Citrus growers still dealing with Covid impacts

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

ONE of the region's largest citrus producers says local growers, still being crippled by the costs of sending fruit to international markets, are facing "substantially less" financial returns for a second consecutive season.

Nippy's joint managing director Jeff Knispel said despite experiencing a slight recent reduction in international shipping rates this year, Riverland growers were still paying double the costs seen before Covid.

"With respect to shipping costs it would be true to say that the market has tightened, (and) what we have seen to evidence this is the most expensive services last year have come down to match the best prices of competitors," Mr Knispel said.

"In summary, it would be reasonable to say that shipping costs have come back about 10 per cent to our biggest markets, like Japan, for example. "But this 10 per cent reduction needs

"But this 10 per cent reduction needs to be put into context, as 2023 shipping costs – even with a 10 per cent reduction – are still 75 to 100 per cent above what they were pre-Covid."

Mr Knispel said high demand and low availability for space during Covid restrictions had led to increased costs becoming a "standard" for shipping companies.

POOR mobile phone coverage in some Riverland communities has locals concerned about their safety and business operations, and frustrated with the response from telecommunications providers, as they struggle to make calls and send text messages. Dozens of locals responded to a social media callout by The Murray Pioneer, reporting poor service in major towns,

Local irrigators overjoyed at changes to private water carryover arrangement...

CHANGES to private water carryover regulations will safeguard the financial security of Riverland primary producers against future drought, according to a senior local MP and irrigation trust.

The Department for Environment and Water (DEW) last week announced changes to the River Murray Water Allocation Plan had been accepted, allowing Riverland irrigators to carryover up to 20 per cent of their Class 3 entitlement for use in years when minimum opening allocations are announced at 50 per cent or less, and then reach greater than 80 per cent.

Chaffey MP, and former Renmark irrigator, Tim Whetstone said it had taken more than a decade of discussions to reach the new arrangement.

"We were pursuing changes to the carryover policy close to 15 years ago, when I was the chair of South Australian Murray Irrigators," Mr Whetstone said.

"We used to look with envy at how Victoria, and to a certain extent New South Wales, were able to carryover water.

"Those provisions were not in our allocation plan, so we persisted and that persistence has paid off over time."

Mr Whetstone said the previous forfeiture rule resulted in an economic loss for Riverland irrigators during the last dry period.

"I've never asked for anything that nobody else has had," he said.

"It's always been about having a level playing field, and having carryover was a critical part of giving irrigators and food producers all the tools.

"It helps future-proof our communities and the management of being an irrigator.

"Carryover is an initiative that is one of the tools to help combat drought or low allocation announcements."

Renmark Irrigation Trust CEO Rosalie Auricht said the new arrangement would reward irrigators who conserved water for dry years.

"Industry has been seeking improvement for some time," Ms Auricht said.

"After an extensive consultation period with the Murraylands and Riverland Landscape Board (MRLB) and the State Government, we are very pleased the Minister (for Water, Susan Close) has approved this sensible change.

"We thank the minister and the government officials who listened to the concerns of industry and worked hard to address those concerns.

"Removing the high risk of forfeiture enables all SA Murray irrigators to confidently mitigate the risk of low water availability in future drought periods without fear of economic loss." Additional changes to the plan include the removal of rollover and forfeiture carryover clauses, and the ability for irrigators to use their full carryover entitlement in the year it is granted.

RIT director, and local irrigator, David Ludas – who had been assessing private carryover arrangements for 14 years – said "we now have an arrangement that truly supports irrigators without compromising the state's Murray-Darling Basin water compliance".

MRLB chair Dianne Davidson said the new measures would ensure Riverland primary production remained "productive and resilient in dry years".

"Our staff worked in close consultation with licence holders and stakeholder groups to ensure that the updated plan continues to meet the needs of water users," Ms Davidson said.

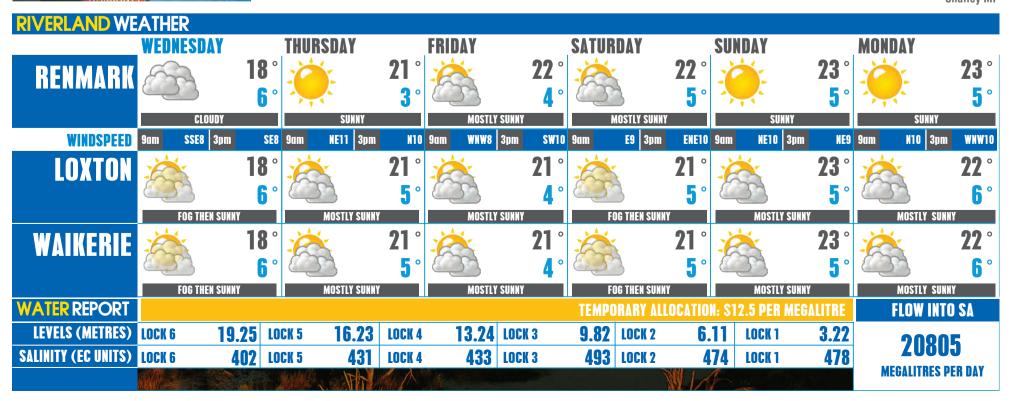

"It was important to ensure the private carryover policy was improved to better meet needs for the benefit of River Murray water licence holders and the wider communities that rely on local irrigated industries.

"Where possible, DEW will announce private carryover if carryover is available prior to April 15 to give licence holders time to make decisions about potential carryover arrangements."

It is understood private carryover will also include an annual application process.

Those provisions were not in our allocation plan, so we persisted and that persistence has paid off over time...

"It is said that for decades shipping companies have not been profitable and Covid gave them an opportunity to reset their rates," he said.

"It was known that after Covid shipping charges would settle down, but that they would never return to the skinny margins prior to Covid.

"It does seem that post-Covid delays are less of an issue though, as international ports are now fully staffed and ship turnaround times are now more normal."

Mr Knispel said a combination of shipping, input cost and fruit fly challenges had now been ongoing for years.

TWO Riverland males temporarily lost their licence after they were found drug driving on the same day.

A 38-year-old Barmera man was stopped on Queen Elizabeth Drive, in Barmera, around 3.15pm on Friday, May 5, when he submitted to a roadside drug test and allegedly returned a positive result for cannabis.

Then, a short time later, a 60-year-old local man was stopped on Jones Road, in Glossop, and allegedly returned a positive result for methamphetamine when drug tested.

Both men will be issued with a threemonth instant loss of licence and may face drug driving charges pending results of a forensic analysis.

Earlier in the day, at approximately 12.30am, police stopped a Holden sedan on the Sturt Highway, at Blanchetown, and spoke with the driver, with checks revealing he was currently disqualified from driving. A 36-yearold man from Victoria was and will be summonsed to appear in the Berri Magistrates court at a later date.

A 58-year-old Glossop woman was reported by police after she was stopped riding a scooter on Trenaman Road, in Glossop, just after 5pm on Sunday, May 7.

The woman was reported for driving unlicenced, unregistered and uninsured, while the scooter was impounded for 28 days.

It is understood she will be summonsed to appear in Berri Magistrates court at a later date.

NEW funding through an ongoing grant initiative is set to support the improvement and maintenance of Riverland road networks.

The Federal Government announced last week the three Riverland councils, plus Mid Murray Council, would share more than $1.2m in new funding through phase 4 (part B) of the Local Roads and Community Infrastructure Program.

Renmark Paringa chief executive officer Tony Siviour said council would allocate the funding in its 2023/24 budget.

"Council welcomes the announcement to increase funding allocated via the Australian Government Local Roads and Community Infrastructure Program," Mr Siviour said.

"As with all businesses, councils are experiencing cost pressures in delivering projects for the community. This funding will assist with alleviating those cost pressures.

"As part of formulating our Annual Business Plan for the next financial year, we will consider which projects fit the guidelines and are a priority to be completed.'

District Council of Loxton Waikerie chief executive officer David Beaton said ongoing improvements to local roads were key to the area's growth.

"It's more than helpful," Mr Beaton said "It is a great contribution towards supporting our extensive road network.

"We have more than 2000km in our road network, so funds that come in to help us support our residents, ratepayers and primary production benefit the whole district.

"We have to recover from the floods and dry years we have had so it's a great opportunity and hopefully the Federal Government will continue the funding.

Federal Minister for Infrastructure and Regional Development, Catherine King, said the funding was aimed at "creating jobs and long-lasting benefits" in regional communities.

"We are delivering our election commitment of a further $250m through phase 4 to prioritise road upgrades in regional, rural and outer urban areas," Ms King said.

"We know many councils across the country are struggling to maintain and improve their local road networks - especially following repeated flooding and other natural disasters in recent times.

'We have listened to councils and are standing side-by-side with local governments to support them in their vital role in delivering critical infrastructure for their communities.'

POOR mobile phone coverage in some Riverland communities has locals concerned about their safety and business operations, and frustrated with the response from telecommunications providers, as they struggle to make calls and send text messages.

Dozens of locals responded to a social media callout by The Murray Pioneer, reporting poor service in major towns, including Renmark and Berri, and smaller towns, most frequently Monash, Kingston-on-Murray, Moorook and Loveday.

"If I'm leaving messages for people for my work, only to find out a few days later it wasn't received, it isn't good from a business point of view," she said.

"I've been with Optus for an eternity and, like a lot of people, I just stay loyal to them, even after my personal information was taken earlier this year. It's just very frustrating ... "

While for many the poor coverage is a frustration, for primary producers the inability to make calls presents safety concerns.

Loxton North beekeeper Ian Cass was without service when he suffered a serious injury at work.

problems keeping locals disconnected

"I broke my ankle out at Bugle Hut, which according to their maps is a very good coverage area," he said.

"I had to crawl to the car on hands and knees with a broken ankle to manage to get just enough service so I could call my wife, who couldn't hear the words but picked up the panic in my voice.

"It becomes dangerous for us if things go wrong. We rely on our mobile phone as our safety net."

A Telstra customer, Mr Cass lives just 4.1km "as the crow flies" from the nearest phone tower.

"We use Wi-Fi calling in the house that's the only way we can make a call ... " he said.

"I got told to go to my local MP to push for another tower.

SA Regional Development Minister Clare Scriven said the State Government had invested a total of $8.28m in mobile infrastructure in regional and remote SA, with State Government co-funding helping address 45 mobile phone black spots in the state through the Federal Government's Mobile Black Spot Program.

"A Mobile Network Extension Devices Pilot Program valued at $680,000 (excluding GST) is being delivered by Telstra in the Adelaide Hills to address mobile phone reception localised coverage loss," she said.

"The pilot program has recently been expanded to include... the flood-affected River Murray corridor (Berri Barmera, Loxton Waikerie, Mid Murray, Renmark Paringa Councils).'

However, Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone, who previously served as Regional Development Minister including during the Mobile Black Spot Program rollout, said the State Government was "not addressing regional needs, particularly with mobile phone coverage".

"As a farming community, we're having to use more technology to be globally competitive and even nationally competitive, and if we don't have that digital connection in our before 2018, where government's priorities are in Adelaide, not in the regions.'

