It failed to be a happy ending for Berri’s men’s side, who remained without a point in 2025 after suffering an eight-goal loss to Loxton.

United were clinical across the afternoon’s events, and Jasper Hoffmann was the main beneficiary, scoring on four occasions in the massive 9-1 win.

Josh Sawyer gave the home supporters something to cheer about 82 minutes in when he finally broke through, but the River Rangers fell well short.

Renmark and Barmera’s A grade men’s game was called off during the first half following a nasty injury to a Pelicans player.

REMARK TABLE TENNIS ASSOCIATION

ROUND 14 saw Whack-a-Ball defeat Bits ‘n Bats and top of the ladder, and Backhand Bandits continue to dominate with an easy win over Bit Edgy.

With a round to go the first week of the finals are already locked in, with Backhand Bandits hosting Net Ninjas in the qualifying final, and Whack-a-Ball battling Bit Edgy in the elimination final.

The first match saw Whack-a-Ball eliminate any faint chance Bits ‘n Bats had of qualifying for the finals, with a comfortable 17-7 victory.

Whack-a-Ball started strong, winning 6-2 in the doubles, and their dominance continued, going on to win the singles 11-5.

With Peter Rogers, Rylan Coppin, Byron Livingston-Bornholm, and Chris Gaskin all winning both their singles they will look to carry this form through next week, and into the final.

The second match saw

Backhand Bandits defeat Bit Edgy 16-8.

Bit Edgy put up one of the better doubles efforts against the top-ranked Backhand Bandits, going into the singles all even.

Unfortunately, as has happened most of the season, the bottom four players dominated, losing only two of their eight singles, sealing the comfortable win.

At the top Dennis Robinson, of Backhand Bandits, and Frank Sullivan, of Whack-a-Ball, had a great battle.

It took five games for Sullivan to eventually find his consistency, winning in the fifth.

Tigers triumph over the border

TRAVELLING over the border to face off against Sunraysia, Loxton had a successful Saturday night in hockey, earning a 3-1 A grade men's victory.

The Tigers were in complete control from start to finish, and it was Jay Botten who flourished, finding the back of the net on two occasions.

Botten's brace was brought about by strong link-up play from Loxton, including brother Tayte, and Cody Hennig providing strong performances.

In what was a disappointing result on home turf for Sunraysia, the performance from Charlie Baird was an admirable one.

The Tigers' B grade side were involved in somewhat of an intraclub battle, playing off against Loxton Punjab.

But it was Punjab who suffered a 4-2 defeat, in what was a strong display from the Loxton team.

It was an even spread for Loxton in the win, having four separate contributors, but it was Todd Griffin who stole the headlines.

Griffin was superb across the entirety of Friday evening's match, and was one of the four to put his name on the scoresheet.

Elsewhere, a high-scoring battle between Berri and Waikerie went the way of the Demons, who enjoyed a 4-3 victory.

Scott Moldovan was ultimately the dominant force in the game, finishing with a hat-trick, as Berri outlasted the Knights.

Waikerie's Rowan Hope was an exciting force for his side, scoring twice, but it was ultimately a bridge too far.

A grade women's action also saw Berri take out a 2-1 victory over the Knights following goals from Ella Rothe and Dakota O'Callaghan.

It finished level between Sunraysia and Loxton in an entertaining contest on Saturday evening over the border.

Renmark's B grade women's outfit had the greatest winning margin of the weekend, with the Blues taking out a 9-0 victory.

