Baby buck$ to help hospital

MADISON EASTMOND

THE Loxton Waikerie Mayor believes a $550,000 upgrade to the Loxton Hospital Complex will help progress the surrounding local community.

The operating theatre at Loxton Hospital Complex is set to receive crucial upgrades to its infrastructure, with the State Government funding aimed to provide a better space for the delivery of clinical services and ensure the highest quality, health and safety outcomes can continue for local staff and patients. With works scheduled to begin in September, upgrades to the operating theatre's walls and flooring, and the initialisation of a new air conditioning, will be undertaken by Metron Design Building Services.

During the construction works some services, such as birthing deliveries and surgical lists will be temporarily located at the Riverland General Hospital, in Berri, until the new theatre works are complete.

Loxton Waikerie Mayor Trevor Norton said "the upgrade to Loxton hospital's operating theatre (are) a very welcome investment in the health and wellbeing of (the) community".

"Access to quality health services close to home — particularly birthing and surgical — is vital, particularly in regional areas like ours," Mayor Norton said.

"It is great to see the South Australian Government recognise the importance of regional health infrastructure and committing to this significant upgrade.

"Our community looks forward to seeing the benefits of this investment once works are completed."

The Riverland Mallee Coorong Local Health Network (RMCLHN) said it was continuing to work with clinicians and patients to minimise disruption and will ensure that the same midwives, antenatal and postnatal care are available during this time.

"The health and wellbeing of consumers across the Riverland Mallee Coorong regions is the RMCLHN's highest priority," RMCLHN chief executive officer Wayne Champion said.

"We are upgrading the operating theatre in Loxton Hospital Complex to ensure that patients and consumers from Loxton continue to have access to the best possible care when they need elective GP procedures, or interventional birthing services, safeguarding access to these services for years to come. "The theatre closures are being co-ordinated with Riverland General Hospital to ensures our consumers can continue to access quality healthcare across the region during the construction period.

"I also want to acknowledge the work of the Loxton and Districts Health Advisory Council, who have fundraised over many years to support the hospital's existing high-quality ward and birthing suite environments that patients and consumers enjoy at the Loxton Hospital Complex."

RMCLHN executive director of medical services Caroline Phegan said "by utilising the services of Riverland General Hospital during these upgrades, consumers from Loxton can continue to access planned and unplanned maternity theatre care, including birthing, locally within the RMCLHN".

"We are dedicated to ensuring consumers receive high-quality care at all services across the RMCLHN," Dr Phegan said.

"Expectant women who may be impacted by this upgrade at Loxton Hospital Complex are encouraged to reach out to their GP Obstetrician and Midwifery Group Practice midwifes."

Minister for Health and Wellbeing Chris Picton said the State Government was "passionate about providing quality healthcare services across South Australia, including the Riverland".

"The community of Loxton can be proud of its hospital and the incredible doctors, nurses, midwives and other staff who work there – and it's important we make sure that they have modern facilities to deliver their important work," Mr Picton said.

"Importantly, this operating theatre upgrade will help to ensure the future of birthing at Loxton hospital long into the future.

"Loxton Hospital Complex's operating theatre upgrade is just one of many projects that the (State) Government is delivering as part of its commitment to build a bigger health system for regional South Australia"

The hospital's helipad is also being upgraded to better comply with the new Civil Aviation Safety Regulations while also improving the safety of operations at the site — pivotal to the transport and care of MedSTAR patients both to and from Loxton.

Construction work on the upgraded operating theatre is expected to be completed early next year, with all services resuming at Loxton at that time.

'Options' on the table

RENMARK Paringa elected members will consider new options in an effort to lower council's proposed 2025/26 rate rise.

Renmark Paringa councillors at last week's general meeting passed a motion to lay the 2025/26 Draft Annual Business Plan and Budget – including a proposed 11.25 per cent rate rise – on the table.

A Renmark Paringa Council statement regarding the matter advised "council administration will present options to elected members as per the recommendation at a meeting in the near future".

"The selected option will then be utilised to update and endorse the Annual Business Plan and Budget, Long Term Financial Plan and Infrastructure and Asset Management Plan," the statement read.

"The date of that special meeting will be announced as soon as possible."

The council statement advised a range of financial strategies were implemented in an attempt to avoid or minimise general rate increases, including:

- Capital program optimisation – Deferred $5.7m in capital spending to future years.
- Pursuing grants Secured funding through programs like the LGA Financial Sustainability Pilot.
- Asset and land rationalisation – Surveyed community use of council-owned buildings and identified surplus properties for potential disposal.
- Review of Fees and Charges
 Conducted a comprehensive review and benchmarking to inform the Annual Business Plan.

- Cost reduction in materials and contracts – Achieved a 6 per cent budget reduction, including a temporary freeze on grants and sponsorships.
- Renewable energy initiatives
 Continued efforts to reduce energy use and related costs.
- Staffing and contracted services review Assessed opportunities for service consolidation and efficiency through automation.
- Discretional rate rebates review – Planned a review of all non-mandatory rate rebates.
- Debt reallocation Explored shifting debt to long-term financing to improve sustainability.
- Service standards review Identified potential savings by adjusting current service levels.

- Internal process optimisation – Reviewed ICT strategy and created a short-term role to support project delivery.
- Events review Analysed community events and proposed a scaled-back events and sponsorship program.

The council statement advised "these efforts were undertaken before considering any increase to general rates, which remained a last resort".

Renmark woman Jenny Troeth said the decision from elected members reflected the potential impacts of the rate rise.

"It definitely was appropriate, and it was in line with the sentiment that was expressed through the council consultation process," Ms Troeth said.

"I believe it was also very strongly the sentiment expressed at the people's meeting (on Sunday, July 20).

"On the questionnaire I don't think there was anybody who didn't oppose the increase. The reasons were many, and varied."

Ms Troeth said attempting to lower the proposed rate increase would benefit local individuals and families struggling with cost-of-living challenges.

"It's an unknown entity as to what they'll do, and how much the percentage will be reduced down," she said

"At least they are prepared to do something, the reaction just depends on how far down it comes."

Ms Troeth said the process showed consultation between council and the community was necessary for positive outcomes.

"(The public meeting) certainly validated the community feeling, and it gave everyone a chance to have their say and voice their concerns," she said.

Local's grim superannuation warning

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

A RIVERLANDER who has potentially lost more than $290,000 in savings is urging fellow locals to monitor what is happening with their superannuation funds.

A Renmark couple, who asked to be kept anonymous, were among approximately 7000 Australians who lost superannuation due to the collapse of the First Guardian Master Fund.

The man said the financial loss had left him facing an uncertain future.

"My fund was a Pension Fund, and it went from not-far short of $300,000, to $3000," the man said.

"I've gone from being comfortable for a number of years, to having nothing straight away.

"(We've) got to start selling off all the assets. There's ways you can lodge a complaint, but that could take forever and lead to nothing. "It's horrific what some of the people are going through.' The man said he and his wife had little inclination such a large amount of their money would be lost.

"We had a message two weeks ago saying (the company) was in trouble, and they were appointing liquidators," he said.

That was the first we heard of it. Two weeks later we got a message what the funds would be, there was no warning.

"I can almost understand, because if they were in that sort of trouble and they let people know, it would have turned into a nightThe man encouraged fellow

Riverlanders in a similar position to constantly monitor their super levels. "When I first started work, super wasn't compulsory, then the government brought it in," he said. "(The government) said it would be guaranteed at the end. That guarantee doesn't mean much."

MADISON EASTMOND

A RIVERLAND creative has been selected among eight other regional artists to take part in one of the state's most sought-after professional development programs later this year.

Loxton-based photographer Rebecca Flack was recently announced as a recipient of Country Arts SA's 2025 Nebula Program. "I feel very lucky to have been chosen,"

Ms Flack said. "I just can't wait to be fully immersed in art with like-minded people."

The Nebula Program is an initiative designed to empower emerging visual artists from across South Australia's regions, with a biennial three-day experience held in Adelaide that offers a curated series of workshops, forums, artist talks and networking events.

Taking place this September, the program looks to strengthen artistic practice, build vital industry connections, and help recipients take the next steps in their career.

Announced as a as a recipient of the 2024 Guildhouse Catapult Mentorship program in January this year — with the program awarding artists $5000 and a six-month learning opportunity guided by a mentor of their choosing - Ms Flack said her recent selection in Nebula "is the next step for (her) career".

"I have already learnt so much from (my mentor) Yan (Palmer) as a part of Catapult,' she said.

"That's involved working on my confidence, seeing myself as more of an artist, and knowing I can put more of myself and my creativity into more of my shoots.

'So, I am so excited for this next step.

"I am hoping it will open me up to different experiences and paths into the art world." Honing her craft and developing her sub-

Riverland landscape, Ms Flack said she was "excited" to see what the future held for her as a local artist.

"I would love to hold an exhibition and exhibit photos of women and mothers in the local environment — whether that be in the Riverland or Adelaide," she said.

"I have so many questions that this program will be able to answer for me, so I am just really excited to get started and see what is possible."

Country Arts SA visual arts manager Lauren Mustillo said Nebula has become a sought-after professional development program, giving regional artists the knowledge and confidence to strengthen their practice.

We look forward to welcoming the participants to Adelaide. This year's participants represent an exciting and diverse cross section of the state's creative talent.

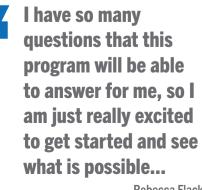

"They will gain invaluable insights and connections through access to some of South Australia's most respected visual artists, curators, and industry experts.

"For regional artists, the opportunity to connect with like-minded creatives and industry mentors can be game-changing. Nebula is about more than skills development — it's about building confidence, visibility, and a sense of belonging in the wider arts landscape.'

The 2025 Nebula cohort joins a growing network of over 24 past participants, many of whom have gone on to exhibit across the state, secure residencies at some of Adelaide's leading contemporary art institutions, and lead community arts initiatives.

RIVERLAND

Christophers Taekwondo Academy master, and lead instructor, Josh Christophers and Riverland instructor Aubrey Bastian said they have been working hard to grow a local interest in the traditional art since 2022, with their August tournament the now first of its kind in the region. PHOTO: Madison Eastmond

MADISON EASTMOND

MEMBERS of a Riverland martial arts club are calling for competition from far and wide to meet them on the mat next month, with an upcoming local tournament the first of its kind to take place in the region.

Hosting the first local Country SA Taekwondo Tournament, on August 24, Christophers Taekwondo Academy Riverland is encouraging any and all martial arts groups and athletes to join them for a day of fun, learning, and competition.

"We just really wanted to provide our athletes and local clubs the chance to enjoy and participate in a tournament, without having to travel to a city," Christophers Taekwondo Academy Riverland lead instructor Josh Christophers said.

"The tournament is going to be very friendly and feature high level coaches and great opportunities to grow as an athlete.

"Anyone who is trained is welcome to come along and have fun — all chest and head guard equipment will be supplied on the day."

With almost 60 athletes training at the Berri-based dojang — once previously the old Scouts Hall — Mr Christophers, and Riverland instructor Aubrey Bastian, said they have been working hard to grow a local interest in the traditional art since 2022.

"Six years ago, I started Christophers Taekwondo Academy in Adelaide, which has now grown to three locations in the city," Mr Christophers said.

"However, the Riverland location began when Aubrey — who was training with me — had to move to the Riverland to be with family.

"He rang me up after noticing a lack of Taekwondo in the area, and it just grew from there."

With more than 45 years of training and experience, Mr Bastian now teaches up to five classes a week for Riverlanders of any age, gender, or skill level to enjoy, with the hosting to complete beginners and competitive, state and national black belts.

"It's been so much fun starting up a Taekwondo club in the Riverland," Mr Bastian "Taekwondo is a Korean self-laekwondo is a Korean self-defence and striking-based martial art, that involves kicking, punching, blocking, and because we keep the teaching very traditional, grappling techniques.

"Our classes are 50/50 young and old, and 50/50 men and women — it's a fantastic mix and really a testament to how great the culture of the club is.

"It's a sport that is an alternative to football and netball, and keeps you young, fit, and healthy — I mean, look at me I am almost 70 and feel amazing.

"It's also a great sport to teach discipline, and give yourself a mental health outlet that is community-based and the whole family can enjoy and do together".

Mr Christophers said the Country SA Taekwondo Tournament was going to be an opportunity for local athletes to "gain experience they would otherwise have to travel to (metropolitan areas) to access".

"It's a big commitment to travel and compete in Adelaide and beyond," he said.

"It can also be an intimidating environment, so we are excited to offer a friendly and relaxed option for local people, where they can compete against other fighters

"We're going to offer people between two-to-three matches each, with experienced coaches refereeing and then providing feedback afterwards — it's a great way to learn and grow.

"We will also have state and national champions attending, who will not only coach, but demonstrate their skills in matches against each other — that way local athletes will be able to see what one day they could be capable of."

Excited about the keen interest and passion already shown from his Berri athletes, Mr Christophers said he hoped the upcoming tournament will be the first of many in the region.

"We have up to 40 athletes from Berri attending, 25 from Adelaide, as well as people attending from the local karate clubs, Horsham, and Lameroo," he said.

"It's going to be a fantastic day, so we would just love to get as many martial arts groups involved as possible."

For more information, or to enter in the Country SA Taekwondo Tournament, email Josh Christophers on (christopherstaekwondo@gmail.com).

Two men, who are known to each other, were injured.

A police spokesperson said a 31-yearold man sustained facial lacerations, and a 33-year-old man suffered bruising to the face. Both were airlifted to hospital with non-

All cards on the table

THE hardest choices require the strongest wills.

A rather simple line from an Avengers film, but one that so very well encompasses events seen across the Renmark Paringa Council area across the last 14 days.

It would be fair to say that following two separate community gatherings regarding council's proposed budget and business plan for 2025/26 council's consultation session on Thursday, July 17, and a public meeting held the following Sunday – a level of angst among certain sections of the community had increased to high levels.

This emotion was evident in the approximately 20 members of the district – far more than any other month in recent memory – that braved the temperature on a very cold Tuesday evening to attend council's regular general meeting. It was here that councillors would decide whether or not to endorse the proposed budget. For some in the gallery it undoubtedly would have felt like the last line of defence was being tested.