An Optus spokesperson said the company was "committed to keeping our customers connected by providing the highest possible coverage across our network".

"However, if customers have any issues, such as encountering a blackspot, they can report it to Optus through the My Optus App or through the Optus website," they said.

"Customer input plays an important role in coverage-related investigations.'

Telstra was contacted for comment, but failed to respond in time for publication.

However, The Murray Pioneer understands Renmark Paringa Council recently invited Telstra technicians to conduct testing for business services in the towns of Paringa, Lyrup, Renmark and Murtho.

Renmark Paringa Mayor Peter Hunter said "council sees this as a major issue for the community".

EDITORIAL Coverage leaving locals behind

THE significant response to last week's callout on The Murray Pioneer's Facebook page revealed the depth and breadth of issues Riverlanders are facing as a result of poor mobile phone coverage.

As everyone knows, mobile phones have become indispensable tools for how people conduct their business and social lives in the 21st century.

The Covid-19 pandemic and the shutting down of face-to-face interactions in favour of workfrom-home, conference calls and Zoom, provided the perfect example of why telecommunications are so important to modern business.

Here in the Riverland, mobile phones also act as important tools for keeping primary producers safe when help may be far away.

The story told by Ian Cass in today's Pioneer, where he was unable to make a telephone call for help after breaking his ankle in an area where coverage maps show he should have had mobile service, should ring alarm bells about what could have happened had he been more seriously injured.

Understandably, telecommunications providers are not able to cover every bit of the country with perfect service.

However, more needs to be done to provide service to paying customers who are located reasonably close to townships, and in some cases mobile towers.

For the good of our businesses, and the safety of our community, Riverlanders can't continue to be left behind when it comes to our telecommunication capacity.

THE YEARS GO BY

Volunteers at work, fostering community spirit, drawing our community together, 1965: The road from the Loxton roundabout downhill to the river was once a dusty track. In 1910, volunteers comprising notable pioneer settlers, rolled up their sleeves and planted rows of sugar gums down the median strip to provide shade for the next generation. Fifty years later, in the 1960s, local volunteers, ably led by town chemist Allen Hosking, had vision of greening the planted areas for a more conducive setting. Allen and others in a team of many volunteers laid concrete pipes as a water main up East Terrace to irrigate trees, gardenbeds and lawns along the way. Prior to this, some 2.5km of concrete kerbing had been installed in a major logistical effort. Allen, Hal Mason and Leith McDonald co-ordinated volunteers, materials and finance. Jim Scadden, Pat Clemens and council engineer Don Fraser were overseers of the work which was completed in eight weeks by some 200 volunteers, each contributing at least a morning's labour. Finances were scarce but local community organisations contributed funds to enable the work to proceed. This town beautification undertaken by volunteers has blessed our community in the following 50-plus years. PHOTO: Loxton News

Council missing the boom

THE editorial 'Councils' tough budget calls' (Murray Pioneer, 3/5/23) in talking about rate rise in percentages fails to communicate the real issues with rates: the starting point.

It's been long accepted that Berri Barmera Council has the highest rates of the three Riverland councils.

Perhaps a better indicator of the impact of high rates can be shown by the number of new houses being built.

The figures below are for new house building approvals from the Australian Bureau of Statistics from July 1, 2022, to April 12, 2023. These figures have been consistent for years and show the Berri Barmera Council area has failed to capitalise on the South Australian housing boom.

Loxton and surrounds: 14 Waikerie: 28

Renmark and surrounds: 25 Barmera: 5

Berri: 4

Towns of a similar size to Berri throughout the state: Moonta: 63

Tanunda: 26 Mannum: 37

Naturally there are other factors for the lack of growth, but high rates contribute.

The failure of the Berri Barmera Council to capitalise on the housing boom has left the existing ratepayers paying the increasing costs.

Jobs key to growth

WHAT is a job? The question needs an answer, because jobs are always the answer when people are asked how to grow small towns.

What is a job? A job is paid work that lets people belong in a community.

In a job, a person has to receive enough to pay for them to live and grow in a community.

A job that just pays the cost of living is not a job. That is called slavery. Let's put a number to what a job is in Australia. How much does paid work have to pay to be called a job? Easy, the cost of living and a bit more. The average cost of living in Australia is $52,000 per year, so for work to be a job it has to pay more than that.

If your job pays you more than $52,000 per year, congratulations, you have a job. If not, then you are choosing to use your life to help someone else get rich.

This number lets us focus on what jobs we are aiming for to grow small towns. Nothing under $52,000 per year.

This sounds high, doesn't it? It is, but it shows in sharp detail how skewed our economy is towards supporting banks and their huge fortunes held in mortgages.

Getting the banks to change their minds is impossible, but we can make housing cheaper in country towns. Basically by being illegal. By changing the rules, by letting people build whatever they can. Putting plumbing in caravans. ATCO huts for everyone.

It has to be done, or we are going to have really nice council-compliant houses, and a whole lot of smelly homeless.

Professor Ross Garnaut of the 2023 Bannerman Competition Lecture has some broader ideas on the topic.

Beetaloo Basin intervention

ON May 3, 2023, the Northern Territory Chief Minister, Natasha Fyles, announced the go-ahead for gas production in the Beetaloo Basin.

Prior to the decision being announced approximately 100 scientists published an open letter urging the NT Government to listen to the science and to say no to gas production in the Beetaloo Basin.

Because human-created climate change is a global problem, the NT Chief Minister's decision will be seen by a great many people across the world as a massive backwards step in relation to countering humancaused climate change.

I am not aware if it is possible or not, but if some degree of intervention is possible involving the Federal Government in relation to the announcement by the NT Chief Minister, I am certain that very many people across the world would be extremely supportive of such a move.

Question marks over vaping reforms

AS the Federal Government updates Australia's vaping regulations and fixes the mistakes of the previous administration, question marks remain over how lawmakers will solve the youth vaping crisis and help adult smokers access a lifesaving alternative to deadly cigarettes.

Some have called for outright bans on the product; others for a tightening of current restrictions which classify nicotine vaping products as prescription-only medications. Neither of these solutions will solve the problem. In fact, they will make them worse.

Instead, nicotine vaping products should be made available from licensed retail outlets as adult consumer products without a prescription, bringing Australia into line with every other western country. This was the conclusion of our peer-reviewed study, published last week in the leading academic journal, Drug and Alcohol Review.

The Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA) has admitted that the current prescription-only model has been a failure. It has been rejected by both doctors and consumers and has created a thriving illicit market, selling dodgy, mislabelled vape products freely to children and adults.

In the UK, New Zealand, US and Canada, vaping products are classified as adult consumer goods, not medicines. These countries have effectively introduced measures to prevent youth access while providing easier access for adult smokers wishing to quit. This is good policymaking.

In Australia, vaping products are currently regulated by TGA. The TGA is responsible for regulating medicines and therapeutic goods, not consumer products. Instead, the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) should have regulatory responsibility over vaping products, as they do with other consumer products. Under the consumer model, licensed retailers would require mandatory age-verification for anyone who looks under the age of 25. Severe fines and loss of licence would apply to enforce compliance and spot checks can be conducted to ensure adherence to the rules.

Strict consumer licensing systems work. Alcohol and cigarettes have been regulated like this for years, and youth access from retail outlets has been well controlled.

The current prescription-only model has made it so difficult for adults to access vaping products legally, that a thriving black market has been created. Illegal operators are fragrantly breaching the laws without enforcement.

We know from past experience that the only way to stop a black market is to replace it with a legal and regulated one. Under a consumer model, the black market would become less profitable and illicit sales would diminish over time as it became largely replaced by the legal regulated market.

The current regulations need urgent reform. Nicotine vaping products are the most effective quitting aid available for smokers and are the most popular smoking cessation aid in Australia. The UK Royal College of Physicians and Public Health England have both estimated that long-term nicotine vaping is likely to be at least 95 per cent less harmful than smoking.

It is simply a no-brainer to make them more accessible for the adult smokers who need them to quit.

Australia's prescription-only model for vaping has failed. Non-compliance is rampant. A black market is thriving. Nextgeneration Australians are at risk and the Australian government has an urgent need to right the wrongs of the previous government and implement evidencebased regulatory policies that work Without a consumer model, Australia is headed toward a public health disaster. And the clock is ticking. It's time for the government to step up, place the country in line with other western countries and solve Australia's vaping crisis for good.

Meat-eating culture change

MANY elders (I'm 70) like to complain about modern society and the ethics of the young, but I see a lot of hope in the way declaring anything they had, which young people are changing cultural "normality".

For example, recently we saw growing calls for a ban on dog meat in South Korea.

The Associated Press report said "eating dog meat has fallen out of favour with most younger people".

Dog farmers are furious, saying that the push to end dog meat production threatens their livelihoods and happiness.

How does this relate to Australia?

Australians eat, on average, more meat than any other people. Yet they love, or at least don't eat, dogs.

But other animals like cows, pigs, sheep, chickens and fish want to live just as much, and can experience the same pleasure and pain, as a dog.

Farming corporations complain about their livelihood every time PETA and other animal activists (mostly young ones) ask people to consider the pain eating animals causes. The species are different, the moral question the same.

If you don't eat dogs, please listen to the young, and don't eat other animals.

You will feel healthier, the environment will benefit enormously, and you can save up to 200 animals every year from a short, excruciating life and an agonising death

ANOTHER RIVERLAND MP?: A 31-yearold Berri veterinarian is set to become the Riverland's newest elected member of parliament. On Saturday Nicola Centofanti was preselected by the SA Liberals at number five on their Legislative Council ticket for the 2014 State Election. If the latest opinion polls are maintained until March, Dr Centofanti will be elected to the Legislative Council - the state equivalent of the Senate – and commence a minimum eight-year term in the Upper House. "At the last election we almost got five (members elected)," Dr Centofanti told The Pioneer yesterday.

Tourism goals still reachable

JOSH BRINE

DESPITE significant challenges in recent years, including the Covid-19 pandemic and River Murray flood, the Riverland tourism industry remains on track to reach its visitor expenditure goal by the end of the decade.

The value of the Riverland visitor economy reached $240m at the end of 2022, just $7m short of the region's 2025 goal set by the South Australian Tourism Commission (SATC).

Destination Riverland general manager Pamela Canavan said the 2022 yearend result kept the goal of a $317m visitor economy by the end of 2030 - as laid out in the Riverland Tourism Plan 2030 (RTP2030) -"absolutely within our reach".

"Considering interstate and international borders have reopened giving visitors more choice of destinations, and the River Murray flood, we are extremely pleased with these results," she said.

"This is a testament to all of the hard work done by not just Destination Riverland, but everyone involved in tourism within this great region - from our council leaders and visitor centres, to our tourism operators, retail businesses and the broader community.

"From high-level strategic plans and destination marketing right down to something as simple as a local helping a visitor with directions, we all play a role in tourism and making this a great place to visit."

Ms Canavan said it was important for the local tourism industry to continue following the path laid out in the RTP2030 to ensure continued growth.

"It's really important that we continue to collaborate in order to hit these economic goals, as well as continuing to deliver important projects and activities outlined in our RTP2030," she said.