Berri secures fourth spot

A RIVERLAND A1 netball season full of twists and turns had its home-and-away portion come to a close on Friday night, with the final four now locked in. Needing to either secure victory itself, or have Loxton North defeat Renmark, Berri benefitted from the latter to earn fourth spot. It was a tight loss for Berri at the Toyota Arena against a now in-form Barmera side, with the Lakeside club earning a two-goal victory. In what was a seesawing affair from start to finish, Berri got away to a flying start with a five-goal quarter time lead. However, it failed to last, with Barmera kicking into gear in the second quarter with strong link-up play through mid-court, helping the visitors to a one-goal lead at the half. Berri dragged itself back in front by the final change, leading by two goals at the break, but a strong finish by Barmera helped it earn the victory. Tilly Albrecht and Layla Moore produced strong showings in mid-court for Barmera, involving themselves throughout the entirety, while Meg Kassulke put through 28 goals. Kassulke was well assisted by Hallie Hodgson, with the star shooter putting through 21 to help her side over the line. Berri co-captains Brooke Franks (24), and Taniel Willmott (23) goals worked well, while Kyla Wade also performed well in a tough defeat. The match ultimately served as an elimination final preview for this Friday night, which will be held at the same venue. Elsewhere, Loxton North brought Renmark’s season to a close, responding from a disappointing loss the previous week to take out a 16-goal victory at the Alan Coulter Recreation Centre. Despite being level at every change, North found rhythm in the second quarter, and failed to let the lead slip from there. Young gun Maddie Growth was superb for the visitors with a massive 42 goals, while Layla Hutchinson continues to impress, scoring 15 of her own. Centre Brooke Pietrolaj, and keeper Paris Lawrie, were strong contributors, in what was an even spread for North. Anita Modlinski finished with 17 goals for Renmark, while Ashlea James also finished her season on a high. Having suffered a heartbreaking defeat in last season’s thrilling grand final, North will look to preparations for the qualifying final in Berri, this Friday night, against reigning premier Loxton. Finals action will begin this Friday night, at the Toyota Arena in Berri, with Loxton and Loxton North to do battle in the A1 competition on court one for a spot in the grand final at 6.45pm. Barmera and Berri will meet at the same time on court two, with the winner eliminated from premiership contention. The A2 final sees Barmera take on Loxton in the qualifying final, with Berri meeting Waikerie in the eliminator, where action will begin from 8.15pm. Junior action will have the first against second clashes held on Saturday at Berri, while Sunday’s eliminators are fixtured for Barmera on Sunday.

Spotlight shines on the final four

WITH 15 rounds of competition in the books, the Riverland Netball Association’s 2025 finals series has officially arrived. The focus firmly shifts in particular to the A1 competition, where three sides will look to win the premiership back from the brute force Loxton has become. The Tigers triumphed by just one goal in a double overtime thriller in the 2024 decider that had to be seen to be believed, and continued that momentum into this year. Loxton completed the home-and-away season in undefeated fashion, proving unimpacted by the loss of superstar Summer Smith, with recruit Tarnie Shinnick slotting into the side seamlessly. Shinnick, goalkeeper Leah Uren, and defender Bailey Hahn, have been brilliant on the defensive end all season, while mid-courtters Elise Lange and Shenae

Rucioch have both compiled superb campaigns. In attack, star shooter Mackella Hogan has been unstoppable at times, while Aimee Holmes has also frequently poured in the goals. Loxton will take on inter-town rivals Loxton North in this Friday’s qualifying final, and North is desperate for revenge after last year’s heartbreaker. Although competition best and fairest Ella Anderson departed the region last off-season, North have been a consistent side right throughout the year, and look to be well balanced across the court. Maddie Groth is in a hot run of form, highlighted by a 42-goal effort against Renmark on Friday night, while captain Brooke Pietrolaj has controlled the mid-court in outstanding fashion. Goalkeeper Paris Lawrie has been superb at the defensive end, and will be a key piece to her side’s premiership hopes. Meanwhile, Friday night’s elimination final sees Barmera take on Berri, with the Lakesiders hoping to add to an incredible season. Barmera tasted victory on just one occasion in 2024, but new coach Lyn Wutke has her side in strong form, coming off of a two-goal win over Berri last Friday. It’s a result which will provide a lot of confidence heading into this week’s do-or-die clash, although Berri will relish the chance to play on home court. Elsewhere, A2 finals action is also primed for a tight finish, and Barmera is in prime position to secure the premiership, having enjoyed an undefeated campaign. Barmera will take on Loxton in the qualifying final, while reigning premier Berri will do battle with Waikerie.

FOLLOWING 16 rounds of an enthralling Riverland Football League home-and-away season, the finals series has officially arrived. The 2025 season saw the league continue with its 16-round season, meaning Berri and Barmera-Monash, Loxton North and Renmark, and Loxton and Waikerie all faced off on four occasions. The centre focus of that has been the clashes between Berri and Barmera-Monash, with every contest between the two bitter rivals going the way of the Lakeside club. This weekend sees the Roos pay a visit to Berri for the second consecutive week, this time to face Renmark in a grand final rematch. The winner will have the opportunity to book a grand final ticket, as was the case last year, before the Rovers, who took the long way to the decider, claimed the ultimate glory. Elsewhere, a Sunday afternoon fixture awaits Waikerie and Loxton North, ahead of a do-or-die elimination final fixture at Barmera Oval. Despite a slow start to season 2024, the Panthers worked their way to the finals, and after Berri's final round defeat last weekend, claimed a spot in the hunt for a premiership. North will meet a Waikerie outfit it has been unable to topple in 2025 this Sunday, with Jackson Sutton's side looking to get through to a second-straight preliminary final.

