Step right up, Riverland

READY to showcase their talents and skills for the first time later this year, a Riverland circus troupe are hoping the local community will support them in making their debut performance and establishing their school in the region.

Receiving a grant of $28,300 from Regional Arts Australia and Country Arts SA early last year, aspiring instructors and aerial performers from Berri's Fit to Fly Circus Act's Path to Pro Project have been given the opportunity to host two shows at Renmark's Chaffey Theatre this July.

COUNTRY PRESS AWARDS

Pioneer is number one

THE Murray Pioneer was named South Australia's Best Country Newspaper for 2024 at last week's Country Press SA Awards.

The Pioneer enjoyed an outstanding night at the awards ceremony, which was held at the Hilton Hotel, in Adelaide, highlighted by the best newspaper crown, which it had last won in 2019.

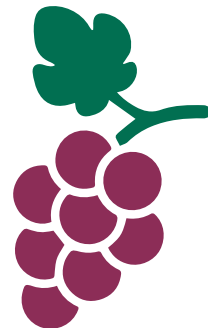

Feedback for the Pioneer, given by Bob Yeates, focused on the newspaper's connection with its surrounding community.

LOCKED IN BY 31 OCT

INDICATIVE prices for Riverland grape growers by 30 September 2025 and any "expert determinations" finalised one month later – both enforceable by law – are priority policies of an SA Senate candidate and a sitting state MP.

One Nation's Jennifer Game has pledged to introduce both measures to the Senate if elected at the upcoming federal election, while her daughter Sarah Game – already a One Nation MLC in the SA upper house – is "investigating what can be done legislatively at state level" to implement the conditions.

Friday's release of a Senate committee report into Australian winegrape purchases offered "no immediate timeline" for Riverland growers struggling to survive the current vintage...

Pioneer is number one

THE Murray Pioneer was named South Australia's Best Country Newspaper for 2024 at last week's Country Press SA Awards.

The Pioneer enjoyed an outstanding night at the awards ceremony, which was held at the Hilton Hotel, in Adelaide, highlighted by the best newspaper crown, which it had last won in 2019.

Feedback for the Pioneer, given by Bob Yeates, focused on the newspaper's connection with its surrounding community.

"The paper put itself above the rest with its measured regular two-page feature of letters," Mr Yeates' feedback said.

"The consistent weekly double-page spread of letters measures the connectedness of the paper to the local community. No letters equals little connectedness.

"It is a grand feature of the Pioneer and a measure of acceptance of the local paper in a local community."

The story 'CUT CLASS', which appeared in the 4 April 2024 edition and covered controversy surrounding a sex education presentation given at Renmark High School, also won the prestigious Excellence in Journalism award for former Pioneer journalist Alexandra Bull.

Feedback from judge Kym Tilbrook said Ms Bull should be "congratulated on breaking the story which met all the criteria for the award".

"Alexandra wrote that even in regional communities, in today's society it's difficult to keep young people, even children, from being exposed to inappropriate material," the feedback said.

Meanwhile, the Pioneer's annual Riverland Rose and Garden Festival Guide claimed second place for Best Community Advertising Promotion, a full-page advertisement for Koch's Foodland was runner-up for Best Advertisement - Priced Product, and editor Hugh Schuitemaker received third place for Best Editorial Writing.

Taylor Group Media's SA Farmer Magazine was also third place in the Best Special Publication category.

Riverland POLICE NEWS

Drivers stopped for road offences

NUMEROUS drivers were stopped over the past fortnight for driving-related offences in the Riverland.

On Friday 21 February, Riverland police stopped a vehicle driving on Lawrie Terrace, at Waikerie.

The 52-year-old woman, from Blanchetown, was drug tested and returned a positive result.

The woman was issued with a three-month instant loss of licence and will be summonsed to appear at the Berri Magistrates court at a later date.

On the same day, at 5pm, Riverland police breath tested a woman on Vaughan Terrace, at Berri.

The 24-year-old woman returned a positive result of 0.056 and was issued with an expiation notice.

About 2.30am on Monday 3 March, Police reported a 47-year-old woman, from Renmark, for drink driving after she was stopped on the Sturt Highway, at Monash.

She was breath tested and allegedly produced a blood alcohol reading of 0.083.

She was issued with a six-month instant loss of licence, her vehicle was impounded for 28 days, and she will be summonsed to appear in the Berri Magistrates Court at a later date.

Break-in at a Barmera property

RIVERLAND police are investigating a break-in and theft of a car and camper trailer from a Barmera property.

An unknown offender broke into a shed located at a property in Barmera, between 12 February and 14 February.

The suspect stole a white Toyota Landcruiser with registration S885BAJ, a grey camper trailer with the registration S1421TCL, and a number of power tools.

Police are asking Riverlanders with information that may assist the investigation to contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000, or report online at the website (www.crimestopperssa.com.au) quoting the reference 43080.

Lou Curtis clarification:

A DETAIL within a story in last week's edition of The Murray Pioneer requires further clarification.

The story titled 'In arrears for years' included information about Caliph Farmer Lou Curtis, whose name was included in titles that appeared as numbers 47 and 54 in a list, on page 63, of The Advertiser's 15 February edition.

However, Mr Curtis' name was included as a registered mortgagee of the titles, with the main principal ratepayer being Brian Douglas Verrall.

Political duo’s commitment to Riverland wine grape growers... ‘Prices by Sep 30, locked in Oct 31’

INDICATIVE prices for Riverland grape growers by 30 September 2025 and any “expert determinations” finalised one month later – both enforceable by law – are priority policies of an SA Senate candidate and a sitting state MP.

One Nation’s Jennifer Game has pledged to introduce both measures to the Senate if elected at the upcoming federal election, while her daughter Sarah Game – already a One Nation MLC in the SA upper house – is “investigating what can be done legislatively at state level” to implement the conditions.

Friday’s release of a Senate committee report into Australian winegrape purchases offered “no immediate timeline” for Riverland growers struggling to survive the current vintage and looking ahead to the next one, according to Jennifer Game, who recently spent three days in the Riverland to formulate her policy.

Ms Game said the compulsory provision of indicative prices for all wine grapes by 30 September this year – plus an additional mandatory requirement to have any mediation between growers and processors completed by 31 October – would allow struggling local growers to decide whether to harvest a crop or instead save money by eliminating input costs.

“If the current arrangement – of wineries providing indicative prices by December, January or even February – is allowed to continue, many of these growers simply won’t make it through,” she said.

“These (One Nation) policies aren’t taxpayer handouts, but they would stop the bleeding and buy some time to find a longer-term solution.

“I don’t think many people outside of the Riverland understand how dire this situation is for local growers. Being forced to wait so long to know how much they’re getting paid, then to learn it’s way below production cost anyway, makes it impossible for growers to survive.”

Ms Game said while some of the recommendations contained in Rural and Regional Affairs and Transport References Committee’s Australian winegrape purchases code of conduct report were welcomed, they “kicked the can down the road” by deferring ultimate decision-making to the Treasurer.

If implemented, Ms Game’s plan to propose settling pricing disputes between wineries and growers by no later than 31 October would “give growers some firm footage upon which to make crucial decisions, rather than relying on this current ludicrous and one-sided guessing game each year”.

“Growers are the ones who suffer through these delays, not processors,” she said.

Ms Game’s daughter Sarah, who was elected in 2022, said her own move to explore legislating the two dates in South Australia was about helping growers “as soon as possible”.

Party insiders believe One Nation’s vote in South Australia is currently hovering around the 9-10 per cent mark, meaning a seat in the Senate is a live chance for Jennifer Game.

Ms Game said should One Nation hold the balance of power in the Senate after what is tipped to be a tight election, she would make the plight of Riverland growers a priority.

She said One Nation was the first party to “actually pledge some action”.

prominent Barmera grower Jason Perrin.

“Without these two measures, growers and the industry itself continues to be put at risk...” he said.

“Neither of these two interim measures pose any significant cost to the federal or state government...”

“To do nothing and not implement these two measures as a matter of urgency is to rubberstamp the continued decline of a majority industry at its grassroots level...”

Ms Game said government assistance would be well directed if used to help Riverland growers diversify to other crops given the current state of the industry’s supply/demand imbalance.

Andrew’s insight on the Better Home Garden

DURING March, Berri Barmera Landcare will be presenting a series of free community events entitled The Better Home Garden, held at Riverland libraries.

Berri Barmera Landcare general manager Sharon Schrapel said “the highly interactive presentation and display will take participants on a journey of discovery”.

“Participants will learn how to design and modify their garden to attract birds and butterflies, provide shade, decrease temperature, provide food, increase privacy, trigger positive memories, decrease utility bills and live at one with nature at your doorstep.”

Berri Barmera Landcare project officer Andrew Walladge, who will present the events, said, “the presentation is based around a live interactive and comparative model, it will be an enjoyable session where participants will be able to see, hear, feel and smell different garden elements and ultimately go away with a new found knowledge and excitement on how to make their home garden a Better Home Garden”.

The events will be held in libraries throughout the Riverland during March, including

- ❑ Barmera Library, Wednesday 5 March at 10am, and 1pm.
  - ❑ Loxton Library, Thursday 6 March at 10am.
  - ❑ Waikerie Library, Tuesday 11 March at 10am and 1pm.
  - ❑ Renmark Library, Tuesday 18 March at 10am.
- There is no need to book, just turn up, it is free and everyone is most welcome. For more information phone Andrew on 0414 910 521.
- The Better Home Garden Project is supported by the Office for Ageing Well through the Positive Ageing Fellowship Grants program.

Council receives $240,000 grant for Energy Upgrades

THE District Council of Loxton Waikerie has announced the receipt of a $240,000 grant from the Community Energy Upgrades Fund Round 1.

The financial boost will support the Loxton Waikerie Energy Efficiency Upgrade Project, aimed at enhancing energy efficiency across the community.

The funded project will focus on installing solar panels and battery storage systems at five public buildings in Loxton and Waikerie. These upgrades will reduce the council’s energy costs, lower carbon emissions, and improve the energy resilience of these community hubs.

The project aligns with Council’s Community Strategic Plan, which outlines the importance of responding to the changing climate conditions to protect the environment, in particular, increasing the use of renewable energy for Council operations and public utilities.

The project is expected to save approximately $72,000 annually in energy costs, and is set to provide a financial model that can be reinvested into further community enhancements. In addition to financial savings, the project will also foster local employment and provide educational opportunities regarding renewable energy benefits, encouraging the community to engage in sustainable practices and support the long-term environmental goals of the council.

Mayor Trevor Norton said

“securing this grant allows us to advance our commitment to sustainability and demonstrates our ongoing efforts to enhance community facilities with renewable energy solutions”. “These upgrades are a step forward in our mission to reduce the environmental footprint of our local government operations,” Mr Norton said.

Riverlanders charged over drugs and weapons

TWO Riverland residents were charged with drug and weapon offences after police searched a Murray Mallee property.

Loxton police searched a Murray Mallee property on 25 February, where officers allegedly located two unsecured firearms, ammunition, fireworks and cannabis, alongside a hydroponic set-up with 18 large mature cannabis plants and an unspecified amount of dried cannabis.

A 51-year-old Paringa man, and a 39-year-old Murray Mallee woman who resides at the property, were both arrested and charged with cultivating cannabis, trafficking in a controlled drug, possessing prescribed equipment, possessing firearms without a licence, possessing unregistered firearms and possessing ammunition.

They were refused police bail and appeared in the Berri

Magistrates Court on 26 February. Anyone with information about illicit drugs or firearms in the community can report it anonymously to police via Crime Stoppers (1800 333 000) or at the website (www.crimestopperssa.com.au).

No new fruit fly outbreaks

THERE have been no new fruit fly outbreaks declared in the Riverland this past fortnight, with the total remaining number of outbreaks stable at 56. However, detections in the Bookpurnong B outbreak area has resulted in an extension to the end date for that area. Field teams continue to visit properties in the Riverland red outbreak areas and yellow suspension areas to apply control measures and check for signs of fruit fly. The outbreak end date for the Riverland is 30 May. For more information, visit the website (www.fruitfly.sa.gov.au/sit).

Volunteers needed to help raise up local youth

MADISON EASTMOND

BERRI Regional Secondary College is calling for local volunteers to dedicate their time, share support, and make a difference in the life of a young Riverlander.

Berri Regional Secondary College's Raise Mentoring Program is searching for volunteers, above the age of 24, to take part in training to support and mentor a young person across a 20-week period.

Delivering the youth wellbeing program across Australia since 2008, Raise works to pair community members with a young person. While being overseen by a qualified youth worker, the guided relationship has proven to develop a young person's confidence, wellbeing, and sense of belonging overtime.

Funded by Our Town Berri, the mentoring program was established in the Riverland school four years ago.

"The program has been a massive success," Our Town community steward Julie Ahrens said.

"It started because our community research told us that generations wanted to come together in Berri.

"We thought mentoring was a great way to do this so we looked around Australia for an organisation to partner with and we found Raise.

"It's been a great outcome for our community — it's a true collaboration to support young people and grow the capacity of our community."

Taking a role as mentor since the first round of the program was launched at Berri Regional, and having won a State Government Volunteering Award for her work, Mary White said she would "encourage anyone to volunteer" for Raise.

"You don't need any special skills or experiences, you get all the training you need when you sign up," she said.

"It's just wonderful to be that person the student can trust — the bond you build is really special.

"It's a way to really make a difference and give back."

While the program

holds a focus on the student's wellbeing, Ms White said in creating connections with students, she also benefited with an improved sense of community and confidence.

"I didn't think I could be a mentor to start off with," she said.

"I didn't feel like I had any skills or knowledge to offer — but taking part in the program showed me I did.

"Mentoring has just been really fulfilling.

"Even when the program finished, to see your student in town or shopping was (so rewarding) — it's always wonderful to be able to say hi."

Mentored by Mary last year, Berri Regional Secondary College student Matilda said she had noticed "positive long-term effects" from Raise.

"It was great because I got to connect with people I wouldn't really otherwise have the chance to, and from that I learnt a lot," she said.

"Mary is a really kind person — she reminded me of my grandmother, and she was so easy to talk to.

"Since the program, my confidence speaking to new people really has grown, and it also has helped me with my attendance — if I knew I was going to see Mary, I came to school."

For more information, or to apply to become a mentor, visit the website (www.raise.org.au/).

Step right up, Riverland: Berri's circus performers make their debut

READY to showcase their talents and skills for the first time later this year, a Riverland circus troupe are hoping the local community will support them in making their debut performance and establishing their school in the region.

Receiving a grant of $28,300 from Regional Arts Australia and Country Arts SA early last year, aspiring instructors and aerial performers from Berri's Fit to Fly Circus Act's Path to Pro Project have been given the opportunity to host two shows at Renmark's Chaffey Theatre this July.

Funding the training to create, write, audition, cast, rehearse, and then perform a circus show full of tricks and talent, Fit to Fly owner Caitlyn Larsson said the upcoming debut of her students was "an exciting chance to finally take the stage" and

"hopefully create a real circus space" in the Riverland.

"It's just amazing for those (at Fit to Fly) who are aspiring to go that higher level," Ms Larsson said.

"We have done Fringe shows and performances in front of a crowd before, but this is definitely the next step.

"This funding will allow us to hold workshops and take care of the core needs to get onto the Renmark stage.

"We are hoping money from our ticket sales will then allow us to take our show elsewhere and help us buy more equipment, like tumbling mats, to grow our training, or even our own space to run our classes."

Ms Larsson brought circus arts to the Riverland when she moved to the region from the United States in 2021.

Since becoming a local, Ms

Larsson has been sharing her decades of circus experience and education in performing arts and exercise science with weekly classes of more than 80 students, held at the Our Lady of the River (OLOR) School's gymnasium.