"Working closely with SATC plus our RTP2030 Operations Group – which consists of representatives from Destination Riverland, the four local councils and RDAMR – will give us much more chance of reaching where we'd like to be, than if we all went off and did our own thing.

Boyer launches new study hub during Riverland visit

KEEPING students in the Riverland to study a tertiary qualification is the aim of a new regional study hub officially launched yesterday in Berri.

SA Minister for Education, Training and Skills, Blair Boyer, opened the Murray River Study Hub at TAFE SA's Berri campus following a visit to several schools around the region.

The hub is set to provide a "contemporary and accessible" learning environment, allowing students to undertake post-secondary study through vocational education providers and universities without leaving the region.

"I firmly believe that education should be accessible to everyone, and barriers such as distance should not impact the quality of education," Mr Boyer said.

"The Murray River Study Hub opens up further education to a wider group of students who can't relocate due to a number of reasons, including family and work commitments.

'Whether you're a young school leaver, a mature-aged learner, someone re-entering the workforce, or an existing worker needing to re-train or upskill, the Murray River Study Hub at the TAFE Berri campus is the perfect place to find a supportive environment to continue with further study."

Established under the Revitalising TAFE Campuses Across Australia Program with support from the Federal and State governments, and in partnership with the Berri Barmera Council and Regional Development Australia, the $935,000 hub is a digitally enabled and dedicated study environment.

Based on a similar model in Murray Bridge, the hub offers access to the latest technology and computing facilities, onsite academic support, and the opportunity to network and collaborate. Equipped with systems such as EDURoam, providing access to free high-speed Wi-Fi, and LapSafe, a laptop borrowing service for stu-

Recent 'good signs' for PIRSA in fruit fly fight

SENIOR figures involved with the Riverland's response against fruit fly are confident their efforts are making a difference after two weeks with no new outbreaks of the pest.

No outbreaks of fruit fly were declared in the region by PIRSA between Friday, April 28, and Monday, May 8.

PIRSA incident controller of the fruit fly emergency response, Rob Baker, was pleased to see the number and locations of detections decreasing.

"PIRSA's response activities are concentrated in the highest risk areas to control infestations, and the decrease in detections is a good sign that our operations are having an impact," Mr Baker said.

"Fruit fly activity generally slows as the weather cools however we are still finding maggots, which is a sign overwintering or hibernation hasn't kicked in yet.

"Please continue to pick ripe and fallen fruit and allow PIRSA field staff access to your garden if you are in a red outbreak area." While there were no new outbreaks in the last fortnight, extensions were made to the existing Berri A, New Residence, Renmark West, Waikerie C and Winkie outbreak areas.

Riverland Fruit Fly Committee chair Jason Size said the number of growers involved in the fruit fly selfbaiting program continued to grow.

"Another four growers registered for self-baiting to help fight fruit fly in the past fortnight," Mr Size said.

"If you're a grower in a red outbreak area, please contact PIRSA via the Hotline (1300 666 010) or website to apply for free bait or lures that attract and kill fruit fly to use on your property."

The current end date for all outbreaks is December 19, 2023, however this may change if more fruit flies are detected.

Further information regarding fruit fly outbreaks in the region can be found by visiting the website (www. fruitfly.sa.gov.au).

Long-term plans for Berri's Riverview Drive remediation

JOSH BRINE

RESIDENTS on a Berri road significantly impacted by the River Murray flood recently met with local council members and staff to discuss long-term flood preparation.

Berri Barmera councillors and staff spoke with residents of Riverview Drive to update them on the process of reopening the road between Clarke Road and Martins Bend Drive. Council CEO Dylan Strong said the integrity of the road was "seriously impacted by groundwater seepage" during the flood.

"Although reopen for use, reconstruction is required," he said.

"Council is exploring opportunities for betterment of Riverview Drive, both to optimise usability for vehicle and pedestrian traffic and also better prepare for the next flood, whenever that may occur.

"Options were broadly discussed with residents as council is keen to understand their views.

"Currently, council's engineers are examining the condition of the road and will provide feasible options and some approximate costs." The section of Riverview Drive between Clarke Road and Martin Bend, built on an old levee bank, was initially closed in December 2022, due to the road becoming soft from seepage.

Council also constructed a temporary levee bank on this section of the road after Riverview Drive residents attended a council meeting late last year to air their concerns regarding a lack of flood mitigation works in the area.

Quad bikes stolen in shed break-ins

LOCAL police are investigating thefts from sheds in the Riverland recently, with two quad bikes stolen.

Between Friday, April 28, and Monday, May 1, a shed on English Road, Barmera, was broken into and a Honda TRX 350 quad bike and a chainsaw were stolen.

Overnight between Tuesday, May 2, and Wednesday, May 3, a shed on Goyder Highway, Devlins Pound, was also broken into and a Honda 350 quad bike and a number of tools were stolen.

It is suspected the items were transported from the sheds on a trailer.

Big win for agriculture education

A LOCAL high school has received a specially designed piece of equipment to improve student agricultural learning and understanding.

Renmark High School (RHS) agriculture teacher Raj Singh applied for the iFarm project last year and, following a competitive selection process, was successful in RHS being chosen as a participating school.

The project – supported by the Federal Government's Department of Agriculture, Fisheries and Forestry through the Educating Kids About Agriculture: iFarm program seeks to improve the understanding of resources required to produce food and fibre, and to stimulate interest careers in agriculture and other related fields.

Students at RHS will be able to conduct comparative trials by measuring and monitoring variables such as water, fertiliser and plant growth.

Each unit is a fully computerised and interactive science research station specifically designed for Australian high schools, and contains eight individual growing beds with sub-surface drip irrigation and overhead spray options, a 2000L water tank, moisture and temperature sensors, and an inbuilt digital touchscreen.

Powered by wind and solar, the unit has its own weather station, composting worm farm, and both summer and winter shade cloths.

Designed with the intention of capturing student attention, foldable Perspex sides allow students to view root growth while Perspex over the electronics helps students view and better understand electrical design. iFarms are designed, developed and manufactured in Australia. iFarm Australia directors Steve and Kate Mansur came up with the concept of the iFarm unit to help students learn about agriculture, science, mathematics and technology in a "more exciting and engaging way" while also making the job easier for teachers.

The pair delivered the unit to RHS and handed the keys to Mr Singh during the recent school holidays.

Mr Singh said the school was "excited" to obtain the unit and "learn the range of opportunities available as well as future employment possibilities within the agriculture industry".

Potential upstream buybacks put pressure on irrigation?

THE potential reliance on buybacks to finish the Murray-Darling Basin Plan could ultimately harm the sustainability of Riverland irrigation, according to an industry body.

The Federal Government in February began a voluntary water buyback process in Queensland and New South Wales to recover the remaining 49GL of the Bridging the Gap target under the Murray-Darling Basin Plan.

The recent delay of numerous Sustainable Diversion Limit Adjustment Mechanism projects by the Victorian Government could also result in buybacks to meet the plan's targets.

Southern Riverina Irrigators chair Chris Brooks said South Australian farmers would eventually be "expected to double their production using half the water".

"At even the most basic of levels, how are we going to send additional water downstream to South Australia when the system is already imploding under current delivery volumes?" Mr Brooks said. "If the plan really was

Locals mark coronation with tea time

ELYSE ARMANINI

RIVERLANDERS celebrated the crowning of new monarch King Charles III at a tea party in Loxton on Sunday.

The Loxton Historical Village Institute hosted a high tea event, with guests encouraged to don their fanciest clothes, crowns, pearls and gloves and watch a replay of the coronation on the big screen.

Memorabilia from previous royal events and occasions was on show, including that of Princess Diana, William and Kate, and the late Queen Elizabeth II.

Village co-ordinator Julie Noble said it was a "very successful afternoon".

"We thought it went really well and everyone, as they were leaving, said they had a fun afternoon," she said.

"It was great having the big screen and I caught snippets of the coronation in between eating and chatting. It was very pompous, decorative and ornate. I couldn't get over the number of people in the street.

"We served the typical little hot foods, cream puffs, scones and different types of cakes – the usual yummy things. The ladies in the kitchen worked their butts off all day."

Prizes were up for grabs for best dressed, and two ladies donning "two different sides of the Queen" took out first place.

"Margaret Neale wore a cream wedding dress and was one of the best Queen lookalikes," Mrs Noble said. "Margaret Wormald was the Queen as she was when she would go horse riding. Together they won the equal best dressed prize."

The event doubled as a fundraiser for Loxton Historical Village 2024 Loxton Mardi Gras ambassador Jim West, who was crowned king for the day.

"It was the inaugural event for Jim," Mrs Noble said.

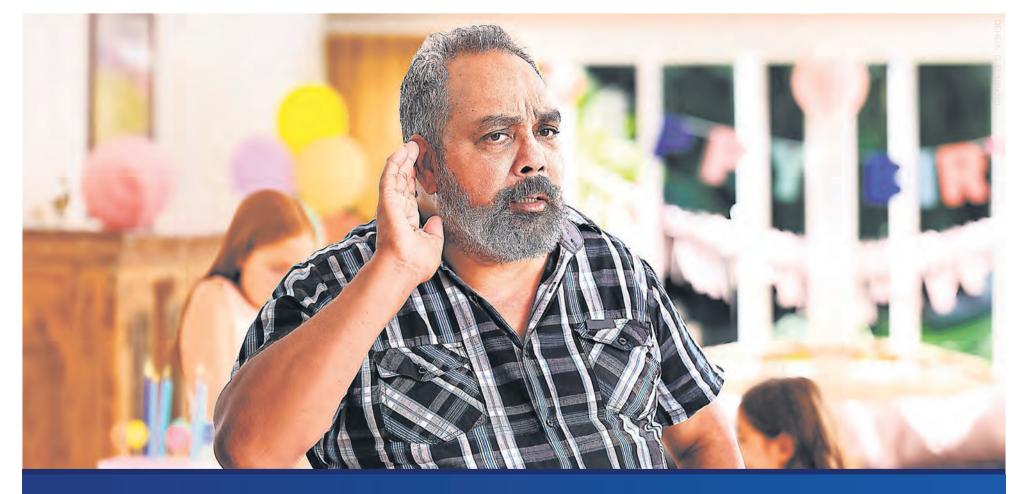

"We had something happening for the coronation, so we thought we'd take advantage and fundraise for Jim at the same time."

Bypass in danger, says Barker MP

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

A LOCAL federal MP says the future delivery of a planned bypass project between Adelaide and the Riverland needs to be clarified, ahead of a potential budget-saving review process.

The Federal Government recently announced a review of numerous infrastructure projects instigated by the previous Liberal Government, including the $202m Truro Freight Route – also known as the Truro bypass.

Barker MP Tony Pasin said the review could see funding for the bypass postponed or removed from the budget.

'Cutting or delaying funding to these projects will be a handbrake on economic growth and a barrier to driving the efficiencies needed to support budget repair," Mr Pasin said.

"This is bad news for important infrastructure projects in South Australia.

regional roads falling further into disrepair. It will do nothing to address productivity for our freight operators and nothing to improve road safety.

"This will lead to...

"We need clarity as soon as possible that these important South Australian infrastructure projects will be fully funded and delivered on time."