Modern décor highlighting individual touch

AUSTRALIAN home décor is starting to reflect a harmonious blend of sustainability, individuality, warmth, and innovation. The following trends are making waves across Australian interiors, offering inspiration for creating spaces that are both stylish and meaningful.

interiors with personality and soul, aligning with both environmental values and style.

Warm minimalism and Japandi aesthetic
Minimalist design is evolving from cold restraint to soft warmth. Warm minimalism combines clean lines with inviting textures and muted palettes, ideal for creating calming, clutter-free environments. Complementing this is the rise of Japandi — a blend of Japanese minimalism and Scandinavian functionality. It embraces simplicity, functionality, and quiet elegance, with low-profile, purposeful furnishings that suit modern Australian homes and apartments.

Earthy palettes and a touch of colour
Australian interiors are embracing colours inspired by the landscape — eucalyptus greens, terracotta, clay, and warm beige tones — all creating calm, grounded settings. However, neutrals aren't the end of the story. Strategic pops of bold colour — through cushions, rugs, and artwork — add vibrancy while maintaining balance.

Textures and statement surfaces
Flat walls are out; texture is in. Popular treatments include Venetian plaster, limewash, timber paneling, and raw concrete — perfect for adding depth and character to living areas and home offices. In kitchens and bathrooms, statement surfaces such as dramatic stone benchtops and terracotta tiles are on the rise.

Bold tiles and graphic patterns
Bathrooms and kitchens are getting bold makeovers with graphic tiles — think Moroccan prints, terrazzo, scalloped designs — that inject style without a full renovation. These patterned accents are an easy yet impactful way to personalise spaces.

Curved lines and sculptural furniture
Softer aesthetics with curves and arches are among the features taking centre stage in 2025. From arched headboards and mirrors, to rounded furniture edges and curvy sideboards, these shapes bring organic flow and a welcoming vibe to interiors. Sculptural coffee tables and bold lighting fixtures also add artistic flair to living spaces.

Multifunctional and smart living
With homes serving multiple purposes, multifunctional furniture is essential — think fold-away desks, built-in storage, and dual-purpose surfaces. Alongside this, smart home technology is being woven into minimalist interiors, with automated lighting, discreet climate control, and seamless integration ensuring comfort and convenience

Personalised, immersive spaces

Goodbye cookie-cutter décor – 2025 is about spaces that reflect individual stories. Gallery walls, custom-built furniture, and personal collections are defining how Aussies transform houses into homes.

Outdoor integration and al fresco living

Australians continue to blur the lines between inside and out. Outdoor kitchens, fire pits, and al fresco dining setups enhance entertainment-friendly spaces and connect homes to nature.

The keys to a modern dream home:

- ❑ Climate and lifestyle: Outdoor living and light-filled interiors align seamlessly with Australia’s climate and social culture.
- ❑ Cultural values: A shift toward sustainability, craftsmanship, and personal storytelling mirrors broader societal values.
- ❑ Modern aesthetic: The balance of minimalism, warmth, and craftsmanship creates interiors that feel both contemporary and timeless. Australian home décor is now centred on sustainability, personalisation, comfort, and aesthetic depth. By combining earthy colour palettes, artisan textures, smart functionality, and expressive design touches, homes become not only beautiful but also meaningful reflections of the people living within them.

How your home can benefit from a great garden

GARDENS can be seamlessly integrated into the home environment, enhancing both its aesthetic appeal and functionality. By carefully considering the design and layout, gardens can become an extension of your living space, blurring the lines between indoor and outdoor areas, and creating a more harmonious and engaging environment.

Here’s how gardens can be incorporated as part of your home:

❑ Matching materials:

Use similar materials and colours for both the interior and exterior to create a sense of visual connection. For example, a patio or deck can be built using the same wood or stone as the interior flooring.

❑ Sliding doors/bi-folds:

Install large sliding or bi-fold doors to easily access the garden and visually extend the living space. Bi-fold doors, in particular, create a grand entrance and can be ideal for outdoor areas with depth.

❑ Transitional spaces:

Create semi-private outdoor areas or covered spaces that blur the boundaries between the indoors and outdoors, allowing for a gradual transition between the two environments.

❑ Outdoor rooms:

Designate specific areas in your garden for dining, lounging, or recreation, effectively creating outdoor rooms that complement your indoor living spaces.

