Call to ignore Jane Eliza ‘fear mongering’

HAVE NO FEAR

LOCALS should ignore “fear mongering” views about the Jane Eliza Development, the Renmark Paringa Council says.

Responding to a series of letters and opinion pieces in The Murray Pioneer on the major expansion, in particular its floodplain location, the council has urged locals to look past the views of outspoken community members.

“Renmark Paringa Council has concerns over recent media coverage on the development, namely ‘opinion’ pieces from community members,” the council said in a media statement.

Petition about Waikerie institute concerns

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

CONCERNED residents and ratepayers of Loxton Waikerie council have started circulating a petition to inform the Office of Public Integrity (OPI) about what they describe as the “sad state of the Waikerie Soldiers Memorial Hall and Institute”.

The details of the petition were put up on social media on 18 December. It is also available at a number of local businesses for interested community members to sign.

The petition states the institute was built in 1921, with the aim to draw attention of the OPI to “the neglect of the District Council of Loxton Waikerie, since amalgamation as far back as 1997, to meet its obligation to maintain and improve assets of this kind”.

“Your petitioners therefore request the OPI to investigate why years of neglect and empty promises of action have led to the Waikerie community facility being overlooked and (in) a bad state of repair,” the petition said.

The petition said this was occurring “while grant monies are sought and spent in Loxton on a similar building/s”, and states “grant monies” being spent are in “the tune of $7m in one instance, and over $15m in another.

Horses seized at Morgan shelter

SIX horses, including two that were euthanised, we earlier this year seized at a Riverland West property belonging to a couple previously convicted of animal mistreatment.

It was reported in last weekend’s edition of The Sunday Mail the RSPCA in October had seized six horses from the Morgan property of Shane Jones, and partner Carole Morris.

The pair in 2019 co-founded the South Australian Humane Animal Rescue Association (SAHARA), which in October lost its charity status.

Ms Morris in 2022 pleaded guilty to five counts of ill treatment of an animal, and was fined $5400, with Mr Jones pleading guilty to one count of the same charge, and being fined $1250.

The pair were also banned from sitting on the SAHARA board and being involved in decision making.

The Sunday Mail reported Mr Jones last week said most of the 450 animals in their possession at the time the charges were laid – including more than 100 dogs – had been rehomed and further neglect was impossible due to regular RSPCA visits to the property.

However, when visiting the Morgan property last Friday, The Sunday Mail reportedly saw up to 100 animals – some kept in pens – including about 10 of the 70 horses owned by Mr Jones, with most said to be having protruding ribs.

It is understood the six horses seized in October were owned by a third party, although an RSPCA-mandated monthly inspection at the property – conducted by a vet earlier this month – suggested at least 20 horses be euthanised because they were in poor health.

The Sunday Mail reported three former volunteers of the SAHARA property have described the couple as “animal hoarders”.

RSPCA SA has confirmed there are ongoing investigations into SAHARA and Mr Jones.

‘Dangerous and unusable’

AN important Riverland road – used to service Lake Victoria, and as a back-up source of water for South Australia – is both “dangerous and unusable”, a long-time Riverland resident says.

Waikerie man and retired irrigator Ted Angove says work on an interconnector power line along the Renmark-Wentworth Road had cause significant damage to the surface.

“When can we expect the ‘powers that be’ to come back and repair the damage to the Renmark-Wentworth Road?” Mr Angove asks in a letter to the editor in today’s Murray Pioneer.

“This power line that has been constructed is for the benefit of Australians, but at what cost to the locals who have to live with the damage to their infrastructure?”.

Mr Angove says additional heavy traffic delivering material to the power line has resulted in serious surface damage, including vehicle-destroying potholes.

Fatal crash at Swan Reach

A RIVERLAND West woman has lost her life after her car collided with a tree last week.

At about 10.40pm, on Friday 20 December, police and emergency services were called to Anzac Avenue, at Swan Reach, near Blanchetown, after reports a black Ford Falcon sedan had left the road and crashed into a tree.

The driver and sole occupant, a 45-year-old Swan Reach woman, died at the scene. Major Crash officers attended the scene to investigate the circumstances of the collision.

The woman’s death is the 83rd life lost on South Australian roads this year.

Anyone who witnessed the crash is asked to call Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000, or online (www.crimestopperssa.com.au).

Minor injuries in Lowbank collision

EMERGENCY services were called to the Sturt Highway, at Lowbank, east of Waikerie, last Tuesday after receiving reports of a vehicle leaving the road and colliding with a tree.

Police said the male driver, in his 20s, was transported to hospital with minor injuries.

They are investigating the circumstances surrounding the crash.

Waikerie CFS, SA Ambulance, and police attended the scene.

A man in his 20s received minor injuries after the car he was driving hit a tree.

Local, 27, on child sex charges

A 27-year-old Riverland man will face court charged with child sexual offences.

Thursday 19 December, following an investigation, Detectives from Public Protection Branch ANCOR unit, together with Berri CIB, arrested the man last week for procuring a child to commit an indecent act and two counts of failing to report reportable child contact.

The man was refused bail and appeared in the Berri Magistrates Court on Friday.

“This arrest is another great example of the tireless work being undertaken by police to ensure the protection of children within our communities,” SAPOL Public Protection Branch Detective Sergeant Nik Stollznaw said.

“Members of the public who have information about people involved in child abuse and exploitation are urged to contact Crime Stoppers at www.crimestopperssa.com.au, phone 1800 333 000, or make a report at www.acce.gov.au/report.

“If you know abuse is happening right now or a child is at risk, call police immediately on 131 444 or triple zero (000) in an emergency.”

‘Vital’ equipment stolen from Waikerie’s pool

POLICE are investigating the theft of a defibrillator from a public swimming pool in Waikerie earlier this month.

Sometime between 10am on Friday 13 December, and 4pm on Monday 16 December, the defibrillator, installed in public places to save lives, was stolen from the town swimming pool on Sichler Street.

A police statement on the matter said “this piece of equipment is vital in keeping people safe and could potentially save a person’s life”.

Anyone with information that may assist in locating the stolen defibrillator is asked to contact Crime Stoppers – anonymously – online (www.crimestopperssa.com.au) or by phone on 1800 333 000.

Renmark Paringa Council calls to ignore Jane Eliza ‘fear mongering’... Have no (flood) fear

LOCALS should ignore “fear mongering” views about the Jane Eliza Development, the Renmark Paringa Council says.

Responding to a series of letters and opinion pieces in The Murray Pioneer on the major expansion, in particular its floodplain location, the council has urged locals to look past the views of outspoken community members.

“Renmark Paringa Council has concerns over recent media coverage on the development, namely ‘opinion’ pieces from community members,” the council said in a media statement.

“The speculation expressed in the letters are personal views which could be construed as fear mongering.

“Renmark Paringa Council will continue to make its decisions based on research, facts and expert advice.”

The development is expected to include hundreds of new homes, townhouses and apartments, an expanded marina, plus provision for approximately 100 houseboats and 30 small recreational craft moorings.

However, in the wake of the 2022-23 Murray River flood, a number of locals have expressed concerns – via The Pioneer’s pages – about the project’s location.

The council has promised to update the community with flood modelling and hydrology advice “early next year”.

“Council has been working consistently over the past 18 months to ensure the project makes sense for the Renmark Paringa community,” it said.

“This includes considering both the risks and opportunities associated with the project.

“Council has identified considerable positives of the development such as the economic benefits of having a marina and boat maintenance facilities, plus the opportunities created for the construction industry, and the increased commercial and residential properties.

“Council is working with a number of experts to ensure the development is safe and viable.

“The in-depth research and analysis will be shared with community members as soon as possible.”

Meanwhile the council has also addressed concerns about the effects of the revamped Twentyfirst Street Bridge on water flow at Bookmark Creek.

“Council has heard the concerns and has provided engineering evidence that shows the new Twentyfirst Street Bridge will provide improved flows in flood events,” council says.

The council information states that larger and additional culverts near the bridge – installed as part of the upgrade – will support extra flows.

It says pre-existing drainage pipes were “not sized to accommodate fast-moving waters”.

The previously problematic bridge was widened by almost 2 metres as part of the upgrade.

$2.3m upgrade guernsey for Our Lady of the River School

THE Federal Government has provided Our Lady of the River School with $2,300,000 in funding to deliver and upgrade new learning spaces for its students.

As part of a Capital Grants Program, Our Lady of the River staff and students will benefit from the construction of four new general learning areas with breakout spaces and intervention rooms, which will replace the current transportable classrooms.

Our works will include the relocation and expansion of the front office, and the conversion of an existing administrative space into the multi-purpose area.

“The grant will help us realise our goal of creating up-to-date learning facilities, which will benefit all of our students and our whole community,” Our Lady of the River School principal Michael Slagter said.

“Our transportable classrooms have reached the end of their usable life and need replacement.

“Our building program will allow us to create four brand-new contemporary classrooms with break-out spaces, intervention support rooms and up-to-date resources to enable our school community and our students to have the best facilities to support their learning.

“We have done lots of work updating our pedagogy and practices, and these new facilities will enable us to realise this to its full potential.

“We are also updating our admin building to make it more accessible and workable for our staff and families, as well as building meeting rooms and a new wellbeing space, to allow outside services a place to use when they support our students.

“Without the grant we would not be able to provide these facilities for our community.”

Senator for South Australia Don Farrell said “(he knows) that students thrive when they have access to high quality, up-to-date facilities”.

“That is why the (Federal) Government is committed to providing all schools with appropriate funding, so that students in communities like Berri can have access to the best education possible,” Mr Farrell said.

“The teachers, staff, and students at Our Lady of the River School have built a wonderful school community, and these new facilities will provide them with better, more modern spaces in which to work, teach and learn.

“I congratulate Our Lady of the River School on their successful grant application and look forward to seeing the positive impact these new facilities will have on the school community.”

$9m grant for 22 additional aged care beds at Loxton facility... Bed-ly needed funding

A CHRONIC region-wide shortage of residential aged care beds will be eased via a $9.2 million expansion to a Loxton facility.

An additional 22 beds, with separate sleeping and living zones, will be added to the Riverview Lutheran Rest Home, after it secured a Federal Government grant.

CEO Nicolle Jachmann said the expansion was badly needed.

“There is a shortage of residential aged care beds in our area, and we are generally full...” Mrs Jachmann said.

“So, sadly we are currently unable to accommodate many of those in need of assistance.

“This grant will now enable us to proceed with our plans to expand in order to provide a supported home for more of the elderly in our community.”

In addition to divided living and sleeping zones, the new rooms will boast private ensuites, creating a more home-like feeling for residents.

“Solid and screen doors on each room will provide a personal homely space, where residents can entertain guests, in their private living space, instead of their bedroom,” Mrs Jachmann explained.

“The expansion also incorporates a common resident lounge dining area with uninterrupted cliff-top views of the Murray River and Katarapko National Park.

“Residents, staff and our board are all excited and grateful to be able to proceed with the project.”

The local infrastructure project is one of 52 funded through Round 2 of the nationwide Aged Care Capital Assistance Program (ACCAP), which will see $250 million spent on delivering more than 400 additional beds and providing for higher needs like dementia care.

Loxton Waikerie Mayor, Trevor Norton, said the local project was a game-changer.

“The $9.2 million investment in Riverview Lutheran Rest Home is transformative for Loxton, addressing aged care bed shortages and providing modern, home-like facilities,” Mr Norton said.

“This project enhances care, creates jobs, and strengthens our community.

“We’re grateful to the government for prioritising aged care in our area and supporting our elderly residents.”

Federal Aged Care Minister Anika Well said Round 2 of ACCAP would “help providers like Riverview Lutheran Care Home to deliver appropriate care and create more home-like environments, with comfortable and modern amenities, more liveable spaces and fewer shared rooms”.

SA Labor Senator Don Farrell said the funding would help the Loxton facility to “continue doing what they do best”.

“Providing quality care for those who need it,” he said.

“This significant $9.2 million investment is great news for the Loxton and Riverland communities and demonstrates the Albanese Government’s commitment to improving aged care in rural and remote areas right across Australia.”

News of the aged care development follows the recent announcement of a partnership between Loxton Waikerie council and a community housing provider to deliver 15 new dwellings for essential service workers in Loxton.

20 years of festive magic with Ed and Marg

MADISON EASTMOND

AFTER two decades of providing the Riverland with cheer and festivity, Ed and Marg Simpfordorfer will be breaking with tradition and saying goodbye to their beloved Christmas Tree Farm.

Tucked away off the Sturt Highway at Wonuarra, Mr and Mrs Simpfordorfer’s Paringa Christmas Tree Farm has been growing and selling Christmas trees to the region, and beyond, for 20 years.

However, by finally acting on a long-term plan to retire, this year’s silly season will be the couple’s last.

“Our plans have always been that I retire and leave the property when I reach the age of 80,” Mr Simpfordorfer said.

“Although I am a very-young 80, that time has come.

“Some independent living units became available this year and we just jumped at the chance of living in Renmark.

“Christmas will be very different next year and we’re really going to miss the tradition of the farm.”

Buying the property 44 years ago, the block was originally growing stone fruit and vines before Mr Simpfordorfer also decided to plant pistachio trees.

“Four decades ago we decided to take on this property,” Mr Simpfordorfer said.

“It was a bit run down, and the house was unliveable, but we battled on regardless.

“Since then, it has grown into this lovely place... our family love coming back here.”

As a self-confessed green thumb, Mr

Simpfordorfer said the Christmas tree farm started out as a hobby 20 years ago, with the trees initially grown for family and friends developing into a Riverland adored business.

“Gardening is sort of in my DNA,” he said.

“I loved growing the seedlings, so my little hobby just grew over the years until we started selling the trees.

The Paringa Christmas Tree Farm originally grew native pines, but eventually switched to the Aleppo Pine to get the “lovely pine scent” and a “brighter green” for customers.

Taking between four-to-10 years to be ready for sale, Mr Simpfordorfer said growing Christmas trees has involved challenges.