Federal Minister for Infrastructure Catherine King said the review would examine "Infrastructure Investment Program projects that are not currently under construction and were not election commitments of the Albanese Government".

"The previous government left the $120bn infrastructure investment pipeline in a total mess - backed-up with projects that were announced without the support of states or territories, poorly scoped, underfunded at the outset, or designed simply to win votes," Ms King said.

"This is a genuine review without any savings target we have recommitted to the $120bn pipeline.

"This review, which has the co-operation of the states and territories will look at what projects are still priorities.

"It is looking at how those projects can be delivered given the economic conditions we face."

Opposition spokesperson for infrastructure and transport, Vincent Tarzia, said inability to deliver the infrastructure projects would inhibit South Australia's economic growth.

"We fear South Australia is about to lose its fair share of infrastructure funding as a result," Mr Tarzia said.

"This will cost South Australians big in the long run and cause a detrimental domino effect on jobs, businesses and our quality of life which will spiral down.

"South Australia deserves strong infrastructure investment to support growth, not cuts that will set us back decades.

WINES produced in the Riverland will be used to attract international buyers to the South Australian market as part of a state government-led program.

Riverland-made wines will be part of an upcoming South Australian Wine Ambassadors Club (SAWAC) showcase to wine importers from Singapore, Hong Kong, and New Zealand.

SA Minister for Trade Nick Champion said the SAWAC initiative was aimed at "raising the global profile of South Australian wine in key overseas markets".

"This will be a rare opportunity for importers from some of our biggest trade partners to experience the state's regions and producers first-hand,"

"South Australian Wine Ambassadors Club has played a vital role supporting South Australian wines to enter and grow in new markets.'

SAWAC patron Tony Love said developing new export destinations was crucial to keeping local wine production economically sustainable.

"The visit this month from such an elite group of wine professionals is a key step in forging the future of South Australia's wine industry," Mr Love said.

"We are able to showcase to vital markets in the Asia-Pacific region the exciting diversity of wine varieties and styles that shine a light on one of our most important trade sectors.

Taking our guests to key regions, introducing them to our winemakers on their own turf, and experiencing our landscape and wildlife along the way are all valued steps in building ongoing relationships that bind us in business as well as international friendship."

Sales to Singapore, Hong Kong and New Zealand accounted for 26 per cent of total South Australian wine exports for the year ending March 2023.

Smart watch raises the alarm to crash

EMERGENCY services were notified via a smart watch to a collision involving two vehicles at Blanchetown last week.

Police said on Friday, at about 3.15pm a Nissan and a Toyota collided on the intersection of Murraylands Road and the Sturt Highway at Blanchetown.

A police spokesperson said the driver of the Toyota, a 20-year-old Mildura woman and her passenger, a 24-year-old woman, were "thankfully not injured".

The spokesperson said the driver of the Nissan, a 43-year-old local woman who also escaped injury, was issued with an expiation notice for failing to give way. Both cars were towed from the scene. The police spokesperson said some smart watches and mobile phones, such as the Apple Watch that alerted emergency services to the scene, have features that can detect a severe car crash and automatically contacts emergency services.

Locals urged to stay scam alert for Mother's Day

RIVERLANDERS are being reminded to be aware of online shopping scams ahead of Mother's Day this Sunday.

The State Government has warned people to protect themselves from scams by purchasing gifts from local businesses.

With online shopping growing in popularity, and scams becoming more convincing, the Government is recommending that shoppers check the URL or search for the retailer they want directly on their browser.

Searching for independent reviews of an item can also reveal a fake trader or online scam.

Shopping with local brands, while keeping an eye out for unusually low prices, uncommon payment options such as a wire transfer and mock websites, are the best ways to avoid being scammed.

'This Mother's Day is the perfect opportunity to support South Australian retailers with the additional benefit of avoiding the danger of online shopping scams," said SA Consumer and Business Affairs Minister Andrea Michaels. "It's great to be able to purchase thoughtful gifts so easily for mum with gift ideas popping up on social media at this time of year, but people need to be mindful of scams, which are often targeted around major holidays. "Shopping with locals brands you know and trust is the best way to avoid being scammed and we have so many South Australian businesses, both online and bricks-and-mortar, with a fantastic array of gifts for mum this Mother's Day."

ORGANISERS estimate this year's '30 years of Rock 'n' Roll' celebrations at Waikerie generated about $300,000 for the Riverland West economy.

About 400 people from across SA and interstate took part in the four-day annual event.

Riverland Rock 'n' Roll Festival treasurer Jenny Gruzlewski said accommodation throughout the area was booked out and cafés were kept busy throughout the festival.

"I know the pizza places were kept very busy," she said.

Ms Gruzlewski said the visitors also enjoyed visiting local shops. "Of course, they also had to buy fuel and other supplies," she said. "Some people stayed for a few days and others are here for a week or two weeks."

The Waikerie Gliding Club hangar was decorated for the 30-year milestone, featuring photos of past festivals.

Ms Gruzlewski said the evening dance events at the hangar were popular, with 200 attending the partner dancing on Thursday, 300 on Friday, and 400 on Saturday when the main celebrations were held.

The Waikerie Rockers also prepared breakfast for 200 people at the hangar on Sunday and the dancing continued until about 1.30pm.

"I was surprised at how many people were there," Ms Gruzlewski said. "I think it was one of the biggest crowds I have seen."

She said many of the visitors to the region for the festival have already rebooked their accommodation for next year.

Waikerie the Show 'n' Shine destination

THE Waikerie Show 'n' Shine is fast becoming a popular event for enthusiasts of classic, muscle and hot rod vehicles and show motorcycles.

The event, held in conjunction with the Riverland Rock 'n' Roll Festival at the Waikerie Rotary Market, attracted 129 entrants on Saturday – consisting of 109 vehicles and 20 motorcycles.

Those participating came from across the Riverland, Port Pirie, Port Augusta, Adelaide and Victoria.

Waikerie Show 'n' Shine committee spokesperson Sandra Schober said choosing the winning entries was a difficult task for the judges. She said 30 newcomers took part this year. Ms Schober said participation in the event had significantly grown since com-

Nominate for Ag Town of the Year

NOMINATIONS are open for the South Australian Ag Town of the Year award, which recognises towns excelling in agricultural practices and the flowon effect for surrounding communities.

Now in its fifth year, the award highlight the importance of developing and maintaining a strong agriculture sector in South Australia by recognising towns embracing farming culture and displaying "foresight, resilience and spirit unique to our rural and regional communities".

"The Agricultural Town of the Year Award demonstrates the innovation and world-class agricultural practices pioneered and used across South Australia," said Clare Scriven, SA Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development.

"The award is recognition and an important showcase of South Australia's regional towns.

"South Australia's regional industries contribute $29bn to the state's economy, with agriculture playing a vital role through local employment and business opportunities.

"We strongly believe it's important to recognise the great resilience, creativity and strength of our regional towns and the award creates a perfect opportunity to do that."

Nominations for this year's awards can be made by visiting agtown.com.au before Monday, June 5.

Nominated towns will be put to a public vote from June 12 to 26 to select the top 10 towns and three finalists will contend for the title of 2023 South Australian Agricultural Town of the Year.

The winner will be announced at the Regional Showcase Awards celebration in November. The town will receive town entrance signage recognising the win, a certificate and trophy presented by Ms Scriven, a community event and sign unveiling, and a double-page feature in SALIFE magazine.

Man on a Murray River mission: that's a paddlin'

A NEW South Wales man, attempting to achieve a Guinness World Record by paddleboarding the full length of the River Murray, passed through the Riverland last week.

Peter Charlesworth, who hails from Albury, is currently in the midst of stand- up paddleboarding 2800km to raise awareness and funds for the Heart Foundation, after having emergency heart surgery in 2020.

His paddleboard has been named 'Karina' to acknowledge and pay tribute to the paramedic who kept him alive on the emergency transfer flight from Albury to Melbourne.

Mr Charlesworth, who is a professional photographer and author, will also circumnavigate lakes Hume, Mulwala and Alexandrina during the journey, without support crew. He reached Renmark on his paddleboard last Thursday, before setting off again on Friday morning for the rest of his venture down the River Murray.

"My personal experience has shown that we all need to be aware of our state of cardiac health in advance of having a significant or catastrophic cardiac event such as a heart attack or stroke," Mr Charlesworth said.

"Many of us live for decades as these conditions progress with us unaware, or unprepared to face facts and take sound corrective action.

"There are a number of things we can all do to prevent, avoid or treat many of these issues before they progress to become life threatening."

Help clean up the Riverland this month

FOR the month of May, Riverland residents who shop at Coles can help schools and groups around the Riverland receive a free Clean Up Kit to help clean up their town.

Coles has partnered with Clean Up Australia and Unilever Australia, who make products including Dove, Rexona and Streets ice creams, to help provide Riverlanders a Clean Up Kit.

By purchasing one of Unilever's products at Coles supermarkets or online, 10 cents from each purchase will go towards Clean Up Australia.

This is the fourth consecutive year the initiative has run and $276,000 has been donated to Clean Up Australia. The donation has been used to supply free Clean Up Kits and resources to schools, youth groups and communities across Australia.

New Code Blue issued for Berri

PROLONGED cold weather in the Riverland has prompted a Code Blue winter weather response until the end of the week to help locals experiencing homelessness.

The Code Blue, initially instated in Berri from last Thursday and due to end yesterday morning, has been extended to Friday, May 12, following forecasts predicting temperatures to drop as low as 1C overnight.

"The biggest risk in winter conditions such as these is when people are exposed to the cold they can quickly become unwell or even hyperthermic,' said Nat Cook, SA Minister for Human Services.

"This can pose a serious risk to health.

"These Code Blue responses help people experiencing homelessness who are most affected by extreme winter weather to remain warm and safe.

"I encourage rough sleepers, or anyone who knows a rough sleeper, to call Homeless Connect SA - these services are here to help you."

People who need assistance can contact the 24/7 Homeless Connect SA service line on 1800 003 308 for help with emergency accommodation.

Jody's decades of local service ALEXANDRA BULL

A LOXTON Waikerie councillor recently marked 40 years of service in local government.

Jody Flavel – who joined local government as a councillor for the former District Council of Brown's Well, in 1983 before the amalgamation of the Brown's Well, Loxton and Waikerie councils' in 1997 - was recognised for his 40 years of service at the April Loxton Waikerie council meeting.

Mr Flavel, a cropping and sheep farmer by trade, said he joined council 40 years ago without a burning ambition to change things.

"At the time I purchased our neighbour's property, so myself and my wife moved into the household and the neighbour, who was a sitting councillor at the time, told me you get the job with the property," Mr Flavel said.

"I said 'well that's not happening' but I was then appointed by council.

"When Brown's Well had a meeting in about March 1983, I decided I would go along and have a look to see if I could offer anything, and I have been going along ever since to see if I can contribute at all."

Mr Flavel, who lives at Meribah, said he hopes he brings a different perspective to Loxton Waikerie council, where most of the councillors aside from him are town-based.

"I often refer to myself in a joking way as a member from the outback, because it's a long way from any of the major centres,' he said.