"We are still actively looking for sponsors," she said.

"Any support would be amazing."

Now practicing and developing the "fractured fairy tale-themed" performance, circus artists, and mother and son duo, Zeek and Fi Loken said they "couldn't wait" to share circus with the local community.

"I joined after seeing Zeek have so much fun," Ms Loken said.

"It's such a family friendly environment, and Caitlyn is so supportive — both Zeek and I were hooked straight away."

Ms Larsson said she encouraged anyone interested in an activity that "is both athletic and creative" to reach out to Fit to Fly and "just have a go".

"It's great for both kids and adults," she said.

"Classes are an hour long, and they are full of co-ordination, strength and skill, (with students) able to learn (aerial based movement) on (hanging) silks, trapeze, and the lyra (hoop).

"There is also the opportunity to learn acro and acro-toss skills.

"It's wonderful and exhausting — there is nothing like it."

For more information, visit the website (www.fittofly.com.au), or follow Fit to Fly on Facebook or Instagram.

THE YEARS GO BY

Serving the community

WHAT is the true measure of success?

The Pioneer’s latest award wins at the annual Country Press SA awards last week mark another big achievement in the newspaper’s long and storied history.

Pleasingly, feedback regarding the Pioneer’s major award win – the Best Country Newspaper – focused largely on the paper’s weekly, two-page spread of letters and texts to the editor.

Whether it’s been grape growers voicing their concerns regarding industry challenges, those seeking to critique a local council or politician, or bring light toward an issue unknown among the wider region, the Pioneer’s letters pages continue to be a vitally important platform.

The fact such a large number of locally focused letters make their way across the editor’s desk each week is testament to the connection, and trust, the Riverland has for the newspaper. Each of those letters is always appreciated.

It is the opinions and needs of locals that shapes our Riverland communities, with the newspaper there to play its most important role in disseminating the key issues and information, as fairly, balanced and unbiased as possible.

Kudos must also be given to fellow Taylor Group Media publication The Border Times, which was named third-best newspaper with a smaller circulation.

For many years, and under former editors including Deirdre Graham and Paul Mitchell, The Border Times has been a true illustration for the value of hyper-local news, and has always punched above its weight when comparing its available human resources to that of other, similar-sized publications.

In a sign of why regional media is sometimes a lot more enjoyable than being based in a city, when at its best, a newspaper should be a true reflection of its surrounding community.

This is evident at the Pioneer, where members of our staff that are also horticultural producers feel the pressure of rising input costs and lower prices for commodities, volunteer for local sporting teams and community groups, and enjoy talking about the latest community events over a drink at a hotel or club.

Having a platform to celebrate success, document historical events, and to voice concerns, is integral to the function of any democratic society, and the entire Pioneer team is undoubtedly proud to fill that role for the Riverland.

So, while awards and accolades are fun to receive, for us in the newspaper game, perhaps the best measure of success is that trust that’s been forged between the Pioneer and fellow Riverlanders, councils and the region’s amazing collection of businesses.

Lyn Fullston, affectionately known as ‘Lefty’, was born into a farming family at Mindarie, 3 March 1956, 69-years ago this week. Often seen climbing trees at Saturday netball, she played cricket and football better than most boys at East Murray Area School, where she attended until year 11. Completing year 12 at Loxton High School, her dogged determination led to her success in the school marathon. She studied Physical Education at Adelaide Teachers College, where she befriended Renmark’s Pat Mickan. One camp they shared in a riverbed ended up swamped after sudden rain. On another, they capsized when sailing and bent the mast. Lefty astounded spectators with her uncanny skills at netball, self-sacrificing to win despite skin loss from shins and knees. She maintained a rigorous routine, studying, training and competing from 7am until midnight. In year 12 she inherited her grandfather’s EJ Holden. Typical of her unchanging, colourful nature, she cherished and drove this vehicle for many years. Nephew, Rodney Tonkin, now plans to restore it. Words aptly describing Lefty include friend, taskmaster, teacher and inspiration. An all-round sportswoman, in Adelaide Lefty played cricket for Teachers College. Her passion and determination for sport dominated her life and she went on to represent Australia in both cricket and netball. Lefty died aged 52. She left an outstanding legacy in both teaching and sport. TEXT: Vicki Williams. PHOTO: The Advertiser.

Riverland and country roads

GREAT that both Tony Pasin and Tim Whetstone are continuing to push the issue of our national and regional roads, in my eyes, being abandoned by both state and federal governments.

I’m sure all drivers would have an issue with country roads, not only to or from the Riverland to Adelaide, but further afield. Truro was a nightmare for years, if you weren’t careful it could do damage to the suspension of your vehicle, you could almost have an accident and in addition you could get whiplash.

Thankfully that has now almost been completely upgraded.

I think the passing lane upgrade at Halfway House was, and still is, a joke. The resurfacing in Barmera is good, but why only do sections? As at some time in the future the rest will need to be done. Surely it would have been more economical to do the whole stretch at the same time.

And who was the bright spark that decided to resurface the road between the Barmera roundabout to Glossop with a paper-thin bitumen coating after the completion of the roundabout? How much did that cost, as to me it was a total waste of time.

The road from Barmera to Berri has been shocking for at least 20 years. I was once told that if you crossed the white line on the left or right you could avoid the corrugation. In Glossop and especially by the winery the road is shocking. The only smooth section is at the Jury Road intersection after an upgrade a few years ago.

And when fixing the roads, or even before as that may be a long time coming, could the road signs be repaired, as some are almost unreadable, including on passing lanes.

Also I would suggest purchasing a spirit level to straighten some of the signs so that drivers are not distracted while driving.

Disdain for rural Australia?

COMMUNITY and farming groups have expressed “total disbelief” at the latest attempt by the Albanese Government to destroy regional communities.

Leading the charge is Murray Regional Strategy Group. The latest announcement of more water buybacks on the eve of a Federal election is beyond comprehension.

The Albanese Government has announced a second buyback tender in the southern Murray-Darling Basin in 2024-25, wanting to buy another 100 gigalitres, on top of the 70 gigalitres announced last year, which has not yet been finalised.

For the past 15 years we have been lied to, led up the garden path and now ignored by Sydney-based politicians who break promises and refuse any effort at collaboration, for what appears to be a sole focus on winning marginal city-based seats.

It is difficult to hide our anger at the disdain for rural communities, let alone the way in which the decision ignores the obvious future impact on cost of living. Less water for production means a further reduction in growing staple foods for Australian tables. So we import more and pay more at the supermarket.

This makes a mockery of the government’s claims that it wants to address the cost-of-living crisis.

He added it was particularly frustrating for rural communities when there are viable alternatives to buybacks, yet Federal Minister for Water Tanya Plibersek continually refuses invitations to come to the region, get a better understanding of the impact of buybacks and look with an open mind at these alternatives.

On top of all this, communities were promised these buybacks would not occur if there was proven social and economic damage. What more evidence do you want than thousands of job losses, schools with significantly reduced student populations, sporting club closures and a plethora of empty shops?

We are sick and tired of broken government promises that sacrifice rural Australia in an attempt to win city votes, generally at the hands of city-based politicians like Minister Plibersek who won’t even communicate with us.

What makes the decision to continue with buybacks so totally incomprehensible are the words of Minister Plibersek’s Cabinet colleague, Tony Burke, when he was Minister for Water.

When the original water recovery target of 2750 gigalitres was established, Mr Burke said: “There is a reason why the 2750 is the number recommended. And that is that once you go beyond 2750 with the constraints that are currently in the system (with) the extra gigalitres of water you don’t get a significant environmental improvement.”

Throughout the Basin Plan development process, communities were promised ‘triple bottom line’ outcomes, equally caring for people, economies and the environment.

We all entered into the process in good faith, and it is extremely disappointing when a Water Minister like Tanya Plibersek, with so little experience in water policy and management, breaks all the promises and treats rural communities in this manner.

The Minister will attempt to recover the water, hoping it will win city votes. But what will happen then? As Tony Burke has stated, we will then have constraints issues, leading to more frequent flooding at massive expense to taxpayers. Surely the most recent 2022 floods would raise alarm bells at the consequences of storing too much water in our dams.

We hope Australians, wherever they live, try to get an understanding of this latest decision and its future impact.

For the future of our nation, we must realise that governments cannot be allowed to support policy that restricts our ability to grow fresh, clean food in a sustainable way, especially when our population continues to grow.

Voters want homelessness action

MORE than 120,000 Australians are not getting the support they need when they encounter homelessness, according to a landmark analysis conducted by Homelessness Australia ahead of the coming federal election.

A fresh opinion poll shows homelessness is emerging as a key election issue, with financially stressed voters telling pollsters the problem is getting worse, and they want a remedy.

According to an analysis cross referencing data from the Australian Institute of Health and Welfare, Productivity Commission and Impact Economics, 75,277 people are turned away by overstretched homelessness services each year, while 48,195 people don’t even make it through the door. These unmet needs could be fulfilled with an overall funding boost of $671 million.

Polling shows significant public demand for action. Redbridge research across 24 battleground electorates revealed 60 per cent of respondents under financial stress have noticed an increase in homelessness in their communities. And even among those who didn’t report being under great financial stress, four in ten noticed an increase. The data shows only one per cent reported a decrease in homelessness in their area.

People’s fears have escalated beyond missing a rent or mortgage payment. They now fear being turfed out of their home, with no safety net to catch them.

Our housing crisis has created a national homelessness emergency and voters want to know the government has their back.

This data shows there is a political opportunity to put forward a plan to catch people before they fall into homelessness and ensure that no one is ever turned away because support services are overstretched.

The polling also showed majority support among all voters for bolstering services, including 89 per cent for increased investment for women and children escaping domestic violence, 88 per cent for home-

World domination begins: RYT take to the stage

MADISON EASTMOND

JOINING forces with other regional artists and teen ensembles in Whyalla and Bendigo for the 2025 Adelaide Festival, the Riverland Youth Theatre (RYT) will bunker down to survive an alien invasion in their new collaboration and retelling of H.G. Wells’ War of the Worlds.

Playwright and RYT artistic director Fleur Kilpatrick’s newest production, War of the Worlds, will make its Adelaide Festival debut on three regional stages, including at the Bonney Theatre, this Friday.

Following the theatre companies — RYT, D’faces, and Arena Theatre Co — as they begin by performing parallel versions of Frankenstein, Alice in Wonderland, and Lord of the Flies simultaneously at Whyalla, Barmera, and Bendigo, each ensemble will descend instead to a retelling of Wells’ sci-fi classic when aliens arrive.

With location-specific scripts and in-person audiences in each location, a combination of phone calls, and pre-recorded and live video allow the RYT, D’faces, and Arena Theatre Co to move between their own performances and interactions with one another.

Ms Kilpatrick’s said her “incredibility ambitious” adaptation of Well’s novel has been three years in the making and inspired by her “desire to pay tribute to young people in regional theatre”.

“That’s what make’s a text a classic, it speaks to us in multiple times and places,” she said.

“(H.G. Wells’) novel spoke to me in several ways... (but mainly) the connection young people make with each other across long distances.

“The more I work with regional young people the more I am struck by the way their friendships take place over long distances — they find someone they connect to, another young art weirdo like themselves, and they hang onto them no matter what.

“I wanted to capture that.”

Performing within a 2025 program that includes an international catalogue of artists and companies, Ms Kilpatrick said it was “remarkable” to see the regional and Riverland ensembles be part of the festival.

“It’s amazing to see teenagers from Winkie and Lameroo, and Waikerie as part of this arts festival,” she said.

“While this work is ground breaking, sometimes it feels like (surrounding communities) don’t recognise that.

“But this opportunity is just so validating — it shows people see the talent and greatness of our local youth that we know is there.”

Set to raise the curtains for the first time this Friday, with four more performances held until 15 March, Ms Kilpatrick said she encourages the Riverland community to come out and enjoy the “spectacular work” of the local RYT ensemble.

“(RYT’s lines) have been written particularly for our ensemble — it has a special authenticity as every word is written for them,” she said.

“These are a group of kids we have been working with closely for the past three years now, and there is a lot of trust, support and community in this ensemble and they are so committed.

“Since performing at the (Adelaide) Fringe last year, the kids have grown so much — they are a year more mature and experienced.

“While the performance is more difficult, they have just rolled with it — RYT know how to put on a show, and we know how to do it great and as ourselves.

“I hope the community, artists, and industry leaders continue to see that this is what regional arts can be, which is grassroots and yet of a national calibre, it can be made with teenagers that you pick up after school.”

Free mental health night at Berri Hotel

THE Berri Barmera District Health Advisory Council (HAC) will be hosting a free mental health night session next week.

Held at the Berri Hotel Tuesday 11 March, from 6:30pm to 9:30pm, HAC is encouraging Riverlanders to come along to a free information session on mental health that will include experts and guest speakers, directions to access local services, and the opportunity to ask questions.

“This is a night everyone can come along to,” HAC deputy Terry Mullan said.

“We want to provide the access point for the local community to mental health services — the night is to open that up and make the options for help clear.”

Featuring a number of lived-experience guest speakers and regional and local experts, HAC presiding member Josie Nelsson said this was the third evening HAC has run for the community and hoped the 2025 session would be equally successful as past events.

“Information on the night will be very comprehensive, and it has been put together by mental health partners,” she said.

“Evenings like this allow us to bring the health services out of the hospital and show people what we have in the Riverland.

“We have one of the highest suicide rates in the area — but resources and events like this is to let people know they’re not alone.”

Light supper will be included. RSVP to Nat or Renee for catering on (08) 8580 2405.

Increased charges for child sex offender

A RIVERLAND man, arrested last December for facilitating a child to engage in sexual activity online, has been further charged with another set of related offences.

On 19 December 2024, a 27-year-old man, from the Riverland, was arrested for facilitating a child to engage in sexual activity online and for breaching his reporting obligations.

The man appeared in court and was remanded in custody, but following an analysis of electronic equipment seized during the initial arrest, the man was subsequently arrested on 25 February.

Authorities have added providing false or misleading information, further breaches of reporting obligations, and the dissemination and possession of child exploitation material to the list of charges.

He remains in custody ahead of his next court appearance.

Detective chief inspector Naomi Oberscheidt said “the possession of child abuse videos and images inflicts real harm and perpetuates the suffering of innocent victims”.

Riverlanders who have information about individuals involved in child abuse and exploitation are urged to contact Crime Stoppers (1800 333 000) or visit the website (www.acce.gov.au/report).

If you are aware of ongoing abuse or if a child is at immediate risk, please call police immediately on 000.

Pasin welcomes winegrape report

BARKER MP Tony Pasin has welcomed the final report of the Rural and Regional Affairs and Transport References Committee into the adequacy of the voluntary Code of Conduct for Australian Winegrape Purchases.

Mr Pasin said the inland wine regions were hurting as a result of a global oversupply impacting grape prices, and it would be comforting to anyone in the industry and region to have their experience acknowledged by a Senate Committee.

“For far too long the plight of wine grape growers and those they employ has been ignored by Labor at a State and Federal level,” Mr Pasin said.

“The issue has been glossed over by those in government with nothing but insulting half measures and promises of new markets.

“This report vindicates growers and those advocating for them.

“We can’t trade our way out of this surplus.

“Government must step in and support the industry through major structural reform.

“Most importantly I want to see government address the immediate issue of oversupply by investigating potential support packages to aid growers in transitioning out of winegrapes to alternative or complementary crops. This is what I have been calling for, for three years.

“I want to see a productive horticultural sector in the Riverland, not a wasteland of unproductive blocks and lost jobs. This means ensuring the correct balance of supply and demand that will see a sustainable thriving region for generations to come.”

The full report can be found by visiting the website (www.aph.gov.au/Parliamentary_Business/Committees/Senate/Rural_and_Regional_Affairs_and_Transport/Winegrape).