“We have been through droughts and had to deal with pests like grasshoppers, mice, and rabbits,” he said.

“It hasn’t always been easy, but I love the work of caring for trees and being out there doing things like watering and trimming.”

Overcoming each hurdle however, Mr and Mrs Simpfordorfer said they sell close to 50 trees per year, with this final festive season hitting record numbers and sales.

With loyal customers that stretch across the Riverland region and into Victoria, Mr and Mrs Simpfordorfer said the best part of the farm is “the excitement of families coming each year”.

“Seeing all the children come down and picking out the trees with their families — that’s the spirit of Christmas,” Mrs

After two decades of providing the Riverland the holiday’s most important centrepiece, Ed and Marg Simpfordorfer will be passing on the tradition of their Christmas tree farm. PHOTO: Madison Eastmond Simpfordorfer said.

“It brings back childhood memories for a lot of people, and it makes Christmas special to have a real tree.

“We love watching the same families come back year after year, seeing the children get that year older, and creating the tradition of ‘getting the tree’ — it’s a beautiful tradition to have and continue.”

Looking forward, the couple said they were excited for retirement, with Mr Simpfordorfer planning many mountain bike rides for the New Year.

Although no longer providing centrepieces of celebration for the region, the couple still plan to keep their Santa hats on and Christmas spirit alive when they come to town.

“We are really happy to be staying in the Riverland community,” Mrs Simpfordorfer said.

“We have such a strong family and friend connection (in the region).

“We are going to miss catching up with the regular customers, and appreciate all the support and friendship we have received all these years — we hope the new owners carry on this beautiful tradition.

“Next year, we will probably go to Adelaide to see our daughters for the holidays.

“However, we will always have a real Christmas tree.”

Melody and Rachel achieve excellence

MADISON EASTMOND

AMONG the state-wide class of 2024, 33 year 12 students have been awarded Governor of South Australia Commendations, with two Riverlanders recognised in the category of SACE Excellence.

Receiving the prestigious recognition last week, Berri Regional Secondary student Melody Baldock and Renmark High School student Rachel Files join an alumnus of year 12s who have excelled in their SACE subjects and capabilities, while also making significant contributions to their schools and communities.

Attending the announcement ceremony held in Adelaide, Berri high achiever, Ms Baldock, has played a key role in bringing together her school community through a range of initiatives and activities in her final school year.

Taking initiative and leadership through her local Student Leadership Council (SLC) and as well as the South Australian Representative Council, Ms Baldock used her spare time in year 12 to fundraise for the Riverland community and be an advocate for lowering the voting age.

Getting to shake hands with Wright MP Blair Boyer, who previously has awarded her the Minister for Education award, Ms Baldock said receiving the Commendation was a “real shock”.

“The fundraising began with our SLC team wanting to raise money for Relay for Life, but once the school finished doing that, some other students, teachers, and myself separated from the school and decided to keep going,” Ms Baldock said.

“That has been incredible — I have really loved raising the money for the community to make a difference.

“I also did a lot of work with the South Australian Representative Council advocating for civics in schools and lowering the voting age.

Looking forward to completing a degree in Creative Arts in Screen and Media at Flinders University, Ms Baldock said she was eager to see where her hard work takes her.

“I feel very proud.”

As head prefect of Renmark High School and recent recipient of the Footprints in the Sands of Time award at her graduation last week, Ms Files has had a year of leadership, achievement, and impact.

Acting as CEO of her company during Australian Business Week, speaking at Anzac Day on the role of the Women’s Land Army in the Riverland, and winning a Teen Parliament $10,000 scholarship for a parliamentary speech earlier this year, 2024 has seen Ms Files excel and prepare herself for a planned Bachelor of Arts in Politics and International Relations, with a minor in History and Sociology.

“I have been involved in the political world a lot this year and it has given me so many opportunities,” she said.

“I won the scholarship by advocating for politics and civics in schools and Premier Peter Malinauskas loved my idea — I am in close communications with him on the regular and we share ideas.

“It eventually led to teaching civics being legislated in schools, so that was just an amazing moment for me.”

“Since many (Renmark High School) students know I am into politics, they come and ask me questions and I can give them the information.

Ricca Terra hosts industry mental health discussion

RICCA Terra hosted a wine industry wellbeing session in Renmark last week, with the workshop providing Riverland attendees the tools to improve and maintain their mental health.

Receiving funding from Treasury Wines, PIRSA, and Riverland Wine, the Renmark Ricca Terra wine room provided the venue for Workplace Wellbeing SA founder Rebecca Weatherill to pass on more than 200 evidence-based tools to prevent burn out and other mental health issues.

“I have been working in the wine industry for more than 20 years,” Ms Weatherill said.

“In 2019 I experienced what we now know as burn out, however, there was no language for what I was experiencing back then. Eventually, I was forced to step away from full-time employment with very little savings and as a single parent.

“Through simple, but purposeful change to my daily life, I experienced a positive change in my mental health, so I decided to explore the science behind this and try to help others.”

While receiving a Diploma in Positive

Psychology and Wellbeing and a Mental Health First Aid certification, Ms Weatherill’s business, Workplace Wellbeing SA, developed.

Now sharing her journey with mental health, Ms Weatherill provides sessions that allow attendees to survey their own wellbeing, and then offer tools from the PERMAH (Positive emotions, Engagement, Relationships, Meaning, Accomplishment, Health) framework.

“The PERMAH model looks at the six elements that are essential to wellbeing,” “Each are vital to our mental health, and we need to look across all six.

“Talks can be really inspiring, but I really love to share the science and practice skills that helped for me to make real change.

“I just hope (the Riverland) community can take away the many tools I have given them and experiment to see what works best for them.

THE YEARS GO BY

BY PETER AND CARLA MAGAREY

Upgrades long overdue

RENMARK is a town boasting many sporting landmarks.

Pristine football and soccer fields, lawn tennis courts, cricket pitches, lawn bowls greens and the Alan Coulter Recreation Centre.

Whether it’s summer or winter sports that are being played, it’s easy to see why Renmark’s various sporting facilities are so well patronised by both senior and junior players.

The Renmark Netball Club is certainly no different when it comes to boasting a sizeable – and dedicated – player base. With more than 240 players across its divisions, the club is truly at the heart of the surrounding community.

However, the difference between Renmark Netball Club and its neighbours – such as the Renmark Rovers and Renmark Olympic grounds – has for so long been the quality of playing surfaces and facilities.

It takes just a quick look at the club’s courts to see that work needs to be done, and courts that see such a high amount of use need to be at the appropriate quality.

The recent approval of the club’s Play Our Way grant application – detailed in today’s edition of The Murray Pioneer – is a testament to the efforts of those involved in running the club, who have long had their eyes on upgrades for the courts.

While marking the culmination of the hard work needed to secure the grant, the announcement also potentially marks the first step in a long-term process for the club, with aspirations also existing for future upgrades of changerooms .

As pointed out by the Riverland’s Federal MP, sporting facilities in regional communities can quickly become outdated for the needs of modern communities.

Some would be forgiven for arguing the Renmark Netball Club may have reached this point. Considering the number of players mentioned above, and the weather conditions of the Riverland’s winters, the absence of a proper changeroom is quite noticeable.

As with any sporting club in the Riverland, these upgrades are necessary to keep groups sustainable and attracting new players – especially juniors – to their respective codes.

Considering how important our local sporting clubs are to their surrounding towns, ensuring playing surfaces, whether they be grass or concrete, are safe for players and are being appropriately maintained, should be a priority at all levels of government.

It may still be a long journey ahead for those involved at the Renmark Netball Club to see their full vision for the club’s future to materialise, however the first step has now been made, and the planned upgrades will benefit both young and senior netballers for years to come.

Banner for LoxStory. LoxStory (Loxton’s History) is a Loxton and District Archive seeking to conserve our district’s historic papers, documents, diaries, books, photos, films, and oral histories. The archive aims to provide ready access to aspects of Loxton’s history via hard copies and the web. Its mission is to preserve historical assets, learn and interpret Loxton’s history and, in making sense of our past, inform the district’s future.

LoxStory aims to extract the stories, and to make these known to individuals, families, local groups, schools and others. LoxStory volunteers are securing and sorting photos, searching history, seeking family history links, and occasionally separating myth from fact to solve mysteries while preparing stories from our history. LoxStory had its beginnings in 2007 in preparing for the town’s Centenary of Proclamation. Further attempts to establish a district archive in 2011 and 2012 were again without progress though it was clear an archive was needed. A fresh call for a local archive was made in 2020 and a volunteer Committee re-established. Our nation is currently hungering for ‘story telling’ to learn about and understand our culture as first-nation or later Australians. Renmark-Wentworth Road dangerous

I SUPPOSE suppose one could say it is wonderful to see that the new interconnector power line, adjacent to the Renmark-Wentworth Road, north of Renmark, is now finished in South Australia.

When can we expect the “powers that be” to come back and repair the damage to the Renmark-Wentworth road?

This power line that has been constructed is for the benefit of Australians, but at what cost to the locals who have to live with the damage to their infrastructure (i.e. road)?

This road services not only the local community but also a huge Ramsar site in the Chowilla floodplain. Restricted access to this area is costing the state and the local community dearly.

It is all well and good to develop the infrastructure to deliver our renewable energy, but is it really necessary to destroy the existing road network to achieve that end?

One must also remember that the Renmark-Wentworth road is the main link for servicing Lake Victoria, which is the back-up source of water for South Australia.

How many vehicles will government destroy if this road is not repaired?

It is going to take a lot more than just running a grader over it. I wonder if the cost of road repair was built into the contract for the construction of the interconnector.

There is a longstanding rule in this country: “If you come to the bush and use our facilities you leave the place in the same condition as you found it, as if you had never been there.”

The road is bad enough at the best of times, being graded once, maybe twice a year. But with all the extra heavy traffic delivering material to the power line, the trucks have broken through the thin marl layer on the surface and left a road that is now so full of potholes it is destroying all the vehicles that use it.

It should also be remembered that it is one of only two roads to NSW, the other being the Broken Hill Road.

The Renmark-Wentworth Road is both dangerous and basically unusable.

They’re coming after our farmers

DID you read the article on page 33 of The Murray Pioneer on 20 November (‘Climate reporting is here: How agribusiness can thrive’)?

For background, under the Australian Labor Government’s new laws for mandatory climate-related reporting, large companies such as supermarkets will be required to report on the CO2 emissions of their suppliers.

Therefore farmers will be required to supply this information to the supermarkets – or lose “preferred supplier status” (i.e. supermarkets won’t buy from them).

Here’s some quotes from the article, followed in brackets by what I think it really means:

“For farms of any size that supply to supermarket chains... a low-or-neutral carbon footprint becomes a competitive advantage...”

“A carbon-neutral supplier becomes the supplier of choice given the recipient business is now required to capture and report a carbon footprint via the supply chain.

“Agile farmers who respond swiftly to the demand will be ready to increase the chances of protecting their current customer contracts...”

(The Labor Government’s message to farmers is: Spend a lot of time and money conforming to our emissions laws or we’ll ensure that supermarkets stop buying the food you produce).

“Many more higher-intensity farms... will have a footprint that needs to be reduced... and can look to work towards increasing sequestration practices across their operations via soil, trees and herd management methods.”

(For a fee, we will advise farmers by calculating their net carbon emissions and then advising them on what farming practices they need to change to conform, or how many carbon credits they will need to buy. A side note here: Ever noticed how they always refer to CO2 emissions as ‘your carbon footprint? We easily identify carbon as black, soot and pollution. It’s a bait-and-switch technique so that we don’t think of CO2 for what it really is: essential food for everything in the plant kingdom – everything farmers grow for us to eat.)

“Supply chain emissions relating to the supply chain is funnelled into data form...”

(Farmers will have to pay to offset the supposed CO2 produced by trucking produce to market. The greater the distance to market the more they pay).

“...in response to consumer demand, a major supermarket chain implements buying requirements, whereby they will only purchase from suppliers that are carbon neutral.”

(Pure gaslighting. We consumers are being told that this law foisted onto our farmers is because we demanded it. The result is that we the consumers will pay even more for all our food – except of course for food imported from places like China, where governments haven’t imposed these costs on their farmers).

“The farm wishes to expand production and seeks a loan from the bank and additional insurance.

“The bank and insurer see the farm’s carbon neutrality as an indicator of business longevity and sustainability, and respond favourably.”

(Message to farmers: play this government’s game or we’ll ensure that you can’t get a bank loan or insurance).

“With a thriving farming enterprise backed by advisory support and live data, the farm’s succession outlook becomes brighter. The advisor assists the farm in succession and legacy planning for future generations.”

(Spend the big dollars on 1. A company that advises on your mandated climate-related reporting; and 2. Complying with their advice, or you won’t have a farm to pass on to your children.)

In a previous letter to the editor I referred to CO2 studies done by scientific methods: observable, testable, repeatable and falsifiable experiments (not the “climate modelling” we are constantly shown which always prove to be wrong).

They showed that under current atmospheric CO2 levels (approximately 425ppm) plants now grow 20-30 per cent more than they did prior to the industrial revolution (approximately 250ppm), while needing less water.

And yet our government insists on chasing a CO2-neutral fantasy while passing the enormous cost of it onto the everyday consumer.

We’re told to “follow the science”, but not apparently if the science conflicts with your political ideology, which is promoted by scaring the crap out of young people with stories of environmental armageddon so that they will vote for your expensive, farmer-destroying “solutions”.

So, is this really about “saving the planet”?

Or is it governments exerting dictatorial control to force families off their farms and push other small businesses to the wall while benefiting large multinational companies that use creative accounting to show carbon neutrality?

Goebbels, the master of propaganda, could have been referring to the climate change narrative when he said: “A lie told once remains a lie but a lie told a thousand times becomes the truth.”

Cauterising failure?

IT is absurd that a sugary soft drink in remote community stores is often the same price as in the city, yet the price of essentials such as band-aids, antiseptic and sanitary items is diabolically higher.