❑ Privacy screens:

Use plants, trellises, or screens to create privacy and define different areas within your garden, making it feel more intimate and secluded.

❑ Vertical gardens/green walls:

Incorporate vertical gardens or green walls to bring greenery closer to the home, adding a touch of nature to walls and balconies.

❑ Edible gardens:

Integrate edible plants into your garden design, providing fresh produce and reducing food miles.

❑ Rain gardens:

Create rain gardens to manage stormwater runoff and prevent flooding, while also adding a beautiful and functional element to your landscape.

❑ Composting:

Set up a composting system to reduce waste and create nutrient-rich soil for your garden.

❑ Biodiversity:

Incorporate native plants to attract local wildlife and create a thriving ecosystem in your backyard.

The first steps of real estate investment

HAVE you ever wondered how to get into real estate, but felt like you didn't have the resources or expertise to start?

Many people delay becoming a real estate investor because they fear failure or think the process is harder than it is.

Fear will always keep you from moving forward, but the truth is there are proven, no-money-down, low-risk real estate investing strategies that almost anyone can implement.

If you're not quite ready yet, there is a straight-forward process to prepare.

Ask what will it rent for?

One of the biggest mistakes new investors make is buying a property without understanding its rental potential. A general rule of thumb is the 1 per cent rule — which suggests a property should rent for at least 1 per cent of the purchase price per month.

For example, if a home costs $300,000, you should aim to rent it for approximately $350 per week. This ensures you cover expenses like the mortgage, insurance, property taxes, and management fees, while still generating positive cash flow. Additionally, research rental demand in your target area.

If a home's price is significantly higher than the median household income in the area, local tenants might struggle to afford the rent. This can lead to long vacancies or rent concessions, lowering your returns.

Use local banks for financing

Many new investors assume they must go through big banks for financing, but local banks and credit unions often offer better options.

Many investors find success working with regional credit unions and small community banks that cater to local real estate investors, or brokers.

You make money when you buy, not when you sell

Many beginners think they will profit when they sell a property, but the real money is made at the purchase.

- ❑ The goal is to buy properties below market value, allowing for built-in equity from the start.
- ❑ Strategies like foreclosures, off-market deals, distressed sales, and motivated seller negotiations can help secure a great deal.
- ❑ Consider the BRRRR method (Buy, Rehab, Rent, Refinance, Repeat) to grow your portfolio without tying up too much capital.

Short on cash? Fix and flip to fund your next rental

If you're struggling with cash flow, one strategy is to flip a property and use the profits to invest in long-term rentals.

- ❑ Fix-and-flip deals involve buying undervalued properties, renovating them, and selling for a profit.

- ❑ On average, a well-executed flip can generate $20,000 to $50,000+ in profit, enough to cover a down payment for multiple rentals.
- ❑ Look for properties that require cosmetic upgrades rather than major structural repairs to maximise return on investment.

Have multiple exit strategies

Successful investors always plan multiple ways to profit from a property. Here are four common strategies:

- ❑ Long-term rentals – Traditional leasing for consistent passive income.
- ❑ Short-term rentals – Airbnb, executive rentals, or vacation homes for higher daily rates.
- ❑ Fix and flip – Buy, renovate, and sell for a one-time profit.
- ❑ Lease-to-own – Allow tenants to buy the property after renting for a few years.

The more exit strategies you have, the less risk you acquire.

G.J. GARDNER Homes Riverland directors Sam and Mel Pearce. PHOTO: supplied

G.J. GARDNER Homes Riverland provides the highest level of local expertise, experience, and customer service quality when building your dream Riverland home.

In 2010, After working in the local building industry for 25 years, local family Sam and Mel Pearce, were ready to embark on their next adventure, and joined the G.J. Gardner Homes team – one of Australia’s leading home building companies.

With now four decades of experience in the building industry - Sam saw joining G.J.Gardner Homes as a way to grow their business and better support & service the people of the Riverland with the backing & resources of a nationally respected brand.

Helping locals create their dream home was the focus for Mel, she wanted to embrace the individuality of each new client, and the resources of the G.J Gardner brand allowed this.

“We help customers realise that they can build their dream home by empowering them to express their vision and what truly matters to them,” Mel said.

“We encourage them to create a space that truly reflects their lifestyle. “Building a beautiful home is always the goal, but the relationships we build along the way are equally important. For us, it’s not just about putting up walls – it’s about working together to create their future.