Waikerie RSL benefits locals through grant

MEMBERS of Waikerie’s RSL will be able to easily share the group’s history with the surrounding community thanks to recent grant funding.

The Waikerie RSL last month received a $1700 grant, through the Federal Government’s Volunteer Grants Program, to purchase a smart TV for the sub-branch hall.

Barker MP Tony Pasin – who presented the grant – said the RSL continued to show dedication in supporting veterans and the broader community.

“Volunteers like the ones at the Waikerie RSL are the backbone of our communities and this grant will help ensure the Waikerie RSL has the resources it needs to continue its important work,” Mr Pasin said.

“By investing in modern technology, the RSL is making it easier for volunteers to connect, learn and contribute, while also preserving and sharing the rich military history that is so important to our nation’s identity.”

Waikerie RSL president Andrew Walker said the installation of a TV would enable volunteers to attend online seminars and meetings, reducing travel time and costs, and allow for digital displays of military history as part of museum exhibits.

Mr Walker said the funding would increase the community benefit flowing from the sub-branch’s hall.

“We are thankful for Mr Pasin’s support in securing this grant,” Mr Walker said.

“This equipment provides more modern facilities for our members and guests who use our hall for events such as training, birthdays, weddings and wakes.”

Success at the safety forum

A LOCAL politician hosted an important community safety forum aiming to gather locals to discuss concerns and insights on regional policing.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone hosted the Purnong Community Safety Forum alongside Opposition spokesperson for Community Safety and Police Jack Batty, on 26 February, at the Purnong District Hall.

With more than 30 attendees, Mr Whetstone said the free forum aimed to bring together locals to express their concerns “The community feedback in Purnong indicates a desire for increased police resources in their area, particularly on the roads and along the river.”

“This forum allowed residents to voice their concerns about policing issues and policies that impact them,” Mr Whetstone said.

“There was plenty of interesting discussion regarding local community safety issues, as well as concerns about property safety and residents’ wellbeing.

“Some locals reported several incidents where calls to their local police stations went unanswered, and police officers were unavailable for hours after the events occurred.

“The overwhelming majority of residents were appreciative of the excellent work of their local SAPOL officers, while also voicing concerns about the shortage of officers across the state.”

“The forum was a great way to connect people with advice directly from SAPOL. Much of the feedback we received will help Jack and I advocate for more officers and increased resources across the state,” Mr Whetstone said.

“I want to thank the community members who took the time to attend and share their concerns.

“I’m looking forward to further engaging with local communities regarding these important issues in the future.”

Berri Barmera community grants now open

BERRI Barmera community and sporting groups are encouraged to apply for council grant funding to support local projects, programs and events.

The Berri Barmera Council’s 2024/25 Community Grants Program is now open for round two and aims to encourage and support community and sporting groups to foster development of community services, events and provide opportunity for participation.

Berri Barmera Council Mayor Ella Winnall encouraged local community and sporting groups to apply for the community funding.

“Council is proud to provide essential funding to local groups each year to bring community initiatives to life,” she said.

“Our grants program enables our community to deliver the works and events that make the Berri Barmera area such a great place to live.

“By investing in these projects, programs and events, we’re investing in our people and our community.”

Eligible community groups can apply for grants of up to $4000 for capital improvements and up to $1500 (or $2500 inclusive of cash and in-kind support) for events and activities.

To view the guidelines, or apply, visit the website (berribarmera.sa.gov.au/grants).

Bulk billing boost for Riverlanders

A FEDERAL Government boost to Medicare and bulk billing has been pledged to Riverland patients and hospitals.

The $8.5b commitment will deliver cheaper GP visits for patients, with a 90 per cent bulk billing rate promised by 2030.

The investment aims to make it easier and more affordable for South Australians to see a GP, reducing pressure on our hospital system.

South Australians have been finding it increasingly difficult to see a GP, and this had an impact on their health and hospitals.

Bulk billing incentives are expected to be expanded to all patients by the end of this year and an additional new incentive payment will be created for practices that bulk bill every patient.

The Federal Government has also pledged to deliver more doctors and nurses into Medicare, with 400 nursing scholarships and the largest GP training program in Australian history, funding the training of 2000 new GP trainees a year by 2028.

“The primary health care crisis has led to growing numbers of patients ending up in hospitals, who could have been treated by a GP,” Minister for Health and Wellbeing Chris Picton said.

“But it’s not just people going to hospital for more minor ailments because they can’t get into a GP.

“When people are sick and they can’t access a GP for treatment, or to manage chronic conditions, they often get sicker and then end up in hospital.

“And because they are sicker, they often require longer stays in hospital, which further increases demand on the system.

“Expanding bulk billing and making GPs more affordable for every South Australian means that patients will get the important primary care that they need to keep them well and out of our hospitals.”

Free telehealth cervical screening in the Riverland

MADISON EASTMOND

SHINE SA are offering free telehealth cervical screening to Riverlanders between the ages of 25 and 74, with the initiative hoping to break down barriers that lead to under-screening.

Funded by Preventative Health SA and replacing the Pap Test, cervical cancer screening is one of the most effective ways to prevent cervical cancer, or detect it earlier.

Offering a new service that has an option of telehealth for cervical screening, the free SHINE SA initiative is designed to support those who face barriers to accessing cervical screening, including:

- ❑ People living in rural/remote/regional South Australia.
- ❑ People living with a disability.
- ❑ People experiencing financial hardship.
- ❑ People from culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) backgrounds.
- ❑ Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.
- ❑ People living with HIV.
- ❑ LGBTQIA+ people.
- ❑ Sex workers.

The telehealth screening service involves an over-the-phone consult, with eligible clients conducting the test themselves with a swab posted to them.

“Self-collection is just as accurate as a clinician-collected swab,” SHINE SA sexual health nurse Kelly Vernon said.

“For those eligible, a screening kit will be sent directly to their address, complete with a pre-paid return envelope.

“Once the swab has been returned and results are received, an experienced nurse will provide you with your results and advise if any follow up is required.”

Ms Vernon said “the (cervical screening) service targets people in the community who are under-screened, ensuring greater access to this important screening service”.

“We are aware that many people face barriers to screening, especially those outside of the metropolitan area,” she said.

“Many clients also face financial barriers to accessing screening which means they may not prioritise this important test.

“For some people in regional and rural SA it can be difficult to get into the GP or local health service for a cervical screening test.

“This service provides an option that is accessible and convenient.

“Additionally, clients may not have access to their choice of healthcare provider and may feel more comfortable performing the test in the privacy of their own home.

“We hope that removing these barriers will increase accessibility for many of these people.”

It is recommended to undergo cervical screening tests every five years.

To book a telehealth appointment, or to check eligibility for the free cervical screening, visit the website (www.shinesa.org.au/telehealth-cervical-screening/).

People in regional and rural SA who have questions about their sexual and reproductive health can contact the Sexual Healthline on 1800 188 171 and speak to a sexual health nurse for free from Monday to Friday, between 9am and 12:30pm.

Nestor and Pioneer join forces

A LUCKY Riverlander is set to win a new premium coffee machine thanks to The Murray Pioneer and Harvey Norman Renmark.

After Magic 93.1 breakfast duo Tabby and Ben’s plans to secure a free coffee machine from Harvey Norman Renmark proprietor Nestor Beale fell through – with the machine instead given away to a radio listener – he has teamed up with The Murray Pioneer to give away another Sunbeam Origins Slimline Espresso Machine, valued at $499, to one of our readers.

Mr Beale said benefitting locals through the business was always a fun experience.

“It was so much fun giving away a coffee machine on the radio, so it was easy to say yes to the Pioneer when they so-nicely asked if they could have a coffee machine as well,” Mr Beale said.

“The best thing about the Pioneer, compared to Tabby and Ben, is they wanted to give away the coffee machine to one of the readers, not just to keep it for themselves.

“Sunbeam was excited to hear the response to the first giveaway and was happy to help in providing one of their latest coffee machines to give to another lucky Riverlander.”

To enter the competition, Pioneer readers simply need to find the coffee cup in each edition up until 26 March, then complete the entry form and drop it in to either the Harvey Norman Renmark store, or The Murray Pioneer office, on Ral Ral Avenue, or via post to PO Box 852, Renmark, SA, 5341.

Entries close on 31 March, and up to four entries can be made by each individual.

Pioneer advertising sales manager Glenda Malinovski said the newspaper team was thrilled to be teaming up with Harvey Norman.

“We always love to show the appreciation for our loyal readers,” Ms Malinovski said.

“Nothing pairs better than reading the newspaper and a cup of coffee, so make sure you find the cups in each week’s Pioneer and enter the competition.”

Mr Beale said Harvey Norman Renmark staff had the expertise to help all Riverland coffee lovers find the perfect machine for their home.

“Coffee is how I start every day, so having a good coffee machine is very important,” he said.

“A good coffee sets the tone for the rest of my day.

“Come into Harvey Norman Renmark, browse our extensive range of coffee machines and let our coffee experts find the right one for suit your favourite cup of Joe.

“Put in your entry with this fantastic competition you might be the lucky one to go home with a free coffee machine, thanks to Sunbeam.”

Kick off ya Boots hitting Chaffey’s big screen

AN acclaimed Riverland production, performed at Loxton in 2024, is set to make its movie debut at the Chaffey Theatre, in Renmark, on 17 March.

Kick off ya Boots, the movie premiere, is a filmed version of the highly acclaimed theatre ensemble, produced by Little Town Productions in partnership with Ifarmwell, part of the Rural Health Division of UniSA.

It follows the life of the Conners, a farming family spanning five generations, who are struggling with drought, financial difficulties, succession and family communications.

It uses humour, fun parody music and impactful storytelling to focus messaging around managing mental health and wellbeing, and finding strategies to create a good work-life balance.

Producer and playwright John Gladigau said excitement levels around the upcoming premiere were high.

“We had the show professionally filmed last year because we’ve had requests to take the live show on the road right around Australia, and there were many communities which wanted to share the Kick off ya Boots experience,” Mr Gladigau said.

“We decided to get it professionally filmed, and the final product is fantastic, noting that 12 of the 13 live shows in Loxton since 2021 were sold out.

“Funding has been received through the South Australian Drought Hub, Ski for Life, and through the Rabobank Client Council, to basically to take the film across South Australia.

“We currently have locked in (showings at) Murray Bridge, Maitland, and Tintinara as well, and we’re still working on a lot of other venues right across regional South Australia, but also potentially interstate.

“We had inquiries about taking the film to WA, Queensland, and potentially to some locations in North America.”

Mr Gladigau said “we know that this play is very impactful for farmers, especially in and around normalising conversations around mental health and wellbeing, and because it was written by a farmer for farmers, I think people can directly relate to the characters that are in the play”.

“Farmers are the main target audience, but the important topics discussed are relevant to all those in rural areas,” he said.

“Drought comes into it, and managing finances, but also the big topics of succession and family communications.

“Even though the play itself has been performed live, it’s an opportunity to celebrate with the local community as well and to have it up on the big screen and have all our cast and crew there to dress up and have a fun night out.

“We are going to have a red carpet and photographers, and a bakery supper at the end.

“We just want to get as many people along as possible to celebrate because there might not be too many more opportunities to be able to see it locally. This is a great product that has come out of the Riverland, which is receiving accolades right around the country and beyond that.”

Calls for fairer funding system for rural councils

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

MID Murray Council is seeking support from the Local Government Association of South Australia (LGA SA) to lobby the Federal Government to make its distribution of Financial Assistance Grants more equitable for regional areas.

The House of Representatives Standing Committee on Regional Development, Infrastructure and Transport last month released its interim report into local government sustainability.

Mid Murray Council in a report that it prepared for a special meeting on 18 February said the interim document highlights local governments, particularly in regional areas, face increasing financial pressures due to growing service demands, regulatory complexity, and constrained revenue sources.

It said key recommendations from the inquiry committee called for increased Financial Assistance Grant funding for smaller regional, rural, and remote councils based on relative need.

Mid Murray Mayor Simone Bailey told the Murray Pioneer a fairer system was required to ensure that regional councils received the funding they desperately needed.

The elected members supported a request by Ms Bailey to submit a motion to the LGSA for consideration at its 2025 Ordinary General Meeting in Adelaide on 25 May.

Ms Bailey’s motion submission asks the LGA SA “to advocate to the Federal Government for the removal of the 30 per cent per capita minimum funding requirement in the distribution of Financial Assistance Grants”.

She also asks for the body representing the state’s councils to support a model that prioritises need-based funding to ensure regional councils receive a fairer share.

The council is calling for the Federal Government’s Financial Assistance Grants program to reflect “the higher cost of service delivery and infrastructure maintenance in regional, rural and remote areas.”

Council in its report presented to the February meeting said the present 30 per cent per capita funding model favoured urban/metropolitan councils with larger populations, despite regional councils facing higher operational costs per resident.

“Without reform, regional councils will continue to experience financial hardship, potentially leading to service reductions, infrastructure decline, or council insolvency,” the report said.

“The local government sector has repeatedly raised concerns about Financial Assistance Grant funding distribution, and the recent inquiry provides a key opportunity for LGA SA to advocate for a fairer model.”

Mid Murray Council also voted in favour of the Mayor writing to all South Australian councils seeking their support for the motion calling for more equitable funding for regional areas and encouraging them to advocate to their local MPs.

“It is South Australia’s chance to lead the way,” Ms Bailey said.

She said with a Federal Government election approaching it was important for SA regional councils to lobby for changes to the way the Financial Assistance Grant funding was allocated.

“It is a perfect time to get this on the agenda because regional councils need more funding,” Ms Bailey said.

A final report from the inquiry into local government sustainability is expected to be released later this year.

Check your pets’ microchip details today

THE Dog and Cat Management Board is reminding Riverlanders to ensure their pets are microchipped and their contact details are kept up to date.

Microchipping your pet gives you the best chance of reuniting with them if they happen to run away, or are lost. It is also required under South Australian laws for dogs and cats to be microchipped by 12 weeks of age and registered on the state-wide register, Dogs and Cats Online.

Dogs and Cats Online allows owners to update their pets’ details and pay their dog or cat council registration fees at the same time.

Owners can access the website anytime of the day or week. Those who fail to comply risk a fine of up to $750 for a prescribed breed.

Dog and Cat Management Board chairman David Parkin said it was vital for owners to keep their pets’ details up to date on the state’s registry.

“Microchips are only as good as the information available on a microchip register,” Mr Parkin said.

“Sometimes pets do accidentally escape, but they can be returned home quickly and safely if their microchip has all of the correct information.

“While it is a legal requirement for your dog or cat to be registered in Dogs and Cats Online, owners may also choose to add their pet’s microchip to a private microchip registry.

“I highly encourage all South Australian dog and cat owners to head to Dogs and Cats Online to check on their pets’ details and update them if they are out of date.”

Pleas for safer behaviour on roads

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

SENIOR local politicians say more action is needed to ensure safety on Riverland roads, amid pleas from police and the State Government for drivers to help reduce the number of serious accidents.

Recent analysis of road fatalities and serious injuries in 2024 revealed speed and dangerous driving were the major causes of deaths on SA roads, with 91 lives lost last year and more than half involved speeding, distraction or dangerous driving behaviour.

In 2024, a total 847 people were left with serious injuries resulting from road crashes while nine fatalities and 102 serious injuries involved drug driving.

Barker MP Tony Pasin said “the reality is driver behaviour is resulting in deaths on our roads”.

“2024 was the fourth-consecutive year where Australian road deaths (rose) year on year and the last time that occurred was 1966, before we had compulsory seat belts,” Mr Pasin said.

“In addition to being concerned about driver behaviour, we need a clearer picture around what is causing this increase.