The outcome – with councillors electing to postpone implementation of the rate release – has been well discussed across the district in the past seven days, but shows that elected members, and also council staff, are willing to consider the needs of the ratepayer base, especially in the challenging times a lot of the public is experiencing.

While the feeling in the room immediately following the meeting seemed positive between those in the gallery and council staff, and elected members, the decision certainly leaves council with a challenging couple of weeks ahead.

It is back to the drawing board, so to speak, with council staff now having to examine what measures can be taken in an attempt to soften the rate increase figure.

Agreeing what actions are required to reach this destination is undoubtedly set to pose the next challenge for elected members, extending what is likely to have been a mentally exhausting series of meetings, percentage figures, and decisions.

There are those in the community that see this as a big victory, but what was key to making this possible?

As has been pointed out, some fact checking of statements being made at the Sunday public meeting could have been beneficial to all interested minds, however – as some people often feel more comfortable expressing concerns in a forum setting $-i\hat{t}$'s importance in illustrating the potential impacts of the proposed rate rise on household and business budgets will mean that day is likely remembered by all as important for the community, in one sense or another.

THE YEARS GO BY

The paddle-steamer Etona 2 was purpose-built in 1899 as a missionary-boat for SA's Anglican church River Murray Mission. It replaced the valiant little steam-powered-launch Etona 1, which had been plying the River on-mission since 1891. The paddle-steamer Etona 2 was bigger with shallower draught. During the drought years of 1896 to 98, Etona 1 had run aground down river from Blanchetown. The Anglican Missioner, Reverend WJ Bussell, had been undertaking six-weekly circuits from the sheep stations around the Meningie Lakes, up-river to Overland Corner and Renmark. This included services at 27 river locations in a river mission-field of some 1500km. In Loxton, Rev Bussell stopped at Habel's homestead, and at Stasinowsky's Landing. A stone plaque south of the present-day Loxton North pump-station now commemorates the latter. During 1894, the government had established Village Settlements along the river, from Morgan to Renmark. This grew the mission work 'spectacularly', soon including an extra 1500 people, and there were others in scattered local communities and rapidly developing towns. With the low rivers, Rev Bussell 'took horse' and rode horseback some 650km to reach parishioners between Morgan and Murtho, until Etona 2 was commissioned in 1900. Etona 2 served the mission faithfully until improvements in road transport, the pending arrival of the railway, and the establishment of church buildings in each town superseded the need for river-based transport. In January 1913, Etona 2 was sold to the Connor family as a fishing vessel. PHOTO: LoxStory.

Peter 'Digger' Ackland

LAST Wednesday marked the final day in a distinguished 43-year career in local government for Peter Ackland, more affectionately known as 'Digger'.

Starting as a fresh-faced 17-year-old finance clerk at the former District Council of Berri, Peter quickly demonstrated leadership qualities that saw him move to the Yorke

Peninsula in a management role. In 2004, Peter's love for the Riverland drew him back to take on his first full-time CEO role at the District Council of Loxton Waikerie. During Peter's 14-year tenure as CEO at Loxton Waikerie, I had the pleasure of working with, and learning from him.

Always the consummate professional, with a strong moral compass and a cheeky sense of humour, Peter fostered an enjoyable and productive working environment.

In September 2006, when I was appointed CEO of the District Council of Cleve, it marked the beginning of a 19-year relationship of mutual support - talking through challenging situations. Sometimes we would speak twice a week, other times not for months. But I always knew Peter was there, offering a listening ear and considered opinion.

In April 2018, Peter was appointed to perhaps his most challenging role — as CEO of the Port Pirie Regional Council.

Recognised as one of the topfive regional growth areas in Australia, Port Pirie presented many challenges, which Peter faced head-on during his sevenyear tenure.

Beyond his outstanding career in local government, Peter was also an accomplished A grade tennis player. And anyone who watched him play footy for the Berri Demons will remember him spinning out of packs - not unlike Zac Butters does these days.

Congratulations, Digger. The South Australian community is indebted to your outstanding service to the regional areas of our state.

I look forward to seeing you washing dishes in Vicky's café in Crystal Brook. Enjoy a well-earned retirement. TONY SIVIOUR

Renmark

Rates rising as services diminish

MANY aspects of the Renmark Paringa Council's plan sound excellent in theory, such as enhancing wellbeing, inclusivity and recognition of First Nation's people.

But the actual measures and the inclusion of outlying rural areas of the council, such as Gurra Gurra, are not.

Regarding the proposed Jane Eliza developments: this plan is totally bewildering.

To build in such a floodprone, vulnerable area seems insane.

Elsewhere in Australia, councils and governments are paying people to move away from flood plain areas to higher land as climate change impacts and '100-year floods' become more frequent.

I have lived through and remember well both the 1956 and the 2022/23 floods and respect the power of our river when it floods. Surely building on high ground at Paringa would make more sense if you wish to increase the size council's population?

And if such an incomprehensible development as Jane Eliza was to proceed, the developers should pay, as they are the ones who will profit from it, rather than the ratepayers, who will not only be hit by increased rates now but also higher insurance premiums when the floods do come.

Regarding flood readiness: this is currently very inadequate.

I believe Gurra Gurra was ignored and neglected by the council in 2022/23.

Levees built were done by the property owners at their own expense.

At first, we were all told to evacuate, regardless of whether our homes would flood or were well above the predicted flood levels. This was because of the council and State Government's failure to honour the agreement reached with Gurra residents before the 1997 building of the Berri Bridge.

The short access road from the Gurra Road to the new bridge road was promised to be built to the level of the Gurra Road. After the 1956 flood, all the property owners along the Gurra Road (including my parents) paid for the entire cost for the road to be raised above the 1956 flood level as far as Martin Road - despite the devastating losses each family had suffered and the years it took to replant and have fruit and income produced from the orchards.

This road did not flood in 2022/2023 and kept our properties safe from flooding from the back creeks and Lake Gurra Gurra.

However, flooding from the main river either did or would have occurred without the building of private levees.

Finally, after strong advocacy and various meetings, a temporary and narrow dirt bank was built over that short (approximately 250 metres) of bridge access road, allowing car access. This was much appreciated, though inadequate if cattle needed to be removed because of flooded pastures.

However, that temporary road enhancement was removed after the flood emergency and no response made to all representations asking for a permanent solution.

For those who did need to evacuate Gurra Gurra, little or nothing was done to support them.

Families were told that they would have to shoot their dogs or cats, or dispose of them in other ways, as they could not take them to a motel or to any shelter.

So, families had to find various, often expensive solutions. Furthermore, a large portion of the current council deficit relates to the huge overrun in the cost of the replacement of a bridge in Renmark which is still vulnerable to future flood damage.

It is no wonder that your endeavours to gain support to raise rates and to extend building on the flood plain at our expense are unlikely to gain any support from Gurra Gurra residents and many other ratepayers.

Regarding rate increases: outlying rural areas of the council receive very few benefits or services from the council.

We rarely visit or shop in Renmark. The only service we receive is that of the collection of our red bins weekly and our yellow recycling bins fortnightly.

This we pay for separately as an additional charge and I very rarely use the service, as I try to reduce waste, to avoid any nonrecyclable items and packaging, and otherwise reuse and recycle through the Berri recycling centre.

Rates collected from the Gurra Gurra and Lyrup etc. areas should be used primarily to benefit those areas. But rates have been going up and up while the services have diminished, even vanished.

Give me country over city

I FEEL sorry for city folk. Life is just one big competition for them to see who has the biggest house, car, boat or caravan.

I am not jealous by any stretch of the imagination. I would rather focus my values on flesh and blood.

However, I find trying to get any sense out of country folk is like getting water from a stone.

At least rural life lends itself to owning animals. If people were as loyal as animals, this world would be a far better place to live. A. BELL

Clubs applaud beer excise freeze

CLUBS Australia has welcomed the Albanese Labor Government's formal move to legislate a two-year freeze on draught beer excise, following today's introduction of the Excise and Customs Tariff Proposals in the House of Representatives.

The announcement delivers on a key election commitment and provides meaningful relief for clubs and their members.

Beer excise has gone up 83 times since 1983, making it one of the most relentless tax increases in the country. This freeze is a long-overdue break for community clubs and the people they serve.

The freeze will encourage people to keep heading to their local club to socialise with friends and family, where alcohol is served responsibly in a safe and social environment.

We applaud the government for progressing its commitment to freeze the excise on draught beer.

This is an outstanding win for the hospitality industry and the millions of Australians who enjoy a beer at their local club. REBECCA RIANT Executive director Clubs Australia

Holistic approach for lasting benefits

THE latest Murray-Darling Basin Plan Evaluation has again shown that only a holistic approach to water management can deliver lasting, basin-wide environmental improvements.

The Basin Plan Evaluation and Sustainable Rivers Audit, released last week, note that water recovery targets have been met, and ecological improvements have been observed.

On the socioeconomic front, some towns had navigated the reform process without major disruptions, but the Murray-Darling Basin Authority found others were not so fortunate.

The MDBA's Evaluation has acknowledged the importance of complementary measures, noting that integrated and targeted water management programs are the most successful at improving environmental outcomes.

NSW Irrigators' Council (NSWIC) has long advocated for a collaborative and coordinated approach that looks beyond simple volumetric targets, and we are pleased this is finally being recognised.

Factors cited by the MDBA as crucial to river health include "water quality, riparian and floodplain management, pest control, instream habitat, river operations, constraints and works, and environmental water portfolio management".

"This is a step in the right direction, underlining that investment in complementary measures is essential if we want to achieve enduring ecological improvements.

These complementary measures minimise impacts on irrigated agriculture and are supported by industry, environmentalists, and scientists alike.

Irrigated agriculture and the communities that depend on it have endured the immense reform and borne much of the brunt of the Basin Plan, with the MDBA conceding its Basinwide economic figures 'may mask the divergent experiences at the local level'.

NSWIC trusts the next Basin Plan will focus on how to best use the more than 3000GL of water recovered since 2000 under the 2012 Plan and earlier reforms, rather than simply recovering more water from farmers.

Water buybacks have often come at the expense of vulnerable irrigation-dependent communities like Collarenebri, Menindee or Deniliquin, that have never rebounded since water recovery took place.

We need to acknowledge the hard work done to date and admit environmental goals cannot be met by simply putting more water down the river. Our focus must now shift away from water recovery and towards how to best make use of the water that we already have.

Sleepless in crisis

ONE-in-six counselling contacts to Kids Helpline is suicide-related, and three-quarters come outside business hours.

To meet growing demand and help ensure no call goes unanswered, Australia's only 24/7 professional counselling service for children and young people will hold its inaugural Giving Day, on Thursday, July 24.

The national fundraising campaign was in response to the increasing number of young people seeking help late at night, and in the early hours of the morning.

We're seeing a steady rise in children and young people reaching out when most other services are closed.

Kids Helpline is answering more than 130,000 contacts a year, but the demand for counselling support is growing. Right now, we can only respond to three in every five contacts.

Some of the children we support are as young as five. We don't want to see any child or young person needing support and not being able to get it – that's a heartbreaking gap.

Kids Helpline is Australia's only free, private and confidential 24/7 phone and online counselling service for young people aged 5 to 25. It's a vital safety net for those facing mental health challenges, bullying, abuse, family breakdown, or loneliness.

The Giving Day will take place on July 24, reflecting the 24/7 nature of the service, which operates around the clock to support young people when they need it most.

Our Giving Day is a chance for all in our community to say we see you, we hear you, and we'll show up for you.

Kids Helpline counsellors conduct on average 89 crisis or safety interventions every week. Most of these happen afterhours, with 75 per cent of all contacts now occurring outside the traditional 9-to-5 window.

Whether it's 2am or 2pm during school hours, Kids Helpline is there — and your donation helps make sure no child in crisis goes unheard.

Your gift makes a real difference:

□ $55 gives a counselling session to one child in need □ $110 supports a young person through two or more critical moments

□ $550 supports a full day of critical responses, supporting multiple children and young people

Kids Helpline is funded by yourtown, with support from government/s, corporate and community donations. However, additional funding is needed to increase the capacity of the service to lift response rates.

RIT weighs in on MDBA report

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

FURTHER emphasis is needed on measures other than "just adding water" to improve the health of the Murray-Darling Basin, a local irrigation authority says in the wake of the latest Basin Plan report.

Responding to the MDBA's 2025 Basin Plan Evaluation, which assesses achievements and lessons learned from the past 13 years, Renmark Irrigation Trust CEO Rosalie Auricht welcomed an acknowledgment of irrigation efficiency, but warned that local growers had already done more than their share.

"The Trust and its growers invested heavily to remain viable with less water during the waterrecovery phase (of the Plan)," Ms Auricht told The Murray Pioneer.

"The state-run SARMS 3IP water-recovery program certainly did deliver a positive outcome for our community. However, it has reduced the Trust community's long-term water security by 23 per cent making the community more vulnerable when water supply becomes restricted.

"Unfortunately, the current Commonwealth ad hoc buyback program is making it impossible to foresee and plan for future buyback impacts.

"The low-hanging fruit has already been harvested."

In summarising the report, MDBA chief executive Andrew McConville said while implementation was not complete, the evaluation found evidence that "rivers, wetlands and lakes are in far better shape under the Basin Plan".

However, Mr McConville conceded that some irrigators had suffered under the Plan's implementation.

"At a Basin scale there have been substantial benefits, but it is also the case that for some irrigation-dependent communities this reform has been tough, with direct impacts," he said.

Mr McConville said the MDBA anticipated a "shortfall in water recovery under the Sustainable Diversion Limit Adjustment Mechanism".

He said the evaluation drew on more than 30 lines of evidence, including environmental monitoring, "lived experience", social and economic studies, and technical information.

Meanwhile the NSW Irrigators

Council (NSWIC) said irrigated agriculture and the communities that depend on it have endured "the immense reform and borne much of the brunt of the Basin Plan", given the MDBA conceded its Basin-wide economic figures could mask divergent experiences at local levels.