“Our mission is to deliver quality at every step, from the moment you walk through our office doors to the day you step into your brand-new home. We’re committed to showing that quality, not only through friendly, supportive service in the office, but also through the craftsmanship, materials, and care that go into every build on site.”

With now 15 years in business G.J. Gardner Homes Riverland has built a dedicated office team, skilled tradesmen, and fostered great relationships with subcontractors and suppliers.

Mel explained that while it’s always been a priority, recent changes to the building codes has pushed our focus even further into sustainability.. environmentally friendly design elements are not only becoming more popular, but essential in modern homes.

“Sustainable living is so important, and achieving higher energy efficiency is a big part of that,” she said.

“It all begins with smart design and orientation. Insulation, glazing & solar are all key factors in ensuring your home runs as efficiently as possible.

Mel said supporting the growth and expansion of Riverland communities is one of the most rewarding parts of the business.

“We’re deeply invested in the Riverland and love being able to contribute to its growth in a positive way,” she said.

“From local events to sporting clubs, we’re proud to be actively involved, and even prouder to call this community our home.”

Block-spiration for the dream bathroom

SHOWING that everyday Australians are able to buy, renovate, and sell a home, The Block continues to capture the attention of viewers across the Riverland.

This season – set in the Victorian location of Daylesford – features South Australian competitors, and best friends, Robby and Mat.

Although lacking experience in property renovation, the pair saw surprising early success by creating the best bathroom of the show’s five teams.

Robby and Mat spent a total of $25,394 on their bathroom, with their choice of paint colour described by judges as “warm, beautiful, creamy brown neutral”.

Judges commented the dark walnut finish of the vanity worked “perfectly”, and also loved the inclusion of a large skylight, which allowed a lot of natural light into the bathroom.

The tone and texture of Robby and Mat’s chosen tiles impressed the judges, as did the stylish touches of plants and candles.

Every episode of The Block can be streamed for free on 9Now (www.9now.com.au/the-block?ocid=nine.com.au-9now-a38054-theblock).

GUIDE

Secret garden

THOUGH it wasn't intended as such, it's a good idea to consider this twisted suburban drama as a limited series, given that US TV network NBC has already nipped it in the bud.

The tantalising premise surrounds four members of a Detroit garden club whose lives are entangled by scandal.

High school teacher Alice (AnnaSophia Robb, Little Fires Everywhere), her bestie Brett (Ben Rappaport, Outsourced), real estate agent Catherine (Aja Naomi King, Lessons in Chemistry) and socialite Birdie (Brooklyn Nine-Nine's Melissa Fumero) are all desperately trying to present a composed outer picture to their affluent neighbours, but the thorns of their messy personal lives are proving impossible to hide.

"The pilot was one of the best scripts I've ever read," Fumero told NBC Insider.

"I thought all of these characters were so complex and intriguing, but particularly for Birdie, getting to see behind the mask, and behind the curtain and behind what she wants people to see, was really attractive to me and intriguing, because that's what makes her feel like a real person.

"I've been playing kind of put-together characters lately, so it's fun to play someone who doesn't always know what she's doing and is a bit of a mess and just living life one moment to the next."

Ripe with botanical language, the saucy saga takes a leaf out of Desperate Housewives' book, as the green thumbs take turns to narrate their various schemes and scandals.

Tuesday's premiere sows the seeds of a murder cover-up, with the foursome burying a body in the community garden, but who killed whom, and why? That's a mystery that will take 13 episodes to bloom.

Cheeseburger Smash Tacos

METHOD:

1. In a bowl, mix together the mince, caramelized onions, chopped pickles, grated cheese, mustard, crushed garlic, pickle juice, fish sauce, salt and black pepper until well combined.
2. Spread a heaped spoonful of the beef mixture evenly onto each mini tortilla, taking it right to the edges.
3. In a bowl, mix garlic aioli, mustard, tomato ketchup, crushed garlic, chopped pickles, pickle juice and smoked paprika until smooth. Set aside.
4. Heat a little oil in a pan over medium-high heat. Place the tacos topping-side down and press firmly with a spatula to seal the meat to the tortilla. Cook for around four minutes, flip, then cook the other side for about thirty seconds.
5. Arrange the tacos on a platter, drizzle with burger sauce, top with shredded lettuce, extra pickles and grated cheese, then finish with another drizzle of sauce.

9-LETTER

August 2025: week 4
Horoscopes

ARIES

MAR 21ST - APR 20TH

A powerful aspect to Jupiter may give you the luck you need to finally pull off a challenge which has been foxing you for weeks. You won't succeed the first time you try, however. Romance. A boost to your relationship will have a positive effect on other aspects of your life.