“The reality is something has to be done because 1300 Australians lost their lives on our roads last year, and the road toll is headed northwards, it’s increasing rather than decreasing.” protection and can be less visible.

Vulnerable road users are overrepresented in accidents so far this year, with three motorcyclists, three pedestrians, a gopher driver and two cyclists killed.

“From a federal perspective, these statistics sit against the background where the government has cut, cancelled, or delayed $27.9bn worth of critical infrastructure projects,” Mr Pasin said.

“We can’t hide the reality that our roads are less safe as a result.”

Member for Chaffey Tim Whetstone said “in light of the troubling statistics for 2025, it is more important than ever for the Labor Government to invest in making South Australia’s roads safer and more reliable,” Mr Whetstone said. “The Sturt Highway is ranked as South Australia’s second deadliest road, and we know that two out of three deaths on country roads in SA are country people.

“Sadly, from 2018 to today, more than 40 people have lost their lives on the Sturt Highway in South Australia.

“The opposition has long been calling for the Government to address the road maintenance backlog and we need to see increased investment in our regional roads.

“Most road deaths and injuries are preventable. Every life lost leads to shattered families and devastated communities due to motor vehicle crashes on South Australian roads.”

Minister for Police Stephen Mullighan said “It’s been a shocking start to the year on the state’s roads”.

“With the festival season now underway, there are more vulnerable road users walking and cycling around our city, so I am pleading with everyone to take extra care on our roads,” Mr Mullighan said.

“The Government is working closely with SA Police on road safety and we will continue to take action to make our roads safer.”

New funding available for Riverland roads

RIVERLAND councils can now apply for additional state funding, aimed to provide critical funding for strategic and high-priority road projects, to ensure safer and efficient transport across the state.

Applications for the 2025-26 round of the Special Local Roads Program are now open, with LGA South Australia president Heather Holmes-Ross highlighting the importance of the funding, which is made possible by councils collectively pooling portions of their federal road allocations.

“The Special Local Roads Program is an example of South Australian councils working together to enhance local road networks and help build stronger communities,” Dr Holmes-Ross said.

“This initiative supports the construction and renewal of essential roads – both sealed and unsealed – that are of strategic importance to our state.

“Improving local roads enhances safety and convenience for all motorists, including interstate visitors, and contributes to economic growth, business development, and job creation.

“By combining their federal road funding, councils can prioritise the roads most in need of attention, ensuring safer and more reliable infrastructure for all motorists travelling or working across South Australia.”

Local councils manage 76 per cent of the state’s road network and rely on state and federal funding to maintain them to standard.

LGA will again renew calls for additional federal government support ahead of the upcoming Federal Election.

“We want roads to be safe and dependable,” Dr Holmes-Ross said.

“This is essential for families, workers, tourists, and supply chains that rely on well-maintained roads to stay connected and deliver services efficiently.

“The reality is costs for materials and labour are rising and putting a strain on council budgets.

“Additional road investment in South Australia would make a huge difference to the scope and size of works councils can carry out on local roads, and provide bigger direct benefits for communities.”

“We’ll again be calling on the Federal Government to make permanent the $20m of annual supplementary road funding South Australia receives, recognising the current inequity that exists compared to other states.”

With applications for the latest round of the Special Local Roads Program now open, Dr Holmes-Ross urged councils to lodge their applications as soon as possible.

“This program is regularly oversubscribed and last year, nearly $22m was allocated to 34 significant projects across South Australia, from the Eyre Peninsula and Mid North to the Riverland and Limestone Coast,” she said.

“These projects deliver critical upgrades to South Australia’s road network, improving safety, productivity and reliability for freight transport, tourists and local residents.

“I encourage all councils to take advantage of this funding opportunity and submit their applications for the 2025-26 round of the Special Local Roads Program.”

Applications are open until 4pm on Monday 14 April with full details available on LGA’s website (www.lga.sa.gov.au/slrp).

Morgan’s growth potential highlighted

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

MORGAN has been identified as the second-top town to have growth potential in an early engagement community and stakeholder survey, conducted by Adelaide-based firm URPS, for Mid Murray Council.

A report by the consultant was recently accepted by Mid Murray Council.

In its ‘Early Engagement Summary Report for the Mid Murray Growth Management Housing Strategy’, URPS said 75 responses were received in a survey it conducted and 35 people took part in workshops at Morgan, Truro and Mannum.

Three written submissions were also received.

The research is part of a project that received nearly $341,000 from the Federal Government’s $1.5bn Housing Support Program in July last year.

URPS has been engaged to develop the growth management and housing plan.

Its interim report said the participants of the early consultations have ranked Morgan as the second town most suitable for more growth, after Mannum.

According to URPS, 21 per cent of those that took part in the survey identified Morgan as their second choice for more housing to be developed and 37 per cent chose Mannum.

Swan Reach was ranked by 11 per cent of those surveyed as their fourth choice for more housing and Blanchetown was a popular second or third choice.

The report said the respondents who ranked Mannum first said more houses should be developed there, because it was the district’s biggest town and it was already growing.

It was also identified as a service hub with the most shops, facilities and infrastructure in the council area with existing subdivisions available and lots of space for growth.

Morgan was chosen as the second town with the most potential for more housing to be established due to having “land available and room to grow”.

Some of the survey participants also said Morgan had “basic facilities and a supermarket and needed growth to survive”.

They also said the “council presence” was also a reason for establishing more housing in Morgan.

The River Murray International Dark Sky Reserve’s core site is the Swan Reach Conservation Park.

Some of the participants of the survey highlighted that employment opportunities provided by the eco-tourism attraction meant that workers needed houses.

The report said affordable housing was also needed for those taking up employment opportunities in the potato and almond industries.

Blanchetown was also identified as needing more housing.

Community input needed for growth

MID Murray Council is encouraging the community and stakeholders to contribute to the development of a growth management and housing strategy for the district.

Adelaide-based firm URPS will release its draft recommendations to council later this year and a final strategy will be developed.

Mid Murray Mayor Simone Bailey said a good cross section of the community took part in initial consultations by the consultant in November last year.

Workshops were held in Morgan, Truro and Mannum and attracted 35 participants over the three workshops.

“We would have liked more engagement, but we had enough people there to make a really good start,” Ms Bailey said.

She said hopefully more people would become involved in the consultations when the draft strategy was released later in the year.

URPS also recently presented its ‘Early Engagement Summary Report for the Mid Murray Growth Management Housing Strategy’ to council’s Strategic Growth and Economic Activation Committee (SGEAC)

“We had a briefing and that committee determined areas where land use codes might need to be changed,” she said.

Ms Bailey said this information has been provided to URPS to assist it in developing the draft strategy.

She said as well as elected members the (SGEAC) also had community members with a range of experience that would provide a strong contribution to the growth and housing plan.

Ms Bailey said the strategy would assist council in identifying where investment in housing was suitable and support it with future grant funding applications.

“It will develop a plan for council to go in partnership with developers and identify what each town needs, to enable growth, and assist in informed decision making,” she said.

What to consider when planning a funeral

WHEN organising a funeral, key tips include: choosing a funeral director, deciding between burial or cremation, selecting a venue, choosing a casket, arranging a viewing, notifying family and friends, considering floral arrangements, selecting an officiant, and planning for a procession or reception afterwards.

Remember to respect the deceased's wishes and consider any personal items or special requests they may have had.

KEY STEPS TO ORGANISE A FUNERAL

CONTACT A FUNERAL DIRECTOR:

They can guide you through the process, handle legal requirements, and arrange transportation of the deceased.

CHOOSE BURIAL OR CREMATION:

Decide whether you want to bury the deceased or cremate them.

SELECT A VENUE:

Choose a location for the funeral service, such as a church, funeral home, or cemetery.

PICK A CASKET OR COFFIN:

Consider the style and budget when choosing a casket.

ARRANGE A VIEWING:

If desired, schedule a time for family and friends to see the deceased before the funeral.

NOTIFY LOVED ONES:

Inform close family and friends about the funeral arrangements, including date, time, and location.

CHOOSE AN OFFICIANT:

Select a religious leader or celebrant to conduct the service.

PLAN FLORAL ARRANGEMENTS:

Decide on flower arrangements, including casket sprays, wreaths, or bouquets.

CONSIDER SPECIAL REQUESTS:

Incorporate personal items, favorite music, or readings that reflect the deceased's life.

PLAN FOR A PROCESSION OR RECEPTION:

Arrange transportation to the burial site or a gathering after the funeral service.

Here to help locals cope with grief

THE loss of a loved one inevitably brings a myriad of emotions—disbelief, shock, sometimes even anger—even if the death was anticipated.

When death is sudden and unexpected, these feelings can intensify, hitting us harder as we haven't had time to prepare ourselves for the grieving process. It's perfectly normal for your emotions to fluctuate, sometimes from day to day or even hour to hour. Remember, whatever feelings you experience throughout your grieving process are valid.

Grief serves as a transitional process, helping you adapt to life without the physical presence of someone significant. Honouring and remembering them can ensure they remain in your heart and memory forever. During the initial, tumultuous phase of grief, both your mind and body are under stress, making it difficult to make decisions that will impact you and your family in the long run.

At Riverland Funerals, we've long advocated for open discussions about funeral options well before they are needed. While society readily plans for major life events like births and weddings months or even years in advance, many shy away from discussing their own death and funeral wishes with their closest family members.

By normalising conversations about death within the family, you can better prepare your loved ones for the inevitable and make your wishes known ahead of time. Deciding on major aspects such as cremation or burial, the style of service, and who you'd like to involve in the process well in advance can make these decisions clearer, as they are made without the immediate burden of stress and emotion. This foresight allows your family to focus on their grief, easing the burden of making significant decisions during their early mourning period.

Riverland Funerals has dedicated significant resources to creating a comprehensive Pre-Planning & Bereavement Guide, which is available for free to help families navigate the many decisions and options involved. Pre-planning can range from an informal plan known only to your family to a formal plan for future use, a legally binding pre-paid funeral contract, or a flexible investment option like a funeral bond. Our staff is always available to discuss your options and help you record your wishes, ensuring your family is supported through one of the most challenging times they will face.

“Grief serves as a transitional process, helping you adapt to life without the physical presence of someone significant.”

Look out for yourself to overcome grief

COPING with grief involves allowing yourself to feel your emotions, taking care of yourself, and reaching out to others. Understand that grief has no timeline, and allow yourself to feel without pressure to ‘get over it’.

TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF

- Eat well and exercise regularly.
- Get enough sleep.
- Maintain a consistent sleep schedule.
- Avoid substances that can interfere with sleep, like alcohol and caffeine.

Reach out to others. Talk with friends and family, join a support group, and consider talking to a therapist or grief counsellor.

ALLOW YOURSELF TO FEEL YOUR EMOTIONS

- Don't be ashamed to cry.
- Express your feelings in ways that make sense to you, like journaling, music or creative activities.

- Allow yourself to remember moments you shared.

LET GO AND LEARN TO ACCEPT

- Recognise that your feelings will likely be less intense over time.
- Let yourself grieve in your own way and time.
- Be patient with yourself.

CONSIDER SEEKING PROFESSIONAL HELP

- If grief is interfering with your ability to live your life.
- If your symptoms haven't improved after six months.
- If you need immediate help.

You can call Lifeline, Australia's 24/7 crisis support and suicide prevention service, at 13 11 14. You can also call Beyond Blue, a free and confidential support service, at 1300 22 4636.

Learning how to best manage grief

A RENOWNED Riverland mental health professional can provide the tools needed to manage and overcome grief.

Local resilience and grief expert – and operator of KAIZEN business support – Suzi Evans focused on helping people with mental fitness and being equipped to deal with the curveballs life throws.

Mrs Evans said learning to manage grief was crucial to improving mental health and function following tough experiences.

“I personally believe that grief is something that you live with, and that you don't get over it,” she said.

“It can often make you feel very alone and often isolated, it can feel like you're losing your mind, and sometimes you need to talk to someone who understands, and who has experienced it.

“Learning about what happens with our brain and emotions and the changes that take place during grief can help you realise that what you are feeling is normal for what you are experiencing.

“While this doesn't take your pain away, it can help you feel better about yourself and your self-talk, so in turn you can function more effectively with your day-to-day life.”

Mrs Evans encouraged

Riverlanders seeking support with managing grief to utilise her WORKBENCH for the mind program.

“My WORKBENCH for the mind online program is designed to help people master their mindset, understand these brain changes, and manage their behaviour to their feelings more effectively,” she said.

“In regional communities, where professional help can take time to access, we can spiral with our mental fitness if we don't have the tools to manage our mindset and understand what is happening.

“WORKBENCH for the mind program is accredited with Suicide Prevention Australia and is quickly gaining momentum in a broad range of industries and community settings as people need help now.

“The program can assist while you are waiting for access to professional and medical help.”

For the month of March, Mrs Evans is offering full access to Module 1 for WORKBENCH for just $47.

Further information regarding the program is available by visiting the website (www.workbench-forthemind.mykajabi.com/wbftm-online-program).

Coal Miner's Daughter will be performed at the Chaffey Teather on 7 March. PHOTO: Supplied

Loretta's life showcased at the Chaffey

THE inspirational tale of an iconic female musician will be showcased when the Coal Miner's Daughter comes to Renmark on Friday 7 March.

The show is set to bring floor-length gowns adorned with tassels and rhinestones to the Chaffey, with hair as close to country music heaven as possible. Relive the days where country music started and still should be, in the theatre, just like the Grand Ole Opry.

The star of the show is Yorke Peninsula's singer/songwriter Amber Joy Poulton, who takes on the role of the first female Entertainer Of The Year, Loretta Lynn.

Amber said "since first hearing Loretta's songs I've been her biggest fan".

"There is no other female vocalist that makes me feel the stories behind her songs like she does and I love the opportunity to tell those stories on stage," she said.

The show also stars Brisbane's Lizzie Moore, as Patsy Cline, and fellow South Aussies 'The Preacher' Denis Surmon, as Conway Twitty and Willie Nelson, along with kickin' band The Holy Men, who captivate the audience with the masterful story-telling of Loretta.

A champion of women's rights, and a mother of six, Loretta performed a lifetime of chart-topping hits.

Coal Miner's Daughter celebrates the incredible life of the late, great Loretta, from her early days in the hills of Kentucky to her tempestuous marriage, tragic losses and enduring bonds with such luminaries as Patsy Cline, Conway Twitty, Tammy Wynette, Dolly

Parton and Willie Nelson, across a stellar career, till her final send off to country music heaven in October 2022.

"Her life and career were so full of stories and lucky for us, most of her life events are covered in her own songs that she penned herself," Amber said.

"My job is sing her songs and make sure the audience is paying attention to the lyrics. She was so honest and at times pushed the boundaries of what was appropriate for radio play.

"Some of her songs even got banned from radio. I love that."

TALKIN' BOUT THE TRURO BYPASS: Barker MP Tony Pasin last week attended a community forum discussing the need to build the Truro Freight Route. A statement on Mr Pasin's Facebook page regarding the forum said "this project is a critical first component of the Greater Adelaide Freight Bypass, which would enable heavy vehicles not destined for Adelaide itself to avoid suburban Adelaide. We need to get this project back on track to improve safety, reduce congestion, and protect our local communities". Liberal Party members Nicolle Flint, James Stevens and Ben Hood were also present at the forum.

Free GP visits for more Riverlanders

MORE Riverlanders will get free visits to the GP, with the Federal Government implementing an additional 450,600 bulk-billed visits and a boost to the number of fully bulk billing GP practices in the local area.

From 1 November, The Federal Government will expand bulk billing incentives to all Australians and create an additional new incentive payment for practices that bulk bill every patient, with an additional 12.5 per cent loading payment on their Medicare rebates.