"NSWIC trusts the next Basin Plan will focus on how to best to use the more than 3000GL of water recovered since 2000 under the 2012 Plan and earlier reforms," said NSWIC CEO, Dr Madeleine Hartley, "rather than simply recovering more water from farmers."

A RIVERLAND Indigenous musician is set to debut a new collection of music next week when taking to the Chaffey Theatre stage in celebration of First Nation country music.

Performing alongside Nancy Bates and Jess Hitchcock cabaret-style, Gerard-based musician Eric Cook will debut a collection of new music next Wednesday at the Chaffey Theatre showcase, Blak Country.

"It's amazing to be playing along such recognisable and successful First Nation artists like Nancy and Jess," Mr Cook said.

"I think I just most excited to gain more performance experience and share my music with as many as I can.

"To be invited to (a showcase) like this, is just taking everything I have done to the next level — I am just so thankful."

Inspired by his father, Mr Cook said music has always been a part of his life from playing in Riverland original bands, the likes of Arafura C and Black Smoke, before "becoming a rhythm n' blues I am hoping I can encourage other and young Aboriginal artists to come through, or pick up the guitar

- Eric Cook

Although writing and creating music for a lifetime — with some original music recently released under the name EC Meru across streaming platforms — Mr Cook said his upcoming Blak Country performance will set the stage for an all entirely new set-list.

"I am hoping I can encourage other and young Aboriginal artists to come through, or pick up the guitar," he said.

"It's so important to me to share First Nation music, and just want to help in anyway to make the space bigger and showcase more Indigenous talent.

"I really hope people come along to hear some great music, and to be inspired."

Mount Mary sheep producer Michael Dreckow and his dog, Toby are eager for some follow up rain after receiving 18mm over Friday and Saturday. PHOTO: supplied

Rain welcomed but more needed...

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

FOURTH-generation Mid Murray farmer Michael Dreckow has received the first decent rainfall of the year on his property, at Mount Mary, west of Morgan.

The sheep producer recorded 18mm of rain in his gauge over Friday and Saturday.

"It started early on Friday morning and then it stopped around lunchtime, and then we had a bit more rain overnight, and then a little bit more overnight on Saturday night," Mr Dreckow said.

He said prior to this month's rain only small amounts had fallen on his property.

"It was not enough to make an impact, as there was little bits and pieces everywhere," Mr Dreckow said.

He is hoping for followup rain in spring after the latest downpour generated some natural grasses on his property for his sheep.

"We are in bluebush country and as soon as it rains, the sheep wander out into the paddock, so I guess the rain must wash a bit of the dirt off the bush, and freshen things up," Mr Dreckow said.

"They are all out there looking for a bit of a pick, so I can back off a bit on the hay, they are not hanging around.

"We definitely need a wet spring to enable us to get some feed now."

Mr Dreckow only has a few bales of hay left to feed his livestock, and throughout the year he has been feeding them grape marc, sourced from Berri, and orange peel supplied by a Waikerie grower.

The Mount Mary farmer was grateful to receive two donations of hay last year from interstate to help him feed his sheep, and has added his name to the waiting list to receive some more from Rural Aid.

"They said the list is pretty long and (they) are finding it harder and harder to source hay," Mr Dreckow said.

"I am not expecting anything any time soon."

Mr Dreckow said the charities interstate that were providing donations of hay to South Australian farmers had done "an amazing job".

"They are trying to help so many people, so you can see why they are fully stretched," he said.

"We certainly appreciate everything they do."

Mr Dreckow has his fingers crossed for more rain this week, but is concerned that it might dissipate over the Mount Lofty Ranges, before it reaches Mount Mary.

www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, July 30, 2025 NEWS 9 Arrival of rain leads to winter sowing

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

FARMERS in the Riverland West have welcomed the arrival of rain after six months of some of the driest conditions they have ever experienced.

Record-low rainfall figures have been recorded since the start of this year in numerous areas of South Australia.

Third-generation farmer Brenton Kroehn is making the most of the 15.5mm of rain he received on his property on Friday, at Kanni, near Waikerie by sowing a later crop of barley.

He spent the weekend preparing the ground to start planting about 283 hectares of barley on Monday.

Mr Kroehn said it was important to make the most of the latest rain by planting crops to cover his paddocks.

"It is really important that I get that in and I should have this done by about Thursday," he said.

"Hopefully we don't get too much wind for the next couple of weeks, this week's forecast is pretty mild.

"We shouldn't experience too much drift."

Mr Kroehn is hoping that his new barley crop will be established before any wind events occur again in the area.

He said if the rain continues he may be able to harvest the barley, or if the weather conditions are drier it could still be used as feed for his sheep.

Mr Kroehn also planted 161 hectares of barley and oats about four-to-six-weeks ago.

"I sowed that deliberately into reasonable cover by planting them into stubble from last year," he said.

"They are not going too bad, they are a bit patchy in spots and have had a little bit of wind damage, but they have held on okay.

"Certainly since the rain on Friday, their colour has picked up, you can already see a bit of growth, which is really good."

Mr Kroehn said it was important to cover his paddocks with crops to prevent soil erosion.

"If we go into summer with bare paddocks, they will blow away and there will be a lot of damage done," he said.

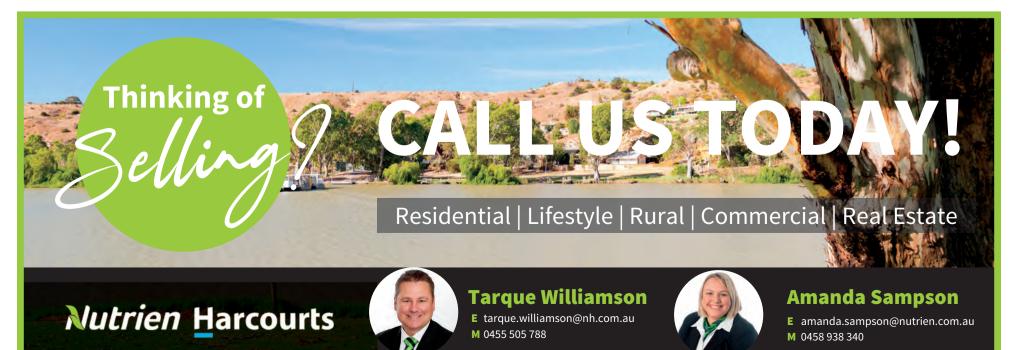

"When the erosion starts, it is very had to stop and you lose the organic matter on top."

He is hoping for the rain to continue and favourable weather conditions in spring.

"We don't want it too hot or windy and we are going to need follow up rain," Mr Kroehn said.

RIT ecologist Freya Harrihill is next month hosting a Guided Bird Tour, and Insect Collecting Workshop, as part of National Science Week. PHOTOS: supplied

Locals invited to RIT's science week events

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

RIVERLANDERS seeking to gain an insight into scientific processes, and help study local bird and insect populations, are invited to participate in upcoming activities being run by a local ecologist.

Renmark Irrigation Trust (RIT) ecologist Freya Harrihill will next month host a Guided Bird Tour, and Insect Collecting Workshop, as part of National Science Week.

Ms Harrihill said allowing larger numbers of locals to participate in scientific activities relating to local wetlands was a goal. "My main focus is looking at under-represented groups in the STEM ed groups in the STEM space," Ms Harrihill said "I wanted to keep it broad. The events will be really welcoming for kids to attend, and they will be hands-on activities.

"But the whole family can come and participate together. We're wanting to get as many people engaged as possible."

Ms Harrihill said the events would help provide an understanding of how bird and insect populations were responding to environmental initiatives. "Bird monitoring is really important, as the environmental watering directly impacts birds," she said.

"Insects are quite understudied in a lot of environments, and I thought it would be interesting to do a baseline study, so we can work out how environmental watering could be benefitting insect populations.

"I'm hoping to expose people to real-world scientific methods, and to make this accessible."

The Guided Bird Tour will take place from 9am to 10.30am, on Sunday August 10, and the Insect Collecting Workshop will run from 2pm to 3.30pm, on Saturday, August 16.

Free regional heavy vehicle workshop being held in Loxton

RIVERLAND producers will be able to attend a free and practical upcoming mechanical workshop, offering producers the chance to boost safety, compliance, and confidence when operating heavy vehicles pre-and-post farmgate.

Grain Producers SA (GPSA), in partnership with the National Heavy Vehicle Regulator (NHVR), is delivering another round of heavy vehicle workshops, funded by the NHVR's Heavy Vehicle Safety Initiative.

The Roadworthy Heavy Vehicles... Made Easy workshop, will be held on August 21, at Max's Mechanical Workshop, in Loxton.

The event is open to grain producers, and all Primary Producers SA (PPSA) commodity group members, who own and operate their own heavy vehicles.

The workshop program is designed to take the complexity out of vehicle compliance by giving producers a clear understanding of their obligations, including road safety awareness, maintenance responsibilities, and how to use the NHVR Heavy Vehicle Inspection Manual as a practical tool.

The GPSA-run sessions will be delivered by Bernie O'Hara from National Transport Consulting, who will walk producers through both the regulatory requirements and the common pitfalls that catch operators out. GPSA chief executive officer Brad Perry said the workshops are about putting producers in control of their road safety obligations.

"We want to make it as easy as possible for grain producers and other commodity group members to get their heavy vehicle compliance right," Mr Perry said.

"This initiative is about more than ticking boxes, it's about ensuring your vehicles are safe, your business is protected, and your team can operate with peace of mind. We know compliance can sometimes feel like a moving target - this program helps bring it into focus.

"GPSA is proud to once again partner with NHVR on this initiative, and we're grateful to the local mechanics who are providing their time and expertise to support our workshops."

In addition to the theory and practical sessions, each producer will be eligible for a free roadworthy inspection following the workshop with a participating local mechanic.

Places for these inspections are limited and must be booked through GPSA following the event. Workshop attendees will gain insight into:

 The NHVR Heavy Vehicle Inspection Manual and how it

Inspection Manual and how it applies to farming businesses.

□ Key heavy vehicle and road safety risks and how to proactively address them.

- Legal obligations for heavy vehicle owners and operators.
- □ Steps to improve maintenance record-keeping and inspection readiness.

Advice on how to navigate the Heavy Vehicle Portal, called 'NHVRGo'.

Places are limited and early registration is necessary.

French exchange students Blue, Garance, and Nicolas said the best part of their exchange program with Assisi College was making new friends. PHOTO: Madison Eastmond

A trip of a life-time at Assisi

MADISON EASTMOND

THREE international students are having the trip of a lifetime on exchange at a Riverland school, with their 12-week visit to Australia an experience and culture swap of food, fun, and friends.

Part of the school's exchange program, St Francis of Assisi College, Renmark, have been host to three French exchange students throughout the last and current term.

"As much as it is an amazing opportunity for our exchange students, it's a great chance for our Assisi students to meet and learn from people and their cultures from all over the world," a St Francis of Assisi College spokesperson told The Murray Pioneer.

"Earlier this year, we also had an exchange student from New Zealand, which was a wonderful experience — our students were so welcoming and our exchange student fitted in very well.

"All of the students we have had the pleasure to host have had the best time and have been able to make life-long connections, and Assisi is such a great place to experience (rural Australia).

"We often have kangaroos just outside of (our fence boundary), and there have been many opportunities for our exchange students to take part in a range of school life activities, including work experiences, school camps, and trips to Adelaide."

Travelling to the Riverland from Lyon, exchange student Blue said she was most surprised at the small amount of traffic on Australian roads compared to France.

"I went to Port Lincoln (and) there were not many cars," she said.

"Also, because it is smaller here, there is no public transport like (there is) at home."

Blue said the favourite part of her Australian exchange was "making new friends, travelling, and seeing koalas and kangaroos".

"I also went on two school camps," she said.

"(I travelled) to Adelaide for careers and geography camp, and went on a mountain bike outdoor education camp."

Nicolas said he choose to come to Australia because it was the furthest from Paris and an opportunity to experience a completely different lifestyle.

"I thought Australia would be hot and have a lot of insects, but it has been very cold," he said.

"I have really enjoyed the holidays, and also travelling to Adelaide to watch the AFL games."

Garance said other major differences in her new Riverland life included shorter school days.

"It's different in Australia, because in France we go to school from 8am to 6pm," she said.

"We have no school on Wednesday afternoons, but that is because (it is reserved) for sports or language activities."

Garance said she hoped the exchange would help "improve her English".

"It's good for me to know another language as it will help me at university, and in future jobs," she said.

Mental health support for drought affected farmers

RIVERLAND farmers in need of mental health support due to drought conditions are set to benefit from additional State Government support, aiming to provide continuous community engagement and increased wellbeing.

Three new programs will be available for farmers and regional communities impacted by drought, with $1m in targeted mental health and wellbeing support, as part of the State Government's response to drought conditions across South Australia.

Developed in consultation with industry experts, the wellbeing programs will be delivered by organisations already established within regional communities.

- □ Fat Farmers: This grassroots not-forprofit organisation will establish eight new physical activity groups across drought-affected regional areas, building on its existing network of 23 community groups. The program focuses on promoting mental wellbeing through social connection and exercise, tailored to local needs.
- □ Breakthrough Mental Health Foundation: The foundation will host a series of community wellbeing events and mental health first aid training sessions in regional towns. These will include seven men's and seven women's-focused workshops, as well as seven first aid training sessions to equip locals with skills to support their communities.

Grain Producers SA: Hosting five Great Grain Quiz Nights across drought-impacted areas, GPSA will bring community members together in a relaxed setting to foster social connection, conversation, and wellbeing.

Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development Clare Scriven said "this additional $1m investment has enabled development of initiatives following feedback from farmers and industry".

LOXTON businesses and community members are preparing to celebrate the town's creative side with the annual Arts on Terrace event.

Coinciding with the South Australian Living Arts Festival (SALA), Loxton is celebrating the beauty of art and is inviting everyone to get involved in a month-long showcase involving more than 20 local businesses. The August Art Trail showcases a progressive gallery with a collection of masterpieces created by talented local artists, highlighting street art and creativity.

Sunday, August 10, is the day when everyone will enjoy the 2025 'Arts on Terrace', a special day filled with creativity, commerce and colour happening on East Terrace, at Loxton.