Repeated in community stores in remote communities is the rip-off and price gouging of the smallest, non-perishable and arguably the most important items for residents to help keep them healthy.

You can find an $8 difference for band-aids, a $10 difference for antiseptic cream and a $12 difference for sanitary items.

Cleaning products and so much more are too expensive when compared to the same product in shops in the nearest towns.

This exploitation is right under the eyes of countless public servants, peak bodies and politicians who visit these communities without seeking answers other than to apply the many band-aid policies they’ve come to deliver.

Cardiovascular, kidney disease and diabetes, comorbidity and early death abounds for Australia’s Indigenous peoples and contributors are both the complex and simple, but not mutually exclusive.

I say that as we all know that if a simple cut becomes infected because it is untreated, it becomes a festering sore requiring a clinic and eventually emergency hospital visit.

If children are involved, it triggers the involvement of child protection and quickly the gap gets wider.

No talk of consultation or colonisation will fix this, but common sense will go a long way.

The boards of many remote community stores often do not have a single director with relevant literacy, numeracy, governance or retail experience, so the CEO controls everything – appalling.

In October, regulator ORIC stepped in to investigate three community stores in South Australia at Amata, Indulkana and Pukatja, with the court fines and penalties imposing a combined $32,000.

Add to that the legal expenses – all an unnecessary and avoidable cost that no doubt is passed on to already struggling and unsuspecting customers.

The outcomes are sadly and unnecessarily an ever-widening gap.

Be wary of Christmas scams

THIS giving season, Australians are being warned to watch out for fake charity appeals.

The Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission (ACNC) is warning that scammers often try to take advantage of our generosity at this time of year, as we celebrate the festive season.

Many legitimate charities are running genuine fundraising appeals, and depend on us to donate what we can. However, it would be wise to quickly check the Charity Register before donating.

Financial losses are significant. Scamwatch calculates there has been more than a million dollars lost to reported fake charity scams over the past five years, and that is only what is officially reported.

We recommend that if you get a text, email or phone call asking for a donation, just pause for a moment. Don’t click on the link, don’t give your banking details and don’t say your name.

Instead, go to the ACNC Charity Register on your phone or computer. Check it is a real, registered charity.

If it is, you’ll see a website and other contact details. If it’s on the register, you can be confident that it submits required core information about its work to us as the regulator, so it is transparent and accountable.

Click through to the charity’s website from the register, and find out how to donate there. That is certainly safer than clicking on links in unsolicited texts or emails, or providing your details to a caller you don’t know, and who may not be who they say they are.

We all feel for people who may be struggling with cost of living and other pressures right now. Australian charities are working hard to support people in our community who face hardship.

The register can help here too. It allows you to look up the kind of charity you would like to support, such as those that run food programs, or ones that operate in your local area – or anywhere in Australia.

Ms Woodward said the ACNC supports GivingTuesday, a global campaign dedicated to generosity.

We know Australians want to donate to real charities and to genuine charity appeals, if we can. The sector really depends on our generosity to provide people with shelter, food parcels, a festive meal and so much more. We encourage everyone to be generous, but please do a quick check on the Charity Register before you donate.

The ACNC recommends that before you donate, you:

- Look up a charity’s contact details on the Charity Register (www.acnc.gov.au/charity/charities).

- Click through to the charity’s website from the register, and find out how to donate there.
- Don’t click on links in text messages, social media posts or emails.
- Don’t tell callers your banking details, your name or any other personal details.

Which is the energy wildcard?

SOME contend that renewable energy is unreliable, when actually eastern Australia’s ageing fleet of coal-powered generators is far more of a wildcard.

Under the latest energy market operator projections, 90 per cent of Australia’s coal-fired generation will be shut within the next 10 years and all will be shut before 2040.

Renewables and storage is a large part of the answer and can be developed to supply 24/7, that’s according to the energy market operator (AEMO), which has done the investigations, modelling and planning.

As nuclear could not be ready when replacement of coal-fired plants is needed, it is imperative to urgently forge ahead with more feasible, affordable clean energy now as a vital part of the solutions to the energy issues that we face now and into the longer-term future.

CHRISTMAS CRASHERS: A WAVE of break-ins reportedly sweeping Loxton, including brazen thefts while residents are inside their own homes, has prompted an urgent pre-Christmas warning to all Riverland householders. Several Loxton residents have contacted The Murray Pioneer in recent days about the incidents – which have been largely overlooked by SAPOL’s Adelaide-based media unit – to urge people to take precautions and ensure their homes are protected.

COUNCIL BACKS MOVE: A site on 18th Street has been chosen by Renmark Paringa Council as the preferred location to move the chambers to. It was decided at the council meeting on Tuesday night that the 18th Street site, next to the SES building, was the best available option for new office accommodation. Other options that were looked at included moving into the Renmark Institute or upgrading council’s current location.

Donna named Waikerie’s top citizen

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

PASSIONATE volunteer Donna Matthews, who is strongly committed to making her town a beautiful destination to live and visit, has been named Waikerie’s Citizen of the Year for 2025.

Ms Matthews has dedicated countless hours to a variety of community projects that have enhanced the town’s cultural, tourism, and public spaces.

She said it was an honour to receive the Waikerie Citizen of the Year award after about a decade of volunteering for the community.

“Through her leadership, creativity, and tireless work ethic, Donna has successfully delivered a range of initiatives aimed at enriching the community and promoting Waikerie’s unique offerings,” Loxton Waikerie council said in its announcement statement.

“Her involvement spans across several major projects, from fundraising to project management, all completed on a voluntary basis.”

Ms Matthews is the brainchild behind Waikerie’s popular water and nature play park that was officially opened in December 2018.

She was able to fulfil her dream of creating the park on the Waikerie riverfront after she raised $100,000 from community support, and was successful in obtaining a $150,000 grant from the SA Government’s former Fund My Neighbourhood (FMN) Grants program.

Ms Matthews also raised $10,000 with the support from local businesses and groups, and secured a $10,000 grant from council to deliver the installation of vibrant street art in Waikerie.

She is proud that artwork has become a big feature of the town.

“It is fabulous to see more artworks and design elements popping up,” Ms Matthews told The Murray Pioneer.

“This is because I think for tourists, it is important to give them something to do as they walk around a small town,” she said.

Other highlights of her contributions and achievements include co-ordinating the design, photography, and installation of street banners across Waikerie’s main streets and contributing to the development of pump tracks in both Loxton and Waikerie.

Ms Matthews has also researched and proposed scenic frames for Waikerie and Loxton, which were adopted by council.

She has also led the implementation of holiday decorations in Waikerie through the Waikerie Christmas Decorations Committee, including reindeer cut outs, wreaths, and street trees and created and organised Waikerie’s Christmas Tree Trail.

“I have really enjoyed working with local women in Waikerie and making the town a Christmas destination for our visitors and also a lovely place for our kids to enjoy,” Ms Matthews said.

Ms Matthews also manages multiple social media pages, promoting Waikerie tourism, local events, and community spirit.

She also communicates with local media outlets, regarding tourism, Christmas, and events in Waikerie.

Loxton Waikerie Mayor Trevor Norton said Ms Matthews has contributed a lot to Waikerie through her projects.

He said the water and nature play park was a drawcard for people to visit the town’s river front.

Mr Norton said the street art projects she co-ordinated featuring murals by Melbourne artist Jimmy D’Vate, and Renmark artist Jacqui Mason, were fantastic.

“I think it gives the town a bit of a spark,” he said.

“Her ongoing commitment has changed the way people look at Waikerie and has modernised things a little, but it also respects the old buildings that we have here.”

Mr Norton also praised Ms Matthews’ co-ordination of Christmas decorations in Waikerie, and the Christmas tree trail, which will return next year, and has become bian-nual.

“Donna has had some great ideas that council have embraced, including a picture frame for Waikerie and it was such a good idea, we put them in both Loxton and Waikerie,” he said.

“Donna has moved people with her and brought the community along.”

Interviews with the Loxton Citizen of the Year Ian Cass, and Junior Citizen of the Year - Bryce Westbrook, will feature in the first Murray Pioneer for 2025.

FRUIT FLY OUTBREAK LINDSAY POINT B

Petition about Waikerie institute concerns

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

CONCERNED residents and ratepayers of Loxton Waikerie council have started circulating a petition to inform the Office of Public Integrity (OPI) about what they describe as the “sad state of the Waikerie Soldiers Memorial Hall and Institute”.

The details of the petition were put up on social media on 18 December. It is also available at a number of local businesses for interested community members to sign.

The petition states the institute was built in 1921, with the aim to draw attention of the OPI to “the neglect of the Loxton Waikerie district council, since amalgamation as far back as 1997, to meet its obligation to maintain and improve assets of this kind”.

“Your petitioners therefore request the OPI to investigate why years of neglect and empty promises of action have led to the Waikerie community facility being overlooked and (in) a bad state of repair,” the petition said.

The petition said this was occurring “while grant monies are sought and spent in Loxton on a similar building/s”, and states “grant monies” being spent are in “the tune of $7m in one instance, and over $15m in another.

“No such applications for grant money has been applied for the Waikerie Solidiers Memorial Hall and Institute, which was and always will be a vital central hub for the town for many large-scale entertainment activities,” the petition said.

Loxton Waikerie council currently has $200,000 allocated to Waikerie Institute upgrades (Stage 1) in the current financial year’s budget.

The project is working on “enhancing functionality of the Waikerie Institute by improving effluent disposal, water supply, kitchen facilities, and upgrades to the staging area”, council said in its monthly project update for December.

Loxton Waikerie council has also allocated a further $200,000 in its Long-Term Financial Plan for the 2026/27 financial year towards upgrading the institute.

Funding secured for netball court upgrades

A MAJOR Renmark sporting club will be able to upgrade its playing surfaces after securing a federal government grant.

The Renmark Netball Club has been successful in securing a Federal Government Play Our Way grant.

President Rachael Stoeckel said the funding would allow for needed upgrades to the club's courts and lighting.

"We're very excited and we've got lots of support," Ms Stoeckel said.

"We're the biggest club in the Riverland, (but) our facilities are not reflecting that.

"We want to keep improving. We can upgrade this to make it modern and better for the community."

Ms Stoeckel said the club also had future plans to upgrade its changeroom facilities.

"We found a company called Club Builder, and they are a grant writing company, and we've been working with them on the steps of how to secure the funding," she said.

"We knew we wanted the courts to be done... and we made a commitment. There was a lot on our part, we had to gather a lot of information (and) we did a survey.

"They then helped us draw up a masterplan. Originally it was just going to be the courts and upgrading the building slightly, but now we've got aspirations for a bigger building.

"We have no changerooms... back in the grassroots days that was sufficient, but in this day and age it's not."

Barker MP Tony Pasin said improving the club's facilities would encourage further participation in the sport.

"I'm passionate about working with the community to help deliver local infrastructure, particularly sporting facilities because of the vitally important role grassroots sport plays in regional communities," Mr Pasin said.

"I threw my full support behind local Play Our Way applications in Barker because it is imperative that facilities are functional and fit for purpose, particularly for projects that reduce barriers to participation in sport for women and girls.

"For too long, too many female club members have had to contend with sub-standard infrastructure and facilities, particularly in the regions. We desperately need to address this inequality because strong and inclusive grassroots sporting clubs help strengthen regional communities.

"I'm looking forward to funding being received to get work on the project underway as quickly as possible."

Free RV site concern

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

A RIVERLAND West holiday park operator is concerned about the impact Loxton Waikerie council's decision to make a temporary recreational vehicle (RV) site permanent will have on its business.

Owner of the Waikerie Holiday Park, the Edwards Group, said they fully supported the opening of the temporary RV camping site during the 2022/2023 River Murray flood, when the holiday park and numerous existing local free camping locations were temporarily closed.

But Edwards Group CEO Stephen Edwards said they had understood this site would be temporary, and would close once the holiday park and other free camping sites were reopened.

At its November meeting, Loxton Waikerie councillors unanimously carried a motion for the area adjacent to Waikerie's Silo Art to "continue to operate as a RV park for self-contained vehicles and that the signage be changed to reflect the permanent nature".

Mr Edwards told The Murray Pioneer he had not been consulted prior to council making its decision in November.

He said due to the continued operation of the free RV site after the flood, the Waikerie Holiday Park had suffered a significant decrease in caravan and camping travellers.

"This is due to the directly competitive nature of this free RV park," he said.

"With the existing numerous free and low-cost camping options available within the local region, it is important to note that no extra demand is created through this additional free RV park, merely a redistribution of existing guests."

Mr Edwards said the local area already had seven free camps.

"Why add an eighth one?" he said.

"This free RV parking will add additional costs to council in terms of upkeep while adding no additional tourism spend to the local economy.

"The Edwards Group would welcome the opportunity to work with council on more cost effective and economically beneficial ways to promote tourism in Waikerie and the surrounding region," he said.

Loxton Waikerie CEO David Beaton said while the objection was understandable, there were clear differences.

"The RV Park has no water, no toilets, no showers, and no power, so in essence it only competes with the other free camping areas that the Edwards Group acknowledge," he said.

"It has had a positive effect on businesses in Waikerie and has a place in the accommodation mix."

Mr Beaton said the holiday park was an essential business for Waikerie and the council was keen to support it during the flood.

"The Edwards Group have been invited to meet with the whole of council to understand their perspective and trading conditions," he said.

Importantly, the constitution of AGW has protection for the vigneron in Clause 15.10 (Page 15) that voting on the board must carry a majority of at least 80 per cent. This was instilled as an important safeguard to ensure that winemakers could not out-vote growers as a group. The constitution is publicly accessible and can easily be found by Google search. So, the inference that growers have no representation because of their number is unfounded. In any case, winemakers and grape growers rarely act as separate voting blocs on AGW. In fact, small winemakers tend to be grape growers who make their own branded wine instead of selling their fruit to another entity. Many have more in common with the vigneron than with large corporate winemakers. I understand that most of the decisions are of benefit to growers and winemakers and are

There are also governance problems with this suggestion.