This will mean nine out of 10 GP visits will be bulk billed by 2030, boosting the number of fully bulk billed practices to around 4800 nationally.

GP practices in regional South Australia will get more support to bulk bill, with around 105 practices across the electorates of Barker, Grey, and Mayo in a better financial position if they adopt full bulk billing.

This means around 105 practices will gain more in additional Medicare payments than they lose in patient out-of-pockets if they go fully bulk billing.

According to modelling by the Department of Health and Aged Care, the 4800 practices will receive an average of $344,000 in additional Medicare payments a year.

"Labor built Medicare, we will protect it and improve it for all Australians," Senator Karen Grogan said.

"I have seen firsthand the challenges regional South Australians face in getting equitable access to healthcare.

"There will be more free GP visits with more bulk billing in regional South Australia because of our historic investment in Medicare.

"105 GP practices in regional South Australia will get support to go fully bulk billing, getting more in Medicare payments than they lose in charging patients out of pockets.

"We want every Australian to know that no matter what their postcode is, they only need their Medicare card, not their credit card, to receive the healthcare they need.

"At this election Australia faces a choice: a stronger Medicare with more bulk billing for all Australians under Labor, or more cuts to Medicare under Peter Dutton's Liberals."

RDAMR names new chief operations officer

THE appointment of a new senior figure at the region's development board is set to support Riverland communities in overcoming current challenges.

Regional Development Australia Murraylands and Riverland (RDAMR) last month announced Julie Bates had been appointed as its new chief operations officer (COO).

Ms Bates said "driving initiatives that support local businesses and communities" was an ongoing goal.

"Through programs like the Agri Food Tourism Development Program, and by working closely with local businesses and communities on the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal's Community Impact Program and PIRSA's Investment Pipeline, it is clear that long-term support leads to stronger, more resilient regional businesses and communities," Ms Bates said.

"However, delivering lasting transformative change can be challenging when support often comes in the form of short-term grants and inconsistent project funding.

"We need to ensure ongoing access to these vital services, which I am committed to maintaining. But beyond that, we must expand our regional development toolkit to provide more sustainable, long-term solutions,"

RDAMR chair Jodie Hawkes said ongoing housing supply issues, water recovery and its impacts on communities, access to workforce, and "under-resourced regional healthcare" were among issues the organisation aimed to tackle.

"Our business and community leaders know that complex problems require complex solutions. This is why RDAMR is forming a Regional Alliance to focus on large-scale and long-term programs to help transform our region for a more resilient and sustainable future," Mrs Hawkes said.

RDAMR chief executive Ben Fee said he would now focus on "developing a suite of large-scale, and long-term, transformative programs from many of the shorter-term initiatives" recently run by the organisation.

"Transforming a big and complex regional ecosystem takes deep system understanding, trusted networks, targeted interventions and time," Mr Fee said.

"By way of example, RDAMR set a vision in 2020 for our region to be internationally recognised as a vibrant, world-leading circular economy by 2030 and, late last year, the Australian Government's Circular Economy Ministerial Advisory Group (CEMAG) recognised in their final report, The Circular Advantage, that several RDAs are prioritising circular economy regional development strategies – exemplified by the Murraylands and Riverland RDA.

"That's national recognition at the halfway mark of our 10-year vision ... so we're on track."

Snapshot of rural Australia reveals higher death rates

RIVERLANDERS are dying at higher rates than their urban counterparts, with avoidable deaths in the regions nearly four-times higher according to new data released by the National Rural Health Alliance (NRHA).

The Rural Health in Australia Snapshot 2025 has highlighted health inequities between rural and metropolitan areas, with men in 'very remote' areas dying up to 13.6 years earlier, and women up to 12.7 years earlier, than those in metropolitan areas.

Additionally, 18,500 people in Australia still have no access to essential primary healthcare services within an hours' drive of their home.

The Snapshot compiles data on health risks, outcomes, disease burden, healthcare workforce, domestic violence, maternity health, and funding disparities - revealing how far rural areas sit behind their metropolitan counterparts.

"This data highlights the shameful failure to adequately provide funding and services to rural Australians, who contribute so much to our economy," NRHA chief executive Susi Tegen said.

"Why are they treated like second-class citizens, with a staggering $848 less spent per person, per year on healthcare?"

"The Snapshot reinforces the urgent need for immediate action.

"For decades, we have known about the healthcare challenges, the additional costs, and the tyranny of distance, but there has been too little action.

"Rural Australia has its own identity and requires tailored, place-based solutions to meet its unique geographic and societal needs.

"We call for a National Rural Health Strategy under the National Health Reform Agreement.

"This will coordinate Commonwealth, State, and Territory policy, investment and service delivery to ensure tailored, sustainable solutions. We also call for 'block' and infrastructure funding that is equitable.

"The solutions exist on the ground.

"It is time to step up, allow for flexibility, prioritise equity and address these glaring disparities. The NRHA is willing to work with any government to rectify this as the health of rural Australia cannot wait any longer."

ONE of Renmark's most popular annual events is once again set to bring the sounds of classic rock n' roll to the town. The 2025 Renmark Rocks On Festival is set to take place from Thursday 13 March, to Monday 17 March, with dancing again being held at Riverland Sunfresh. Renmark Rocks On committee member Lyn Leuders said approximately 1000 tickets had been sold for the weekend's events.

"We're quite happy with the size we're at," Mrs Leuders said. "We could have more people at the venue, but it starts becoming a bit impersonal. # New $47m weed management program

RIVERLAND grain growers are set to benefit from a new initiative aiming to provide sustainable and effective weed management strategies across the state.

A new $47m weed management investment (WMI) led by the Grains Research and Development Corporation (GRDC) has been announced by GRDC Chair and grain grower Sharon Starick.

Developed to support grain growers facing ongoing challenges of the farming industry, the 5.5-year initiative will unite Australia’s leading researchers, communications and extension specialists together to work on innovative, cutting-edge weed management research, development and extension (RD&E).

Mrs Starick said the WMI was a “critical investment that GRDC was making on behalf of Australian grain growers and built on three decades of weed RD&E”.

“Conservatively, weeds impose an annual cost on growers of approximately $4.1bn in lost production and control measures. This equates to around $196 per hectare,” she said.

“This financial burden is exacerbated by the rapid evolution of herbicide-resistant weeds, limited availability of new chemical control options, and shifting climatic conditions affecting weed distribution and frequency.”

The GRDC is investing $25m to create regional hubs (nodes) alongside strategic partnerships, with an additional $22m in contributions from the University of Adelaide and other high-level education providers.

Within the WMI, support will also be provided for more than 20 weed research scientists and 12 new PhD student scholarships in order to build critical capacity in the field.

“Investment in innovative, cutting-edge, integrated weed RD&E is crucial for the sustainability and profitability of Australian grain growers. This is why GRDC has invested $25m on behalf of growers and partnered with some of the best research organisations in the country,” Ms Starick said.

“Not only will this initiative help reduce the economic impact of weeds on our farming systems, it will also foster a collaborative research environment capable of responding swiftly to emerging challenges.”

Five programs will be delivered through the WMI:

- ❑ Evolutionary dynamics of weed adaptation and herbicide resistance.
- ❑ Biochemical, molecular and genetic basis of novel herbicide resistance.
- ❑ Mitigation and management of weeds using novel and integrated approaches.
- ❑ Capacity, expertise and collaborative uplift.
- ❑ Communication, extension and adoption of weed research outputs.

Climate change set to increase Riverland heat?

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

A RECENT update to major climate data, revealed hot days will continue to increase in the Riverland if councils and the State Government are unable to follow environmental commitments.

The Climate Council’s Heat Map Tool, released 27 February, revealed regional Australian electorates could face some of the worst increases in hot days.

The modelling also showed the worst heat will hit communities least able to cope with it, including lower socio-economic electorates, those with greater numbers of older Australians and children under five years old. The bulk of these communities are located in regional areas.

Looking at areas like Renmark, the town will have a larger number of days on average considered hot and very hot, while Berri also sees increases.

Looking at the projected data for 2050, the majority of towns in the Riverland will have 50 days above 35C each year on average.

Without further action on climate change, by 2090 Riverland towns will see:

RENMARK

- ❑ 76 days above 35C. This is an increase of 40 days.
- ❑ 29 days above 40C. This is an increase of 21 days.
- ❑ 13 nights above 25C. This is an increase of 11 nights.

BERRI

- ❑ 71 days above 35C. This is an increase of 38 days.
- ❑ 26 days above 40C. This is an increase of 19 days.
- ❑ 10 nights above 25C. This is an increase of 9 nights.

Climate Council Professor David Karoly said “this updated Heat Map Tool comes as the world experienced the hottest January on record, right on the heels of 2024 being the hottest year on record globally”.

“Heat can impact anyone, but those over 65 and children under five are most at risk of becoming ill on hot days and during heatwaves,” Mr Karoly said.

As a climate scientist and a grandparent, I’m alarmed at the heat our communities are facing if we don’t forge ahead with rapid cuts to climate pollution.

“Even a small increase in the number of hot days or nights can damage our ecosystems and our health. For example, Tasmania’s expected increase of an average of just one more day over 35C would have a major detrimental impact on its coastal rainforests. These figures are also average increases, which means there will be some years in which many more extreme hot days are experienced than the projected average number over two decades.”

The Barker electorate has just over 22 days per year above 35C on average at the moment, being the second-hottest electorate in SA, behind Grey, and will remain so in the future.

Without further action on climate change, by 2090 Barker will see:

- ❑ 48 days above 35C. This is an increase of 25 days.
- ❑ 17 days above 40C. This is an increase of 12 days.
- ❑ 5 nights above 25C. This is an increase of 4 nights.

Loxton Waikerie Library Service newsletter

THE Loxton Institute is celebrating River Fringe with an exhibition featuring five exceptionally talented young artists. The Tuesday Club exhibition will be on display until the end of March. The group, guided by tutor Lyn Anstey, meets weekly for creative sessions.

The Loxton Institute is currently showcasing artwork for sale by several talented local artists. One of these superb paintings could be a unique gift for someone special.

The history room in the Loxton Institute will feature a display of items from the Loxton Co-operative Winery. Come in and look at images and items from an iconic business of the past. Both exhibitions will be on display throughout March and April.

Thanks to a generous Backyard Cricket grant, the Loxton Institute’s Children’s Area now features a fantastic collection of Duplo and magnetic tiles, perfect for keeping young creative builders entertained during their visit. There are also many other games available for use within the building – simply ask one of the friendly staff for their location.

Support a greener community and come along to a free gardening event at the Waikerie Library. Andrew Walladge, a passionate advocate for sustainable gardening, will be presenting ‘Better Home Garden’ – a session on how to design and modify your garden to attract birds and butterflies, provide shade, increase privacy, lower energy bills, and enjoy nature at your doorstep. No booking required, just come along. Two sessions are available, on Tuesday 11 March, at 10am and 1pm.

Join the Waikerie Library for a fun-filled ‘Buzzing with Bees’ STEM Storytime. Little learners will enjoy songs and rhymes inspired by our buzzing friends, create bee-themed crafts to take home, explore sensory activities and learn about the amazing world of bees. This session is perfect for curious children aged 2 to 5 years. It will be held on Friday 14 March, from 10:30am. Bookings essential, on 8541 0720, or through Eventbrite.

BOOK REVIEW BY:
Katrina Webber

HIGH Wire by Candice Fox is a thrilling novel that grips you from the first page and doesn’t let go. Set against the harsh and unforgiving backdrop of outback Australia, this novel is a masterclass in suspense and action.

The story centers on Harvey Buck, a man driven by desperation and love. With his girlfriend critically ill and all flights grounded, Harvey makes the bold decision to traverse the High Wire, a notorious and treacherous outback track known for its lawlessness. His journey takes an unexpected turn when he encounters Clare Holland, a traveller stranded by a broken-down car. Harvey’s act of kindness in offering her a ride quickly spirals into a nightmare when they are ambushed by a vengeful crew and forced into a deadly game of survival. Strapped into bomb vests, Harvey and Clare must complete a series of increasingly dangerous tasks, each more perilous than the last, or face certain death.

Parallel to Harvey and Clare’s problems, Senior Sergeant Edna Norris is on a mission of her own. Tasked with finding a runaway teenager, Edna’s night takes a dark turn as she stumbles upon a series of violent crimes. Her investigation leads her and Talon to follow the trail left by Harvey and Clare, uncovering a string of horrid incidents including a burnt-out car, a missing woman, a bank robbery, and a bullet-riddled body. Edna’s intuitive and determined nature, combined with Talon’s imagination, makes them compelling characters, as they navigate the dangers of the outback while piecing together the puzzle of the night’s events.

The graphic and fast-paced story makes it easy to visualize each desperate and violent encounter. The characters are richly developed, with Harvey’s guilt-ridden past and Edna’s intuitive, yet haunted persona adding depth to the narrative. The Australian setting is brought to life with detailed descriptions of small towns, isolated properties, and long stretches of lonely road.

High Wire is an intense thriller that reminds me of the action of a Jack Reacher novel. It’s a story of survival, redemption, and the lengths people will go to when pushed to their limits. The twists and turns will keep readers guessing until the very end. If you’re a fan of edge-of-your-seat thrillers, you’ll enjoy this.

A service we all need

EVERY 11 March we celebrate World Plumbing Day – a day to recognize the essential role plumbing plays in protecting public health, advancing water solutions, and powering economic prosperity.

Plumbing is more than pipes and fittings. It is the foundation of safe communities, sustainable innovation, and fulfilling careers.

That is why our 2025 World Plumbing Day theme is ‘Plumbing is More’. We invite you to help us raise awareness about plumbing’s impact.

Plumbing transforms lives. It delivers safe drinking water, prevents disease, and helps communities thrive. However, the work of plumbing professionals often goes unnoticed, so World Plumbing Day highlights:

POWERS PROSPERITY
Investment in plumbing infrastructure generates jobs, strengthens economies, and saves billions in water and energy costs.

ADVANCES WATER SOLUTIONS
Plumbers lead the way in conservation, efficiency, and climate resilience.

OFFERS FULFILLING

CAREERS
Plumbing provides a pathway to rewarding, stable, and well-paying jobs worldwide.

PROTECTS COMMUNITIES
Reliable plumbing prevents waterborne diseases and mitigates disaster risks.

ENHANCES THE FUTURE
Innovation in plumbing reduces environmental impact and ensures long-term sustainability.

DELIVERS FOR EVERYONE
Access to clean water and sanitation is a human right, made possible by plumbing professionals.

Grants available for native restoration

RIVERLAND landowners can now apply for $4.2m in grants from the Native Vegetation Council to help restore and enhance native vegetation on their properties.

The Restoration Grants program 2024-2026, launched in 2024, is helping protect and improve habitat for threatened species, boost biodiversity, and restore ecosystems.

The funding will support long-term projects lasting up to 10 years, with eligible grant projects including:

- Revegetation of local native species.
- Pest plant and animal control and management of over-abundant native species.
- Fencing to exclude stock or other activities that impact biodiversity.
- Protecting vegetation through a Heritage Agreement.

A second program - the Heritage Agreement Incentive Grants – is also available to encourage landholders to establish new Heritage Agreements to protect native vegetation on their land.

“This latest funding package reflects our government’s commitment to working with private landowners to deliver positive results for the environment,” Minister for Climate, Environment, and Water Susan Close said.

“These grants will support healthy ecosystems by increasing the amount of woodlands and mallee across our state improving habitat for wildlife such as malleefowl, red-tail black cockatoos, diamond firetail, southern brown bandicoots and many more.

“Native Vegetation Heritage Agreements have ensured the long-term protection of more than a million hectares of the state’s native vegetation since the initiative was first introduced in 1980.”

Applications close on 16 May.