"Coming from where I do, I have always had a passion for our road network, as I am travelling on those roads all the time.

"When you are in a council such as Loxton Waikerie, as an area councillor, you have to think of not only your little area but what's best for somebody out at Paisley, somebody down in Blanchetown and in the major towns

"I like to think I bring something outside of those major towns, while always being flexible enough to know what people in the major centres need.'

Mr Flavel has often stated he has been on council for 40 years, and is still learning.

"I don't think you ever stop learning, so it's always a bit different," he said.

"I have worked with a lot of good people, councillors as well as staff over that journey, and made a lot of good friends out of that.

"You don't go into these things for any personal reasons or to make any milestones. I have enjoyed working with people from areas and different ends of the district.

"There's a lot of different interests in our council area; broadacre, citrus, grapes, and all that sort of stuff, as well as all the people in town, so it's a very varied job at the end of the day and it's interesting trying to work within the dynamics."

Protect your pooch and your local postie

RIVERLAND residents are being encouraged to help protect local postal workers from dogs, with new data showing the number of attacks has increased significantly this financial year.

Across the country, 1885 incidents involving dogs and Australia Post workers were recorded between July 2022 and March 2023, surpassing the previous year's 1587 incidents.

Australia Post attributed some of the increase to the addition of more than a million dogs to Australian households during the Covid-19 pandemic.

Australia Post executive general manager people and culture, Susan Davies, urged residents to safely secure their dog, either in the home or the backyard, to protect postal workers and the broader community from potential harassment or attacks.

"Unfortunately, we continue to see an increase in the number of incidents involving dogs and our posties," she said.

"Dogs off-leash or escaping their yard and chasing down our posties, often along busy major roads, are of particular concern given the safety implications not only for our delivery personnel and the dog, but also those in the community.

'We're seeing increased instances of our posties sustaining injuries by either falling off their vehicles while trying to avoid unrestrained dogs, or getting physically attacked by dogs jumping up and biting them.

"We want our team to be able to safely deliver to all Australians, so we urge dog owners to please secure their dogs in the backyard or indoors."

Tips for keeping your dog secure: ■ Always keep the front gate securely closed.

■ Where possible, secure the dog in the backyard, rather than the front, and keep any side gates securely closed.

■ If expecting a delivery, be careful when opening the front door to keep the dog from running out from behind you. Keeping them safely in another room when you answer the door is another way to prevent this.

Australia Post – in recognition of other organisations trying to curb dog attacks – recently established a broader Cross Industry Dog Safety Taskforce to work together and share insights on how to prevent or avoid dog attacks with other organisations who deliver to, or have a need to service, homes.

Industries contributing to the Cross Industry Dog Safety Taskforce include supermarkets, telecommunications and logistics.

"We're really excited about the collaborative nature of this taskforce and hope to be able to not only share our own insights into managing dog safety, but also learn from others across various service industries," Ms Davies said.

"We all have the same goal of protecting our team members, so it will be incredibly valuable to share our collective knowledge as we work to decrease the number of incidents."

How to keep warm this winter

WINTER is fast approaching, and we have all started to feel the chilly nights and rainy days.

So, it is time to start thinking about what inclusions you can add to your living space to make your home cosy during the cold months.

From practical solutions like changing curtains and window furnishings to keep the cold out, to snuggly additions like blankets and pillows – there are many ways to improve the heat retention of your rooms.

If you are left wondering why your home is so cold, even with the heater on full blast, then it might be your window coverings contributing to the issue.

While sheer curtains look nice, they are not the most practical coverings during the winter months when you want to try everything possible to keep warm.

Investing in insulated curtains, or roller blinds, could be the difference between needing to turn up the heater and having it at a more reasonable, more affordable level.

An easy addition you can make to your home – especially if you are renting – is the introduction of throws and pillows.

Thick, warm knitted throws both look great and will keep your family members nice and toasty this winter. Choosing colours to suit your couch or living space will make this practical inclusion look fashionable.

It is also a way to experiment with colours. For example, if you are wondering what a pop of yellow, pink, blue or green will look like in your space, rather than committing to a colourful piece of furniture or art, you can introduce it in your blanket or pillow choices.

If you have changed your curtain choices and added cosy blankets, but it is still freezing inside, then it might be time to look at upgrading your heating options.

There are plenty of solutions and options available, so shop around and see what would best suit your finances, lifestyle and living space.

However, a simple service could be all you need to get the heating back up to scratch. Another way to beat the cold is to cover up tiles, hardwood or concrete floors.

organ-

If you do not have a carpeted loungeroom, then chances are there is cold air seeping up through the floor.

A sizeable rug to cover the bulk of the flooring will make the space look more inviting and help keep the cold out.

WHILE finding interior solutions for your home during winter is often focused on heating sources, winter decorating is another way to change your house for the season.

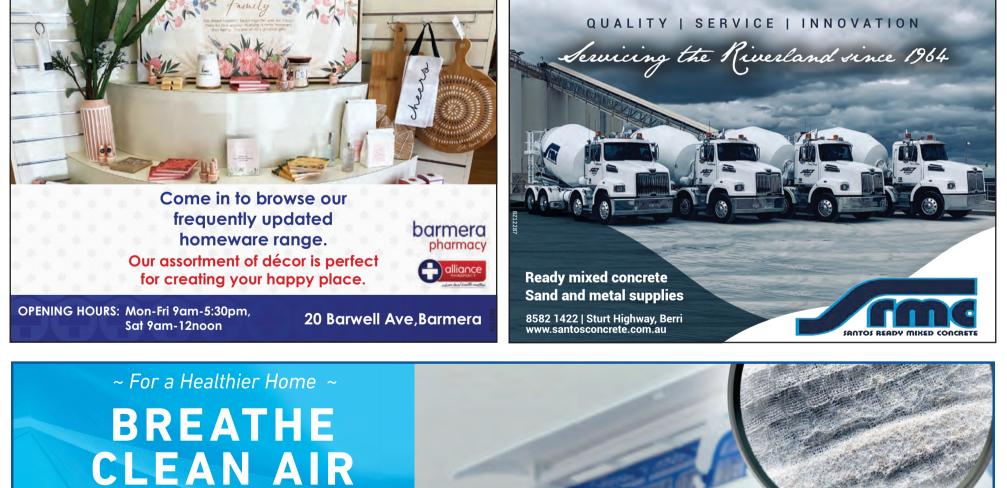

As temperatures drop outside, and once you have the heating sorted, you can bring more warmth into the home through decorations and new furnishings. A new sheepskin rug for the floor, or over an ottoman provides a toasty spot for cold toes while reading, watching TV or relaxing. If you are lucky enough to own a fireplace, spice up the enough to own a fireplace, spice up the mantle with a quick makeover of a large mirror – instantly elevating the fireplace to focal-point status – and some candles. A leafy plant, one that can withstand the heat, can also bring some life to the space.

Similar to winter fashion, winter decorating is all about layering on the fabrics. Dining room chairs can be cosied with simple slipcovers, adding warmth and winter style to a neutral dining room and easy to remove for cleaning. A bowl of potpourri in a wintery fragrance like pine, or a warm and spicy cinnamon-scented diffuser or candle bring different kinds of warmth to the home.

New EnergyConnect interconnector taking shape

CONSTRUCTION of a new piece of major energy infrastructure running through the Riverland and expected to lower power costs for local households is on track to be finished by the end of 2023.

Work on the South Australian component of Project EnergyConnect is more than 50 per cent complete, with recent independent modelling from advisory firm ACIL Allen showing residential customers could save $127 in annual power costs through the new interconnector.

ElectraNet chief operating officer Rainer Korte said the finished project would "unlock renewable energy development, strengthen the grid and deliver savings for customers".

"With cost-of-living pressures impacting many people, projects like the new interconnector will play a vital role in putting downward pressure on electricity prices once in full operation," Mr Korte said.

"The interconnector strengthens South Australia's position as a leader in the transition to a clean energy future."

The modelling also revealed South Australian businesses would potentially save between $6000 and $18,000 annually, depending on the level of electricity consumption.

A RENMARK Paringa councillor says younger Riverlanders need to be better engaged with their communities after vandals damaged a memorial for her mother.

A memorial bench dedicated to the life of Renmark woman Maureen Brauer, located near the Renmark riverfront, was recently vandalised with graffiti.

Maureen's daughter, and current Renmark Paringa councillor, Stephanie Brauer, suspected the act was committed by local youths.

"Do we need to be looking at ways we can engage younger people with the community if this is happening?" Ms Brauer said.

"Do you realise the grief and heartache you have caused?

"This is a very special place for our family and my beautiful mum. Please think of the consequences of your actions."

The memorial bench was installed by Renmark Paringa Council in August 2022.

Nelwart Street: we can rebuild it

RENMARK roads impacted by the recent flood event continue to be assessed and rebuilt by the local council. Renmark Paringa Council last week removed damaged bitumen and commenced road rebuilding works on Nelwart Street, between Plush's Bend Road and Townsend Street, in Renmark.

A council spokesperson said the works would continue "over the coming weeks and further updates will be provided to the community as soon they become available".

"We appreciate the community's patience as we recover from the flood," the spokesperson said.

Council last Saturday also undertook resealing works on portions of Plush's Bend Road that needed to be rebuilt.

Local praise for council's flood efforts

FLOOD EVENT

LOCAL residents have praised a Riverland council's "exceptional" response to the recent Murray River flood.

Letters of appreciation regarding Renmark Paringa's handling of the flood emergency were presented to councillors at last month's general meeting.

Stoney Pinch Quarry and Earthmoving director Sheree Chappel said assisting with remediation of Renmark's floodbanks was an achievement for the company.

"Credit must also go to the council for its proactive approach to the 2022/23 flood event and co-operative attitude by all involved to get the job done," Ms Chappel wrote in a letter.

"For (my husband) James to say this morning that he considers Stoney Pinch's involvement as the highlight of his working career is quite a statement.

"Let's hope that the improvements made to the 38km floodbank network will last for many years and put our towns and irrigation districts in good stead to withstand future flood events."

Renmark man Ivan Smith – who also volunteered during the flood – said council's preparations before the flood's peak were key to the successful response effort.

"No doubt the hard decisions you all made helped protect the council areas, assets, businesses and most importantly, the people," Mr Smith wrote in a letter.

"From what I observed you took suggestions from the public on board, and acted on the suggestions with due diligence.

"The level of preparedness was exceptional in many areas.

"The public were all wellinformed by council of rising water levels, road closures and other relevant matters at all times."

A LONG-standing, prestigious event on the Rotary Club of Loxton's calendar will see hard-working individuals and small businesses celebrated this month.

Now in its 31st year, the Pride of Workmanship Awards annually recognises local small businesses and individual employees for the service they provide to the Loxton community.

"The individual award recognises those who have demonstrated a high standard of commitment to a job well done and work consistently to the best of their abilities," said Paula Nitschke, Loxton Rotarian.

"The business award is for a company, small business, self-employed person or sole trader that is able to demonstrate a high standard of commitment to both internal and external customers."