A lot of the commentary around terrible grape prices blames wine companies and the effectiveness of the Code of Conduct, and implies that with fairer trading conditions growers' problems will be solved.

Riverland Voices heard at Parliament

MADISON EASTMOND

REPRESENTING the Indigenous communities of the Murraylands, South East, and Riverland, the First Nations Voice to SA has given an inaugural address to Parliament outlining the work and importance of the aboriginal body to achieve national change.

Riverland members of the First Nations Voice to SA gave a historical and collective address earlier this month, with Voice presiding member Leeroy Bilney outlining Indigenous issues to the State Parliament.

Through its establishment, the First Nations Voice to Parliament aims to ensure Indigenous people have a more direct say in laws and policies that impact them, whole addressing systematic issues of representation.

Riverland State Voice member to Parliament Rob Wright said the experience was a “roller-coaster of emotions” and was a “reward for all the work (the group) had been doing” since it was formed in April.

Mr Wright said the address provided a space for the body to “showcase the work (the Voice) is doing” and outline the “challenges that have come” with the framework to address aboriginal issues.

“Currently, as Leeroy said in the address, we are trying to build the plane while also trying to fly it,” he said.

Riverland State Voice members to Parliament Rob Wright and Auntie Sheryl Giles on the steps of Parliament House. PHOTO: supplied

“It’s an imbedded, bureaucratic model — it’s like trying to square off a round peg sometimes, and it’s going to take time.”

However, the Voice had made significant strides since its formation, having already contributed to government legislation, providing feedback on bills before Parliament, including legislation relating to Early Childhood Development and Preventative Health, and is set to provide formal contribution to the Royal Commission into Domestic, Family and Sexual Violence.

Along with 18 local meetings, three state meetings, and a meeting with the Premier and senior cabinet, the 46 elected members have also developed a code of conduct, terms of reference, and rulebooks, along with gathering and collating concerns and issues from local communities.

“Things such as incarceration, criminal justice, health and housing, education, we are overrepresented in a not-so-positive way,” Mr Wright said.

“We would like a more holistic model to (address Indigenous issues)... address the removal of children with a focus on the reunification of families, with support for parents... and make sure that programs that work don’t disappear like they historically have.

“However, we have been working on rebuilding trust and relationships (with Government) so that we can create meaningful change.

“...Leeroy’s address came from a place of love, and trying to get both parties on the same page and affirm their commitment (on the Voice).

“We thought it was received really well, and we’re looking forward to another year of good work being involved with the Riverland community.”

Berri students become the Riverland’s Christmas helpers

MADISON EASTMOND

FOR the month of December, Berri Regional Secondary College students have worked to raise almost $1000 for the Riverland Christmas Appeal.

Developed from a small business idea to teach practical skills using tools and machinery, a small group of year 8 students have produced and sold over 30 timber pallet Christmas trees to the Riverland community this festive season.

Raising approximately $970, the Berri students purchased 20 food hampers from the Riverland Christmas Appeal to be donated across the Berri Barmera region.

“The students have been just amazing,” Riverland Christmas Appeal co-ordinator Carolyn Trifonoff said.

“To raise so much money in that amount of time, and to choose to donate it to the Riverland Christmas Appeal — it’s just magical.”

Ms Trifonoff said the donation was one of the biggest the appeal has seen from any individual in the Riverland community.

“Something like this, outside of local organisations, is one-of-a-kind,” she said.

“It’s very different what we have seen or ever had done, it’s just a very special project and we are so grateful.”

Providing the spray paints and fixings for the pallet Christmas trees, Bunnings Berri activities organiser Laura McNarry said “supporting the community is at the core of what (Bunnings) do, whether that’s through our famous sausage sizzles, the hands-on support our team provide to local organisations, or bringing the community together in our stores”.

“We were really proud to donate the Christmas coloured spray paints and screws for the students to finish off their Christmas trees, and help out the hampers for the Riverland Christmas Appeal in Berri,” she said.

Almondco's massive milestones in 2024

HUGH SCHUITMAKER

CELEBRATING a major company anniversary, and the achievements of numerous long-time team members, were among the 2024 highlights for Almondco Australia.

Almondco celebrated its 80th anniversary of business operations, and 30 years of its purpose-built, world-class facility at its Renmark Headquarters.

Almondco managing director Brenton Woolston said expanding the business' capabilities to benefit its growers, the Australian almond industry and regional communities was an ongoing goal.

"The 2024 year has been a record year for the company, with plenty of milestones being acknowledged and celebrated," he said.

"This year we processed, packed and shipped in one single month what we did for the entire 2000 season.

"The business continues to invest across our processing sites and the almond supply chain to be as cost efficient as possible to support our grower members."

The 80th anniversary was celebrated on the 14 September, in its new raw material warehouse with a formal Long Table Dinner event for growers and business partners. Almondco employees marked the milestone with a site celebration on 22 November.

During the staff event Mr Woolston was presented by ABA CEO Tim Jackson the Contribution to the Industry Award, for outstanding leadership and service to the almond industry, which was initially awarded in Brenton's absence at the Australian Almond Conference, held in Adelaide in October. Also, presentations were made to Almondco staff members Michael Jennings and Rachel Jamieson who celebrated 30 years' service with the company, along with the Almondco core values awards.

Almondco director Andrew Lacey in October was also added to the Business Council of Co-operatives and Mutuals' Honour Roll.

Mr Woolston said Mr Lacey – who recently retired as director after joining the Almondco board in 1994 – was widely recognised as "one of the pre-eminent authorities on growing almonds in Australia".

"Following in the footsteps of his father, Eric, who was one of the founding fathers of Almondco in 1944, Andrew has dedicated his life to the industry.

"Andrew has been an almond grower for 48 years, but his expertise extends well beyond the orchard. He has championed the cultivation of new varieties, modernised farming and irrigation technologies and equipment, and also acted as a consultant on some of the largest orchard developments in the country.

"During his time on the Almondco board he has helped provide the leadership and business acumen that has seen the company evolve into one of the most respected almond marketers and processors in the world.

"His is passionate about upholding Almondco's co-operative ethos that is based around a long tradition of maximising returns to growers and protecting the collective interest of its grower members. His vast knowledge on all things almonds provides his fellow directors with an invaluable resource that provides both a historical perspective, as well as a passion for continuous improvement."

Leroy Sims, Graham Twartz, Nicola Centofanti, Melina Morrison, Tori Dixon-Whittle, Brenton Woolston and Tim Whetstone at the Almondco 80th anniversary Long Table Dinner event, held in September.

More than 200 people attended a Long Lunch Staff event, in November, also celebrating the 80th anniversary.

Personal bests achieved at nationals

THREE talented young Riverland athletes achieved some of their best performances in the recent School Sport Australia Track and Field Championship in Sydney for students aged 10 to 12 years.

Hunter Danton 12, of Morgan, Anna McCullough, 12, of Loxton and Chloe Golding, 10, of Waikerie, who are all members of the Waikerie Little Athletics Club, competed in the recent 10 to 12 year old national event, at Sydney Olympic Park.

Waikerie Little Athletics committee member Julia Golding, who is also Chloe's mum, said the three dedicated athletes were chosen to represent SA as a result of their performances at the SAPSASA Track and Field competition, held at Santos Stadium, in Adelaide in September.

She said the youngsters trained tirelessly leading up to the event, taking part in daily core strengthening, attending club meets at Waikerie, gruelling training sessions at the town oval, and training with the Riverland Athletics Development Squad running group.

Ms Golding said they also travelled to Adelaide each weekend for a month leading up to the event so that they could train with their SA team, under specialist coaches.

"This enabled them to be prepared and ready to compete at their full potential in Sydney," she said.

"It was an experience all three of the young Riverland athletes and our families will never forget.

"Competing in such an iconic place against the best in the country

"The conditions were testing with humid, wet and hot weather, but this did not hinder their spirits or efforts.

"All three competed with grit and determination and came away with some incredible personal bests and wonderful results."

Ms Golding said the young athletes made new friendships, cheered teammates on, and learned a lot about competing against the best.

"How proud we are and how amazing it is that we have country kids taking it to the top athletes in Australia who are extremely well drilled and trained," she said.

Chloe who came ninth in both the 1500m and 800m for 10-year-old girls said it was an amazing experience to race on the warm-up track Australian sprinter Cathy Freeman used before winning a gold medal in the Sydney 2000 Olympics.

"I have learned that you aren't always the best, but you must always try your very best," she said.

"I am determined to make it to the nationals again next year."

Anna who finished 13th in the high jump and was part of the 4x100 relay team that came sixth overall in their age category said the highlight for her was knowing that her family, school community, and classmates were cheering her on via a live feed as she was doing the actual event.

"It was very stormy, very humid, and very wet," she said.

Anna said she jumped clear for the first four rounds of her high jump competition, which started at 1.20m and reached 1.35m.

"I missed my next three attempts at 1.40cm and finished 1.35 metres and thirteenth in Australia," she said.

Hunter came ninth in the 12-year-old boy's discus with a throw of 32.8m, which was 45cm more than his previous personal best result.

In shot put, he came 13th with a throw of 9.55m.

Hunter said he enjoyed making the state team for the under 12s track and field nationals for the second year in a row.

"I competed against some talented competitors from other states in discus and shotput and I was extremely happy that I broke my personal best in discus," he said.

Hunter said he was extremely grateful for the support of his sponsors; Foxtale Houseboats, in Morgan, Cadell Community Tourist Association, Cadell Club, Waikerie High School, and Waikerie Little Athletics Club.

"Without their help it would have been a challenge to get to Sydney," he said.

"I would also like to thank my friends, family, and my state coach Mel Fraser."

Ms Golding said competing in the national championship has made these athletes hungrier and more determined to push themselves to greater heights in the future.

"The three families are grateful for all the community support they received leading up to and during the event," she said.

School Sport Australia Track and Field Championship Riverland results

Hunter Danton - 12 years boys Discus: ninth with 32.81 metres (45cm more than his previous personal best), 12 years boys Shotput: 13th with 9.55m.

Anna McCullough - 12 years girls High Jump: 13th with 1.35m and in the SA team that came sixth in the 12 years 4 x 100m Relay.

Chloe Golding - 10 years girls 1500m: ninth with a time of 5.17.24 (exceeding her personal best by 14 seconds) and in the 10 years girls 800m: ninth with a time of 2.34.79 (exceeding her personal best by 10 seconds).

River system prepared for summer demands

THE water resource needs for Riverland irrigation and environmental maintenance will be met through current storage levels, according to a major national report.

The Murray–Darling Basin Authority (MDBA) earlier this month released its Annual Operating Outlook (AOO).

MDBA executive director of river management Jacqui Hickey said managing the Murray River’s response to changing conditions would ensure operations during the peak demand period.

“The dry winter and spring meant bulk water transfers started early and remained within channel, allowing environmental water to be used to water the floodplains and wetlands,” Ms Hickey said.

“The recent rainfall across eastern Australia has seen a temporary rise in river levels and reductions in irrigation demand, and storage releases. Further down the system, Lake Victoria is almost full – ready to support what is expected to be a high demand summer and autumn.

“As at 11 December, Hume Dam held 60 per cent capacity, and Dartmouth Dam 89 per cent. The Menindee Lakes held 41 per cent and Lake Victoria 95 per cent.

“The MDBA continues to work closely with Basin states to coordinate water releases, monitor storages and manage to the condition. We are actively working with our partners to manage water quality risks including blue-green algae and salinity, and to ensure that communities have the information they need to be safe and enjoy the water this holiday season.”

The AOO is one of many planning tools that inform how water agencies can respond to a range of modelled scenarios in the Murray River.

For more information and to read the full report visit the MDBA website (www.mdba.gov.au/water-management/river-murray-operations/annual-operating-outlook).

Program in schools prevents violence against women and girls

AN education program designed to empower students in years 8 to 10 to foster gender equality, promote diversity, inclusion, and build healthy, respectful relationships launched in Riverland schools earlier this month.

The Raiise Respect Sporting Clubs and Schools Program, funded by the State Government, has been developed as part of the Raiise Respectful Club Environment Program that is already underway in sports clubs.

Raiise Respect is an interactive eLearning platform addressing critical topics including the role everyone plays in preventing violence against girls and women, respectful relationships and gender equality, using engaging modules that encourage active participation from students.

The program is being launched by Minister for Women and the Prevention of Domestic, Family and Sexual Violence, Katrine Hildyard, and is planned to be ramped up across South Australia in 2025.

“The Raiise Respect program is a game-changer for schools and communities, equipping young people with the tools they need to create a future where respect and equality are the norm and harmful attitudes about women and the roles that men and women should play are a thing of the past,” Ms Hildyard said.

“The State Government is working tirelessly to address domestic, family and sexual violence through prevention, early intervention, response and recovery and healing.

“We know that as we focus on advancing change to help prevent violence that harmful attitudes about women are being perpetuated, including online by the likes of Andrew Tate, and that our work must continue.

“We are determined to combat these harmful attitudes because every young person has the right to grow up in an environment where they feel and are respected and included. When we combine education with action, we create genuine change.

“Through Raiise, our students are building their confidence in speaking up against violence and inequality and learning to build the inclusive environments that benefit everyone.

“The impact of Raiise reaches well beyond our classroom walls; it shifts attitudes and helps create spaces where everyone is valued. I am really proud of our government’s investment in this program.”

Minister for Education, Training and Skills Blair Boyer said “with reports about the rise of misogynistic behaviour, the (State) Government has a clear focus on countering this in our community”.

“Schools can play a key role in promoting positive cultural change and addressing negative attitudes arising from social media,” he said.

“We want to work with parents, carers and the wider community to ensure we are providing guidance and role modelling that builds on respectful relationship for all our young people.

“We all have a shared responsibility to ensure our young people have the support, strategies and knowledge regarding consent and respectful relationships. I believe that implementing respectful relationships education at the earliest opportunity can help counter this country’s domestic violence shame.”

Schools are invited to sign up for the program via the Raiise website, where they can access resources, lesson plans, and support materials. The program is available for a 60-day trial, allowing schools to experience its benefits firsthand. For those who wish to have the program facilitated, there is also an option for expert-led delivery by trained facilitators.