Adopt a koala program revamped quiz

RIVERLANDERS can now connect with a koala who is ‘just like them’, with the Australian Koala Foundation (AKF) recently updating its Koala Personality Quiz to include an array of new koalas from their Adopt a Koala program.

The revamped quiz provides a fun way for individuals to discover which koala they resemble most based on their personality traits, preferences, and quirks.

“We’ve seen how much our community loves learning about koalas and their quirky behaviours. With the updated quiz, we’ve taken things up a notch to make it even more engaging,” Australian koala Foundation chair Deborah Tabart, said.

“Our goal is to spark interest in koala conservation, share the incredible traits that make koalas truly special and possibly inspire people to adopt the koala they’re most like. Plus, it’s a fun way to get involved with the cause.”

Participants will be guided through a series of playful questions that reveal their koala personality match, while inadvertently also educating them on specific koala behaviours.

By taking the quiz, participants can connect with these beloved marsupials on a personal level, learning more about their unique qualities.

The quiz fosters a deeper appreciation for koalas, and also encourages users to adopt a koala through the AKF, directly contributing to the conservation of these precious animals. It’s a simple yet meaningful way to support the future of koalas while celebrating their distinct personalities.

To take the Koala Personality Quiz and find out which adoptable koala you most resemble, visit the website (www.savethekoala.com/koala-quiz/).

Fringe entertainment at Waikerie market

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

ENTERTAINMENT for the whole family, including the chance to learn some circus tricks, will be on offer at the Waikerie Rotary Riverfront Fringe market on Sunday.

The event is supported by Loxton Waikerie council.

Waikerie Rotary Riverfront Market coordinator Carolyn Kleemann said bringing the Fringe festival to the Riverland gives locals the chance to experience all kinds of different performances and activities.

She said many tourists are expected to be in Waikerie for the long weekend and will hopefully enjoy the festivities.

“No doubt the caravan park will be full and hopefully some of the people staying there will come across to the market to have a look,” Ms Kleemann said.

“We would also assume that the Waikerie Hotel Motel will have their accommodation full, so hopefully we will be attracting a lot of people.”

Waikerie Rotarians and local volunteers will be donating their time to make the event possible.

Performers from the Riverland’s Fit to Fly Circus Arts are expected to captivate onlookers with their demonstrations, and circus act workshops will also be on offer from 2pm to 5pm.

Children and adults will be given the opportunity to learn some on-ground circus tricks that will include juggling, ribbons, hula hoops, spinning plates, and diabolo activities.

Owner and operator of Fit to Fly Circus Arts Caitlyn Larsson, who is based in Berri, said she and her performers are looking forward to being part of the River Fringe market at Waikerie again.

“This year we are treating it more like a circus party, so instead of just one performance, that people will just watch, it will be a full three hours of ground skill workshops,” Ms Larsson said.

“Some of my students will also be doing demonstrations on the aerial apparatus in the background.”

The Amazing Drumming Monkeys will also entertain children and their families, from 6pm.

Based in Adelaide, ‘The Monkeys’ have performed thousands of shows across Australia and overseas for the past 20-years.

The Hahndorf Farm Barn will also feature at the market, giving children the chance to pat and cuddle friendly farm animals.

Giant lawn games including jenga, quoits and oversized connect four will be provided by Kings Games owned by former Waikerie resident James White.

A variety of stalls, food and refreshments will be available, and a car-boot sale will also feature.

The market runs from 2pm to 7pm.

SA public school funding falls behind

NEW official data shows that inequitable school funding in South Australia is leaving Riverland public schools behind.

The Australian Education Union (AEU) has released data from the ACARA 2023 School Finance dataset that highlights the disparity between public and private school funding in South Australia.

Despite “substantially greater student needs in South Australia’s public schools”, government funding to private schools has increased at more than twice the rate of funding for public schools.

AEU federal president Correna Haythorpe said the data clearly showed how inequitable the distribution of funding is, and the urgency needed in achieving full funding.

No public school in South Australia is currently funded to 100 per cent of the Schooling Resource Standard (SRS) for public schools.

The SRS is the funding benchmark that all governments have agreed to, as the minimum amount required to educate students, however only 1.3 per cent of schools in Australia are currently at that benchmark.

Key findings of the ACARA data include:

- ❑ Commonwealth and State Government per student funding to private schools in South Australia has grown at 40.3 per cent over the last decade, more than twice the growth in combined government funding for public schools of 17.9 per cent.
- ❑ Total recurrent income per student is now 22 per cent higher in private schools in South Australia than public schools.
- ❑ South Australian public schools have a higher proportion of students with additional needs, including twice the proportion of students from the lowest quartile of socio-educational advantage, and more than three times the proportion of First Nations Students.
- ❑ The capital expenditure gap is increasing, with South Australian private schools spending $618m more on school infrastructure than public schools in 2023 when student numbers are considered.

- ❑ Capital expenditure in private schools is now 3.5 times that of public schools, up from 1.1 times in 2021

“Public schools educate the vast majority of Australian students, including more students who face educational disadvantage, yet they are significantly underfunded,” Ms Haythorpe said.

“This short-fall in funding means that public schools are denied the vital resources that they need to deliver high quality teaching and learning programs.

“Public schools are lagging behind both in recurrent income per student and in money spent on school infrastructure, which creates deep inequity and a two-tiered system.

“That’s why it is so important that the (Federal) Government has committed to increasing the commonwealth share of the SRS to a minimum of 25 per cent and why state governments must put in a full 75 per cent so that all public schools are funded to 100 per cent of the (SRS).

“To address entrenched funding inequity the current negotiations must lock in public school funding deals with all states and territories that finally deliver a true 100 per cent of the SRS.

AEU SA branch president Jennie-Marie Gorman said insufficient public school funding compromises educational outcomes for students and puts additional stress on teachers and school staff.

“Teachers and education support staff in South Australia are giving 100 per cent, but they need to be backed by governments with the resources needed for every student to (achieve) high quality educational outcomes” Ms Gorman said.

“Students in public schools need modern, well-equipped classrooms, which can’t be achieved unless they are well-funded.

“We also need a bipartisan commitment to increase capital funding for public schools. Currently private schools are due to get $1b from the Commonwealth over the next four years while public schools will get nothing.”

Free course for children’s financial literacy

FINANCIAL Basics Foundation has announced the launch of Cashed Up, a suite of free financial literacy courses designed for Riverland high school students.

Cashed Up, supported by Australian Retirement Trust, is aimed at tackling the decline in financial literacy rates among young Australians.

Despite elements of financial literacy being included in the national curriculum, there is no consistent delivery approach nationwide.

Cashed Up bridges this gap with four comprehensive online courses available now and two to be released later in the year, freely available to all Australian students.

The program covers foundational financial concepts, from managing money and understanding employment, to preparing for adult responsibilities.

Research shows introducing financial literacy early in life results in better long-term financial outcomes. Studies indicate young Australians aged 15 to 24 exhibit some of the lowest levels of financial literacy, underpinning a consistent need for effective financial education literacy programs in schools.

“We know from research and decades of experience in education that building financial skills early is essential for young people to grow into financially capable and successful adults,” Financial Basics Foundation CEO Katrina Samios said.

“We are excited to offer this free program to schools and community organisations, helping to foster a financially confident generation.”

Accessible to all teachers regardless of subject area, Cashed Up covers a range of key financial topics, including:

- ❑ Level Up Your Money Plan: Targeted to year 7, it provides students with practical experience in goal-setting and decision-making and begins to explore their relationship with and understanding of money.
- ❑ Take Charge of Your Spending: Targeted to year 8, students will have the opportunity to analyse and reflect on their money attitudes and habits in a variety of contexts.

- ❑ Get ready to Work: Targeted to year 9, students will gain an understanding of the different types of employment as they get ready to earn their own income.
- ❑ Start Earning: Targeted to year 10, it explores the financial implications of joining the workforce in Australia including taxes, practical safe, ethical, and responsible spending, and consumer and worker rights and responsibilities.
- ❑ Build some wealth: Targeted to year 11, it encourages students to reflect on the financial matters that will affect them in the future.
- ❑ Start Adulting: Targeted to senior students, it explores concepts around living independently, such as tenancy issues and budgeting, buying your first car, insurance, and planning a holiday.

An Auto Street Party with more

THE 2025 Riverland Auto Street Party will be held on the lakefront, in Barmera, this Saturday, from 10am to 3pm.

Now recognised as a major fundraiser for the Royal Flying Doctor Service (RFDS) Riverland Support Group, the organising committee, from Riverside Rodders and Riverland Customs & Classics car clubs, have spent the past six months planning the day and are looking forward to again hosting this award-winning event.

Event co-ordinator Graham Matthews said “after our roasting last year with a 41.3C day, we put an order in early with the weather gods and are confident this year we’ll be right”.

“We’ve made a few changes to the event layout which will make the day more family friendly, and have some really interesting market stalls and exhibition displays registered,” Mr Matthews said.

A major attraction this year will be the RFDS simulator, which unfortunately was involved in a minor accident just prior to the street party last year and was a last-minute withdrawal. This year the clubs have secured the perimeter of the venue with fencing, so that there are distinct entry points to assist the RFDS representatives with their fundraising and raffle sales. There will be two live bands playing throughout the day, occasional engine start-ups, lots of food and drink vendors and again two car photo booths for some fun photos, an all-round great family day out.

Of course, the major attraction will be all the vehicles, cars, trucks and motor bikes, old, new and everything in between. There have been a number of car and motor bike clubs from outside the Riverland region register their interest in attending and the eventual total of vehicles is expected to be quite large.

There are a total of 23 awards to be allocated on the day. There are seven VIP awards selected by various identities like the police, and mayor, the Rare Spares ‘Fab 5’, then Popular Exhibition, Truck, Motor Bike, Hot Rod, Vintage, Japanese, European, Pre ’78 Aussie Classic, Post ’78 Aussie, Pre ’78 Yankee Classic, and Post ’78 Yankee.

There is an amazing list of sponsors, both local businesses and others from outside the region providing both financial and in-kind support. The Platinum sponsors are Berri Barmera Council, Riverland Radio, WIN Television, Rare Spares, Shannons Insurance, MARS Transport Equipment, Waikerie Honda, Riverland Trailer Bins, Riverland Funerals, Burson Auto Parts, Riverland Collision Centre, I C & H J Vander Biezen, Smooth Flow Traffic Management, Par Five Shacks, Outlaw Speed Shop, The Airconditioning Blokes, and Nippy’s. Gold sponsors are Australian Motors, Ross Menz Image Solutions, Racekrome Ceramic Coating & Mechanical, Riverland Engine Reconditioners, Berri Freight Services, and Berri Diesel Injection Service. Silver sponsors are Harvey Norman, Tyre Plus – Berri, Toyworld – Berri, and bronze is TNT Fabrications.

You really need to be there to experience the visual excitement and fun of the Riverland Auto Street Party.

Lake Bonney fun for Barmera students

WE had perfect weather for our recent Aquatics Day, held at Lake Bonney.

It was a day filled with new experiences, challenges, personal growth and fun. The children participated in four activities on the day, sailing, kayaking, paddle boarding and kneeboarding.

These activities provided a chance to learn a new skill, build stamina, learn about safety on the water and have some fun at the same time.

There were many children experiencing these activities for the first time and although there were some nerves, all children gave every single activity a go.

We are so proud of them for pushing themselves and using a growth mindset throughout the day. They should be so proud of their achievements.

We would like to acknowledge and thank Joe and his fantastic team, Karen, Gus, Kaleigh and Sue. These instructors were knowledgeable and so very patient and understanding with our students.

I think we may have some students keen to start a new hobby on the water. Thank you also to Darrell for driving us safely to and from the lake.

Ramco Primary's long-serving staff honoured

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

RAMCO Primary School recently celebrated the long service to education of three of its staff members at a family barbeque for families and staff to share its learning plans for 2025.

Staff member Susan Santella, was recognised for her 20 years' service to the Department for Education, and Kylie Fridd and Jess Oates for their 10 years of service to the department.

About 100 people attended the evening. Ramco Primary School principal Rob Smyth said the event gave everyone the chance to meet those new to the school.

A 'Find the Staff' treasure hunt was run and the school captains, student voice representatives, house captains, and environmental leaders were all inducted.

"The school already has lots of great learning opportunities planned and are excited about the year ahead," Mr Smyth said.

The following is an opinion piece by Barmera grape grower JASON PERRING regarding the outcome of a recent senate inquiry into a potenital mandatory wine industry code of conduct...

No excuses after Senate report

IT is quite possible that the three Chinese naval vessels in international waters off our coastline are here to fire a 21-gun salute in recognition of the Senate of Australia's vote last Friday for the inquiry's recommendations relating to a mandatory code of conduct for wine grape purchases, and things within the industry that need to change.

The Senate has recommended a mandatory code of conduct for the industry.

This is a landmark decision for the industry. It will eventually benefit grape growers across Australia, and the present Federal Government, and new one after the election, need to take it fully on board, and just get it done.

This must happen, and it must have complete, bipartisan support, with no selfish political agendas thrown in.

Any politician or member of any supposed peak body needs to remember that while little but talkfests were done for a number of years, growers at the grassroots of the industry were being driven closer to bankruptcy and poverty, with more who will not make it far beyond this current 2025 harvest.

People would remember that in December 2024 I mentioned the startling data that to that date, around 3000 hectares of grapes were removed or switched off in the Riverina.

The CEO of their grower group in an interview in recent days added that another 2000 hectares has gone. No data has been collected to my knowledge as yet in the Riverland, but many vineyards show they have been shut down.

To all wineries I would ask: Do you have a magic hat to pull grapes out of for the years to come so your wineries are viable, and your markets can be serviced reliably?

Undeniably, much blame must lie with wine companies for this disastrous chapter of our industry.

Now it's time to work with growers, just as we have always worked with you, as our livelihoods depend on each other. Don't fight these changes or recommendations.

The Senate recommendations stated in part that the code of conduct should establish fair and equitable terms addressing the following:

- Payment terms to be limited to within the financial year of delivery at the latest;
- Quality requirements including minimum standards, measurement methods, and what actions will be taken if the requirements are not met;
- Earlier indicative pricing; and
- Binding dispute resolution.

So everyone is clear. The Senate vote itself is a recommendation directly for an industry mandatory code of conduct.

This then goes to the Federal Government, then is directed at a particular agency or department.

The government is required to present a response within three months of the report tabling (28 May 2025).

All people need to understand that after this Senate vote, the federal minister for agriculture, whoever he or she may be after the forthcoming election, has a major role in what eventuates.

That is where further consistent and firm lobbying needs to be directed.

It is crucial that the current and future federal minister for agriculture sees that the Senate recommendations are prioritised, and making it the number one objective in the federal portfolio of agriculture.

The future stability of this $45 billion industry and the approximate 170,000 people directly involved in grape growing and wine production depend on this, more than many people realise, as do the associated industries of transport, bottling, labelling and packaging manufacture.

The industry is like a multi-storey building. Grape growers are the most important ground storey upon which the next level of winemakers, marketers, government departments getting fees, GST and taxes, shipping etc are all next levels in this multi-storey building.

For years the industry foundation has been continually undermined by a serious case of industrial and economic salt damp. It has got to a level where the ground storey of growers is so seriously undermined that the levels above are in danger – over the next four or five years – of collapse.

And at a serious level, if our grape production is further put at risk by unsustainable prices, sketchy contracts and other systemic issues, our international sales will be put at risk, because wine companies won't have enough sought after Australian product to sell.

This will play into overseas competitors' hands and take years to change back.

Would any future federal agriculture minister, federal cabinet, opposition, ACCC, or peak industry body want this? Are they prepared to accept the blame if this happens, with the grower voice shouting "I told you so"?

The 22-month journey to this Senate decision has been challenging.