At the 2022 awards night, five small businesses and 13 individuals from a wide range of nominees received awards. "The number of awards we give out is based on nominations, but this year we have 17 individual and 11 small businesses awards," Mrs Nitschke said. "It was the Loxton public that voted for these people, for both the small business and the individual awards. Loxton absolutely gets behind the community to recognise a job well done.

"I get excited around this time of year for Pride of Workmanship. I'm proud to live here and be part of such a beautiful town that really gets behind their community members."

This year's winners will be announced at the Loxton Club on Saturday, May 20. Renowned Nine Network reporter Ben Avery – a Loxton High School graduate –

"For Pride of Workmanship guest speakers, we look for people who have done extraordinarily well in their career of choice," Mrs Nitschke said.

"Ben Avery came up in conversation, we chose to ask him and he accepted." Community members are invited to be part of the night each year, however ticket sales for the 2023 event closed last week.

"Loxton community members, and people Riverland-wide, are definitely welcomed to be part of the evening celebrating those who are recognised," Mrs Nitschke said.

"It's not just the nominees and their representatives that are present on the evening, the community can come and be part of it all as well."

Award-winning journalist guest speaker at awards

ELYSE ARMANINI

A FORMER Loxton High School student will be the special guest speaker at the upcoming Pride of Workmanship Awards.

Ben Avery graduated from Loxton High in 2001 and has since gone on to become a well-known, award-winning journalist in South Australia.

"It was definitely pleasing to get the phone call (to be guest speaker)," Mr Avery said.

"I was honoured and perhaps even a little surprised that anyone would want to hear from me. I know Kerry Halupka did it last year... She was the dux at Loxton High School and has gone on to do some pretty impressive things."

Mr Avery studied journalism at the University of South Australia before becoming a reporter and chief of staff for WIN News in Loxton and Hervey Bay, before joining the Nine Network in 2010.

He was named South Australian Journalist of the Year in 2016 and 2020.

"I'll give a bit of a background as to how I got into journalism, why I chose to study it and how it happened a little bit by chance early on, including how I got into television," he said.

"My first job in the Riverland was at WIN in Loxton, so I'll talk about how I got started there and move through to eventually working in Queensland, back to Channel Nine in Adelaide and ultimately in London for a couple of years.

"Over my time, particularly as a crime reporter, I've seen and reported on some weird and wacky stories, and I have a few stories to tell from my time as a foreign correspondent as well."

As the network's Europe correspondent, Mr Avery covered the spread of Covid-19 and provided first-hand accounts from the locked-down cities of Milan and London.

He has also covered some of the biggest news stories from around the world, including the Thai cave rescue, the death of Prince Phillip and Australia's triumph over England in the Ashes test cricket series in 2019. Mr Avery said he thought the awards were "fantastic" for the Loxton community and township.

"My mum and her partner own the Loxton funeral business – Altschwager Family Funerals – so I know they have nominated employees there before and they see it as a very worthwhile process," he explained.

"The awards have existed for a long time and, just from family and friends talking about it, I know it's seen as a worthy and important part of the community."

As an ex-local, Mr Avery said he was looking forward to spending the weekend with his Riverland family and friends.

"My mum lives in Moorook on the river so it's a nice place to go and visit with the family," he said.

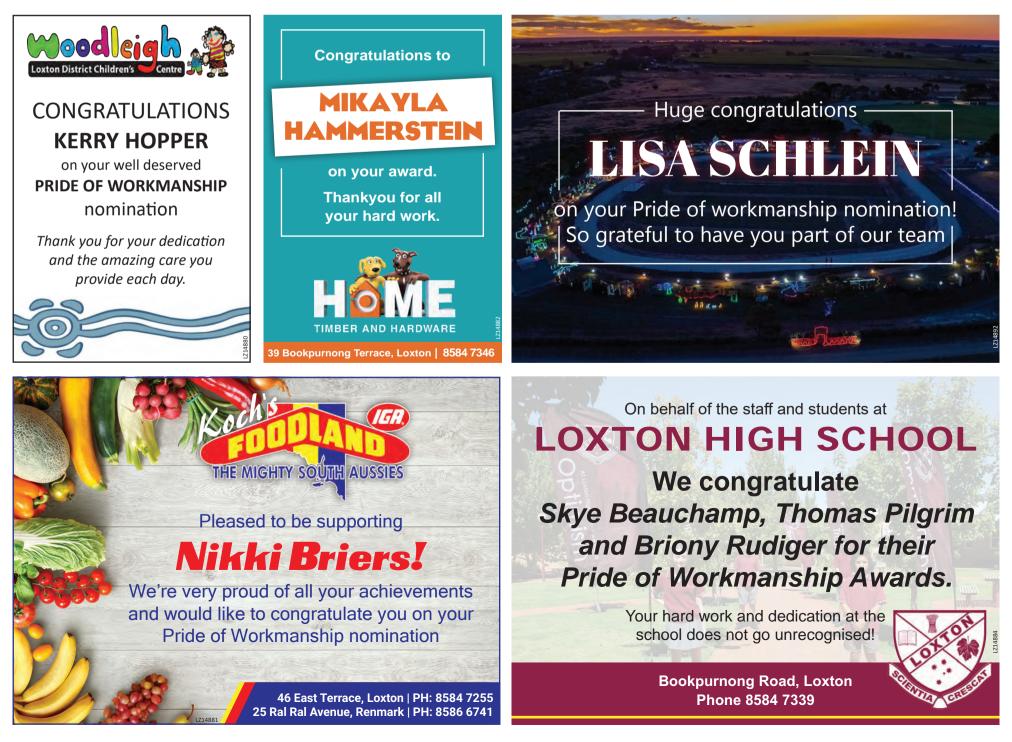

"I'll have my wife, Emily, and my two sons, Jack and Fred, with me. I've got aunties, uncles and cousins there in Loxton so I'll use it as a chance to catch up with them and potentially even watch the Loxton Tigers play, if I get the chance."

ALEXANDRA BULL

TWO Loxton High School students recently returned from a weeklong leadership course in the Cook Islands.

Dylan Gilgen and Aiden Schlein took part in the Pacific Student Leaders Program in the Cook Islands, undertaking various activities throughout the week, including helping local businesses solve current issues, leading rubbish cleanups at popular tourist beaches, engaging in cultural activities and a day-long hike up Te Rua Manga.

The boys were put in syndicates for the week, giving them the opportunity to mix with other student leaders participating in the program.

"The Pacific Student Leaders Program was an incredible experience that was different to anything I've done before," Dylan said.

"There was a lot of emphasis on the importance of strong communication, especially early on when we didn't really know anyone in our syndicates.

"As the week progressed and our bonds grew deeper, it became much easier to talk amongst ourselves. That being said, activities such as introducing ourselves to the entire course in Cook Islands Maori on the first day really pushed everyone out of their comfort zones, which was a common goal amongst most participants."

Dylan, who is a school prefect and deputy house captain, said he learnt how critical it was to create a positive environment as much as possible, to allow everyone to grow and enjoy the experience.

"For instance, we had three days of torrential rainfall which got us drenched from head to toe, however, with a few jokes and some karaoke on the bus, the weather became an afterthought," he said.

"If it wasn't for the awesome vibe, those rainy days would not have been as memorable for the right reasons, which is a lesson that I will definitely take back to my school community and groups.

"My favourite part about the course would definitely be the other students who were on the course. It was such a great experience being able to meet and befriend so many new people in such a short amount of time. It was really rewarding.

"Because everyone was there for the same reason, it was a bit different to school in that we all shared a lot of similarities, and as a result, have been able to make strong friendships that we'll be able to cherish for years to come."

Aidan, who holds a leadership position in the Australian Air Forces Cadets 603 Squadron as a Cadet Under Officer, said communication and collaboration were a big part of the course for him.

"All of the activities were designed so that you need to collaborate with your team and that really built everyone's confidence," he said.

"I would have to say it's a great experience. Not only do you get valuable leadership skills out of it, you get to learn about the Cook Islands culture, and also make lifelong friendships along the way."

Both Dylan and Aidan encouraged those thinking about applying for the program to "take the risk". "Flying to another country and living in a dormitory-style space with complete strangers for a week sounds crazy, and perhaps out of your comfort zone," Dylan said.

"But the benefits at the end of the course – heaps of new friendships, greater confidence as a leader, and the experience leading a new group of people in a completely new environment – far outweigh the initial nerves."

ac.care CEO Shane Maddocks

Plea to ease pressure on vulnerable with welfare increase

A NON-for-profit providing community services to vulnerable Riverlanders is calling for an increase to JobSeeker payments and an "urgent boost" to available social and affordable housing in regional SA.

ac.care is urging the Federal Government to prioritise building more social housing.

"Locally, we are seeing more people than ever before in need of our homelessness and emergency relief services as an increasing number of country South Australians are at risk of homelessness, struggling to pay the rent with the rising cost of living and lack of affordable housing," said Shane Maddocks, ac.care CEO.

"We can't wait and hope for limited existing housing on the private market to become more affordable.

"Building social and affordable housing is the best way we can provide more options for lowincome earners or people on Centrelink payments."

The recently released 2023 Anglicare Australia Rental Affordability Snapshot revealed there were no affordable properties in the Riverland, Murraylands or Limestone Coast for single people on JobSeeker payments, or single people aged over 18 on the Youth Allowance, during the weekend the research was undertaken. Limited properties were available for other lowincome earners. Mr Maddocks said welfare payments were "so low they trapped people in poverty". "During the pandemic, it was proven that raising government support payments can effectively eliminate poverty and allow people to afford fresh food, fill their prescriptions, pay their bills on time and secure decent homes," he said.

Riverland students hitting the pavement, safely

STUDENTS across the Riverland, and the country, will lace their shoes and get walking next week for National Walk Safely to School Day.

Primary school students are encouraged to walk to school on Friday, May 19, to mark the 24th anniversary of the event.

Hosted by the Pedestrian Council of Australia, the initiative aims to raise awareness of the health, road safety, transport and environmental benefits that regular walking – or alternative active transport to and from school – can provide for local children. Other than the physical benefits, regular walking (or similar) has a favourable impact on the cognitive and academic performance of children.

The national initiative also aims to promote healthy eating, with schools encouraged to host a healthy breakfast on the day.

"The extremely disturbing childhood obesity epidemic continues to affect one in four (according to the ABS National Health Survey 2017-18) children at critical levels across Australia," said Harold Scruby, Pedestrian Council of Australia chairman and CEO.

"The best exercise for all Australians is walking regularly. Children need at least 60 minutes of physical activity a day. We should encourage them to take a walk before school, during and at end of their day."

Walk Safely to School Day also aims to encourage positive environmental action, better use of public transport with reduced car dependency, and parents and carers to walk more, reducing dangerous traffic congestion around schools.

Focus on mental health at CEO forum

DEIRDRE GRAHAM

ONE of the biggest gatherings of council chief executive officers was held in Berri recently, with a two-day forum focused on mental health and mentoring.

About 40 CEOs, out of 68 councils from across the state, made the trip to the Kelledy Jones Lawyers Regional CEO Forum, for what organisers described as an "awesome" event.

Guest speakers included State Minister for Local Government Geoff Brock, SA's Independent Commissioner Against Corruption Ann Vanstone, opposition spokesperson for local government Sam Telfer, Essential Services Commission of SA (ESCOSA) CEO Adam Wilson, and a representative from Origin Energy.