Open from 10am till 3pm, the variety of workshops will be spread across local businesses, along with the anticipated Junk Art Sculpture Competition, which will have a final prize of $3000

"In addition to the workshops The Riverland Community Printmaking and the Live Art Canvas are events happening in East Terrace for anyone who's coming to town on that day and just wants to contribute to some artwork," Ms Altschwager said.

Artists Deb Colwill and Julie Wallis, from The Pinnaroo Project, will invite people to create their own stamps with Riverland Community Printmaking, and then contribute to a larger art piece based on a river and nature scene of the Riverland.

The Live Art Canvas, by art-

"We really love the concept of many people contributing to larger collaborative community pieces of art like these," Ms Altschwager said.

Ms Altschwager emphasised the local support from Loxton businesses.

"Our local businesses are always so generous with their support during this month, allowing display space in store and working together to create the August Art Trail," she said.

"We have another packed pro-

Riverland wine industry forgotten?

A RIVERLAND politician has voiced his concerns over a recently announced support package for wine exporters, aimed to tackle ongoing challenges that have impacted global trading.

Almost $4m will be delivered to support South Australian wine exporters over the next two years, with the State Government last week announcing the Global Wine Growth Program, ahead of the broader trade and investment strategy launched today.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said "the commercial wine sector is being hit hard by the global decline in sales and consumption".

"Once again, this Labor Government are playing the popular game, particularly with the premium wine product," Mr Whetstone said.

The new program, co-designed alongside the South Australian wine industry, will focus on delivering strong commercial outcomes and building the state's global recognition.

The program's announcement comes ahead of South Australia's Trade and Investment Strategy to 2030, which will be launched by SA's Premier Peter Malinauskas and Trade and Investment Minister Joe Szakacs today.

Markets including China, the US and UK, will be its main focus, plus emerging wine markets like South East Asia.

Mr Whetstone said "the wine industry engine room is the Riverland, and this government have forgotten where it is and how important it is in the big picture."

South Australian wine accounted for more than two-thirds of Australia's total global wine exports until March this year, totalling more than $1.9bn, with SA being home to more than 700 wineries across 18 distinct wine regions, producing 80 per cent of Australia's premium wine, and responsible for 70 per cent of the country's wine and grape research capability.

The Global Wine Growth Program expands on the substantial success of the $1.85m Wine Exporters China Re-engagement Support Program, announced in March 2024, which saw South Australia recover 90 per cent of its all-time peak wine exports to China in just one year, outperforming other states.

Minister for Trade and Investment Joe Szakacs said "South Australia is Australia's undisputed wine capital, and this program will ensure that this crucial industry cannot only adapt to changing global markets but thrive within them".

"Through the State Government's Wine Exporters China Re-engagement Support Program and the Wine Export Diversification Program, we've seen the industry lift exports back to near record levels," Mr Szakacs said.

"Now we're taking the next step to seize on this opportunity."

Beloved BSR volunteer cooking up recognition

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

A BELOVED Riverland West volunteer has been recognised as part of a national initiative, celebrating the unsung heroes behind the scenes at football clubs.

Elouise Stalenberg, a volunteer of the Blanchetown Swan Reach (BSR) Football Netball Club, was recently named a Bunnings 'Legend of the Tongs', for her continuous support to the club for more than 15 years.

Ms Stalenberg has gone from president to coach, treasurer and committee member, wearing just about every hat at the club.

Whether she's flipping burgers at Friday night training, or dishing up hot meals on game day, Ms Stalenberg has become the heart and soul of the club kitchen, with the apron becoming her trademark.

Ms Stalenberg said "it is very humbling to recognised... but really, it can never be just one person who keeps clubs running".

"There is an enormous weight between many and we all carry it together which is something I am so proud of," she said.

"Our committee is wonderful and we all share the passion, as well as the challenges."

Her famous meals are more than just a post-match refill, they've become a local tradition, and Ms Stalenberg is always there with the tongs in hand and a smile on her face. "She doesn't just cook," one club member said.

"She creates a space where everyone, young, old, win or lose, feels like they belong."

After tragically losing her home in a fire a few years ago, Ms Stalenberg experienced the power of community.

The town rallied around her family, a moment she says reaffirmed her love for Blanchetown, and her drive to give back.

"Community is everything out here," she said.

"It's not just about the footy, it's about creating a place where people feel supported and connected."

Ms Stalenberg has numerous cherished memories through her years at the club.

"My husband won his footy premiership in 2022, when he was the club president, and running out on to the oval with 400 spectators to all celebrate together was like nothing footy clu I have experienced before," Ms Stalenberg "In ou limited, footy clubs are pivotal...

said. "The emotion that ran through me when I reached my husband and we looked at it each other and said 'we did it'. It wasn't just a footy game.

"Nothing beats a premiership, but it is even more incredible when you share it with people you have worked so hard with to make it there."

Ms Stalenberg also recognised the importance of sport activities and clubs in small regional areas.

"In small towns where connection is vital, but places and activities to make that connection happen are limited, footy clubs are pivotal," Ms Stalenberg said.

"They're at the heart of every country town, and when anyone new comes in to town, the first port of call is to call up to the footy club and meet the locals.

In small towns where connection is vital, but places and activities to make that connection happen are

"In our incredible town, when they do this, they are welcomed in straight away as a local too. It doesn't get much better than that.

- Elouise Stalenberg

"We also live in a very farming-dominant area, and the impacts of drought and floods have made life pretty tough for some, but at the footy club, everyone rallies, everyone supports, and we all have each other's backs."

As part of her recognition, the Blanchetown Swan Reach Football Netball Club will receive a Bunnings barbeque prize pack.

Ms Stalenberg is also now in the running to be crowned the ultimate 'Legend of the Golden Tongs', with a grand prize including a trip for two to the 2025 Toyota AFL Grand Final and $25,000 in Bunnings products and materials for the club.

MEET YOUR LOCAL LAWYERS

Vital support during life-changing challenges

LAWYERS play a crucial role in emergencies for Riverlanders, providing vital legal support when individuals, families, and businesses face urgent and often lifechanging challenges. Whether the emergency is a natural disaster, a medical crisis, a sudden arrest, or an unexpected loss, the legal system becomes an essential tool to ensure rights are protected and fair outcomes are achieved.

In times of crisis, access to legal advice can make a profound difference. For example, during bushfires, floods, or other natural disasters in South Australia, residents may be left dealing with destroyed homes, lost possessions, and interrupted businesses. In these situations, lawyers help navigate complex insurance claims, tenancy issues, and government compensation schemes. They also assist with disputes that may arise between landlords and tenants, builders and homeowners, or between neighbours impacted by property damage. Without legal guidance, many individuals may be unaware of their entitlements or how to secure them.

Legal support is also essential when people face unexpected interactions with the police or legal system. A person arrested or detained — perhaps during a protest or due to a misunderstanding — needs immediate legal advice to understand their rights, options, and obligations. In criminal emergencies, a lawyer's presence can ensure that proper procedures are followed and that the accused receives fair treatment under the law.

Health emergencies can also lead to urgent legal needs. For instance, if a loved one is suddenly incapacitated, decisions about medical treatment, guardianship, or power of attorney may need to be made quickly. In such cases, lawyers help ensure that the rights of vulnerable individuals are protected and that decisions comply with South Australia's legal framework.

Business owners may also face emergencies — such as insolvency, contract breaches, or cyber-attacks — requiring rapid legal intervention. Lawyers help mitigate losses, negotiate solutions, and protect commercial interests in these high-pressure situations.

For the most vulnerable in society, including the elderly, people with disabilities, and those experiencing domestic violence, lawyers are often a lifeline in emergencies. They help secure intervention orders, access emergency housing, and ensure the safety of at-risk individuals.

Lawyers provide clarity, protection, and advocacy when people are at their most vulnerable. Their work helps locals manage emergencies with confidence, knowing that their legal rights are defended and their futures safeguarded.

Loxton artist brings new life to Lions Club bench

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

AN UNUSED bench will be transformed into a new piece of Loxton public art, which will find its permanent home alongside the Murray River Queen (MRQ), as a special request from its owners.

A collaboration between local artist Lyn Anstey, and MRQ owner Donna Neal, will see a once-forgotten bench become a colourful tribute to community spirit, combining personal memory with creative expression.

Painted in vibrant blue and orange, a nod to the Lions Club colours, the piece celebrates Donna Neal's late father, while also inviting conversation among locals.

When Ms Neal heard the old Lions Club bench seat was about to be thrown away, she knew she had to save it, as a piece of community history, and as a tribute to her late father, who was a Lions Club member.

Ms Anstey was approached to design the bench and offered several creative options.

"Ms Neale liked the idea of the blue and the oranges, because of the significance with the Lions Club," Ms Anstey said.

The bench has already become a talking point on the Loxton riverfront.

"So many people stop and chat about it when they're coming by, they love it," Ms Anstey said.

"Public art is just amazing, because if you walked past a bench seat that was plain and ordinary, they keep walking, but when they walk past something with colour, they smile."

The transformation is still ongoing, with plans to continue painting the remaining end of the bench to complete the tribute in the next couple of weeks.

"The project stands not only as a tribute to a beloved father, but also as a reminder of the power of art to connect people and breathe new life into forgotten corners of the community," Ms Anstey said.

Ex-local Josh hosts 'inspiring' podcast talk with Taylor

AN ex-Riverlander's popular podcast has provided a "raw and inspiring" talk between two young entrepreneurs.

A new episode of the Dialled Minds podcast – hosted by former Loxton local Josh Arnold – features well-known SA real estate personality Taylor Bishop.

Mr Arnold said the pair's discussion examines "what it really takes to build a career – and a life – grounded in resilience, mindset and self-belief". "This episode is about more than business, it's about getting real, trusting yourself and learning from every moment, even the tough ones," he said.

Mr Bishop said he aimed to share "how he broke records as a beginner agent, his signature method of selling the story, not just the home, and the psychology behind building trust and connection in real estate".

Local businesses urged to stay vigilant on GST fraud

RIVERLAND businesses have been warned against engaging in fraudulent GST practices, as authorities have uncovered a growing national trend of falsified invoices and inflated refund claims, particularly in the property and construction industries.

The Australian Taxation Office (ATO) is cracking down on a growing wave of GST fraud, warning businesses against lodging dishonest claims and falsifying invoices to obtain inflated GST refunds. The ATO has identified a concerning trend, in which real businesses are creating fraudulent invoices in order to claim credits for services or transactions that never occurred.

The ATO is urging businesses to act with integrity, report wrongdoing, and come forward voluntarily if involved, stating that serious penalties, including prosecution, are to be expected.

ATO assistant commissioner Adam O'Grady said "the ATO is seeing a rise in dishonest GST claims".

"Despite previous warnings from the Serious Financial Crime Taskforce, we're still seeing attempts to cheat the system – not by individuals creating fake businesses, but by legitimate businesses lodging dishonest claims," Mr O'Grady said.

While the majority of businesses are doing the right thing, the ATO is concerned about a small, but troubling number of operators attempting to claim millions in GST refunds by misrepresenting their financial activities.

"These arrangements often involve two-related businesses fabricating transactions to justify inflated GST refunds," Mr O'Grady said.

"Some even claim credits for services that were never delivered, or for property purchases that never actually occurred."

The ATO has released a formal Taxpayer Alert to notify businesses of these arrangements, and is encouraging people across the business community to remain alert.

Common examples of these fraudulent schemes include:

- □ Claiming GST credits for construction work that was never carried out.
- □ Charging for 'management fees' or services that were never rendered.
- □ Lodging claims for property purchases that are yet to take place.
- □ Multiple businesses claiming GST credits for the same invoice.
- □ Completely fictitious invoicing to generate refunds.

"These scams are often disguised as clever tax minimisation strategies," Mr O'Grady said.

"But the truth is, if it looks too good to be true, it probably is. These are not harmless loopholes - they're serious acts of fraud."

Consequences can include interest charges, significant financial penalties, and even criminal prosecution.

Cases may be referred to the Commonwealth director of public prosecutions.

The ATO is urging Riverland residents to remain vigilant and report suspicious activity.

'We know the majority of businesses are honest and hardworking, this kind of behaviour undermines trust in the system and puts compliant operators at a disadvantage," Mr O'Grady said.

The ATO is also encouraging businesses who may have inadvertently become involved in such arrangements to come forward voluntarily.

To report suspected GST fraud confidentially, tipoffs can be made online or by calling 1800 060 062.

For more information or to read the full alert, visit the website (www.ato.gov. au).

Waikerie's Cooper on target at fly shoot championship

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

A 12-year-old Waikerie boy has won the South Australian Fly Shoot Rimfire 200 yard Championship, at the Monarto Shooting Complex.

In extremely windy conditions, Cooper Ward scored 196 points and achieved one fly hit in the recent competition.

His accuracy earned him first place in the junior category and the overall competition, beating his dad Craig, who came second overall, scoring 176 points and winning the senior category.

The event involves using a .22 Rimfire rifle to shoot at a round target for points.

Competitors who hit the fly in the centre of the target achieve bonus points.

Mr Ward said the windy conditions made it a tough event.

"It is really hard shooting in the wind because you are trying to fire that little bullet about 183m away from a gun that was designed for 50-to-100m," he said.

"That little bullet gets ripped around by the wind anyway, so you are trying to compensate and allow for that."

The Wards, Cooper (left), Craig, and Cohen, of Waikerie, all had success at the recent South Australian Fly Shoot Rimfire 200 vard Championship.

Cooper's brother, Cohen, 10, who only started shooting about five-months ago came second in the junior category and fourth outright, with a score of 137 and one fly hit.

Mr Ward said the Riverland dominated the competition in numbers and results.

Out of the 10 competitors, five were from the Riverland, from Waikerie, and Markaranka, near Taylorville.

Liam Wilson, from Markaranka, came third in the juniors and his dad, Jamie, came second in the seniors and third overall.

The Wards and Wilsons practise their shooting at the SSAA Barmera Pistol and Rifle Club.

Mr Ward said the Riverlanders were the underdog in the competition and surprised themselves.