Key contributions came from SA Senator Barbara Pocock and Tasmanian Senator Peter Whish-Wilson, whose advice helped me lodge the original submission to the Senate Committee in late 2023, and keep it on track as a Senate Committee agenda item in early 2024.

They didn't look at party lines; just the situation of our wine industry, the lack of any true and equal representation of growers in the market place, and how seriously destabilising issues could be for a $45 billion industry.

No growers and no grapes equals no wineries and no $45 billion annually to Australia, and up to 170,000 people's jobs in jeopardy.

Thanks also to senators Canavan, Sterle, Colbeck, Whish-Wilson and Pocock, the senators in the private hearing with me, which led to their recommendation to the Senate to hold the inquiry, and to those senators on the inquiry panel: Senators Glenn Sterle, Pocock, Whish-Wilson and Anne Ruston. I commend each of them for their professionalism, honesty and genuine concern at arriving at a true picture within our huge industry.

Thanks also to the CEO and board of the Riverina Wine Grape Growers Association, for their support, and having spent a lot of energy trying to get improvements for the industry at a grower level well before my involvement. They have some unique issues still to deal with. Their advocacy and professionalism should be a model to other organisations purporting to represent true grape growers.

Thanks to my grower colleague Jim Giahgias, who since 2023 has been a staunch associate and sounding board for our joint campaign to get a better deal for grape growers around the country, not just in our own region. We took risks in our decision to be public advocates for all growers. We share our future with every brother and sister grower, wine industry worker, and allied business in all states in this great nation.

While these recommendations, and a future mandatory code, will not alter the pricing for the current harvest, or benefit growers now, once acted upon then there can be lasting, systemic improvements, with key issues that are enforceable.

It is fantastic that the Senate recommendations include the need for earlier indicative prices and an expert determination process decisions to be binding. Whoever has input into a code formulation is almost as important as what is in it.

Any working party must not be dominated by winemaker representatives, nor by their input at federal or state ministerial level.

They have dominated the wine grape industry for decades to the current detriment of our industry. At no point did they take up repeated calls from year 2000 for sustainability into vineyard planting.

No. It was encouraged, even since 2015 when wine bodies had enough data that evidenced the worrying trend of red grape over-supply. This was still encouraged without check. Why?

As evidenced in submissions and statements to the Senate panel, the resounding question is 'Who benefits from an over-supply?'

The clear answer is the winemaking sector, because they can get the raw material at rock bottom prices.

Otherwise, they should have put their hand up 15 years ago at least, and said 'Stop planting variety X, Y or Z, because we have enough'.

To the Federal Government now, the new one to come, and the ACCC, no procrastination. Do what is right, just, sensible, decades overdue, and now recommended by the Senate.

We need it as soon as possible, and as an interim measure, my proposal is for indicative prices compulsorily out on 30 September commencing this year, and an expert determination decision to be concluded and notified to all parties by 31 October, commencing this year, while the mandatory code itself is being structured.

To every federal politician, don't use the excuse of the coming election, or a change of government to make excuses that you can't support or implement a mandatory code process.

Your pay doesn't stop during this time, nor does the number of grape growers driven out of business.

I will be one of the loud voices calling for individual accountability of every federal politician who fails to support this just and crucial lifeline to the grape industry.

If any politician doesn't support it, I would be one grower who will demand from that politician a detailed, foolproof business plan as to why a mandatory code cannot be supported, prioritised, and implemented, then have their excuse thoroughly and publicly scrutinised.

Then a possible call for their resignation. No tolerance for incompetence, vested interests or pandering to 'big business'.

Growers must be in a much better place pre-2026 harvest. It's up to you to make it happen.

DEATHS

JAMES, Irene Barbara ‘Barb’ (nee Alexander).
25/11/1937 – 22/2/2025
It is with sadness that our family share the death of our much-loved and very loving wife of Brian.
Mother of Debra and Sharyn.
Grandma of Jobie, Lauren, and Annie and great-grandmother.
Barb was a loving sister of Deanna (deceased), Mary, Wayne, and Kay.
She was also an aunt, niece, cousin and a great friend to so many people.

Barb lived a long, active and joyous life until recent years when she was stricken by vascular dementia which slowly and definitively took away the wonderful woman that we knew.
We will remember Barb for her positive, vivacious and gregarious outlook on life.
She was a woman of many passions: art, crafts, sewing, knitting, gardening, travel, especially cruising, and generally enjoying the most of life.

Our sincere thanks to the caring and considerate staff at Loxton Aged Care, especially those in Melaleuca House.

Barb will be privately cremated as per her wishes.

MCLEAN, Alan Raymond.
30/10/1936 – 24/2/2025
It is with much sadness to announce the passing of my dear husband Alan.
Much-loved father to Kathryn and Scott.
Loved father-in-law to Michael.
Precious poppy to Tristan and Hamish.

He will be forever in our hearts and will be sadly missed.

He will be remembered for his kindness and support to everyone he knew, and for his service to the Renmark community.

FUNERALS

BELL, John Edward James.
John’s family and friends are respectfully invited to attend his celebration of life to be conducted in the Riverland Funerals Chapel, 10 Cates Avenue, Waikerie on Thursday 6 March, 2025 at 11am.
At the conclusion of the service the cortege will proceed to the Waikerie Cemetery for the committal.

IN MEMORIAM

WELLINGTON, Richard ‘Dick’.
3 March, 2024
Today marks the one-year anniversary of the passing of our beloved husband, father, grandfather, and great-pop.
His memory remains alive in our hearts, and his wisdom, love, and kindness continue to thrive in his beloved grandchildren and great-grandchildren.
We especially feel his absence today and hold all our treasured memories close.
His legacy of hard work and caring for others is something we all strive to uphold in his honour.
We will forever miss him.
Always in our hearts, his loving wife Bev, sons Tony and Paul, and their families.

Mail Delivery Contracts

Australia Post is seeking tenders from companies, or persons willing to form companies, to deliver mail under contract arrangements in the Delivery Area listed below. Australia Post has a commitment to providing a consistent and personal service to its customers. Therefore, as far as practicable the successful tenderer should be able to supply the same commitment to deliver the articles each day in the Delivery Area.

The successful tenderer will have sufficient time to make arrangements to comply with the conditions of the contract, including the procurement of a suitable vehicle. Training will initially be provided to the successful tenderer, who is then required to train its own personnel.

All genuine tenders and enquiries are welcome. However, Australia Post is not obliged to accept the lowest or indeed any tender and reserves the right to accept or reject any or all tenders if it considers that it is in the interests of Australia Post to do so.

INVITATIONS TO TENDER FOR DELIVERY SERVICES

PUBLIC CONSULTATION

Revocation of Land from Classification as Community Land

Pursuant to Local Government Act 1999 s194

The District Council of Loxton Waikerie is seeking community feedback on a proposal to revoke the Community Land classification of a parcel of Council-owned land on Drabsch Street, Loxton, for the purpose of selling the land for future housing development.

The property is situated at Lot 78 Drabsch Street in Loxton, Certificate of Title Volume 570 Folio 964 (being Allotment 78 in Filed Plan 10230). The land has not been used as a reserve and is located near considerable nearby open space. Proceeds from the sale will be held in general revenue and used to benefit the residents of the Council's communities.

In accordance with s194 of the Local Government Act 1999, Council is required to conduct public consultation prior to lodging an application to the Minister to revoke the community land classification.

Public consultation will take place between Wednesday 5 March and Tuesday 2 April 2025. A feedback form, a copy of the proposal and more information about the consultation is available on Shaping Loxton Waikerie, via <https://engagement.lwdc.sa.gov.au/revocation-communityland-classification-drabsch-street>.

Submissions from the community are encouraged

PUBLIC CONSULTATION Community Land Management Plan - Former NRM Site

Pursuant to Local Government Act 1999 s198

The District Council of Loxton Waikerie is seeking community feedback regarding the proposed Community Land Management Plan for Crown Record Volume 6305 Folio 209, formerly used by the Natural Resources Management program.

At its meeting held 19 February 2025, Council moved to adopt the draft Community Land Management Plan, which will allow the intended lessee to use the premises for business use, expansion of a childcare centre, and the development of a new childcare facility to meet growing community needs.

Under section 198 of the Local Government Act 1999, Council is required to undertake public consultation prior to adopting an amended Community Land Management Plan.

Public Consultation will take place between Wednesday 5 March and Wednesday 26 March 2025. A feedback form, a copy of the proposed Community Land Management Plan, and more information about the consultation is available on Shaping Loxton Waikerie, via https://engagement.lwdc.sa.gov.au/former-nrmcommunity-land-management-plan/. Hard copies are also available at the Loxton Council Office and Loxton or Waikerie Libraries.

Berri paint the town Red in baseball stunner

LACHLAN DAND

BERRI Red made it a stunning four premierships on the trot on Friday night in the Riverland Baseball League, securing a three-run victory in a fixture that stretched nine innings.

It has been a comprehensive campaign for Berri Red, dominating all season in its run to the grand final, which included a thumping qualifying win.

Premiership player, and Berri stalwart Paul Reid said it was a good feeling to win the decider, with each grand final win meaning something different.

“The best thing about this one was that it was a whole-team effort, and I’ve been involved in a few grand finals, but this is one of the most complete ones,” he said.

“With the juniors and seniors all playing their part, everyone really chipped in, and was playing their role at their time and executing it, so it was a really special win.

“We knew we had the depth and the plan in place to go the distance, but you never know if it’s going to work out that way on the night.

“Renmark really hung in there, and they were only one innings away from really accelerating past us, but we had that feeling too.”

Heading into the match as hot favourites against Renmark White, Berri Red sent Riley Halupka onto the mound, who pitched well before being replaced by Jamie Frazer at the top of the fifth.

Additionally, Josh Peltz had two safe hits, in what was an overall impressive performance from the young brigade at the club.

“It was amazing to see the composure our young ones showed right from the start of the game, and our older guys really fed off of that” Reid said.

“The start was important, and we were really happy with how we attacked it, and we gave Riley a big job, and he was able to pitch four extremely solid innings.

“The foundation was built on giving people some challenges, and when they rose to it, everyone just fed off of that which was great.”

Renmark White’s David Grenfell won the best on ground medal, despite being in the losing side, for his stunning individual efforts throughout the match.

Grenfell kept his side in the match, finishing with a remarkable 14 strikeouts, and Reid said Grenfell was a deserving recipient.

“He’s a guy that will just never give up, and he will always do what the team needs him to do, and I truly believe he kept them in the game with his pitching,” Reid said.

“Berri are renowned for having that blow-out inning where they pile on multiple hits, but just couldn’t achieve that on Friday night.

“That was largely due to Dave’s pitching, and he held the side really well, and just kept them in it right throughout the night.”

Halupka named baseball’s best

THE Bament/Wesslink medal for the best player in the Riverland Baseball League was awarded recently, following an outstanding individual effort in the latest season.

Berri Blue’s Ayden Halupka claimed the prestigious honour, finishing on 16 votes, ahead of Tony Halupka of Berri Red, and Dean Beer of Renmark White, who finished dual runners-up on 14 votes.

Halupka made his move in the second half of the season, holding second place after six rounds, and although Berri Blue failed to feature in Friday night’s decider, Halupka continued to rack up the votes.

Renmark White young gun Evan McAllister took home the Rookie of the Year award following an outstanding season, while the best under 18 award fell the way of Riley Halupka, and Kelsey Goldspink won the Demichelis rising star award.

Berri to host A grade preliminary final

ALL eyes will be on Berri this Saturday afternoon as the Riverland Turf Cricket Association's A grade preliminary final is held at Berri Oval.

Berri failed to earn the right to a home grand final, following a five-wicket loss to Parilla at Lameroo Oval on Saturday afternoon.

Things started well for Berri, winning the toss and electing to bat, and Martin Sumner fought hard at the top of the order for a well-made 22.

However, Berri continually lost wickets, failing to build strong partnerships throughout the match, with several key players removed for low scores.

Peter Efthimiou departed without scoring, as did Josh Fielke, while young gun Wes Frankel was removed for seven.

Captain Reece Lehmann showed promise with a quickfire 16, while Mitch Cawse's 25, and Brad Oakley's 23 gave the visitors some hope, and a respectable score in the process.

Shilo Dabinett starred with the ball, claiming three wickets, while William Werner also had a positive afternoon with two.

Chasing 142 for victory, the Roosters got the start they were after, with Oscar Barrett (33), Trent Sherman (32), and Dabinett (26) all batting well.

Wayne Scadden gave Berri some optimism in the match with two wickets, and Frankel provided a late spark of hope with two of his own, but Parilla chased down the total with less than seven overs remaining.

Elsewhere, Renmark North's season came to an end in Pinnaroo, following a 132-run crushing defeat to the Bushrangers.

Bowling first, North were largely unable to stem the flow of the Bushrangers, who managed to smash 216 in a batting onslaught.

Randall Watson got things started at the top with 31, while Thomas Wurfel (25), and Mitch Hawthorne (23) also found themselves among the runs.

However, Mallee's best batter proved to be Jaylen Vogt, who crushed 63 from 51 deliveries, in an innings that saw nine boundaries.

Tarque Williamson, Jayden Kernich, and Zakk Gallo each took two wickets, and spin twins Dean Hill and Dylan Blackley each claimed one, but a big chase was required.

Yet North were dismissed for just 84, started by Williamson going for one, and Bannister out in the second over.

Blake Henderson gave the Bluetongues hope with 25, but when he was run out, the visitors' chances faded.

Watson and Darcy Crane were key with the ball, each taking three wickets, and Drew Crane's two wickets were also valuable.

Meanwhile, Monash is through to the B grade grand final, causing an upset against Brown's Well with a four-wicket win in Paruna.

Bowling first, Monash had a dream start, removing Matt Hampel, James Patterson, and Brian Hampel cheaply, leaving the Cows reeling at 3/4.

David Ireland rescued the score with a cracking half-century, while Carel van der Merwe batted time for an important 33 from 84.

Bruce Pech gave the home side late momentum, with an unbeaten 18, dragging the score up to 124.

Jarryd Roberts dominated with a stunning four-wicket haul, while Lucas Ravenscroft's two also proved to be crucial.

In reply, Monash also lost early wickets, in trouble at 2/8, however, Kyle Gillespie launched to the rescue with a well-made 32.

Roberts was the pick of the batters with 41 unbeaten, while Gavin Potts (19), and Morgan Smith (18) were important.

Creagh Patterson claimed four wickets for the Cows, and Hampel finished with two, with a massive clash in store this weekend against Barmera at Paruna.

Barmera continues to rewrite its club history, winning its first final in 20 years with a seven-wicket win over Waikerie/Ramco at Barmera Oval, ending the visitors' season in the process.

The Pelicans skittled the Warriors for just 113, with Shep Humphries and Kade Boase the pick of the bowlers with three wickets each.

Flynn Andrew (29), and Naish Andrew (26) started well for the visitors, but failed to garner support from the rest of the attack.

Although Thomas Waanders struck early to remove Adrian Daly, Scott Humphries took the game away from the visitors with a crushing 65 unbeaten, and Callan Smart dominated with 22 at the top.

Renmark sets itself up for top two finish

A TOP-two finish is set up for Renmark in the Riverland division one tennis competition, following an important win on Friday night.

On the road to face fellow top-two contender Berri, Renmark secured a six-to-four rubber victory, doing a bulk of the work in the doubles’ matches.

Despite an early defeat, David Strongman and Dean Schumann both performed well with doubles and singles victories.

Although they each individually tasted defeat in the respective singles clashes, Abbas Qambari and Ben Dring performed well in the early doubles game, getting Renmark into a winning position.

Berri duo Maria Tzanavaras and Cooper Staehr both showed class for the home side with singles wins, but failed to make enough scoreboard damage to reverse the result.