The event also included a panel of three metropolitan mayors, a panel of three retired CEOs, and a debate about the value of ESCOSA in the sector.

Co-organisers Martin Borgas, CEO of the District Council of Karoonda East Murray, and Sam Johnson, CEO of the District Council of Mount Remarkable, told The Murray Pioneer the event enabled CEOs from both regional and metropolitan councils to come together, and share experiences and learnings.

"While we call it the regional CEO forum, the reason we call it regional is because we unashamedly host it in a regional area," Mr Johnson said.

"All too often everything is held in Adelaide and everyone centralises into Adelaide, whereas we want to get out of the city and promote or regions and our smaller regional communities. "We even had some CEOs from very large metro councils that attended for the first time this year."

Mr Johnson said it was important for council CEOs to be supported in their roles.

"There was an issue in January of this year at Onkaparinga where 150 people stormed the council meeting and they had to shut the meeting down," Mr Johnson said.

"That was quite a big incident and very confronting for council itself, and for a new CEO.

"I did not realise this until (during the forum) at dinner, but when that event occurred not one metropolitan CEO reached out to their colleague at Onkaparinga.

"The first CEO to reach out to ask, 'Are you okay?' was from a regional council, and the next five people to call and email were from regional councils.

"It was a big statement for that CEO to realise that there is a world outside Adelaide and there seems to be something going on -a more collegiate collaborative approach that is happening across the regional areas.

Mr Borgas said the campaign donation scandal that rocked a number of councillors and mayors at the latest council elections was now behind council and elected members.

"My mayor, Caroline Phillips, was affected by that," Mr Borgas said.

"Certainly it was disruptive in terms of just the emotional toll it has taken on those people that were affected, regardless of how they came to be in that circumstance.

"It was quite a significant and traumatic event from a community perception point of view, but also personally for people who have invested and made the decision to become involved and represent their community, for them (to) be Regiona

Riverland involvement in State Government essential worker housing initiative

THE Riverland will be included in a pilot program to deliver housing for police, teachers and healthcare workers in regional SA, as the State Government begins consultation to address the shortage.

Following the establishment of the Office for Regional Housing earlier this year, work has commenced on the Regional Key Worker Housing Scheme - aiming to deliver 30 homes across the Riverland, Copper Cost, Mount Gambier, Port Augusta and Ceduna.

Once established, the scheme is expected to be expanded to deliver more housing for government workers and private sector employees.

Region-specific consultation revealed immediate needs for assistance in the Riverland regarding flood recovery efforts, and the horticulture and viticulture industries.

SA Housing and Urban Development Minister Nick Champion said community engagement had given the Office for Regional Housing a "much clearer understanding of the challenges across the state" and would help to construct region-specific responses.

"We are committed to boosting regional housing supply to meet local communities' needs and unlock economic growth which flows from key projects," he said.

The Office for Regional Housing has also begun the process of recruiting staff to upscale its operations and "fast-track" the increase in housing supply.

Th e State Government has also made changes to development regulations to allow temporary accommodation for workers on major infrastructure projects, allowing developers to respond to urgent building needs – such as the recent River Murray flood.

Mid Murray CFS volunteers honoured at family fun day

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

THE dedication of Mid Murray Group CFS volunteers to the Riverland West community during the recent floods was recognised at a family fun day at Waikerie on Sunday.

During the flood the CFS supported the lead emergency agency the SES by responding to 388 calls for assistance throughout the Riverland and Murraylands.

About 60 people, including CFS volunteers, their partners, children and grandchildren from Waikerie, Cadell, Morgan and Walker Flat, took part in the activities at the local Lions park.

The event was organised by the CFS Foundation and featured a BBQ lunch provided by the Rotary Club of Waikerie, plus face painting and a magician for the younger attendees.

CFS mascot Smokey the Koala also paid a visit.

CFS Foundation CEO Gloria Berni said those who attended had a "fantastic time". "Distance is always an obstacle for family events," Ms Berni said. "One volunteer and his family travelled from Walker Flat, a town that was heavily impacted by the floods."

Ms Berni said even though these CFS volunteers worked together on strike teams or training events, they rarely had the opportunity to mingle outside of these occasions with other brigades and their families.

CFS Region 3 regional commander Shane Clinch said the volunteers "very much appreciated" the event organised at Waikerie to recognise the role they played during the flood.

"The CFS Foundation does amazing work in supporting our CFS volunteers," Mr Clinch said.

He said the organisation had provided financial support to some of the CFS volunteers who had lost their homes in the flood.

Mr Clinch said during the flood the CFS assisted the SES with tasks such as sandbagging and door knocking to warn residents about rising river levels.

"Whilst we did that, we were still maintaining our usual workload," he said.

"We are the biggest provider of fire and emergency services to South Australia, and we are the biggest road crash rescue brigade for vehicle accidents.

"We also respond to hazardous material spills throughout the state."

Locals are encouraged to host or join a Biggest Morning Tea event this month or next to support fundraising efforts for cancer research. PHOTO: Cancer Council

Share a cuppa this month for Biggest Morning Tea

RIVERLANDERS are encouraged to come together and celebrate 30 years of a national fundraising event this month by hosting or joining a morning tea.

Australia's Biggest Morning Tea raises funds to support services, prevention programs and life-saving cancer research through the Beat Cancer Project

Cancer Council SA chief executive Kerry Rowlands said thousands of South Australians have helped raise over $200m nationally through the Biggest Morning Tea event.

"Sadly, all of us will be affected by cancer at some point in our lives and this is exactly what inspires many of our supporters to host their own Australia's Biggest Morning Tea," she said.

"Through events like Australia's Biggest Morning Tea, we are able to ensure that every South Australian Cancer Council's is supported, across every stage of their cancer experience, while also funding vital research and prevention programs to save future lives.

The official day to host a Biggest Morning Tea is Thursday, May 25, however events can be hosted anytime during May or June.

Moorook is among several Riverland towns with a community event organised for the fundraiser.

The Alice in Wonderlandthemed Mad Hatters Tea Party will take place in the Moorook Community Hall from 2pm to 5pm on Sunday, May 21.

Locals are encouraged to dress up in their favourite 'mad hat' costume and "step into the rabbit hole" for a family-friendly afternoon.

Guest speakers Mick Kelly, Nancy Murdock and Allan Dand will share their personal experiences and what is available for locals requiring assistance.

Tickets – $10 per adult, $5 for children or $35 for a family - include food and 'bottomless cuppas".

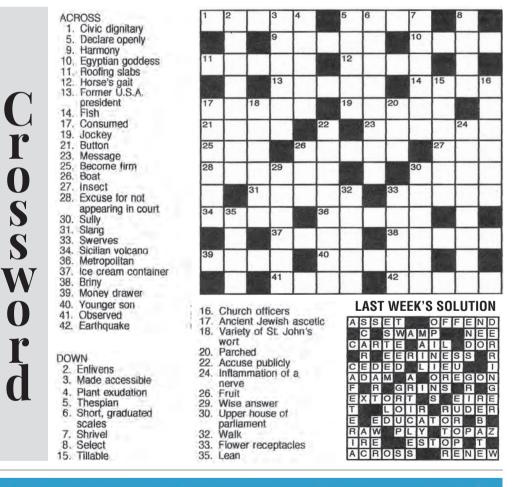

Bookings are essential for catering. RSVP by Friday, May 19 by contacting 0439 846 340 or 0467 735 969.

May 2023 Horoscopes: week 2

ARIES (March 21st - April 20th)

An improvement in your finances is just around the corner. You will need to be patient for quite a bit longer, but it will be worth it the wait! Romance. Your love-life may be a little disappointing over the next few days. A favourable aspect to Mercury around the end of the week will help you to communicate your feelings clearly.

TAURUS (April 21st - May 21st) A colleague at work will give you a suggestion that is worth following up: this idea should save you a lot of time and money, so long as you follow this person's advice to the letter. Romance. Your good mood will be appreciated by your partner. A trip away from home would do you both a world of good. Hold back on this until later in the week if you can.

GEMINI (May 22nd - June 21st)

Your mental agility will help you to pull through. A change in plan may work out in the end so long as you are able to adapt quickly and take advantage of the new opportunity. Romance. A positive aspect to Neptune later in the week will help you to use your intuition to understand an issue which has been difficult to solve logically

CANCER (June 22nd - July 23rd)

Time spent relaxing will help you to calm down and focus your thoughts on an issue which has been troubling you recently. You need to make an important decision, and must get it right. Romance. A powerful aspect to Mercury at the base of the ba the beginning of the week will help you to communicate effectively with your partner

LEO (July 24th - August 23rd) You will be very conscious of your appearance at the moment. However, you should wait for a few more days before making any major changes. Romance. Your relationship will be in good form at the moment. Don't push your partner too far, however. A recent disagreement wasn't properly resolved and may have left some residual tension.

VIRGO (August 24th - September 23rd)

You may want to spend a bit more time by yourself over the next few days. Recent stresses have taken their toll, and you must give yourself the chance to unwind. Romance. A favourable aspect to Venus later in the week will make this a good time for improving your relationship.

LIBRA (September 24th - October 23rd)

A favourable aspect to Uranus will mean that you need a little more freedom than usual. Be careful that you don't get into an argument with your boss over an issue which doesn't really matter. Romance. An unexpected message from a long-standing admirer will change your feelings towards this person. You should get together for a meeting as soon as possible.

SCORPIO (October 24th - November 22nd)

A challenging aspect to Mars around the middle of the week could make you a little on-edge at times. You will be especially sensitive to criticism this week, and must do your best to relax if you feel that you are under stress. Romance. A meeting with a stranger could have important consequences later in the week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23rd - December 21st)

A deal may fail if you push for too hard a bargain. The other person is not going to compromise any further. Romance. Your romantic life could be a little low-key at the moment. You may have to wait a week or so before things liven up. Be patient, and don't make any rash moves in the meantime!

CAPRICORN (December 22nd - January 20th)

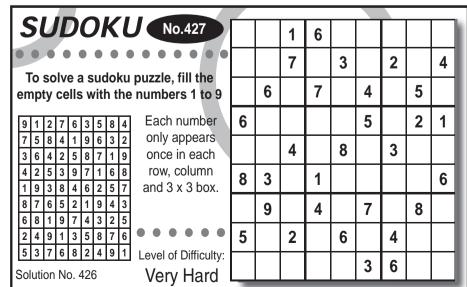

A positive attitude will help you to get over a frustration which has been dogging you over the past few weeks. Romance. Your partner might appreciate a few more compliments. A powerful aspect to Venus later in the week will give you a chance to express your feelings more openly.

AQUARIUS (January 21st - February 19th)

A positive aspect to Neptune will give your powers of intuition a boost this week: nobody will be able "pull the wool over your eyes"! This will be a good time for making an important decision about your future. Romance. You may be feeling a little bit isolated at the moment. Let your partner know that you would like more support and you will get more than you bargained for!