"A lot of the other competitors were experienced with a lot of years of shooting," he said. "I was hoping for something good for us in the competition, but I was not expecting the results that we achieved. "I was kind of taken aback by how well we did because we don't have the best equipment like some of the other entrants to practise with."

Mr Ward said the windy conditions deterred some shooters from taking part, as entries were down compared to last year

He said rifle shooting was a good sport for youngsters.

"As a sport it is progressing and is something that younger people can excel in, because they have younger and better eyes," Mr Ward said.

"They have less mental strains and can focus on shooting," he said.

"There is a 14-year-old boy from Queensland who has just been selected to compete in the World Juniors, for the under 25s.

"When Cooper participates in shooting, he can focus and concentrate on the task.

"I liken it to archery and throwing darts, it requires concentration and technique.

Cohen Ward, 10, was runner up in the junior category of the South Australian Fly Shoot Rimfire 200 yard Championship.

Council and community effort results in rate rise reduction

SIMONE BAILEY Mayor Mid Murray Council

IN the face of rising costs and financial pressure across the board, Mid Murray Council has delivered a welcome surprise for ratepayers in its 2025/26 Annual Business Plan and Budget: a reduced rate rise, down from the 4.84 per cent initially proposed, to a final increase of 3.84 per cent for existing ratepayers.

This 1 per cent reduction is thanks to the collective efforts of council and community, who have worked together to improve council's long-term financial sustainability. It's a small, but meaningful win that reflects the values we hold dear in the Mid Murray: supporting one another, working collaboratively, and finding practical ways to ease pressure where we can.

Over the past two years, our community has played a vital role in council's sustainability review. This process has been about more than just cutting costs, it's been about reshaping how council operates to ensure we're using resources wisely and delivering the best possible outcomes for our region. The savings we've achieved so far have helped place us in a stronger financial position and enabled us to reduce the rate increase below what was originally forecast.

Of course, we know that many in our community are still doing it tough. The cost of living continues to rise, and council is not immune, as our own operating expenses are increasing year on year. That's why we remain committed to keeping rates as fair and reasonable as possible. If you're experiencing financial difficulty, please reach out and ask about our Hardship Policy, we're here to help.

Community feedback also continues to be an essential part of council's decision-making. In recent months, residents have shared their views on asset management, development planning, dog and cat management, wastewater services, and financial planning. Your input helps shape our priorities and ensures we're investing in the areas that matter most. Thank you to everyone who has contributed, and if you haven't yet, I encourage you to get involved in future engagement via the website (engagement.mid-murray.sa.gov. au).

On a broader level, council continues to advocate for more equitable funding for regional communities. In June, I attended the National General Assembly of Local Government, in Canberra, alongside more than 1300 local government leaders from across Australia. It was an important opportunity to highlight the unique challenges faced by rural councils like ours and to call for fairer funding models. While the Federal Government acknowledged the increased responsibilities placed on local councils, it unfortunately ruled out the Australian Local Government Association's call to double Financial Assistance Grants. However, I was encouraged by the Minister for Local Government's commitment to continue engaging with councils so she can hear directly from communities like ours.

Simone Bailey

At the end of the day, our goal is simple: to work with our community to strengthen and enrich the Mid Murray district. Thank you to everyone for being part of that journey, and for continuing to stand with us as we build a stronger, fairer future together.

MDA calling for carp virus release

A PEAK Murray River representative body says use of the cyprinid herpesvirus 3 (carp virus) is needed to address "overarching" issues caused by the pest.

The Murray-Darling Association (MDA) is advocating for the Federal Government to implement available carp management methods, including utilisation of the carp virus.

MDA CEO Mark Lamb said carp had damaged the Murray-Darling system through erosion along riverbanks, the devastation of native plants, and causing water quality issues with "serious impacts to communities reliant on the precious resource for survival". "The impact of European carp is a uniting factor across the Basin, its impact transcends State boundaries," Mr Lamb said.

The Federal Government in 2016 began investigating the use of the carp virus to control numbers of the pest, culminating in the Fisheries Research and Development Corporation publishing the National Carp Control Plan, in 2022.

Mr Lamb said the MDA was engaging with experts, industry, and local governments, to understand what infrastructure exists in a suitable format to process dead fish following the use of carp management methods.

The MDA is calling for the cyprinid herpesvirus 3 to be used in order to manage populations of carp through the Murray-Darling system. PHOTO: supplied

Loxton Ladies Probus Club life members Yae Schoenhenzel. Gloria Pluckhahn, and Thora Rohrlach, were asked to help take part in the cake ceremony for the club's 39th birthday recently. PHOTOS: supplied

A Loxton Probus 39th fit for the Queen

THE Loxton Ladies Probus Club recently celebrated their 39th birthday with lunch on board the Murray River Queen, now moored at the Loxton Riverfront Lions Park.

Breaking with tradition, the club did not invite others to their birthday function, keeping the celebrations for their current membership of 70 members.

President Lori Fielke presented service certificates to Gloria Pluckhahn for 35 years of membership. Gloria joined in 1990, was vice president in 2004, president in 2005, committee member from 2006, and membership officer from 2007 to 2023.

Ms Fielke said Gloria was made a life member of the club in 2023.

Barb Prior was also presented with a 25-year service certificate, having joined in 2000. She was bulletin editor from 2001 to 2003, and profiles officer in 2013.

The club also noted Joyce Neuman, who was unavailable due to ill-health, should have received her 20-year service certificate, as she joined in 2005, was vice president in 2018, president in 2019, and on the committee for 2020 and 2021.

Ms Fielke said life members Gloria, Thora Rohrlach, and Yae Schoenhenzel were asked to light the 39th birthday cake candles, cut the cake and fan out the candles.

Murray River Queen owner/ Donna Neale was thanked by Loxton Ladies Probus treasurer Suzanne Coombs for her talk, updating the members of what's been happening with the Queen since coming to Loxton late last year.

Gloria Pluckhahn and Barb Prior both received service certificates, for 35 and 25 years' service, respectively, to the club.

A short skit 'The Cat' was given by Helen Kaesler, Beth Graham and Anne Battams, as well as Judy Falting and Lori Fielke with 'Disorder in the Court', for entertainment. A 'pass the parcel' was organised by vice president Anne Battams and secretary Helen Kaesler, a traditional game at birthday parties. A short history of the club was also given.

Murray River Queen owner/director Donna Neale gave an update of her life on board the Queen since coming to Loxton, and the challenges she has had with getting the accommodation up and running, then the café – named 'The Fruit Packer's Daughters' – and lastly the dining room. It's been a long and tiresome time for Donna, and the club is so happy she has achieved her dream and made it come true.

Members are reminded the club's next morning tea will be Tuesday, July 22, at 10am, at the Loxton Pizza Bar, with the next monthly meeting being Tuesday, August 12, at the Loxton Club, at 10am.

www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, July 30, 2025 NEWS 27 Mobile phone ban drives positive behaviour

THE 2023 ban on mobile phones at public high schools, including in the Riverland, has continued to show improvements in student behaviour and wellbeing.

New data has been released as the mobile phone 'off and away' policy reached the two-year anniversary of its full introduction.

Department for Education incident reporting shows there has been a 72 per cent decline in matters related to mobile phone use in terms 1 and 2 of 2025 – compared to the same period in 2023, before the ban was in place.

This represents reported matters centered on students failing to comply with the policy or overall behaviour involving phones, along with a reduction in issues involving social media – such as cyber bullying, circulation of explicit content, or other concerning online behaviour.

Issues related to social media have seen a huge drop of approximately 80.5 per cent from June 2023, when the policy was implemented, to the same time this year – from 154 down to 30.

Behaviour issues have decreased by 60.3 per cent from June 2023, to the same time this year, from 111 down to 44.

Analysis also shows that most of the issues reported in these categories have taken place off site, or outside of school hours.

Building on the ban, students will also receive updated education about online safety, risks of inappropriate engagement, and how to get support around digital safety and appropriate use of devices.

Additionally, more students are feeling a greater sense of wellbeing and school connectedness, according to the most recent Wellbeing and Engagement (WEC) Collection student survey.

About 73 per cent of South Australian public school students took part in the survey across 476 schools. Of those surveyed, 61 per cent reported feeling strongly connected to school in 2025, an increase from 59 per cent in 2022.

This nation-leading mobile phone ban has been an important change, which helps students concentrate on their studies...

- Blair Boyer

High wellbeing related to connectedness to school among year 7 to 9 students rose from 51 per cent in 2023 to 54 per cent in 2025, and among year 10 to 12 students, from 54 per cent in 2023, to 58 per cent in 2025.

Of those surveyed, 42 per cent reported a strong sense of school belonging in 2025, an increase from 39 per cent from 2023.

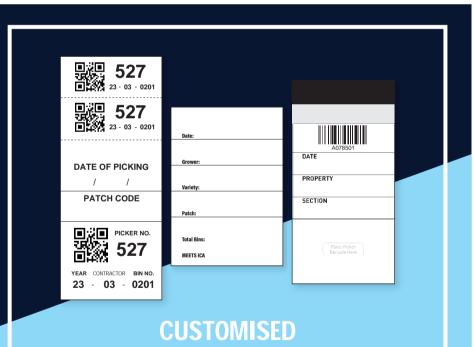

"As the community grapples more widely with damage caused by social media platforms, this government has taken decisive action to protect young people in school," Minister for Education, Training and Skills Blair Boyer said.

"This nation-leading mobile phone ban has been an important change, which helps students concentrate on their studies and build face-to-face relationships.

"While other states and territories have now followed our lead, South Australia remains the strongest ban in the country, with the 'off and away' policy also implemented during recess and lunch – meaning students are off their phones and interacting with each other through sports or club activities. We knew this was the right thing to do and the data is reflecting that.

"This has also been reflected in the wellbeing data which shows students are more connected to their school, which in turn, results in better academic achievement.

"Given our investments in a range of wellbeing initiatives for our schools, this is incredibly pleasing."

Mr Hunter proposed a toast to Lions Clubs International (LCI) and spoke about our club's long-standing service to our community, highlighting our successful monthly fundraising Bazaar and its involvement in recycling goods within our community.

ed club members Mr Radloff, David Gates, Roger Trimper, and Steve Johnson, for their special support to him and the club during the year. Certificates were also given to Wayne Dyer, Print DNA and Elders Renmark, in recognition of their on-going support to our Lions club.

Mr Farr gave a special Certificate of Appreciation to outgoing secretary Rozz Dyer for her tremendous efforts in taking on the position during the past two years. She has completely revamped all the club's records and files, and has proven to be very efficient in this important club officer position. We wish Ms Dyer well in her new role of 'granny', in looking after her new grandson.

Ms Andrew presented a Years of Service Milestone Chevron Award to Graham Edwards, and a Sponsor's Certificate to Strat Iosefellis during the evening.

Ms Andrew conducted the handover and induction of president elect Paul for a third term and the board of directors for 2025/26.

ROTARY TO THE RESCUE: A few weeks ago Loxton's Bert Haslam received a call for help from the Loxton & Districts Health Advisory Council (HAC), with a request to welcome a contract nurse arriving in Adelaide, from India, and destined for the Loxton Hospital Complex. The HAC was unavailable, so the call went out to Rotary to help. Despite being on leave, Bert, and wife Kath, detoured via Adelaide on their way home from Melbourne, and on July 6, greeted Christy Philip at the airport and assisted her back to Loxton. A big thanks to Bert and Kath for taking this task on themselves – for their effort Rotary gets the kudos of helping an essential organisation in our community. PHOTO: supplied

Berri Regional Secondary College hosts 2025 exchange

A RIVERLAND school and Mount Gambier high school have taken-part in a cherished tradition both schools have enjoyed since 1947.

Berri Regional Secondary College (BRSC) last term welcomed Mount Gambier High School (MGHS) for the 2025 Exchange, with the program adapted this year with students meeting in Bordertown for two-days of sports and an annual debate held online.

There were seven sports matches held across the two days, including futsal, football, netball, and basketball.

Earlier in the week, the BRSC debate team — represented by Grace, Charlie, and Ebony presented a case against the topic 'AI is a threat to education', with their delivery winning the Debating Shield for 2025.

Charlie was also awarded Best Speaker for his articulate delivery, sharp rebuttals, and commanding presence.

"The school wanted to express gratitude to parents, grandparents, and community members for their support and attendance, enriching the school culture," A BRSC spokesperson said.

"Special thanks are also given to past students who volunteered, demonstrating the lasting impact of the exchange program.

"Beyond the competition, students developed valuable life skills in teamwork, resilience, and communication, preparing them for future success.

"The highly skilled Berri Regional Media team broadcast the competitions via their Facebook page, allowing all supporters to view and support from afar.

"This exchange is more than a competition; it builds relationships, showcases school pride, and makes history.

"The community eagerly anticipates next year's event hosted by Mount Gambier, with hopes of retaining the debating shield and reclaiming the sports shield."

Probus Club drops in at Pioneer

THE Loxton Mens Probus Club Interest Group recently undertook an outing to Renmark to visit The Murray Pioneer, the new Royal Flying Doctor Service (RFDS) building operations at the Renmark Airport, and to enjoy lunch at the Lyrup Club.

A total of 26 members of the Probus Club enjoyed morning tea on the lawns opposite The Murray Pioneer, followed by an explanation and viewing of the printing of the newspaper from start to finish, capably explained by long-time staff members Sally Giles and Michael Wickham.

President of the Mens Probus Club Trevor Fielke said all attending were very impressed at how quickly the Pioneer is printed now, and how much work, detail and total concentration Mr Wickham has to endure during the whole printing process. JC Irvings manager Carl Boehm explained how the printing process is compiled and completed, mostly via computers these days.

Mr Fielke said members then visited the RFDS site, with volunteer Alan Eckermann taking them through the building, and explaining what happens when a transfer occurs, via fixed wing or helicopter to hospitals in Adelaide.

Mr Eckerman praised the outstanding work and support by fundraising from Riverland people for this wonderful emergency service, regularly needed by country people.

Mr Fielke said an enjoyable day concluded with lunch at the Lyrup Club.

decade of making a difference

ZOETIS has reaffirmed its commitment to supporting the wellbeing of the country's farming and regional communities, like the Riverland, by continuing its longstanding partnership with mental health organisation Beyond Blue.