Elsewhere, Cobdogla avoided a minor scare at home, continuing an impressive undefeated season with a strong win over Loxton White.

It was a successful night for Hayden Carter, who largely individually inspired Cobdogla to the victory, finishing the night undefeated.

Carter enjoyed wins in the doubles with Cohen Battams and Brodie Fridd, before finishing off with a singles’ victory.

Andrew Waters and Rhys Loxton gave Loxton White a portion of late hope, but it made little impact on the scoreboard, with Cobdogla largely remaining in control throughout.

Riverland tennis will have an association-wide bye this weekend due to the March long weekend, with the final round of action before finals on Friday 14 March.

Berri’s division one home-and-away season draws to a close, and they now have the opportunity to hone their craft ahead of the finals series, with the finals beginning on Saturday 22 March, at 6:30pm.

RIVERLAND SWIMMING

RIVERLAND swimming held its final swim of the 2024/25 season on Sunday afternoon at the Loxton Pool, holding the Closed Championships, with 105 events taking place in a packed day of action.

The home club capped off an extraordinary season, winning the shield from Berri with a 212-point win on Sunday sealing the deal.

Loxton finished on 794 on Sunday, ahead of Vitor Renmark on 582, while Berri settled for third place on 524.

Loxton also won the Curren Trophy by 97 points from Berri, while Renmark finished third by a considerable distance.

Yet the Tigers continued winning awards, claiming the Peter Arnold Trophy as the most improved club, while the John Crisp Trophy also went to Loxton, for the most points at the Riverland Closed Championships.

Basketball finals series ready for tip off

THE Riverland Basketball Association finals series is officially locked in, with four sides confirming their fate following the final round of the home-and-away season.

Division one men’s action sees reigning premier Renmark on course for back-to-back titles, claiming the minor premiership with a 28-point win over Waikerie.

Renmark remained in complete control throughout the match, moving to an 18-point half time lead, keeping the Warriors at bay at all times.

The Steamers produced their best quarter of the match in the final term, pushing the lead to 28 points and recording a resounding victory.

Brody Rover was once again the star of the show for Renmark, finishing with 23 points, including three triples, while Declan Johnson also hit three triples in a 16-point effort.

Reece Curtis kept the scoreboard ticking over with a valuable 13-point contribution, while Harrison Keynes worked hard with 10 points.

For Waikerie, Josh Trandafil produced a valiant effort with 17 points, while Reily Fridd (13), and Kieran Hahn (12) also impressed.

Waikerie’s season now draws to a close, finishing in fifth place and out of the finals race.

This Thursday’s qualifying final will be a rematch of last season’s decider, following Loxton’s 12-point win in Barmera.

Loxton held control of the game throughout, leading at every change, racing out as far as 15 points at half time.

The Supercats continued their momentum into the second half, frustrating Barmera’s attacking play to run out victors.

Jasper Hutchinson dominated for the visiting side with 21 points, while big man Carter Wright recorded 14.

For Barmera, Mitch Wellington and Riley Haigh fought hard for the Lakers with 13 points each, and Dillon Millard finished with 11, but it proved a bridge too far.

Barmera will meet Berri in this Thursday’s elimination final, with the winner to face the loser of Renmark and Loxton in Tuesday night’s preliminary final.

Division one women’s action saw Barmera complete a special undefeated home-and-away season, with a 27-point win over Loxton in the grand final rematch.

As has been the case in a large majority of Barmera’s battles this year, the Lakers were in total control of the match from the outset.

Leading at every change, Barmera built on the 13-point half-time margin, in order to set up the victory.

Shaya Whitbourne dominated for the home side with 18 points, while Chelsea Wutke’s 16, and Meg Kassulke’s 12, were vital.

For Loxton, Bailey Hahn impressed with a 19-point showing that featured a pair of triples, and young gun Kiara Harman finished with 10 points, but it proved too great of a margin in the end.

Elsewhere, Berri warmed up for this Thursday’s qualifying final with a 25-point win over Waikerie, in Waikerie.

The Blazers produced a strong showing from the outset, opening up an eight-point half time lead, and keeping their foot on the throat throughout.

Young guns Bella Gates (24), and Mackenzie Pitt (23), showcased why they are future stars of the competition, in what was a dominant performance.

Sienna Hyde battled well for 12 points for Waikerie, as did Emily Kratopoulos, with the home side’s season on the line tomorrow night.

This Thursday night’s division one finals, played in Berri, sees the women’s clashes of Berri and Barmera, and Loxton and Waikerie from 7pm.

Division one men’s action sees a grand final rematch between Renmark and Loxton, while the Blazers at home will meet Barmera in an elimination final, at 8:30pm.

Barmera ends its premiership drought

FOR the first time since the 2012/13 season, the Riverland bowls division one Wednesday pennants premiership belongs to Barmera.

The 12-year drought was ended in Waikerie on a warm morning against neighbouring town Berri, with the Lakesiders taking out a 14-shot win.

Barmera set up its victory by winning two of the rinks, while just one shot separated the rink that it failed to claim.

Jenny Healey's four were the stars of the show for Barmera, earning a 12-shot win over Barbara Knight's quartet.

Julie Gartner also skippered her side to victory, defeating the experienced Kerry Treloar and her four by three shots.

Although Melissa Morrow's four were unable to make it a rink sweep against Claire Eichenberger's group, enough damage was done on the scoreboard.

The result served as a shock to the competition, with Berri having lost just one game for the season prior, and defeating the Lakesiders by 43 shots in the qualifying final just seven days earlier.

At the same venue, Berri did taste some success from the morning, with its red affiliate defeating Lyrup by three shots in a thriller.

With just two rinks played, Kaye Tanner's four fell by seven shots, but were supported by Lorraine Schubert's quartet, who earned a 10-shot victory over Rosalyn Smith's team.

Strikers on the board in the A grade

LOXTON stunned the Riverland Softball Association on Saturday afternoon at Glassey Park, recording a seven-run win over Sunraysia.

It's Loxton's first win of the A grade season, switching into the division at the beginning of the calendar year, and the Strikers were finally rewarded for the brave decision.

Ori Johnson and Hayley Symen were dominant for the Strikers, named in the best players, while Tara Martin again fought hard for the Victorian-based side.

The most entertaining game of the week-end action came from the B grade, where Berri piled on 17 runs, and claimed a five-run victory over Cobdogla.

Marley Fridd dominated for the Redsox, while Lazara Wade and Brayden Smith each produced strong afternoons.

Both Jan Cook and Luke Tyler fought valiantly for Cobdogla, contributing to the 12-run total, but the score was unable to be reeled in. A stunning 11-all draw was played out between Renmark and Berri in the C grade with all players performing, while action between Cobdogla and Loxton Green in the same grade failed to go ahead due to a forfeit.

The 16th and final round of the season will be played on 15 March, with this week-end a bye due to the March long weekend.

RESULTS A GRADE

Loxton 10 d Sunraysia 3
Best: Loxton – M. Holland, O. Johnson, H. Symen.
Sunraysia – T. Martin, S. Neaylon, B. Wade.

B GRADE

Berri 17 d Cobdogla 12
Best: Berri – M. Fridd, L. Wade, B. Smith. Cobdogla – J. Cook, A. Taylor, L. Tyler.

C GRADE

Cobdogla v Loxton Green – forfeit.
Renmark 11 drew with Berri 11
Best: All played well.

RIVERLAND DARTS

THE Riverland Darts Association held its preliminary finals on Thursday night, and the black division saw Cobby Eagles bounce back from their loss the previous week, defeating the current summer champions R C Ones, 6-4, winning through to the grand final.

With the score sitting three-all after the doubles, and the first round of singles, Eagles jumped into the driving seat to claim a big victory.

Jeff Broekers was the standout for Eagles with a low game of 15 darts, and a high peg of 116.

Eagles will now play Waikerie Lob Squad, at Cobby Club, in the grand final on Thursday night.

In the Red division, the match between Lyrup Cubs and Dartholics was close all night, and went down to the teams game at the end.

Dartholics were able to win the teams game to claim the win 6-5, and advance through to the grand final against the Monash Wanderers, at the Monash Club.

RESULTS

Black Division – Preliminary Final: Cobby Eagles 6 (J. Broekers 140 x 3, 125 x 2, 123, 100 x 4, 116 peg out, R. Stemp 123, 100 x 3, A. Hargreaves 121, 100 x 7, N. Peatey 100 x 2) d R C Ones 4.
Red Division – Preliminary Final: Dartholics 6 (Harper 125, 101, T. Collins 100 x 5, M. Court 134, B. Springall 100) d Lyrup Cubs 5 (C. Martin 140, 125, 100 x 4, D. Martin 125, 108).

LAKE BONNEY YACHT CLUB

LAKE Bonney Yacht Club (LBYC) members travelled to Meningie Sailing Club over the weekend to compete in a friendly reciprocal visit.

Eight LBYC yachts represented the club, and the skippers did very well on the scoreboard against the Meningie local sailors.

The two Contenders of Delaine and Ling did exceptionally well in the Misc. Monohull division, and five Catamarans of Thomas, White, Darryn, Wainwright and Dunk also featured on the scorecard.

The wind conditions started with a light variable South West, around eight knots, but increased quickly during the afternoon, with the sea breeze coming in for race two's start at 15-to-18 knots.

RESULTS

Race 1: Misc. Mono's Contender – "Bandit" B. Delaine LBYC; Contender – "Pushing Limits" G. Ling LBYC; RL24 – "White Faced Heron" B. Lund MSC.
Race 1 Misc. Cats. Nacra – "Ram Raider" J. Southall KSC; Mosquito Mk1 – "Catitude" S. Thomas LBYC; Taipan 4.9 cat rig – "Obsession" T. Wright MSC.

Race 2: Misc. Monos. "Pushing Limits" G. Ling; "Bandit" B. Delaine; Tasar – "Lapwing" P. Lindqvist MSC.
Race 2 Misc. Cats "Obsession" T. Wright; "Catitude" S. Thomas; "Ram Raider" J. Southall.
Race 3 was a fun race with an all-in start and yardstick result over the entire fleet.
Result
1st: "Catitude"; 2nd: "Obsession"; 3rd: "Pushing Limits".

After packing the boats for the journey home, a few LBYC competitors and followers joined the MSC locals for some story telling of the days racing events.

GUIDE
 MARCH 5-11, 2025

Moments to savour

ACCLAIMED Australian chef Matt Moran returns to our screens to take a more personal look at the role food plays in our lives and the memories a meal can evoke.

According to Moran, everyone has a "memory bite" – a sometimes long-lost dish that reminds us of people, time and places and which can be a gateway to the stories and emotions that shape who we are.

In this new series, Moran uses that premise to transport famous faces to pivotal moments in their lives, sharing heart-warming recipes and quality conversation along the way. Stars joining Moran over the coming weeks include Richard Roxburgh, Pia Miranda (pictured with Moran), Ross Noble, Danielle Cormack, Courtney Act and Christine Anu.

"Food has this incredible ability to take us back to defining moments in our lives," Moran says.

"In Memory Bites, I get to uncover the stories and memories behind some truly special dishes with some amazing Aussies. It's all about great food, great company, and those unforgettable moments that remind us why food is so powerful in bringing us together."

Monday's premiere sees Moran joined by Invisible Boys star Miranda to honour her nonna Angelina, a resilient Italian immigrant who sparked her granddaughter's passion for acting through her love of soap operas. Moran and Miranda recreate her childhood favourites before sharing a final dish – the bean soup Angelina left simmering on the day she passed – which is now a sacred recipe in Miranda's family and a poignant reminder of the power of love and legacy.

March 2025: week 1

Horoscopes

ARIES
MAR 21ST - APR 20TH

A powerful aspect to Neptune will help you to think intuitively about an issue which you have been trying to solve for weeks. A flash of inspiration will give you the chance to make progress. Romance. Your relationship with your partner will soon be in much better shape than it has been for some time.

GEMINI
MAY 22ND - JUN 21ST

Disagreements with co-workers have taken their toll: you really need to give yourself the chance to unwind. Do your best to take at least some time off work this week. Romance. A powerful aspect to Mercury later in the week will help you to communicate better with your partner.

TAURUS
APR 21ST - MAY 21ST

You may not have much patience, especially if you feel that you are being messed about by other people. Romance. This will be the start of a very fruitful period. A powerful aspect to Venus later in the week will help your love-life to move into top gear. Don't hold back!

CANCER
JUN 22ND - JUL 23RD

A move away from your everyday routine will help you to see your present situation in a much clearer light. There are some aspects of your life which need attention. Romance. A meeting with friends will put you in touch with a new admirer. This person won't come into your life unless you make it clear that they are welcome.

LEO
JUL 24TH - AUG 23RD

A colleague at work who helps you out unexpectedly won't want anything more from you than a simple "thank you". You will get the chance to help this person yourself later in the week. Romance. This will be a good time for outdoor activity. You have a lot of energy, and need to find a constructive outlet for it.

VIRGO
AUG 24TH - SEP 23RD

You mustn't feel that you are to blame for a let-down which was not your fault. You need to spend time finding a better solution, involving friends who are more reliable. Romance. Your feelings for a new friend may be much stronger than you realise. A quiet get-together later in the week will bring your emotions to the surface.

LIBRA
SEP 24TH - OCT 23RD

You might feel nervous about getting in a business relationship which will have long-term implications. Romance. Your romantic life could be a little low-key at the moment. You may have to wait a few days before things liven up, but when they do, you won't be disappointed!

SCORPIO
OCT 24TH - NOV 22ND

Other members of your family are not doing as much as they could to help: you shouldn't have to be the one who takes up the slack. If you are asked to do more work than your fair share, be firm. Romance. A meeting with a stranger will have important consequences later in the week.

SAGITTARIUS
NOV 23RD - DEC 21ST

A powerful aspect to Uranus will help you to "think outside the box" and come up with a creative solution to a long-standing problem. Don't let your more conventional colleagues put you off! Romance. You will not understand what has been going on unless you delve a little further.

CAPRICORN
DEC 22ND - JAN 20TH

An acquaintance who contacts you from out of the blue may have a hidden agenda. This person wants to help you, but this help may not be quite what you need at the moment. Romance. An agreement drawn up recently with your partner will work well, so long as you are both clear from the outset what is involved.

AQUARIUS
JAN 21ST - FEB 19TH

A meeting with co-workers later in the week will give you a chance to see recent events in a quite different perspective. These people know you well, and will be able to give you some advice about your next move. Romance. Your romantic life could be a little low-key at the moment. Things should liven up in a few days' time.

PISCES
FEB 20TH - MAR 20TH

A powerful aspect to Mars will give you the energy you need to push through with some difficult meetings. Stick to your guns and make your feelings clear – otherwise you will end up agreeing to something which is not in your long-term interest. Romance. You may be a little tense at the moment, especially towards the end of the week.

DISCOVER WHYALLA IN A SPECIAL EPISODE OF ## hello SA.

SAY hello to the very best of Whyalla in a special episode of hello SA, tomorrow, at 7.30pm, on Channel 9 and 9Now.

Join Hayley Pearson, Lauren De Cesare and Tom Rehn as they uncover unforgettable experiences, a growing tourism industry and a community as strong as steel.

This is Whyalla like you've never seen and we want you to come along for the ride. From the local sporting clubs and local heroes to the mum-and-dad businesses who have taken a risk to build a life in Whyalla, we'll discover the stories that make this city worth saving.

"After what's happened over the last couple of weeks, we wanted to show our support to the community" Hayley said.

"We know how resilient the people of Whyalla are and we want to go on this journey with them and ensure all of Australia knows this is a place worth visiting" Lauren said.

Tom said "We've fallen in love with Whyalla and we want you to as well".

Join us for an unforgettable episode of hello SA.