Sporting clubs who have engaged with the Raiise Respectful Club Environments Program will receive digital access to the program for the young people at their club at no charge.

To learn more or sign up for the Raiise Respect Schools Program, visit (www.raise.com.au).

Autism diagnosis in focus for new advisory group

A NEW state advisory group will focus on mitigating barriers to autism assessment and diagnosis in the Riverland.

The South Australian Autism Assessment and Diagnosis Advisory Group (The Advisory Group) has been created in response to the state Autism Strategy and Charter, bringing together State Government departments and key representatives from national medical colleges.

Key representatives, include:

- Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Psychiatrists.
- Royal Australasian College of Physicians.
- Speech Pathology Australia.
- Occupational Therapy Board of Australia.
- Australian Medical Association.

● Emily Bourke

The Advisory Group will provide advice regarding factors contributing to barriers to autism assessment and diagnosis in South Australia.

The group will also identify opportunities for reform to improve autism assessment and diagnosis, including consideration of a government framework, the National Guidelines for the Assessment and Diagnosis of Autism and post-assessment and diagnosis support for South Australians.

“The first focus area of the state’s first Autism Strategy is to improve the accessibility of diagnosis and awareness of diagnosis services for Autistic people,” Assistant Minister for Autism Emily Bourke said.

“We know knowledge is key in understanding what autism is, just as it is key to gaining access to an autism assessment.

“We have heard from health professionals and members of our community that knowing how and where to access or provide an autism assessment can vary significantly.

“No longer are we going to push this question down the road, we are going to act by bringing the right people – from GPs to speech pathologists to psychologists to occupational therapists – to the one table, to finally work through these questions to address wait lists and access to autism assessments.”

The group’s inaugural meeting is scheduled to be held in January.

Funding to keep our communities informed

SUPPORTING community news in regional areas, such as the Riverland, is the goal of a new $15m funding program.

The Federal Government earlier this month opened applications for its News Media Relief Program (NMRP).

Senator for South Australia Don Farrell said the “program will deliver critical support to a sector facing considerable challenges such as changing readership habits, increasing costs, and declining advertising revenue”.

“I know how important local news is to keep our communities right across South Australia informed, engaged, and connected,” Mr Farrell said.

“Hearing local voices discussing local issues makes a world of difference to communities, and this grant will promote the important work of our terrific local media producers.

“I would encourage all eligible news publishers, from Renmark to Mount Gambier, to consider applying for this grant opportunity.”

Federal Minister for Communications Michelle Rowland said “local and community news outlets play a vital role in keeping Australians up to date about the matters and events that impact them – enabling them to stay engaged and make informed decisions”.

“Local and community news outlets play a huge role in supporting a diverse and inclusive news media sector that is so vital to the healthy functioning of Australian society and democracy,” Ms

Rowland said.

“We want to see more local journalists and publishers reporting on the issues that matter to their communities.

“This funding will provide the urgent assistance local news outlets need as we continue our work on News Media Assistance Program – an ongoing program that will enable us to deliver effective support to the Australian news sector into the future.”

Applications for the NMRP will close on 31 March, if funding is yet to be exhausted before this date.

For more information and to apply for the News Media Relief Program, visit the website (www.business.gov.au/grants-and-programs/news-media-relief-program).

Cook a safe bbq this Christmas

RIVERLANDERS have been urged to ensure barbeques are maintained and operated safely during the holiday period.

Minister for Emergency Services Dan Cregan said MFS and CFS firefighters responded to 69 barbeque fires across the state in 2023-24, marking a 28 per cent increase on the previous 12 months.

“Adopting simple measures before firing up the barbeque will help ensure a safe and enjoyable festive period,” Mr Cregan said.

“With the fire danger season upon us... proper use and maintenance will mean this summer staple doesn’t become a risk to lives and property.

An 18-year-old woman from Swan Reach, near Blanchetown, was in October flown to hospital after she sustained facial burns from a barbeque fire.

MFS chief officer Jeff Swann said many incidents were preventable through simple safety checks and precautions.

“Barbeques left outdoors can deteriorate over time, so it’s critical to inspect gas cylinders, hoses, and connections for wear, and to clean your barbeque to remove any grease that could ignite,” Mr Swann said.

“Regular cleaning, particularly of the drip trays, is a simple yet effective way to reduce fire risk. A quick inspection can prevent dangerous accidents.”

A pre-Christmas checklist to ensure a safe BBQ this bushfire season includes:

- ❑ Inspecting gas cylinders, hoses and connections for signs of damage or wear.
- ❑ Checking hose connections and control valves for gas leaks.
- ❑ Regular cleaning to avoid a build-up of fats and oils.
- ❑ Using barbeques outdoors in a well-ven-

“During this time of year, it is important you stay informed about fire danger ratings each day in your area...”

- Brett Loughlin

tilated area, at least four metres away from any combustible materials.

- ❑ Ensuring coals are fully extinguished after use.
- ❑ During the Fire Danger Season, checking for fire bans and any local council restrictions before lighting up – particularly for wood or solid fuel BBQs.

CFS chief officer Brett Loughlin said barbeques stored outside during the cooler months and exposed to the elements can deteriorate, increasing the risk of a fire hazard.

“During this time of year, it is important you stay informed about fire danger ratings each day in your area before undertaking any outdoor cooking to reduce the risk of fires starting,” Mr Loughlin said.

More barbeque safety tips, such as how to check for leaks, and information on use during bushfire season and total fire ban days, is available by visiting the websites (www.mfs.sa.gov.au/community/safety-and-education/fact-sheets-and-brochures/fact-sheet-pages/barbeques), and (www.cfs.sa.gov.au/warnings-restrictions/restrictions/what-can-i-do-what-cant-i-do/).

On-farm drought grants open for applications

NEW state government grants are aimed to support primary producers, including those in the Riverland, experiencing difficulties caused by current drought conditions.

Now open for applications, the $5m On-Farm Drought Infrastructure Rebate Scheme is focused on infrastructure projects assisting primary producers to manage dry conditions and strengthening their businesses for future droughts.

Eligible businesses can be eligible with a rebate of up to 75 per cent – to a maximum of $5000 – for projects including water infrastructure upgrades, stock containment areas, grain and fodder storage, soil moisture monitors and weather stations.

Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development Clare Scriven said “building our economic, environmental, and social resilience to droughts is crucial to maintaining our state’s robust primary industries and agribusinesses which generate more than $18bn in revenue and employ over 78,000 people”.

“Upgrading on-farm infrastructure and building on existing planning to identify opportunities for improvement will go a long way to ensuring we are in a stronger position to tackle drought and the associated challenges,” Ms Scriven said.

“Equipping communities to also continue fostering community cohesion is also an important part of supporting our farmers and regional towns.”

The rebate scheme was announced earlier in the year as part of the State Government’s $18m package to assist farming communities across the region who have been affected by the current droughts.

The package was also presented and informed during the drought roundtables held across the region and the SA Drought Advisory Group, which includes representatives from key primary industries groups, as well as state, federal and local government.

The Connecting Communities Grants were also announced as part of this package with grants of up to $5000 available to industry, community, not-for-profit, local government, and incorporated groups to host events that embrace social connections and provide support.

For more information on drought support, or to submit an application for the On-Farm Infrastructure Rebate Scheme or the Connecting Communities Events Grant, visit the website (www.pir.sa.gov.au/drought).

Program gets Riverland teens off screens

THE State Government have made a $2.38m investment through the Active State Collaboration Program to get young Riverland people active and away from their screens.

Applications for the latest round of the program open today and feature a $1.85m funding stream specifically targeting the critical 12-15 age group, where participation rates show a concerning decline during the transition from primary to secondary education.

Through the Active State

Collaboration Program, delivered through the Office for Recreation, Sport and Racing (ORSR), organisations are funded to facilitate inclusive programs with tangible benefits for the future health and wellbeing of South Australia’s youth.

Last year’s Active State Collaboration Program supported 11 projects, providing more than $1.4m, where sporting and other organisations partnered to deliver unique and special initiatives supporting the physical and mental health of South Australians.

Applications for the program close at noon on 5 March.

For more information, or to apply, visit the website (www.orsr.sa.gov.au/grants/active-statecollaboration-program).

Christmas got Scary

Christmas Eve is today.
"Holidays today," said Murray.
Running all around.

It's snowing, WOW!
Snow, snow, snow!

Today, Murray is excited for his first Christmas.
Maybe he will go outside.

"Agggghhhhhhhh! A skeleton, help!"
"Gotcha," said the scary skeleton.

On Christmas Eve, the roof shook.
"Santa Claus! Help!"
"Can someone help?!"

A sleigh comes.
"Run, run, run."
"You are OK," said Dad.
"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha,
I mean ho, ho, ho, ho, ho!"

Christmas

Merry Christmas to the Murray River.
People love you because you're the best river in the Murray.
Even Steph Curry likes you.
Even I like you.

I swim in you every year in summer because your water is so warm.
So lots of people love bringing floaties in the warm water.
And the warm summer breeze brings us to your flowing Murray River.
We jump in your warm, hot water.

It brings us joy but sometimes fear because what is underneath the water?
Maybe a beautiful log that you might play with or make something with.

We love you Murray River.
You get company every day like the boats, and us, and the Murray Pioneer people, and the government, and the society of the river land of Renmark, and the quality of the Riverland is quite big because people get happy but you have kids to make sure they're safe because the current is strong these days, so be safe around the river.

THANK YOU TO ALL RIVERLAND PRIMARY SCHOOL TEACHERS AND STUDENTS WHO PARTICIPATED IN OUR POEM WRITING COMPETITION!

All entries are on display for public viewing at the Chaffey Theatre.

We'll also be publishing further entries in the Murray Pioneer throughout December.

The winners were announced in the 2024 Riverland Gift Guide, inserted into the 27/11/24 edition on the Murray Pioneer.

THE FAIR-WEATHER GARDENER

WELL here it is, that time of the year when some of us stress about gifts, baking puddings , cakes, or buying presents without breaking the bank. We also try to get to all those Christmas parties.

GIFTS

You may have some of your presents sorted if you look to your garden and pantry.

Pots of jam, pickles and preserved lemons are always welcome.

You might even have potted-on some plants from your garden that can go into a fancy pot, or there is even time to create a potted herb garden for a special friend.

Another simple gift for those of you with tomatoes. Slowly roast halved tomatoes for up to four hours in the lowest oven temperature. Cool and pack in good quality Australian olive oil. It is a wonderful accompaniment for Christmas seafood.

I have seen some amazing wreaths made . You might like to try your hand at one. I covered one with succulents many years ago, and it's still going strong with the occasional squirt of water.

HERB GARDEN POT

Take a shallow pot and fill it with the best potting mix and pack it with a combination of tall-and-low-growing herbs.

Look to put in borage for the bees (grows easily from seed), basil, sage, parsley, thyme and for a pop of colour, nasturtium.

Make sure to provide a little note to the receiver that eventually they will outgrow the pot.

SAVING WATER

Well, we have had some unseasonal rain that has been devastating for our fruit growers. However, the rainwater tanks are full.

We still need to be aware that saving water will become increasingly necessary as summer continues.

HINTS

Cut back and dead head continually to reduce transpiration and keep the garden tidy.

Mulch is essential, and always apply to damp soil. If possible water with Seasol and a tablespoon of dishwashing liquid in a bucket of water, as this assists with the uptake of water.

Make sure there is a gap between the mulch and the plant to prevent collar rot.

Move pots to shadier areas, grouping similar plants together to simplify watering requirements. Don't overwater your indoor plants. More are killed by overwatering than anything else, so become an early riser and water in the morning, or in the cool of the evening.

However, watch out for diseases that thrive on moist conditions.

WOLLEMI PINE

Maybe this year you will go for a potted Christmas tree? If so, try our wonderful native Wollemi Pine.

This ancient tree grows well in a pot, but needs a bit of shade from our extreme heat. It is a warm temperate plant.

Mine has grown well for over 10 years on the patio.

Watch out for mealy bug, as it almost decimated mine, however when pruned we were overjoyed to see the new shoots everywhere.

CUT FLOWERS

Make your flowers last longer with a few simple steps.

As soon as you pick or purchase flowers, snip the stalks before you place them in water. Remove any leaves that will be under the surface, as they will rot and foul the water.

Leave other leaves on.

Pick in the cool of the morning, or late in the afternoon.

Change the water every second day, snipping a small piece off the stems each time, and rinse out vases with bleach after use.

If picking roses in bud, snip stems and place in tepid water and keep in a cool place before arranging. This prevents them from opening too soon.

Vases are limited only by your imagination. If it holds water, it can be a vase. Try a series of teacups, jugs, or teapots. Even bottles make great specimen vases.

ANTS

The ants are on the move. If you find them on your plants check for scale, remove the scale and spray the ants. You can spray with molasses, diluted in water, in a ratio of 10ml per litre. Using this means no harm to the environment and the mixture is quite beneficial to the plants.

FRANGIPANI

This beautiful but tough plant does well here and is a favourite of mine. It grows readily from a cutting , which can be a small or large branch.

When taking a cutting, place it in a shady spot until the cut edge forms a callous. Avoid planting it until then. They are just getting leaves and flowers here, and the best spot is against a sunny wall with a little summer shade .

It will thrive in sandy soil and even if you only have a small amount of room, it will grow in a pot. It takes very little water or fertiliser once established, but does respond to an all-purpose fertiliser in spring.

REMINDERS

Don't forget to cover up when out in the garden. A sunhat, gloves, sunscreen and long sleeves are recommended. I also wear sunglasses.

Have a wonderful Christmas, look after each other and your plants too.

Until next year, happy gardening.

A day for PS Industry volunteers, members

IN the lead-up to Christmas, volunteers and members of the Friends of the Industry (FOTI) group enjoyed a family picnic day at Lock 5, Paringa.

“The day was attended by many members and was enjoyed by all,” a group spokesperson said.