Zoetis has partnered with Beyond Blue since 2016, donating more than $900,000 to help fund mental health support services for people living outside major cities.

This year marks the 10th year of the partnership, with Zoetis aiming to raise $100,000 in 2025 by donating $5 from each sale of the company's livestock, pig, poultry and companion animal vaccines and parasiticide products up to $100,000, to reach the $1m milestone.

Livestock business unit director Fred Schwenke said the campaign reflects the need for a long-term approach to addressing mental health in regional areas.

'Supporting rural Australia on its long journey to better mental health is not a quick fix - it's a sustained and compassionate effort," Mr Schwenke said.

"We know farmers and rural communities are strong, but they're not invincible. Improving mental health outcomes requires more than just awareness; it needs consistent, meaningful action and unwavering, longterm support.

"That's why, 10 years on, Zoetis remains firmly committed to its partnership with Beyond Blue."

Australia's rural and remote populations face a unique set of challenges.

While mental health conditions occur at similar rates across the country, people in rural areas often face greater barriers to getting help, as access to services can be limited by distance, cost, poor connectivity, or concerns about privacy and stigma.

Farming communities in particular are under pressure, dealing with everything from natural disasters and economic instability to the emotional toll of isolation.

Recent data shows around 30 per cent of farmers have experienced a decline in their mental health in recent years.

The biggest factors include weather events and natural disasters, reported by 47 per cent of farmers, followed by financial pressure at 36 per cent, and rising costs at 35 per cent.

Almost half of Australian farmers report experiencing feelings of depression, while 64 per cent say they have dealt with anxiety.

Alarmingly, 45 per cent of farmers say they have had thoughts of selfharm or suicide, and nearly a third have attempted it.

Every two minutes, someone in Australia contacts the Beyond Blue Support Service.

Free and confidential, the service provides 24/7 access to experienced counsellors, offering support when it's needed most.

The most common issues people seek help for include anxiety, depression, relationship difficulties, grief and adjustment issues, all of which are compounded by the stressors of rural life.

Beyond Blue CEO Georgie Harman calls each contact "a moment of courage".

When someone in rural Australia picks up the phone or jumps online to talk to Beyond Blue, it's often the first step in turning things around,"

Ms Harman said.

"It takes strength to reach out for support, but getting help early can ease distress and stop issues from escalating.'

"This partnership with Zoetis is so vital for us, as it helps make that step possible for more people. To date, funds donated by Zoetis have helped over 17,000 people across rural and regional Australia access mental health support through our Support Service."

The majority of people who contact the service report an improvement in their wellbeing, with 76 per cent saying they felt less distressed after making contact.

Between July 15 and October 31, Australians can support the Zoetis and Beyond Blue initiative by purchasing eligible Zoetis livestock, pig, poultry, and companion animal vaccines or parasiticide animal health products. Zoetis will donate $5, up to $100,000, to Beyond Blue Support Services, to help more people in rural communities access the support they need.

For more information, or to support the campaign visit the website (www.zoetis.com.au).

If you or someone you know needs support, the Beyond Blue Support Service offers free and immediate counselling, advice and referrals via phone, webchat or email.

To talk to a mental health professional for free, contact the 24/7 Beyond Blue Support Service on 1300 22 46 36.

The free web chat is also available 24/7 at (beyondblue.org.au/supportservice/chat) and you can join the online forums (forums.beyondblue. org.au/) for free.

RFL community raises awareness for DV

A JOINT promotion to raise awareness of domestic and family violence was undertaken last Saturday between the Riverland Football League, and the four Riverland Rotary Clubs.

The colour purple has been used to identify the domestic violence issue, so everyone attending the grounds were encouraged to wear purple as a token of support.

Rotary Club of Loxton spokesman Peter Angel was enthused by the exposure the issue received from the event.

"We know the subject of domestic violence is not spoken about freely in the community," Mr Angel said.

"So to have the RFL partner with us so enthusiastically was very positive."

The RFL were keen participants in the promotion, providing information and ideas to each of the clubs to raise the issue with their players and supporters.

Posters and flyers were displayed around clubrooms and affiliated venues, and the subject raised at training and team selection nights. Players wore purple armbands as a show of support.

The flyers that were distributed included a page titled The Chilling Facts. Statistics included 78 women in 2024 were killed in gender-based violence, Many young men and boys, like those playing footy today, are bombarded with mixed messages about masculinity, some of them guite toxic, which can be very confusing...

Children suffer too, from direct physical abuse, and they often witness or are exposed to domestic violence, which impacts their lives.

Mr Angel commented "many young men and boys, like those playing footy today, are bombarded with mixed messages about masculinity, some of them quite toxic, which can be very confusing".

"But the fact that the reverse of the statistics – that three-in-four women have not experienced intimate partner violence – means that respectful relationships are the normal thing that

ROUND 15 of the SANFL has come around faster than a New York minute.

Eight clubs this week have the bye in the men's league, with Sturt having a deserved rest, sitting unbeaten on top of the table with 14 wins. Meanwhile, at the other end of the ladder the luckless Westies are also having a much-needed break and reboot as the league heads into the final rounds of the season.

The 'SANFL Showdown' between Adelaide and Port took place on Saturday night at the Adelaide Oval. Then Sunday saw the culmination of the SANFLW season, with the grand final, at Stratarama stadium. The SANFLW was already abuzz on Monday July 21, when West Adelaide's Zoe Venning won the league's best and fairest with 24 votes, with South Adelaide's Soriah Moon in second. Well done to everyone on the night.

SANFL

Adelaide FC vs Port Adelaide Magpies

On a cold, windy and wet night at the Adelaide Oval. The Crows fought the weather, inaccuracy and a determined Port Adelaide side in a gritty slog for an important win that strengthens their push for a double-chance in the finals. Under constant pressure from the Magpies, who are trying to keep their top-five hopes alive, Adelaide kicked an inaccurate 2 goals and 9 behinds in the third quarter, including 9 behinds on the run.

A few heavy downfalls made disposals hard to make cleanly. Matt Crouch pushed for an AFL recall with 36 disposals, and Luke Nankervis had 26 handy touches and an eye-catching goal for the Crows. Will Lorenz had 35 disposals and 9 clearances for Port, with his red-hot forward teammate Dylan Williams kicking a game-high six goals for the Magpies.

The Crows dig their feet in at third on the SANFL table after the win, while Port Adelaide stay in seventh place. Adelaide 3.7 7.10 9.19 12.22 (94) 7.4 8.5 12.7 (79) 5.2 Port

SANFLW Grand Final

Woodville-West Torrens vs South Adelaide

Playing in their sixth grand final in eight years, South Adelaide were too strong for minor premiers Woodville-West Torrens Eagles on Sunday afternoon. Early tackling pressure and strong marking was evident for the Panthers, as they looked to make it back-to-back on a soggy Glenelg Oval in front of a boisterous crowd. Lucy Northcote opened the scoring with a goal for the Panthers early and they never looked back. South began to pull away, but the Eagles? Zahlia Niemann kept her side in it with 15 hard-fought possessions for the match. Despite a team-lifting late goal to the Eagles in the last quarter, a best-on-ground effort from South's Emma Charlton, with 26 possessions and seven tackles helped bring the cup back to Noarlunga. After the match the girls were wrapped and prepared themselves to celebrate. Congratulations South Adelaide.

36 NEWS | EMPLOYMENT & TRAINING www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, July 30, 2025 Ergo challenge to raise funds

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

AN indoor rowing machine challenge has been organised by the Waikerie Rowing Club to raise funds towards purchasing a new double skull boat and increase awareness about the group.

The fundraiser will involve five of the Waikerie Rowing Club members, Leslie Lennell, Justin Ross, Malcolm Mann, Kyle Tsai and Katrina Webber, and former Waikerie Rowing Club member Italo Vardaro rowing a nominated distance in an ergo.

Mr Vardaro is now a member of the Renmark Rowing Club. Waikerie Rowing Club captain, and coach, Leslie Lennell is planning to row 12km, and the others aim to row 10km each.

"Each individual rower will be doing one hour on the ergo, and they have each nominated a distance to complete in that hour," Mr Lennell said. "Once they start their hour, they can't stop except for at the half-way mark, when they can have a quick drink, but then they will need to pick it up straight away and keep going," he said.

Mr Lennell said participants have individual sponsors to raise money.

He said the event will hopefully raise funds towards the purchase of a new double-skull boat, and increase awareness about the Waikerie Rowing Club and the Rowing South Australia's 2025 Waikerie Omnium Regatta, to be held on October 25.

The event on Saturday, at the Waikerie RSL Club, runs from 11am to 5pm, and will feature a barbeque lunch, bar, and spinning wheel prizes.

The public is welcome.

Anyone wishing to sponsor a rower or donate to the rowing club can contact Mr Lennell on 0408 981 628.

Farm firefighting program expanded

A STATE program to help landholders, including those in the Riverland, purchase essential firefighting equipment has been expanded, aiming to provide additional support and community water tanks, with grants from $300 to $10,000 available.

The latest round of Farm Firefighting Unit (FFU) grants enables farmers to buy equipment they need to safely respond to fire emergencies and help keep their communities safe.

Eligible items in this category include FFUs, water pumps for use on vehicle, first aid kits, UHF radios, fire blankets, heat shields and personal protective equipment.

In 2025-26, items for Farm Firefighting Units will receive funding from $300 to $5000, an increase on previous' rounds cap of $3000.

The fourth round will also allow landholders to purchase community firefighting water tanks for the first time.

Dedicated firefighting tanks will improve water access in more remote areas and boost community preparedness and resilience.

Eligible applicants include farmers, farming businesses, rural landholders and rural community groups. The State Government program, reinstated with a $2m budget, has supported more than 650 farmers across the past three rounds, funding around 1300 individual pieces of equipment in dozens of local council areas.

Tanks are required to have a minimum capacity of 22,000L, fire service fittings and other items such as stands and pipe fittings and be compliant with local council rules. Successful applicants will have approved items, which must be new and fit for purpose, reimbursed in full, or a portion of a purchase reimbursed across both categories. For Round Four, consideration will be given to unsuccessful past applicants or those who did not apply in the first three rounds. Previous recipients remain eligible. Successful applicants must ensure their FFU is registered with the CFS to receive reimbursement and notify the CFS of the new water tank location. For more information on how to apply and program guidelines, visit the website (www.cfs.sa.gov. au/plan-prepare/business-farms/ farm-fire-units/).

New grants for community-led solutions in rural healthcare

THE Rural and Remote Community Support Grant, offered by the Australian College of Rural and Remote Medicine (ACRRM), is now open to the Riverland.

Designed to back community-led projects that help attract, train, and retain doctors in areas where they are needed most. the grants are available to support a wide range of local initiatives that will assist registrars (trainee Rural Generalists and rural General Practitioners) to live and work in rural, remote and First Nations communities throughout their fellowship training.

Initiatives could include improving accommodation options, assisting registrars' families with childcare or schooling needs, or establishing a program to attract registrars and supervising Rural Generalists (RGs) to a region.

ACRRM president Rod Martin said the grants would empower local communities to shape the future of rural healthcare.

"People living outside the urban footprint know best what their communities need," Dr Martin said.

"This grant recognises that knowledge and provides real support to help build and strengthen the medical workforce they need.

"We want to see more RGs living and working in rural, remote and First Nations locations long term, and we know that community support is a huge part of making that happen."

Eligible applicants include local health services, Aboriginal Medical Services, community groups, and ACRRMaccredited training practices.

Applications are open until 1 October and will be assessed by ACRRM monthly.

For more information, including guidelines and application forms, visit the ACRRM website (www. acrrm.org.au)

HOUSE break-ins, shop theft and car theft continued their decline across the state, including the Riverland, according to the latest crime statistics.

South Australia Police (SAPOL) released its rolling year crime numbers up to May, revealing the total number of property related offences decreased by eight per cent (7,604 offences) and a noticeable reduction in most offences within the same category.

A 10 per cent reduction in robbery and related offences was also recorded, marking the sixteenth successive decrease within the same category.

The May figures also revealed a 14 per cent decline in aggravated robberies, while non-aggravated robberies increased by three per cent.

Non-residential break-ins also showed another healthy decrease of nine per cent, with 318 fewer offences reported, from 3,708 to 3,390.

The May rolling year statistics revealed that acts intended to cause injury, which includes serious assault resulting in injury and common assault, increased by four per cent, from 23,546 to 24,428 incidents reported.

The number of assault police incidents reported decreased by four per cent, from 626 to 601 incidents.

Reported homicides have returned to traditional levels, with 10 recorded in the rolling year period, compared with 23 in the corresponding period. A similar number were reported in the March and April periods.

$3.3m boost to strengthen family based care

TWO state-wide programs supporting Riverland children to be placed with their extended families and other families have received funding from the State Government.

The Finding Families and Additionally Approved Carers programs have been allocated a further investment of $3.3m to continue operating.

Through Finding Families, a team of social workers focuses solely on finding safe, nurturing and stable family-based placements with extended family, travelling to communities across the country to meet with children's relatives as part of that process.

Through the program, 115 children and young people, 39 of them Aboriginal, are now in stable placements with families. A total of 81 of these children are aged 10 years or younger.

Following the success of the initial 12-month pilot, the State Government has further invested in the Finding Families program for another 12 months, so it can be further evaluated.

The Additionally Approved Carers Program is also gathering steam and has provided 6090 nights of care for children and young people since January 2024 - up from approximately 4000 just four months ago.

Through the program, social workers identify kinship carers willing to take on another, unrelated, child or young person on an emergency respite or short-term basis in many cases, diverting them from entering residential care.

"Children and young people dealing with really complex issues deserve for us to constantly explore and evaluate new ways to help them safely live in family environments," Minister for Child Protection Katrine Hildyard said.

"This new investment allows dedicated staff to continue their efforts to find the best places for young people.

"When it comes to the protection of the children who most need us, we know there is more to do but this investment, and our ongoing reform, are, pleasingly, beginning to show promising results.