GEMINI

MAY 22ND - JUN 21ST

You have been working very hard recently, and need to do something different for a change. A short break will recharge your batteries. Romance. A quiet talk with your partner will help to reduce your concern about a lack of communication in your relationship.

TAURUS

APR 21ST - MAY 21ST

A disparaging remark from one of your friends may get you down. Try to find out what was behind it – there may be an element of truth. Romance. A person whom you met a few weeks ago might not be interested in more than a simple friendship. Don't expect too much from them for the time being.

CANCER

JUN 22ND - JUL 23RD

A surge of energy later in the week will help you to get all your chores out of the way. Don't stop until you have got everything done. Romance. Communications between you will be much better than usual, but your partner will be confused if you aren't clear about what you really want.

LEO

JUL 24TH - AUG 23RD

There is something that your friend wants to tell you, but they may be too shy to bring the matter up directly. A long phone call may leave out an important piece of information. Romance. Your emotions will be running very strongly at the moment. This would be a good time to make a move.

VIRGO

AUG 24TH - SEP 23RD

Be completely honest with yourself about recent events. The closer you are to the truth, the better able you will be to improve the situation. Romance. Try to be very easy-going on your partner at the moment. They are going through a bit of a rough patch, and need your support.

LIBRA

SEP 24TH - OCT 23RD

A positive aspect to Jupiter means that this will be an excellent time to do a job which you have been trying to forget about. You can't put it off for much longer! Romance. You may be a little surprised at how much emotional energy you have this week, so make sure to put it to good use.

SCORPIO

OCT 24TH - NOV 22ND

A cheerful comment will help to give you a boost. Your confidence may not be very strong at the moment: this is just what you need. Romance. Your partner may seem to be a little difficult. Don't ignore your own input, however, which might be making the situation worse rather than better.

SAGITTARIUS

NOV 23RD - DEC 21ST

Your boss might be a little over-critical at the moment. They are in a slightly tetchy mood, and will be difficult with other people, as well. Romance. This will be a good time for romance, provided you can be a little more consistent in the way you express yourself.

CAPRICORN

DEC 22ND - JAN 20TH

Travelling away from home will be a good opportunity to sort everything out in your mind. Romance. You may not be in a very romantic mood at the moment. A powerful aspect to Mercury will improve communications between you, especially around the end of the week.

AQUARIUS

JAN 21ST - FEB 19TH

A challenging aspect to Saturn could make you a little negative at times. Listen to the advice of a friend whose view of things is more optimistic. Romance. Somebody whom you haven't heard from for many years will shortly be in touch. You might get a shock when you next see them!

PISCES

FEB 20TH - MAR 20TH

You will be very sympathetic to a friend who needs your help. This person has been good to you in the past and deserves your support. Romance. This would be an excellent time to get a new relationship off the ground, or to put an existing one onto a firmer footing.

TAKE 5 WITH ZAN ROWE IS BACK WITH ITS BIGGEST GUEST LIST YET

POWERFUL storytelling through music returns as Take 5 With Zan Rowe launches its fourth season on Tuesday, September 9, at 8.30pm, on ABC TV, with all episodes available to stream on ABC iView the same day.

Back with her trademark warmth, deep musical knowledge, and gently disarming style, Zan Rowe can coax stories from celebs like no one else can.

And this season's guest list? Next level.

Hollywood heavyweight Kevin Bacon reveals the songs that bring him joy, while Spice Girl Melanie C celebrates the music she feels in her bones. Britpop icon and Pulp frontman Jarvis Cocker wears his heart on his sleeve with love songs, and beloved Aussie comedian Aaron Chen soundtracks his meteoric rise in comedy. National treasure Paul Kelly talks us through songs that anchor him to a time and place, and global pop sensation Lorde captures a pivotal chapter in her life through a playlist of rebirth.

As the records spin and the conversation flows, what emerges is something rare, revealing a different side to these artists.

Vulnerable. Candid. Sometimes hilarious. Sometimes heartbreaking. Because Take 5 with Zan Rowe isn't just about music, it's about memory.

A single song can transport us to a time, a feeling, a version of ourselves we'd forgotten. Music unlocks us. And in that space, magic happens.

Come along for the journey. Take 5 with Zan Rowe is back.

For audiences who want even more Take 5 with Zan Rowe, hear extended conversations featured in season four from Tuesday, 9 September on the ABC listen app.