“Without these volunteers who maintain and crew the PS Industry, and the many hours they spend not only maintaining the vessel but also crewing her on steaming days, some of which coincide with long weekends and holidays, the continued maintenance and cruising of the PS Industry would not be possible.

“FOTI is not only keeping history alive but also providing a tourist draw card for the Renmark area.”

Unfortunately, due to a ‘heat policy’ the recent steaming was cancelled. This rule will apply throughout the summer, mainly due to the wood-fired boiler requiring crew to be in the pit stoking the boiler under extreme conditions.

“A very special thank you is extended from volunteers to Beryl Jungfer for her continued tender care of the volunteers on Tuesday mornings,” the spokesperson said.

“If nothing else this is definitely a reason to volunteer.

“If you are interested in either general maintenance or learning to crew a paddle steamer, please contact us, you don’t have to know much.

“Volunteers meet at the PS Industry most Tuesday mornings.

“We wish all members and volunteers a very happy and safe Christmas and see you next year.”

Bazz Elliott, Donna Rayner, Faye and John Brodie, and Dave Benda.

Dotterel ferry refurbished at Morgan

ONE of South Australia’s river ferries, nicknamed Dotterel, has completed its biggest journey, travelling more than 300km along the Murray River – nearly 10 times further than its daily run.

The mission to refurbish the ferry has now been completed at the Morgan Dockyard, with the Ferry Refurbishment Program starting up again after the Murray River floods.

For the Dotterel, which usually travels for just a few minutes and metres at a time, making about 135 crossings each day, the three-week journey to transport it from Narrung to the Morgan Dockyard, and the subsequent four-month refurbishment, was a major mission.

This important work is all part of the Ferry Refurbishment Program, an annual $2m commitment by the State Government to maintain the vessels that ensure reliable river crossings for the communities that rely on them. This is in addition to the recent State Government announcement committing $110m to operate the ferries over the next 10 years.

There are 12 Murray River ferry crossings across South Australia, from Lyrup in the Riverland, to Narrung at the Lower Lakes. Each ferry is traditionally named after a waterbird and plays a critical role in transporting locals, visitors and emergency services, for free, 24/7, seven days a week.

To help keep them afloat and operating each ferry is required to be refurbished every seven years, including structural repairs, painting and some rewiring. Careful planning is required to relocate each ferry on a rotating basis to Morgan for refurbishment activities and ensure ferry services continue at each river crossing.

A small team of dedicated staff at the Morgan Dockyard work tirelessly to refit and refurbish each ferry.

The Morgan Dockyard is a far cry from where it was two years ago when the significant Murray River floods left the slipway and workshop underwater. The department continues to repair the site following the floods, while maintaining the ferry fleet.

After several months the refit of the Dotterel has now been completed. Workers have meticulously checked and cleaned the vessel from the deck to the hull, ensuring the vessel is in pristine shape. Now that it is refurbished, the vessel is back in operation transporting locals and visitors.

DIT marine and mechanical lead Joseph Rositano said “it is always a rewarding and proud moment for the team when you finish refurbishing a ferry”.

The Dotterel ferry recently made a 300km journey to the Morgan Dockyard for refurbishments. PHOTO: supplied

“The planning involved in transporting and restoring a ferry while ensuring services continue at each river crossing is an important task,” Mr Rositano said.

It has been quite the journey to transport the ferry from Narrung to Morgan with the vessel travelling more than 300km upstream to get to the dockyard.

The refurbishment program is fundamental to the safe operation of these vessels, with each ferry requiring a refurb every seven years. This process involves checking the vessel from top to bottom, completing any works that need to be done such as painting, repairs and rewiring.

The Murray River flood event was a challenging time for everyone along the river and we are continuing to repair the site while maintaining our fleet.

An estimated 230 local and visiting children enjoyed the 2024 Elf Magic event, held on Saturday 7 December. PHOTOS: supplied

Christmas spirit high at Morgan’s Elf Magic

‘THE Elf Magic event, held in Morgan, was once again a huge success this year.

Held on Saturday 7 December, in conjunction with the Morgan Lions Club Christmas Pageant, attendance numbers exceeded expectations, with an estimated 230 children making their way through Elf Hall.

The reputation of this event has spread, with a number of families travelling some distance to take part in the free activities.

Elf Magic even featured on the Channel 7 News segment ‘Little Ray of Sunshine’.

The elves were kept busy guiding children through a number of activities, including biscuit decorating at Mrs Claus’s Kitchen, making Christmas tree ornaments, Christmas cards and snow globes, playing Santa’s Eye Spy and choosing presents for parents and carers, which were then wrapped and were ready to put under the Christmas tree at home.

The face painting elves decorated more than 200 faces and there were lots of reindeer, Santas and Grinches roaming Elf Hall.

Elf Magic would like to thank its major sponsors – Hughes Construction, Nippy’s, Cards and Crafts by Susie, and Karle Packaging – as well as all those individuals who contributed funds and/or time to help make this event successful and free.

A huge thank you also to Scott and Sue, who have provided space at their property for storage of all the elf paraphernalia until it is required again in December next year.

In other news, Elf Magic has been nominated for the Community Event of the Year Award in the Australia Day Awards for 2025.

The elves are very excited and the winners of all awards will be announced in mid-January.

Probus clubs combine for festive lunch

THE recent combined Christmas Lunch of the Renmark Probus Clubs, hosted by the Renmark Ladies, saw a great gathering of about 70 members and partners at Hotel Renmark.

Entertainment was provided by the Probus Ladies, with Narelle McLaren putting together a choir, as well as writing lyrics to several ‘carols’ such as “I want a hip replacement for Christmas” and “The eight pains of Christmas”. Narelle and the girls also designed and provided choreography and some costumes. Great work by all.

The ‘elfin’ choir was made up of Julie Bell, Narelle McLaren, Maureen Spiers, Joy Checker, Yvonne Lempens, Helen Cenko, Brenda Dowling, Leona Rover, and Pam Pearce on the piano.

TITLE:
The Valley

AUTHOR:
Chris Hammer

BOOK REVIEW BY:
Katrina Webber

THE Valley is a gripping crime thriller that follows detectives Ivan Lucic and Nell Buchanan as they tackle a complex murder case in a remote mountain valley. The story begins with the discovery of the body of a controversial entrepreneur, whose business dealings have made him many enemies. This murder sets off a chain of events that leads Ivan and Nell into a maze of secrets and lies.

As the detectives start their investigation, they are introduced to a variety of intriguing characters. Among them are eccentric locals who each have their own quirks and secrets, common who add an element of danger and unpredictability, and even grave robbers who complicate the case further. Each character they encounter brings new clues and red herrings, making the investigation increasingly complex.

Nell Buchanan's personal connection to the victim adds a significant twist to the story. This connection forces her to confront her past and brings an emotional depth to the story. As she struggles with her own feelings and memories, Nell's determination to solve the case intensifies, adding another layer of tension to the plot.

The detectives uncover a series of shocking truths as they dig deeper into the valley's secrets. They find themselves navigating through a web of deception, where every answer leads to more questions. The remote valley, with its rugged and often treacherous terrain, serves as a perfect backdrop for the unfolding drama. The isolation of the valley adds to the sense of danger and urgency, as Ivan and Nell race against time to uncover the truth.

Throughout the investigation, the detectives face many challenges and threats. They must deal with uncooperative witnesses, hidden agendas, and their own personal demons. The tension builds steadily, with each new revelation bringing them closer to the heart of the mystery. The plot is filled with unexpected twists and turns, keeping readers on the edge of their seats.

As the story reaches its climax, the various threads of the investigation come together in a dramatic and satisfying conclusion. The conclusion of the case is both surprising and logical, tying up the loose ends in a way that feels earned and satisfying. The Valley is a blend of suspense and mystery, making it a must-read for fans of crime fiction.

LOCAL teacher GREG REEKS has provided the following rundown on his students' ART JOURNEY in 2024 for a final newsletter of the year...

Kids creating artwork together

THESE art pieces speak for themselves.

Each piece is truly amazing and unique – just like the person who has crafted it!

This year we've held classes for both young students through to adults in three Riverland towns. At all age levels, the quality and quantity of the artwork has been outstanding.

It is such a joy to see the smile and satisfaction on each person's face as they complete their own unique expression of art.

As the year progressed, I continued to notice each person's improved artistic competence and increased confidence. It's a gradual build-up over time.

From this perspective, I acknowledge each person's creative strengths and inspirations and their ability to take more risks and explore new ideas. Well done.

Collectively we all finish the year on a high!

Built into each session, I have created a child-centred approach to each topic, where individuals can request specific ideas they'd like to try and draw. Blended with these child-centred ideas, are different age groups and diverse skill and ability sets.

I have been able to weave my artistic knowledge around these dynamics successfully as we've explored shading, smudging and colour mixing. The outcome is a group of individuals being creative together and achieving their goal of producing great artwork.

I began the year not knowing if this project of art classes would even lift off the ground, and here we are with the year complete and many lives changed as people have opened up to claim their own creativity and joy.

Self-expression is important for everyone.

Thank you to all students, particularly those who committed for an entire year and to those who did either one, two or three terms, and to those who brought friends along. I hope many of you will come back next year.

Enjoy spending quality time with your child looking through their portfolio of work.

Everyone's folder of artistic talent is impressive. It shows growth and improvement in both styles and topics.

It was wonderful to display your child's work in prominent places like supermarkets and arcades throughout the Riverland. The feedback has been incredible, so I intend continuing setting up these portable displays in public places like shopping centres, libraries and council offices on a regular basis.

In closing, I welcome your feedback on what you would like to see included in the art classes for next year.

Have a great Christmas.

Flower show Waikerie's 'event of the year'

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

WAIKERIE's magical flower show, held in October, has won Loxton Waikerie council's 'Waikerie Event of The Year' for 2024.

The 42nd flower show for the Waikerie community ran from October 18 to October 19, and was part of the annual Riverland Rose and Garden Festival.

More than 850 entries were received in the show from people of all ages who embraced the 'At the Bottom of the Garden' theme.

"The Waikerie and Districts Community Flower Show has become a cherished annual event, eagerly anticipated by the community and visitors alike," Loxton Waikerie Council said in an announcement statement.

"Since its inception in 1980, the event has grown into a key highlight of the Riverland Rose and Garden Festival, showcasing the region's diversity through floral displays, horticulture, photography, and artistic pursuits" the statement said.

"The Flower Show brings together community members of all ages, from preschool children to adults, and enjoys support from a wide range of local organisations, including schools, church groups, businesses, and community clubs."

Waikerie and Districts Community Flower Show committee president Glennis Crawford said winning the award was credit to the commitment of the 10 committee members who helped organise the event.

"We have some very creative people on our committee," she said.

"It is wonderful to have input also from the wider community as well."

Ms Crawford said the strong participation of school students in the flower show was a highlight this year.

She said this demonstrated that the younger generation would hopefully continue to support the show.

"These children are the growers of our future," Ms Crawford said.

Waikerie High School's year 11 food and hospitality students were also involved in the flower show, providing morning and afternoon teas

Loxton Waikerie council said the event promoted a healthy, creative lifestyle by encouraging gardening and providing a platform for creativity.

"Volunteers play a vital role in the event's success, including local groups like the Rotary Club and Probus Club, as well as the Cadell Training Centre, which assists with event set-up," the council said.

Loxton Waikerie Mayor Trevor Norton said since the Waikerie flower show had become part of the Riverland Rose and Garden Festival, it had become one of Waikerie's "premiere events".

He said the involvement of highly esteemed judges Alethia Quick OAM from Adelaide and James Argent from Angaston in the event added to its profile.

"It is an endorsement of the flower show itself," Mr Norton said.

He said the flower show had earned the event of the year award as it highlighted the contribution volunteers made to their community.

"It is always about volunteer effort and community people who care," Mr Norton said.

Winners announced for Xmas lights comps

THE Renmark Christmas Celebrations Committee last week announced the winners of its 2024 business and residential Christmas lights competitions.

A tied vote in the town residential category saw properties at 21 Railway Terrace, and 18 Sharley Court, both declared winners.

"The residential lights were different styles, and instead of driving past, viewers needed to get out and have a bit of a walk around to get the full view of what they had done," Renmark

Christmas Celebrations Committee co-ordinator Neil Martinson said.

"The judges couldn't separate them."

The rural residential category was won by 32 Twentyseventh Street, while the business lights category was won by Riverland Country Style Kitchen. All winners received a $100 prize.

Mr Martinson said all businesses and homes that had created lights displays had contributed to Renmark's Christmas spirit.

"During the inspection there were numerous excellent displays around Renmark, so I encourage people to get out, have a drive around and see what's going on," he said.

"I would like to thank everybody for displaying their lights as it increases the Christmas spirit in Renmark."

Mr Martinson encouraged all local households planning on holding a Christmas lights display in 2025 to register at the Renmark Christmas Pageant website (www.renmarkchristmaspageant.com.au/forms/).

WAB hears from Hugh

HEATHER EVERINGHAM

THE Paringa branch of Women in Agriculture and Business had The Murray Pioneer editor Hugh Schuitemaker as their final speaker of the year. Hugh grew up in the eastern suburbs of Adelaide, where he attended Norwood Morialta High School and recalled enjoying reading and English, and in year 10, at aged 14, when he took a journalism class. He completed high school in 2009 with the aim of studying journalism at UniSA, however he chose to spend a gap year travelling through south-east Asia before taking up his studies. The journalism degree attracts many students, however the dropout rate is very high as aspirations of being travel writers and foreign correspondents quickly disappear.