"I am very grateful to the carers who open their homes and hearts and selflessly dedicate themselves to supporting young people, and giving them opportunities to thrive now and into the future."

Dementia Australia launches Diversity Grant Program

DEMENTIA Australia is encouraging applications for the Diversity Small Grant program this month to support prevalence rates among community organisations to build awareness and understanding of dementia in Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander, and culturally and linguistically diverse communities.

Applications are now open for Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander and culturally and linguistically diverse organisations and community groups to apply for up to $30,000 in funding for activities to create awareness and improved understanding about dementia in their communities.

Dementia Australia CEO

Professor Tanya Buchanan said the 2025 Diversity Small Grant program comes at a time when dementia Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people are approximately three-to-five times higher than that of the general Australian population and at least 28 per cent of people living with dementia in Australia being born in a non-English speaking country.

"Dementia Australia's 2025 Diversity Small Grant program is part of our commitment to facilitating equity of access to dementia information and support,' Prof Buchanan said.

"Following unprecedented demand and more than 200 applications in 2024, we are proud to offer the Diversity Small Grant program for a second year.

Alongside up to $30,000 in funding, successful recipients will receive a complimentary dementia education session, and ongoing support and guidance from Dementia Australia.

The Diversity Small Grant program is a Dementia Australia initiative funded by the Australian Federal Government.

Applications are open now, and close Wednesday August 13.

Magpies eyeing off top two

LACHLAN DAND

A STRONG win at home on Saturday afternoon in round 12 of the Riverland Football League's A grade competition saw Waikerie fly into the top two.

Needing to win to keep toptwo hopes alive, the Pies were hosting a Loxton North outfit vying for a place in the finals series.

The Magpies got away to a soaring start on home deck, kicking four goals to one in the opening quarter to take a 20-point lead at the first change.

Although Panther Tyler Wagner booted the opening goal of the game, Waikerie quickly kicked into gear with four unanswered, through Callum Haddon, Sam Haniford, Ryan Turner, and Kade Hilton. North started the second quarter with a flash, finding goals through Wagner, and Scott Lewis, with the veteran midfielder spending more time in the front half.

Waikerie responded through goals from Naish Andrew's toe poke, and Ryan Shaw also hitting the scoreboard, sending the margin out to 21 points.

Wagner booted his third of the half to trim the deficit to 15 points, but North burned opportunities to take the lead, and competition leading goalkicker Shaun King pushed the margin to 17 points at half time.

With momentum taken out of North's sails, Waikerie capitalised in the third term through King, Shaw, and Hilton, giving the home side a 35-point lead at the last break.

Rhys Wooldridge gave the visitors a fighting chance with the opening goal of the final quarter, but the Pies kicked majors through King, Hilton, and Spencely either side of a late Lewis goal, taking Waikerie to a 39-point win.

Hilton was all class for the Magpies, finding plenty of the football, and putting it on the scoreboard with three majors.

King also booted three in what was an intriguing matchup with Panther skipper Codi Voumard, while Shaw also chipped in with two.

Steven Braun and Jack Burgemeister worked hard in defence, while Tristan Geehman and Jake Spencely gave Waikerie plenty of run.

Tyler Wagner was superb yet again up forward for North, giving his side a genuine presence inside forward 50, and continuing his electric 2025 year.

James Neale gave the Panthers run and drive out of the middle of the ground, while Lewis and Noah Paull tried valiantly.

In an even further sour note, Masud Akaso suffered a suspected concussion, potentially leaving him on the sidelines for up to three weeks.

The win sees Waikerie move into the top two following Barmera-Monash's slip up in Renmark, with that spot on the line ahead of a huge trip to the Lakeside this Saturday, in what is the 5RM Game of the Day.

Loxton North will lick its wounds and return to Panther Park for a contest with Loxton, hoping to keep its finals dream alive, with both games kicking off from 2.40pm.

Heroic Hoad celebrates incredible RFL milestone

LACHLAN DAND

ONE of the most extraordinary milestones was achieved on Saturday afternoon in round 12 of the Riverland Football League's B grade competition.

Brooke Hoad broke the RFL games record back in 2021, but the veteran ruckman reached game 500 against Loxton North last weekend.

It's an achievement only 32 players in South Australia before him have gained, and despite 499 games under his belt, the 48-year-old said he was nervous during the week.

"I was sort of always thinking I wasn't going to get it, but as it got closer and closer,

I was just happy to finally get there which was good," he said.

"I had plenty of phone calls after the club put the post up on Monday afternoon from people I went to school with and a lot of other messages too.

"Winning the B grade medal was a big achievement, but beating the games record was really special to me, but they all add up when you do look back."

Waikerie's players wore specially designed 'Hoady 500' warm-up t-shirts prior to the senior matches, which he said was a big surprise.

Having played with the Magpies since his junior years, Hoad said he has always enjoyed the athletic side of football. "I always went to training, and that was obviously a key factor in reaching that record, but the older you get, the harder it can be," he said.

"Luckily, I was able to hang in there long enough, and I had a few good coaches in the B grade such as Jackson Sutton, and Brendan Turner who gave me the games to get there.

"There's a few younger lads that I try to give advice to, but I try not to say too much, but we've got a young side which can happen from time to time.

"It was a big surprise to see the boys in their shirts, and Jacki (Venning) did a great job in organising that, and I didn't know anything about it." Hoad drifted forward to hit the scoreboard in the 32-point loss to the Panthers, which he said was unexpected.

He hopes his career can continue even further, with the 'r' word of retirement coming around the corner.

"I ended up drifting forward and kicking a goal which was unexpected, but I did try and give a few off too," he said.

"My plan was to finish the year out, but in terms of next year it will just be about seeing how the body lets me train and what happens there.

"I'm happy to fill in if they need me, but if there are younger boys there I'm happy to step outside, but you're never really retired."

Rovers ramp up premiership credentials

LACHLAN DAND

AFTER a shock loss to Loxton North at Panther Park a week earlier, Renmark responded in fine style on Saturday afternoon in the Riverland Football League's A grade competition.

The Rovers still held top spot heading into Saturday's clash with Barmera-Monash, a Roos side coming off a 19-point win over arch-rival Berri the previous week.

The two grand finalists of last season had split the 2025 contests one apiece heading into Saturday, and inaccuracy cost Renmark in the early season fixture.

However, Nick Gillard got his side away to a fast start with the only two goals of the first quarter, and when he put through number three in the early stages of the second term, the Rovers held a 17-point lead.

Nick Stockman continued the scoring for Renmark with his first, before Steve Burton turned the tide for the Roos.

Burton stunned the crowd at Renmark Oval, kicking three quick goals, and when Chris Bonney converted late, the Roos erased the deficit completely, and held a twopoint half time lead.

In a low-scoring third quarter where both sides burned opportunities in front of goal, Barmera-Monash's Joe Ricketts extended the lead to eight points, before Matt Smith levelled things up at the last break.

Including Smith's goal moments before the final change, Renmark kicked six of the last seven goals,

Vater said managing the with six individual goalkickers in an even spread.

It was a flurry from Renmark, with Caiden Gartery, Ricky Garrett, Matt Woolford, Tim Woolford, and Blake Henderson all finding the big sticks.

Tony Drogemuller kicked a late one for the visitors to breathe life into the contest, but the Rovers proved too good, claiming a 24-point victory.

Renmark playing coach Josh Vater said he was pleased with the way his side responded from the loss to the Panthers, noting that the Rovers "learned a lot" in the defeat.

"In a dream world you always check in with how you're performing regardless of the result, but at the same time, wins can mask issues that you might need to work on," he said.

"There are always things you need to work on, but when you win sometimes you have a real deficiency in your game, so to then have a loss, you can really put the microscope on it.

"It's nice to be in the position as a club at the moment where we've still got six or eight unavailable, and that players need to be doing the right thing and are buying into what the team is doing, and that the standards need to remain high."

The result sees Renmark

but it did pose a nice coaching dilemma of what would we do in a big final.

"Players need to be able to work through those different game situations and think on their feet, rather than waiting for a break after a quarter."

Renmark scrapped its way to a seven-point win in Berri in round three, and edged out a competitive Demons side by 12 points in round eight.

With another trip to RFL headquarters scheduled for this Saturday, Vater said his side will be wary of the opponent, and their finals aspirations.

"It's going to be a really good challenge, and they're up and about being in fourth, and their desperate to cement their spot inside the four," he said.

"We've really battled against them in both games, and they've played really well, so it will present a few new challenges.

"It's against someone who structure up a bit differently to someone like Barmera-Monash or Loxton North.

"We're fortunate this year that everyone is in the hunt, so there's no dead rubber game, and every team is still a chance to make the top four.

"I think it's important from a country football point of view to actually have games that matter, and keep players on the edge, and have good habits heading into finals."

Renmark's clash with the Demons kicks off this Saturday from 2.40pm, while Barmera-Monash will return home to face Waikerie at the same time, in what is the 5RM Game of the Day.

Swans restrict Blues in tough MVFNL scrap

AN ADMIRABLE effort from Paringa saw Murrayville restricted to a 34-point win in the latest round of the Murray Valley Football Netball League action.

Murrayville have been in scintillating form all season long, and prior to the weekend's match, the closest match of the undefeated season was 54 points.

Although kept at arm's length all day, Murrayville proved too strong for the hosts, defending well, and celebrating Randall Watson's 200-game milestone in fine style.

Missing eight players, for various reasons, Murrayville started the game with just two on the bench, before Keenan Wilksch went down with a suspected broken collarbone just 10 minutes into the game.

When fill-in player Tommy Ford was redcarded before halftime the visitors were left without any bench rotations for the entire second half, but managed to grind out a solid victory on the expansive – and sodden – Paringa Oval.

Nathan Bramfit dominated in attack once again with nine goals, while Malcolm Moore worked hard in the ruck.

Elsewhere, a 76-point Brown's Well win saw it move back into second spot on percentage, crushing Ramco in Paruna.

Despite a competitive first term, the damage was done in the third quarter as the Bombers landed eight goals to nil, setting up the big win. Ramco ran out the game well with three goals to two in the final term, in what was a genuine highlight for the winless Roosters.

A six-goal haul from Bomber Jordi Bibby set up the win, while Bryce Oxlade and Blake Edmonds worked hard.

Nathan Birch was the shining light for Ramco, kicking four goals, while Deluca Taylor and Kaleb Kuchel fought hard as usual.

Elsewhere, Wunkar returned to the winning circle with a 47-point win over BSR at Swan Reach Oval.

An eight-goal-to-three first half set up the game for the visiting side, who were in control across the entirety of the match.

Mitch and Jake Neumann dominated for the Bulldogs, as six players booted two goals over the afternoon.

Matt Gibson kicked three goals for the Redbacks in a positive afternoon, while Jake Cunningham and Jacob Hodge worked tirelessly.

Just two games are fixtured for this weekend, as Sedan-Cambrai return from the bye to host Paringa at Cambrai, while Ramco welcome Murrayville to town in a last v first contest.

Berri keeps its 2025 finals dream alive

LACHLAN DAND

REMARKABLE А resurgence to the finals series in the Riverland Football League's A grade competition is officially alive for the Berri Football Club in 2025, following Saturday's win in Loxton.

Berri won just two games in 2024 after a winless 2023, and with a change of coach over the off-season, the Demons began their road ahead under Henry Labastida.

Yet after a shaky run of form, Berri entered Saturday afternoon's game against Loxton at Tigerland outside of the top four, with its season on the line.

Loxton's season was also at stake, needing to win to stay in touch with the top four and fight for finals action after last year's elimination final loss.

Berri stunned the Tigers in the opening quarter, and were inspired by Darcy Minchella, who slotted three opening quarter goals from four opportunities.

The quarter saw Loxton scoreless at the first break, and the Demons holding a 20-point advantage.

In a relatively even second stanza, Loxton started with a flash with back-to-back goals from Luke Salmon and Harley Campbell, but Berri were able to respond via goals from Michael Mcrae and Matthew Benson, leaving the differential at 19 points at the major break.

Although leaving Berri scoreless in the third quarter, Loxton burned opportunities to convert and take the lead.

Tigers key forward Talyn Eagle slotted backto-back majors to leave Loxton just five points adrift at the last change, putting his side in striking distance. Eagle, Salmon, Jesse Will, and a rushed behind hurt the Tigers, who had the opportunity to punish a Berri side that missed a late chance to extend the lead from playing coach

Labastida. However, Berri were able to extend the margin in the final quarter, and goals from Brad Rosenzweig and Geordie Franks saw the Demons through to a 17-point win. Minchella broke the game wide open from the outset, and worked hard around the ground with some strong contested marks.

Shay Hawkins and Jacob Grieger continued strong form rebounding well from the back half, while Liam Watson and Rosenzweig found a lot of the ball in the middle of the ground.

Ultimately a pair of scoreless quarters to start and finish the game cost Loxton, but Campbell and Riley Walton failed to give in across the afternoon.

The win sees Berri shift back into the top four, sitting 4.30 per cent above Loxton North, and 4.71 per cent above the Tigers.

The Demons have now secured four wins for the 2025 season, and will be looking to continue winning form when it returns home to face Renmark this Saturday.

Elsewhere, Loxton is set for a trip to face arch-rival Loxton North at Panther Park, with its season well and truly on the line, with both A grade clashes kicking off at 2.40pm.

Silver Salver event a success in Berri

THE Berri Golf Club last week hosted the annual Golf Australia 79th Country Week Silver Salver tournament, with 115 competitors from SA, NSW and Victoria all hitting the greens in Berri.

The week began on Monday with a meet, greet and registration evening held at the Berri Golf Club, where many ladies rekindled old friendships in a welcoming and relaxed environment.

Each player received a welcome pack containing local products from sponsors Almondco and Nippy's along with a commemorative ball marker, fridge magnet and pen supplied by the Berri Golf Club. The packs also included a Riverland tourism guide, and other flyers from local businesses.

A two-day tournament began on Tuesday in very cold and windy conditions that challenged many players, before clearing up by Wednesday's conclusion.

Wednesday night saw the successful presentation night held at the Berri Hotel with prizes being presented for the first two days of competition, with entertainment provided by musician William Heuzenroeder.