Hugh completed his three-year degree and his first employment for a few years was as a sports journalist covering local and international soccer. In 2018 he answered an advertisement for a journalist with The Murray Pioneer and after an intensive interview with former editor Paul Mitchell, he commenced work during a time of economic upheaval due to local climatic conditions. Dry conditions prevailed in 2018-19 and he learned first-hand about water allocation and the Murray-Darling system and its effect on Riverland growers and associated businesses. This situation was followed by Covid-19, which lasted nearly two years and in 2022-23 an historic flooding event occurred, also with dire consequences for property, businesses and livelihoods. In recent times the grape price crisis and effect of Chinese tariffs has had a huge impact on local industry. Hugh enjoys being part of the regional media team where the impact of current events connects directly with the community. The Murray Pioneer is entrenched in the community, particularly with those not involved with online platforms. Community support is evident in social situations and especially in adversity. Working in a regional newspaper team differs to that of a metro media team, as there are opportunities to travel to other towns, witness events and attend council meetings. Each day presents new challenges whether involving health issues, agriculture/horticulture, politics or council matters. After more than six years Hugh admits to a personal preference for country life. He initially played local futsal, is a committee member of the local soccer club, enjoys cooking and is a member of a men's wine club. There will be a two-month recess and WAB meetings will commence on 25 February 2025, at 7.30pm, in the home of Jenny Curtis, of Paringa, and guest speaker will be Grant Schwarzkopff.

Have your Riverland say on South Australia's next Youth Action Plan

Have your Riverland say on SA's next Youth Action Plan
THE State Government is inviting young Riverlanders, aged 15 to 25, youth-led organisations and those that support young people to provide feedback on South Australia's draft Youth Action Plan 2024-2027. Once finalised, the plan will ensure the South Australian Government better meets the needs of young people, by delivering fairer and more equitable access to opportunities, resources and supports. The Department of Human Services (DHS) has worked closely with young South Australians to help development of the plan across three rounds of consultations, where young people's voices were amplified, and their feedback incorporated. The plan comprises six key themes identified by young people:

- Greater access to mental health support and services.
- Connection to services and activities available in the - young person's community.

- Increased access to age appropriate, affordable, and accessible sport and recreation activities or opportunities.
- More support with post-school pathways, including the teaching of 'life skills' or 'how to adult'.
- Greater access to housing and rental accommodation.
- Inclusion in decision making.

The draft plan includes a total of 27 key actions across the six key themes, which have been carefully crafted, tested and refined with young people. The final Youth Action Plan 2024 – 2027 will be launched during SA Youth Week in April 2025. It will function alongside the existing programs that support and empower young people to reach their potential. Consultation is open until 17 January. To learn more and provide feedback on the draft Youth Action Plan, visit the DHS website (dhs.sa.gov.au/YAP).

Basketball heads to its mid-season break

DOUBLE games were held in the past week for the Riverland Basketball Association, which now heads to its mid-season break.

The round saw Barmera and Renmark compete in two games each in the men’s competition, splitting the respective results, despite avoiding a direct face off.

The fixtures for the week started last Monday night, where a rejuvenated Berri side took on Renmark in a top-of-the-ladder clash in round nine, earning a six-point victory.

Berri raced away to a seven-point lead at quarter time, and with that margin remaining at the half, the story of the match was set up.

Although the Steamers challenged in the third term, cutting the deficit to three at the final break, the Blazers held their nerve down the stretch to take out the win.

The return of Border Sports star Trequan Rudd-Morfaw made a clear difference in the match, as his 27 points helped Berri over the line, while Harrison Campbell continued a strong season with 19.

Renmark guard Declan Johnson was the key for his side with 22 points in a performance highlighted by six threes, as Reece Curtis also reached 15.

The other game of round nine in the division was held on Tuesday, as focus turned to Waikerie, where Barmera took full points back to the Lakeside.

Despite trailing by two points at the first break, the Lakers quickly rallied, emerging 15-point leaders at three quarter time, keeping the foot on the pedal for a 28-point victory.

Tall pair Mitch Wellington (21) and Riley Haigh (14) proved the Waikerie defence had no match for their height, while young gun Dillon Marks (12) gave the hosts headaches throughout.

Action continued the next night for Barmera as round 11 tipped off at The Precinct, where Loxton welcomed the Lakers to town.

Once again slow starters, the Supercats punished the opposition, bouncing to an 18-point lead at half time, building on the margin for the remainder to create a big gap.

Ultimately running out 24-point victors, Loxton dominated across the court, in what was a clear even spread of contributors.

Jasper Hutchinson recorded 16 points in a display that featured three triples, while Carter Wright (14), and Rogan Kennedy (13) both provided valuable contributions.

Haigh (18) and Wellington (15) once again provided valuable contributions for the Lakers, but scoring power was halted following strong Supercats defence.

Rounding off 2024’s division one men’s action was Renmark, which hosted Waikerie, claiming a 17-point win over the Warriors at Alan Coulter Recreation Centre.

It was full steam ahead for Renmark, racing away to an 18-point lead at half time, which would ultimately set up the margin differential.

Johnson had a scoring feast with 28, while fellow Steamer Brody Rover made life difficult for the Waikerie defence, recording 25.

Waikerie trio Kieran Hahn (15), Johnathon Twigden (13), and Luke Exton (12) fought hard against the Steamers’ tight defence, but it proved to be a mountain too tall to climb.

Division one women’s action was also played over two nights, with one game of rounds nine and 10 played respectively.

The round nine fixture, held on Wednesday night, saw a dominant performance from Loxton on the road in Waikerie, racing to a 30-point victory.

Tight defence from the Supercats kept the Warriors to just one point at quarter time, and with the margin at 25 by the final change, the result was a foregone conclusion.

Star junior Bailey Hahn was key to the Loxton success, scoring 16 points, while Kiara Harman (14), and duo Mackella Hogan and Tarnie Shinnick each scored 11.

Round 10 action was held at the Barmera Recreation Centre, and it saw the home side at its very best, securing a 38-point win over Berri.

Barmera were on song from the outset, scoring 27 points in the first quarter to race out to a 14-point advantage, and with the margin out to 32 by the final break, the result was set up.

The Lakers were inspired by superstar player Chelsea Wutke’s 29-point display that included five triples, while duo Tahlia Dillon and Khaleisha Barnett continued their strong run with 14 apiece.

Bella Gates fought hard for the Blazers with 19 points, and exciting prospect Mackenzie Pitt finished with nine, but the margin was too great to overcome.

Riverland basketball’s division one competitions will return on Thursday 30 January, with one month of the regular season remaining before finals action.

RETURN
THANKS

ORWELL, Alfred 'Fred'.

I wish to express my thank you to my dear and special friends and family that have been with me and beside me through the most difficult time of my life.
Losing Fred – who was precious and kind, who was everything to me.
Fred was the love of my life.
Those memories will be held dear in my heart forever.
Until we meet again.
With love, Marleen and family.

Also special thanks to the staff at Riverview
Lutheran Rest Home,
RN, EN and carers,
that were able to give Fred their time and in assisting to make him comfortable.

I thank you all with kindness.

IN MEMORIAM

PANKHURST, Pamela
Kay.

5/7/1945 –
27/12/2023

Remembering
you is easy,
We do it every day.

Missing you is the heartache,
That never goes away.

Much love,
Bob, Dean,
Craig, David, and families.

Josh Norman steams into bowl on his way to two wickets in the six-wicket win over Parilla.

Loxton players celebrate a key wicket in Saturday night's victory over Parilla, the win was the Tigers' second on the trot.

Riverland sides head to break on a high

THE final round before the Riverland Turf Cricket Association's mid-season break was held on Saturday, with two local sides tasting victory in the A grade competition.

Taking on the high-flying Mallee at home, it was a strong effort with the ball that saw Renmark North pick up a six-wicket win.

Winning the toss and electing to bowl first, North made early inroads through pace duo Deakin Aston and Zakk Gallo, who had the Bushrangers in trouble at 5/29.

Mallee steadied through the middle order, and a 94-run partnership between key players Alexander Tzokas (58), and Hayden Beckmann (42), helped the visitors scramble to a total of 140.

Chasing 141 for victory, Bluetongues captain Tarque Williamson got the home side off to a hot start with 30 runs at the top of the order, with his innings featuring five boundaries.

However, with wickets falling in quick succession, North were forced to rally and it was the efforts of unbeaten pair Josh Kenyon (42no), and Liam Jackson (29no) proving enough.

Elsewhere, scheduling its game under the lights, it was Loxton that took out a six-wicket win over Parilla in an impressive performance.

Sent in to bowl by the Roosters after losing the toss, Loxton made quick inroads through Ben Hoffmann and Josh Norman, who each finished with two wickets.

Craig Altus reached a half-century for Parilla in an impressive effort to help the visitors reach a respectable total, aided by a quick-fire 18 from Oscar Barrett.

Searching for 129 in reply, Loxton skipper Hoffmann blasted Parilla bowlers all around Tigerland, smashing his way to 65 to help set up the victory.

Capping off a remarkable return to the association, Barmera will head to the mid-season break at the top of the B grade ladder, following a 27-run win over Brown's Well in Cobdogla.

Batting first on its past players day, Barmera opener Callan Smart tore the game to shreds with a match-defining knock of 69, while James McNally (39), and Ben Thiel (19) both batted strongly.

Phil Brand was the pick of the bowlers for the Cows, picking up two wickets, with the visitors ultimately unable to stem the momentum.

Setting a total of 188 for victory, Barmera took early wickets, snagging the in-form duo of James Patterson and David Ireland cheaply.

Brian Hampel batted well for the visiting side with a near run a ball 43, before an opportunistic piece of play saw him run out by Kylan Beech, swinging the tide.

Lachlan Patterson gave some late hope with 33, but it was the bowling of veteran Scott Humphries which Brown's Well was unable to match.

Humphries finished with four wickets from a little less than six overs, while Fletcher Dillon and Thiel also made a strong impact with the ball.

The return of Marcel Waanders helped Waikerie/Ramco take home the points from Renmark, getting the better of North by eight wickets in a comprehensive display.

Winning the toss and batting first, opening pair Dirk Mouton (15), and Colin Packer (13) got the home side away to a fast start, but their removals told the story of the match.

With Renmark bowled out for just 65, Waanders' fast bowling saw him jag four wickets for just seven runs, while Flynn Andrew also took three.

Set 66 for victory, Warriors opener Andrew smashed 42 from 47 balls, which included five boundaries.

Brock Morey's two wickets gave North a late spark of hope, but it was all Waikerie/Ramco in the end.

Meanwhile, Loxton steered past Gerard following a 46-run display from Rhys Wooldridge at the top of the order, before Ashley Montgomery's four wickets did the damage.

Travis O'Shaughnessy drives through the onside for Loxton, with the pre-Christmas contest held under the lights at Tigerland.

Tigers captain Ben Hoffmann launches into a pull shot in the clash with the Roosters. Hoffmann blasted 65 runs in the match to help set up victory.

RIVERLAND SWIMMING

RIVERLAND swimming held up to 82 events in the third points swim of the season, as time in the pool came to an end for the calendar year, before preparing a season return after the Christmas break.

Home club Berri finished in first place ahead of Loxton in a tight result, while Vitor Renmark rounded out the top three.

Berri head to mid-season break on top

BERRI recorded a thumping division one victory in the Riverland bowls Wednesday pennants competition, as one more round was squeezed in before the upcoming Christmas break.

Taking on Renmark under the roof at home, Berri obliterated the visitors to the tune of 53 shots in what was a rink sweep.

The margin was brought about through the four of Claire Eichenberger winning by 33 shots, and Barbara Knight’s quartet recording the same margin.

The victory shifts Berri to a 36-point lead at the top-of-the-ladder heading into the break, while Renmark is battling in second-last.

Sue Machell’s group did the damage for The Lawns, working past Lynn Kimber’s quartet by 17 shots, while Jennifer Knight’s four also enjoyed a 13-shot victory.

The Wednesday pennants competition will now take a fortnight break, before resuming on 8 January, with finals hopefuls Renmark and Waikerie facing off a key highlight of the upcoming round.

It’s a midweek triples whitewash in Loxton

A CRUSHING result has sent the Riverland bowls midweek triples competition to its mid-season bye, as Christmas came early for one side.

Welcoming Berri Blue to town, Loxton White thrashed the visitors to the tune of 52 shots, sweeping the rinks across the afternoon.

White’s biggest rink victory of the day came through Casey Brandma’s three getting the better of Neville Jenke’s group by 20 shots, in what was a well-rounded performance.

Berri did taste some success heading into the break, with its red affiliate enjoying an eight-shot win on the road in Lyrup.

With a tight contest playing out, Berri Red managed to outmuscle its opposition in order to secure victory, with Steve Eichenberger’s trio securing a 12-shot win.

Elsewhere, Barmera

recorded a dominant 37-shot win over The Lawns Red on home turf in a highly professional display.

Sweeping the rinks, the Lakesiders proved too good across the afternoon, particularly from the rink of Andy Gapco, who skipped his side to a 21-shot victory.

The same was unable to be said for the Barmera Pelicans, which, at the same venue saw a seven-shot defeat.

As a tight match played out, it was Desmond Button’s three doing enough to get Loxton RSL over the line, picking up a seven-shot victory over Ian Haese’s trio.

First-placed Waikerie heads into the break full of confidence, getting the better of Renmark Gold by 14 shots under the dome.

Although Chris Gamble’s three enjoyed a 19-shot win in favour of Gold, Waikerie did enough across the rest of the battle, as Mark Morete’s group secured a 21-shot victory to swing the result in the home team’s favour.

The most exciting battle of the break came from Loxton, where its Blue affiliates were all tied up at 63 at the end of the match with The Lawns.

The midweek triples competition will resume on 8 January, marking the first of five rounds remaining in the season.

What have we done wrong?

YOU would be hard pressed to find a footballing region in South Australia that stacks up on a similar level to the Riverland.

Yet somehow, we will be without a game of pre-season AFL football, a home-and-away AFL game, or any SANFL football in 2025.

The SANFL’s fixture release last Wednesday saw the popular annual Russell Ebert Tribute Match between West Adelaide and Port Adelaide moved to Alberton Oval, and out of the Riverland.

Since its inception in 2022, the fixture has been one of the most popular events on the calendar – most recently highlighted by a crowd of 1736 at Waikerie Oval in April for this year’s edition.