The final day of play on Thursday completed the successful three-day event, with positive feedback provided to organisers.

Golfers were extremely happy with how well the course was presented and with the overall organisation of the event, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all who participated.

A special thank you to The Berri Golf Club's greenkeepers in Robbie Vagg and Blake Henderson for presenting the course in fantastic condition, and to all of the hardworking organising committee, and the many volunteers who made the event a huge success.

Lyrup Lionhearts had the closest match of the Riverland darts round, and with five games going the full three legs, the match could have been won by either team.

The games went one for one, and scores were tied six apiece going into the doubles, and although the Lionhearts had won the first double, the Wanderers won the last two to claim an 8-7 victory.

Calib Martin continued his good form for the Wanderers, while David Crack and Russell Burgess again lead the way for Lionhearts.

WWW.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, July 30, 2025 SPORT 45 Wickham's the word for Riverland hockey

RIVERLAND hockey sensation Tom 'TJ' Wickham returned to action at Glassey Park, representing three clubs in an action-packed weekend.

As part of a busy schedule on his return to the region, the former Australian player played for both Loxton and Sunraysia in the A grade men's clash, as well as Waikerie in the B grade men's win.

Wickham proved he was a class above, playing a half with both Loxton and Sunraysia, with the Tigers ultimately claiming victory by four goals to two.

The former Kookaburra scored a hat-trick for Loxton, while Caleb Schaefer also found the back of the net.

However, Wickham wasn't done there, putting through two goals for the Victorian-based side, while Rory Ellis and Ryan Saunders tried hard all day.

B grade men's action saw Wickham represent his home club in Waikerie in fine style, scoring on four occasions as the Knights took home a 7-1 win over Renmark.

Wickham was unstoppable in Waikerie's victory, while a brace from Rowan Hope, and a goal from Jason Micke kept the scoreboard ticking over.

In a tough afternoon for the Blues, Tobey Heimann was a shining light, scoring twice and comfortably proving to be the strongest contributor for his side.

Berri also proved too good in the B grade men's competition, thumping Loxton 4-0 in an impressive display.

A grade 2024 premiership stars Brett Stokes and Dan Shawyer were among the best for Berri, and found themselves on the scoresheet.

A grade women's games were forfeited by Berri and Loxton, handing Waikerie and Sunraysia 5-0 wins.

It was a tough weekend for the Demons, who also forfeited the under 18 women's clash against Waikerie, but did enjoy a 5-3 B grade victory in an enthralling contest.

Madi Martin was the star of the show for Berri scoring twice, while Sarah Kroehn also netted a brace for the Knights.

Note: due to late submission of round nine results, they have also been printed in this week's edition of The Murray Pioneer.

46 SPORT www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, July 30, 2025 Renmark run rampant over River Rangers

FOLLOWING a two-week competition-wide bye due to the school holidays, Riverland soccer returned to action with a bang in Berri last Sunday.

However, the A grade men's result was a joyless one for the home side, defeated by reigning champions Renmark 9-0.

Renmark were unstoppable in the win, and it was inspired by Vincent Vu who scored on four occasions, including three in an eight-minute period of dominance.

Vu's efforts saw him named in Olympic's best alongside Andy Son, while Jake Peltz tried his heart out for the River Rangers.

Olympic is now six points clear at the top of the table, while Berri is rooted to the bottom, yet to register a goal, and recording a goal differential of -66 from 10 matches.

Elsewhere, the highly anticipated match between Barmera and Loxton went the way of the Pelicans, cruising to a 5-2 win.

Dimitri Kanakaris and Tony Mitchell both scored a brace in an impressive performance, while Zac Hamood also netted for Barmera.

Jake Perram failed to give in for United in a disappointing result, finding the scoresheet, with Loxton now five points adrift of Barmera.

It was double delight for Renmark, which also secured a 5-0 thumping victory over Barmera, largely thanks to a brace from Harry Dedes in the only match of the round.

Olympic also found success in the women's competition, earning a rampaging 12-goal win over Berri.

With five players scoring twice, Renmark had a positive afternoon out, but are still 21 goals behind Barmera, which took out a 7-0 win over Loxton.

ROUND 10 of the Renmark Table Tennis Association saw the completion of the second section of teams play, with Backhand Bandits continuing to exert its dominance on the 2025 season, and Net Ninjas recovering from a big loss to go a game clear at second position on the ladder.

In the first match Backhand Bandits had their second huge win in a row. After defeating second place Net Ninjas last match 20-4, they continued their strong midseason form to beat Bits 'n Bats by the same score line.

Inspired by their captain, Steve Watson, numerous team members significantly lifted their ranking this season and have only lost two doubles rubbers in the last three rounds. with Backhand Bandits looking destined for success in 2025.

The second match saw a strong 16-8 win to Net Ninjas over Whack-a-Ball. Net Ninjas started strongly, dropping only one doubles rubber, and then extended their lead in the singles.

The Net Ninjas' lower half continued to perform well, dropping only three of their eight singles rubbers, with new player Coden Smith continuing to grow in confidence and ability, after coming into the team mid-season.

He was able to win both his singles for the first time this week including a mature win, in a rubber that stretched out over five games against Don Erceg.

It ends level between Renmark and Barmera in netball's return

THE return of the Riverland in defence, and Tilly Albrecht in a best-on-court performance in Netball Association season saw Renmark and Barmera play out a thrilling draw on Friday night at the Alan Coulter Recreation Centre.

Following a two-week competition-wide bye due to the July school holidays, the two sides returned to action with eyes on third place.

Renmark held the lead at every break in the game, beginning with a three-goal quarter time advantage, placing the hosts in a strong position.

Exchanging the lead on multiple occasions throughout the match, scores levelled with just 44 seconds remaining after Meg Kassulke's 15th goal of the evening.

Renmark re-gathered the lead with just 21 seconds on the clock through Sonja Modlinski, but were ultimately unable to hang on, as Hallie Hodgson scored the leveller in the dying seconds.

Hodgson was the top-scorer on the night with 32 goals, while Jemma Kassulke worked hard provided plenty of run through mid-court.

For Renmark, Sonja (24), and Anita Modlinski (23) goals kept the scoreboard ticking over, while it was Cloe Westhoff who rebounded well on the defensive end.

The drawn encounter leaves Barmera sitting in third spot, while Renmark is one-point clear of last-placed Berri, with four rounds of season 2025 remaining Elsewhere, premiership favourite Loxton proved far too good for Berri at The Precinct, notching up a 30-goal victory.

With the association celebrating the first of its pink rounds, the Tigers put on a good show in front of a strong crowd, dominating from the outset.

Loxton held a 10-goal lead at the first break, which only grew to 19 by the half, and with the margin at 26 at three-quartertime, the result was effectively all but sealed.

the centre position for the Tigers, while Aimee Holmes' 22 goals were a key part in her producing what was arguably her best outing of season 2025.

Mackella Hogan proved a dominant force with 56 goals underneath the ring, continuing to shine in attack, while Tarnie Shinnick and Leah Uren dominated on the defensive end.

Layne Fenwick and Taniel Willmott were valiant for Berri, as Willmott and Brooke Franks each notched up 24 goals, with the pressure for the top four now firmly on Berri.

Loxton remains undefeated after nine games and will face arch-rival Loxton North, this Friday night, in a top-of-the-ladder clash at The Precinct.

Berri will welcome Renmark to the Toyota Arena, with both sides hoping to avoid the bottom of the ladder and stay in touch with the finals series. Both matches will start at 6.45pm.

GUIDE JULY 30-AUGUST 5, 2025

OR 65 years now, the Logie Awards have seen Australian television's A-listers get themselves all glammed up to celebrate the best of the best local talent (and let's be honest, checking out their frocks on the red carpet is at least half the fun here). For this year's awards, comedian Sam Pang (pictured) is returning for a third stint as host, and he can't wait to get back on that stage at The Star Sydney.

"I am very excited to return for another Logies," Pang says. "It's been an honour to host the last two years and I'm looking forward to again celebrating the talented people and amazing shows that combine to make the Australian television industry something everyone can be proud of."

Also in contention for a three-peat is twotime Gold Logie winner Hamish Blake. But he's the odd man out in a nomination line-up that features six women: Home and Away icon Lynne McGranger, A Current Affair host Ally Langdon, The Voice's Sonia Kruger, I'm a Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here! host Julia Morris, new Back Roads presenter Lisa Millar, and MasterChef Australia's Poh Ling Yeow. Voting for the big one remains open right up until 10pm on the night, so there's still time to have your say.

The ABC leads the nominations, with 45 across 23 categories (including two for the inaugural Ray Martin Award for Most Popular News or Public Affairs Reporter), but it's not all trophies and acceptance speeches – gravelly voiced rock legend Jimmy Barnes will be on hand to provide musical entertainment.

Banana Bread

INGREDIENTS:

- 125g unsalted butter, plus extra for greasing (at room temperature)
- 2 large free-range eggs
- 4 ripe bananas

٠

- 2 tablespoons runny honey
- 2 tablespoons unsweetened apple juice
- 250g self-raising flour, plus extra for dusting
- 1 big pinch of ground cinnamon
- optional: 50g pecan

METHOD:

- Preheat the oven to 180°C/350°F/gas
 Lightly grease a 1-litre loaf tin with butter.
- 2. In a large bowl, beat the soft butter until creamy. Add eggs and beat until mostly combined (don't worry if it looks lumpy).
- 3. Mash 3 bananas and mix them in. Stir in honey and apple juice, then fold in the flour and cinnamon gently.
- 4. If using, chop pecans and fold them into the mixture. Spoon into the tin, slice the last banana and press into the top.
- 5. Bake for 40–50 minutes, or until a skewer comes out clean. Cool slightly in the tin, then transfer to a wire rack.
- 6. Slice and serve with butter, honey, jam, or chocolate spread. Enjoy!

July 2025: week 5 Horoscopes

RIES MAR 21ST - APR 20TH

An unexpected situation at work could leave you a little confused. Trust your intuition and you will make the right decision. Romance. You will be extremely sensitive to your partner's needs at the moment. A get-together later in the week will give them a chance to show their gratitude.

You have a lot of things on your plate at the moment, and may feel that you don't have time to spend with your friends. You would benefit from a break, however. Romance. You will be upset if your partner doesn't give you all the support that you need this week. Make sure that you are clear about your feelings on this matter.

A social gaffe may be embarrassing at the time, but your friend will forgive you much faster than you forgive yourself. Romance. Your partner will appreciate time you spend listening to their concerns. At times you may feel that they are more interested in generating sympathy than in actually finding a solution, however.

A challenging aspect to Neptune could make you a little unrealistic at times. An idea which you think will work might not be very practical. Romance. You will be in a very romantic mood at the moment. Your partner may need to be in the right mood before they respond, however.

Avoid dealing with an area which has caused tension in the past. A powerful aspect to Mars could make you a little tetchy at times. Romance. A new admirer may be a little reserved at first. A compliment will help you to break the ice: you will get on very well with this person if you make an effort.

Don't just accept a situation which you should be trying to change. A powerful aspect to Jupiter means that this will be good time to make the first move. Romance. Your love-life will be in good shape at the moment. A meeting around the middle of the week will go better than expected.

An important possession may turn up where you least expect it. It will take a while before you work out how it got there! Romance. You might prefer it if your partner could be a little more flexible at times. A favourable aspect to Mercury later in the week will help you to see things from each other's point of view.

At times you may feel that the people around you are not being honest about everything. An issue which has come between you and your co-workers will not go away unless you address it directly. Romance. Don't allow yourself to be put off course by an unkind remark.

You will have to be firm if you are asked to do more than you can reasonably manage. Don't let your relationship with your boss deteriorate, however. Romance. Someone who has ignored you up until now will be impressed by a generous gesture. You will soon have yet another admirer to contend with!

Advice from a colleague might throw you off course this week. This person may feel that they are helping, but their input will be of little real use. Romance. A misunderstanding with your partner later in the week will help you to understand their feelings a lot more clearly. You will soon move onto better things!

You will be very intuitive at the moment. Try to use this time to get insight into a decision which you need to make: there may be an angle which you have forgotten about. Romance. A fantasy that you have been having will come true - provided you are prepared to make the first move.

This week a favourable aspect to Mars will pull you out of your shell and give you a little bit more confidence than usual. Romance. Be careful not to let a financial problem create tension between you and your partner. You may need to change your spending habits just to please them, however.

HOST ABC'S TO ZEMIRO VOLK SHOW UE-CRIME PA

THE ABC is thrilled to announce that Julia Zemiro will host Crime Night! a comedy true-crime panel show where real-life cases are examined through the lens of criminology and comedy.

Produced by Dreamchaser and Maverick Entertainment, the six-part series will see Julia, alongside a panel of criminologists and comedians, dissect famous cases. They will discover the science behind the crimes and use that same science to examine our own lives with hilarious consequences.

Julia said "excellent criminologists and brainy comedians? Check. One very engaged host? That's me. Yes, check."

"I am so excited to be back at the ABC steering a panel show about modern day criminology, she said.

"This new team of writers and producers are a breath of fresh air to work with, as we delve into the science behind the crimes.

"The how, the what and the why. The curious, the serious and ultimately very-human side of crime."

ABC head of entertainment Rachel Millar said "Australians can't get enough of true crime, and we're excited to join forces with Dreamchaser and Maverick to bring this innovative and original format to ABC screens".

"For anyone who loves bingeing the latest true crime podcast, or playing detective in the group chat, this is the show for you," Rachel said.

"Led by the inimitable Julia Zemiro, this is a show that will make your spine tingle with intrigue, while making you laugh at the same time."

Dreamchaser executive producers Carl Fennessy and Monique Keller said "Crime Night! is the first commission under our Maverick Entertainment and Dreamchaser producing partnership".

"We're thrilled to be launching this brand-new comedy true-crime panel show in partnership with the ABC," they said.

"The combined talents of executive producers David Forster, Frank Bruzzese, and Julia Zemiro are exceptional, working alongside a brilliant panel of criminologists and comedians to examine the fascinating reallife cases we're all obsessed with in the funniest possible way."

Filming will begin in early August in Melbourne. Crime Night! will air later this year on ABC TV and ABC iview.