Looking at sporting events in the region, it’s safe to say the match, in terms of pure popularity, is on par with something such as the Dinghy Derby, but with SANFL and AFL more accessible nationally, this probably shifts ever so slightly ahead.

Almost anyone you speak to will say the SANFL product is declining across a number of facets, including crowd numbers and the atmosphere games generate.

You need no further evidence than the fact Port Adelaide, one of the oldest clubs in world sport, wants to join the Victorian Football League (VFL). Just imagine hearing that 25 years ago?

As outlined by Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone in today’s paper, the Riverland’s footballing talent stretches far and wide.

Who the best players for the two South Australian clubs are is a debate for another day, and is probably without a clear answer, but the names Mark Ricciuto and Russell Ebert (even though Ebert played before the Power were created) are pretty obvious.

If the planets align in 2025, it is possible you could go to a match at Adelaide Oval, walk past the Russell Ebert statue on your way in, sit in the Mark Ricciuto Stand, watch Rhys Stanley or Aaron Francis play in an AFL game, and see advertisements for the Tony Modra locker room.

Do you really need to look any further to realise our history of footballing talent stacks up against most other regions in South Australia?

A $14m upgrade is due to be unveiled at the Waikerie Football Club in 2025, and even if the game were to be played elsewhere, there are five other RFL grounds more than capable of hosting a SANFL fixture.

Also to be considered is the economic boost the Ebert Tribute match has provided to the Riverland community.

Many spectators at the 2024 pre-match function said they spent multiple days in the Riverland in the lead-up to the match, so you can only imagine the positive impact on local hospitality outlets and other retailers.

Without any state or national league football in 2025, the Riverland community has every right to be frustrated with the snub. But will anyone address those concerns?

Ebert tribute match on the move

LACHLAN DAND

DESPITE a successful three years of the Russell Ebert Tribute Match in the Riverland, the region will be without the fixture in 2025.

The 2025 SANFL fixture was released on Wednesday last week, and the popular match is scheduled to be played at Alberton Oval on Sunday 8 June.

The match has been a feature of the league’s fixture since 2022, with the first two years held at Loxton Oval, before a shift to Waikerie in 2024.

West Adelaide Football Club CEO Ms Conny Wilson said the decision was made following consultation with the Port Adelaide Football Club.

“For three years the District Council of Loxton Waikerie, and the Waikerie and Loxton Football Clubs were critical for the Club in order to be able to play in the region,” she said.

“They were instrumental in making this event possible through generous funding and resourcing.

“Having the support of the Ebert Family and Port Adelaide Football Club was also key to its success.

“W AFC (West Adelaide Football Club) felt that it was important to also involve Port Adelaide to share in the celebration of Russell’s life and achievements.

“He was a part of the fabric of Port Adelaide, and it is an appropriate opportunity to acknowledge this. This does not mean we will not host games in the future.

“We are committed to our regional clubs and supporters. W AFC teams are not travelling in 2025 to play any regional games.”

Outgoing RFL chairman Henry Crawford said the league failed to provide a submission to host a game in the region, as has been the case in recent seasons.

“We haven’t submitted a bid in previous years, and the games which have been held here in previous years have been a relationship with West Adelaide and the councils,” he said.

“Whilst we haven’t submitted a request to have a game up here or not, that’s not an unusual thing for us to do.

“They’re always a good spectacle, and it’s good to get that exposure, but in order for it to happen, it’s quite expensive, so it relies on the councils to come up with that cash.

“If any of the other RFL clubs or their councils, wanted to lobby and put forward a proposal to host a SANFL game, we’d absolutely support that in whatever way we could.”

Ms Wilson ensured Riverlanders the club remains committed to its regional areas, with a high portion of its junior players coming from local RFL clubs.

“It is important to remain relevant. We are Adelaide-based and travelled for two regional games in 2024, (the other being Pt Lincoln against Norwood), and feel this is a good opportunity to reset and look at what else we can do for our Riverland clubs,” she said.

“A lot of planning and co-ordination is required; and costs associated with travel need to be considered.

“The Club will be looking for funding partners going forward to ensure we can return. Both teams have very much enjoyed this particular fixture, and it is a meaningful game for everyone.

“We’re really lucky to have the quality of young players coming out of the Riverland who go on to earn their place in the teams and development program.”

A spokeswoman from the SANFL supported the comments made by Ms Wilson, and said the league is committed to its regional areas.

“Both Port Adelaide and West Adelaide agreed to play the Russell Ebert Tribute match at Alberton Oval in 2025, allowing fans the opportunity to honour Ebert at his home ground, and this request was approved by the League,” she said.

SANFL remains committed to playing matches in the regions, with two other regional games being played in season 2025, and is therefore open to seeing this match return to the Riverland in the future, should the clubs request this.”

A $14m redevelopment of the Waikerie Football Club is due to be completed in the coming weeks, and Mr Crawford said representative football would work well at the newly redeveloped facilities.

“I think hosting a game (with the new facilities), would be great for the Waikerie community, and the league as a whole to host any games like that up here,” he said.

“Obviously it’s a pretty impressive facility, and would make a great venue to host any games at a high level.

“It’s all very much driven by the councils, because they have to put up a significant amount of money, but it’s very much up to individual clubs and their respective councils.

“The league welcomes any games, and we’d provide support in whatever way is feasible, but it very much has to be a club/council driven thing.

“It’s a West Adelaide home game, so those responsible for the football side of it have assisted the opposition, and there’s broadcast, and media that have their usual things in place.

“Really, the RFL have had very little to do with making the day happen.”

Ms Wilson thanked the Riverland community for their support of the fixture in the region in recent seasons, and said a return is on the cards for the club in some capacity.

“I am confident our presence in the region over the last few years has continued to grow through clinics, club visits and successfully run with the help of local support staff this will continue to grow. Both our men and women’s programs incorporate regular regional visits,” she said.

“We love playing in front of our Riverland supporters. Many also travel from Adelaide for either the weekend, at a longer day trip – as was seen in Waikerie this year.

“We had good attendance and we would always like to grow that. We would also like to diversify and host women’s league matches.

“It was very heartening to have such good crowds year on year, and especially to see them settle in for a day of football.

“We are always exploring ideas as to how we could develop not only a game in the Riverland but a great day out for both locals and visitors.

“We need partners and sponsors in order to deliver an event of that size, but cannot expect the same partners to contribute to the funding of this.”

Local figures speak out about SANFL miss

LACHLAN DAND

DISSAPOINTMENT was the key theme of responses from a local politician and mayor, following the news of the movement of the Russell Ebert Tribute Match out of the Riverland in 2025.

The SANFL’s fixture was announced on Wednesday morning, with the popular match moved to Alberton Oval, leaving the region without any state or national league football in the year ahead.

The match between West and Port, has been played across the past three seasons, with the first two fixtures at Loxton, before a move to Waikerie in 2024.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said the news of the match being on the move was a big blow to the region on several levels.

“Part of our economy is sport, and the people that follow the different codes, and not having a match up here is a blow to what has been a significant breeding ground to high-performing AFL players,” he said.

“We have a proud, rich history of breeding those outstanding AFL players, and I’m sad we’ve missed the opportunity to keep a bit of that tradition alive.

“People that come up and stay are not only supporting the region, but they go away as ambassadors.

“When people come to town, they come to the region, and people come and stay and fill up all of the accommodation.

“That is the unseen economy that comes away from a visitation like having a SANFL match here, and they go home and tell their family and friends, and they take a visit.”

Mr Whetstone’s view was supported by Loxton Waikerie Mayor Trevor Norton, who said the matches had been a ‘success’ in previous years.

“The three Russell Ebert tribute matches have each been great events for Loxton and Waikerie and were very appropriate recognition of Russell and the Ebert family’s commitment to our community,” he said.

“The matches were also a great opportunity for our council and the region to demonstrate how much we value sport and outdoor activities and to display our grounds and facilities, that are as good as any in South Australia regional areas.

“Many visitors travelled to the games, some for the whole weekend while others stayed on or have visited again, knowing what is available in the Riverland.

“Many of our accommodation and hospitality venues received added trade and benefitted economically from this.”

Mr Whetstone said he will continue to advocate for high-level football matches in the Riverland, reaffirming the fact each of the six RFL ovals are in good condition.

“It’s very disappointing that we’ve missed out, but if that’s the case we can answer the questions why, but if there are no real good answers, maybe we just have to get ourselves better prepared for next season,” he said.

“Everyone’s restaurants are all pumping, and then there’s fuel stations and food, and it’s really good for footy, and country footy as much as anything.”

Waikerie Oval remains a clear choice for the region based on location, as well as a significant $14m upgrade to the facilities, and Mr Norton said the redevelopment has been “significant”.

“The Waikerie Community Hub at the Waikerie Oval has, this week, been signed off as finished and will experience a “soft opening” in the coming weeks,” he said.

“Council will be looking to highlight our newest facility and introduce it to the wider South Australian community as soon as we can.

“Hosting another SANFL football match or series of events would be a way of doing this.”

The return of star player Tahlia Dillon has been a welcome one across recent weeks, scoring 14 in the victory over the Blazers.

Berri recruit Zandjay Rudd-Morfaw showcased his class with 11 points in an impressive showing against the Steamers.

Bella Gates' 19-point efforts were a highlight for Berri in the disappointing loss to the Lakers on Thursday night.

The Riverland will be without a SANFL match in 2025, following the fixture release last Wednesday. The match, which has been highly popular across its first three seasons, was held in Waikerie in 2024, where a crowd of 1736 piled in. However, the match will be played at Alberton Oval in 2025. Sparks fly in Sydney PARTY animals assemble! Zan Rowe, Charlie Pickering and Concetta Caristo are here to see us through the colourful celebrations as we bid adieu to 2024.

Whether letting loose at a house party or chilling on the couch, the ABC once again has you covered with a spectacular concert and fireworks display to welcome the New Year. Dr Karl Kruszelnicki is even on hand to explain the explosive science behind everyone's favourite pyrotechnic projectiles.

Can't quite make it to midnight? Earlybirds need not worry – those with an alarm set for tomorrow morning can still join in the fun: the spirit of Cammeraygal fisherwoman Barangaroo is at the heart of a stunning live performance and animation show curated by triple j Blak Out host Nooky, which leads into the 9pm Calling Country fireworks.

From 9.10pm, the nightowls of the nation can kick on with an impressive three-hour live music event featuring supergroup Fanning Dempsey National Park (Bernard Fanning and Paul Dempsey), tunes from the Queen of New Year's Eve Casey Donovan, Aussie hitmaker Cyril, Korean-Australian rap crew 1300, multi-instrumental marvel G Flip and more.

Easily the world's most picturesque place to ring in the New Year, Sydney Harbour again plays host to the celebrations, with a dazzling fireworks show lighting up the Opera House and Harbour Bridge at midnight.

The ABC's Head of Arts, Music and Events, Kath Earle, can't wait to see the annual festivities: "NYE is a night that has it all – fireworks, live music, stunning visuals, spectacular lighting, and the best entertainment – and we love working together with our partner City of Sydney to bring this celebration to people across Australia and all around the world."

COLOUR ME IN

COOKING 4 KIDS

Mini Santa Cheesecakes

Cook with adults

INGREDIENTS

- 12 mini Oreo biscuits
- 250 g Cream Cheese
- 1/2 cup caster sugar
- 1 tsp vanilla essence
- 1 tbs lemon juice
- 2 eggs
- 24 fresh strawberries
- 150 ml cream
- 2 tbs icing sugar

METHOD

1. Preheat the oven to 180°C and line a 24-cup mini muffin tin with paper cases.
2. Beat the cream cheese, sugar, vanilla, and lemon juice until smooth. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition.
3. Split each mini Oreo in half, removing the cream, and place one half in each muffin cup.
4. Spoon or pour the cream cheese mixture over the Oreo halves in each cup.
5. Bake for 20 minutes, or until slightly risen and cracked on the surface. Let them cool completely, then refrigerate.
6. Whip the cream and icing sugar together until thick and fluffy.
7. Cut the tops off strawberries to create a Santa hat shape.
8. Pipe whipped cream onto each cooled cheesecake, then top with a strawberry, gently pressing down.
9. Add a small dollop of cream to the top of each strawberry for a pom-pom.
10. Dust with icing sugar just before serving. Enjoy!

CHRISTMAS TRADITION BACK FOR 2024

THIS Christmas Eve David Campbell and Sarah Abo return to present Vision Australia's Carols by Candlelight presented by AAMI, live from the Sidney Myer Music Bowl, on Tuesday 24 December, at 8pm, on Channel 9 and 9Now.

Each year, Vision Australia's Carols by Candlelight brings families together as a cherished Australian tradition, featuring some of the biggest stars in music and musical theatre, all generously donating their time to support Vision Australia.

This year's stellar line-up includes the dynamic and award-winning vocals of Anthony Callea, the cast of Sister Act, starring Casey Donovan, world music star Dami Im, star of TINA – The Tina Turner Musical, Ruva Ngwenya, ARIA Award winner Emma Memma, 2024 Golden Guitar nominee and Australian Idol winner Dylan Wright, plus music sensation Bonnie Anderson, much-loved entertainer Tim Campbell and many more.

Our brilliant carols family also returns, including Marina Prior, Silvie Paladino, David Hobson and Denis Walter.

David Campbell said "Vision Australia's Carols by Candlelight is something I look forward to every year".

"It's truly one of the highlights of the festive season," he said.

"I'm thrilled to be a part of this incredible event once again, especially knowing that it supports such an important cause.

"Raising funds for people who are blind or have low vision through Vision Australia makes this night even more meaningful. It's a chance to spread joy and make a real difference in the lives of those who need it most."

Sarah Abo said "I'm absolutely thrilled to be hosting Vision Australia's Carols by Candlelight again, alongside David, in my home town of Melbourne".

"It's such a wonderful night and I can't wait to celebrate Christmas Eve with everyone," she said.

Carols by Candlelight is Vision Australia's biggest annual fundraiser for children's services, with 100 per cent of profits from ticket sales going directly towards supporting close to 2000 families with children who are blind or have low vision.