PISCES (February 20th - March 20th)

An acquaintance whom you have not seen for a long time will shortly come back into your life. This person has changed a lot since the last time you saw them. Romance. Your relationship will soon be in better shape than it has been for some time. A romantic trip around the middle of the week will go especially well.

30 NEWS www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, May 10, 2023 Support getting into private rentals

LOCAL renters could see more options at affordable prices with state government reforms to rental laws and increased financial support.

An extra 433 previously ineligible households have been helped into private rentals across South Australia since changes were made to the State Government's Private Rental Assistance Program (PRAP) in February.

The changes increased the eligibility threshold by a third, from a weekly limit of $450 to $600, ensuring more homes can be accessed by more renters under the program.

The household cash assets test limit was increased from $5000 to $62,150. Previously, any household with savings of $5000 was ineligible for rental assistance.

A total 3230 customers had received PRAP support this year to April 30, up from 2938 in the same period in 2022.

In addition, 193 fewer customer assessment interviews were conducted and the total bond assistance provided to April 30 was $3.9m, up from $3.4m in the same period last year.

"With rental vacancy rates at historic lows, we knew we had to do more to help renters access the homes that are available," said Nat Cook, Minister for Human Services.

"The rental market is tough for South Australians with rental prices continuing to rise.

"Our private rental assistance reforms have made an immediate impact and are clearly providing needed relief to households by making it easier for more South Australians to access affordable rental accommodation.

"We need a variety of measures to assist more people to secure a rental and stop those on the margins, including vulnerable families, falling into homelessness. This Private Rental Assistance Program is one of those actions."

Managed by the SA Housing Authority, the PRAP allows low-income renters to avoid upfront costs including bond and rent in advance by providing bond guarantees and rent payments to those eligible.

SA Housing Trust Board presiding member, Mary Patetsos, said the PRAP is aimed at "helping to reduce financial stress for South Australians on low incomes when moving into a new home".

"The changes in February were significant and are easing the pressure on low-income renters," she said.

"South Australians are eligible for help through the program if they are moving into privately rented accommodation, residential parks, boarding houses and shelters or community housing."

Other changes making renting more affordable for South Australians include: increasing the rent threshold for a six-week bond from $250 a week to $800, banning rent bidding and improving how renter information is collated and stored.

Cadell circuit ideal for endurance test

ABOUT 2500 participants took part in the annual True Grit challenge at Caudo Vineyard at Cadell recently.

The military style obstacle event also attracted 500 spectators.

True Grit Events director Tom Gilmartin said about 60 people were part of the elite wave division competing for the best times and for prizes.

The winner of the men's elite championship was Dylan

Pardy and Emily Steven won the women's title. Mr Gilmartin said this year's course was challenging for participants.

"We mixed it up from previous years," he said.

Mr Gilmartin said the event also attracted participants who were semi-professional athletes, people keen to improve their fitness and those recovering affected by the flood in December and January had to be replaced.

Mr Gilmartin said the damage to the circuit was minimal. "The flood didn't affect it that much," he said. "One area was more muddy, but people love the mud," he said. Mr Gilmartin said Cadell was an ideal location for the event.

"We will definitely be back again next year," he said.

Popular entertainer Sandie Dodd coming to Waikerie this weekend

COMING up Saturday night is the latest Music On The Deck event, with popular festival and event artists Sandie Dodd and The Chasers to entertain.

The Waikerie Bowling Club is the venue for the event, starting at 7pm, with the entrance off Sichler Street, Waikerie.

To purchase tickets for this great show on Saturday, phone Susan on 0417 854 972.

Susan told me they particularly like to support our nation's independent artists, especially after the trying times they have had through the pandemic.

Casey Barnes was announced as winner of the Most Performed Country Work award at the 2023 APRA Music Awards night, held on April 27.

God Took His Time On You, the song that won it, was one that Casey co-wrote with Kaci Brown and Samuel Gray.

This followed his golden wins announced at Tamworth in January, when he took out Top Selling Album of the Year and Album of the Year Golden Guitars.

We Deserve To Dream won Xavier Rudd the Most Performed Blues & Roots Work award.

The 40th celebrations of the Port Pirie Country Music Festival will take place at Port Pirie, between October 5 and 8.

As with numerous festivals the name has changed over the years, but it has kept the same time slot.

Artists mentioned at this stage are Peter Coad & The Coad Sisters, Runaway Dixie, Cactus Martens, Huey Oxford, Donna Elson, Dwayne Elix, Lance Birrell, Dianne Lindsay, Peter Simpson, Owen Blundell, Michelle Little, Wayne Horsburgh, Bec Hance, Dear Burrett, Allen Curr, and Dateur

Dean Perrett, Allan Gum, and Detour. All concerts and events need to be prebooked, so phone Maureen on 0428 344 224 for more information.

Bill and I attended at least one of these festivals many years ago and enjoyed entertainment by some top acts including – from memory Auriel Andrews, Aubrey & Martin, Deniese Morrison, The Stephen Bunz Band, Wayne Horsburgh, Detour, Gus Williams Band and Country Roundup Band to name a few.

It is good to see Cactus, Huey, Lance, Wayne, Dwayne, and Detour all performing at this year's special event, as some have made it their annual pilgrimage since the festival began.

Last year Lynchburg launched their I Love This Rodeo album. I only got to the fourth track and took it out of the player, as the singer did my pet hate by joining the 'but' and 'you' together, making it sound like 'choo'. Yuk.

I am the same with any singer who does this, as I know you don't need to do it. Adapt the words if you can't sing it properly.

After having not had it on the player until a week ago I listened right though, but put it on silent for track four, and have listened to all the other tracks four times since then. It is a good album. Lynchburg is a duo comprising of Lindsay Waddington and Allan Caswell, with a re-make of Allan's most popular song, On The Inside, being one of my favourites. Waddo is a genius with what he produces at Kross Kut Records.

The title track, He Liked Horses More Than People, That's Your Life, Wouldn't Change You If I Could, Everything He Needs, Stronger All The Time, and the instrumental track La Chica Bella, are my other favourites on here, and I Don't Drink Anymore is also well written.

Allan Caswell's contribution is leading vocals, harmony vocals, and acoustic guitar. He wrote On The Inside, and is a co-writer with Waddo on all other tracks, other than the instrumental.

A multi-instrumentalist, Waddo played electric, acoustic, nylon, and Baritone guitars, bass, banjo, mandolin, lap steel, dobro, drums and percussion, lead vocals on He Likes Horses More Than People, and I Don't Drink Anymore.

Other musicians joining Waddo for this project are Brendan Radford (electric and acoustic guitars, harmonica), Hugh Curtis (fiddle, viola, mandolin), Lawrie Minson (harmonica, pedal steel, accordion), Glenn Thomas (piano, organ, trumpet, sax, flugelhorn), Michel Rose (pedal steel), Gus Fenwick (upright bass) and Jen Mize (backing vocals).

Whoops. I was incorrect in the spelling of the name of a female entertainer in the line-up for the Mildura Wentworth Music Festival in my last column.

I've caught up with Nev & Toni quite a few times over the years, but she'll have "my guts for garters" when I tell her I had spelt the duo as Nev & Tony.

This whole column was going to comprise of flashback photos but somehow I wrote too much, maybe in the future the oldies will come out of hiding.

Learning in Riverland children's DNA CHRISTINE WEBSTER

ABOUT 90 children throughout Waikerie, Loxton and Renmark were given the opportunity to learn about DNA and its composition in strawberries at workshops at their local libraries recently.

The workshops, run by University of Adelaide scientist Dr Georgina Sylvia, were part of the Children's University Australasia program.

Dr Sylvia said the children initially learnt what genes and DNA were and where inside a cell they could be found.

She said they then conducted experiments to extract DNA from strawberries. The procedure involved the children squishing chopped up strawberries inside a plastic bag.

"We tried to manually break apart the structured fibres of the strawberries into a moosh," Dr Sylvia said. "We then add a solution of salt and detergent salt and detergent. "The detergent breaks apart the cells of the fruit and the salt helps separate proteins away from the DNA." Dr Sylvia said the workshop participants then filtered this mixture through a stocking.

"This enabled them to remove all the fibrous bits and extract the mooshy, salty strawberry juice into a cup," she said.

Dr Sylvia then added a diluted ethanol solution to extract the DNA from the juice.

"You start to see these fine white goopy hairs at first, which become thicker and thicker," she said.

"The children can then use popsicle sticks to pick up the white DNA mix."

Dr Sylvia said using strawberries was "a perfect way," for children to extract and learn about DNA.

"Getting that hands-on experience enables them to learn and retain information," she said.

About 40 people enjoyed a free breakfast while watching Mia Glover from the Today show broadcast from the banks of the River Murray in Swan Reach recently.

Swan Reach into the Today show limelight

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

THE Mid Murray town of Swan Reach has been gaining some valuable exposure after the River Murray flood, with an influx of media broadcasting from the area recently.

Nine News senior reporter Mia Glover from the Today show broadcast the weather from the banks of the River Murray in front of the Swan Reach Hotel recently.

The live telecast was an initiative of the South Australian Tourism Commission.

Swan Reach Hotel owner and manager Craig Fromm said Ms Glover and her crew also toured the area the day before. He said their experiences included a houseboat ride the afternoon before and interviews with Juggle House Experiences owner-operator Kelly Kuhn and River Murray International Dark Sky Reserve committee spokesperson Chris Tugwell.

Mr Fromm said Ms Glover also showcased Swan Reach tourism business Big Bend by Night and spoke to its co-owner Mardi LeBrun.

Mr Fromm provided a free breakfast to encourage the community to get out of bed and support the national breakfast show broadcast.

He said about 40 people came out to support the event.

"No one made it for the first cross at 5.20am, but they all got there for the last few crosses at 6.30am and 7am," Mr Fromm said.

Mr Fromm said other media outlets have also been keen to visit and hear about Swan Reach due to the flood.

"Everyone wanted to come and see what was going on," he said.

"I don't know how many radio stations I did chats with and then the news crews kept on following and then South Aussie with Cosi."

Mr Fromm said Swan Reach had also become a hive of activity following the flood, with accommodation at the hotel highly sought after by contractors involved in the clean-up.

Memories of '56 shared at library RENMARK residents had the South Australia's History Festival

RENMARK residents had the chance to hear direct memories of the town's biggest-ever flood at a recent history event.

Approximately 70 people attended the Renmark Irrigation Trust's (RIT) Rebuilding of Renmark after the 1956 flood event, held last Wednesday at the Renmark Paringa Public Library.

The event – held as part of

DID you watch the world event of the coronation of King Charles III? As we all know, some of us may never see other one. For the musicians, especially the young children in the choirs, I was thinking how exciting for them. The pageantry was amazing and, to those Australians who were invited, how memorable it would be for them. Australians will be waiting now to see if he will visit our country.

Communities all over the state welcome the month of May to support the Cancer Council fundraising project, the Biggest Morning Tea. Locally, our Waikerie & Districts Cancer Support Group and the Rotary Club of Waikerie welcome you to the Waikerie Bowling Club from 10 to 11.30am on Wednesday, May 24. Cost will be $15 per person to assist with catering. Please reserve your booking with Virginia Hillier, Colleen Andrew or Anita Cairns at the Warrawee office (8541 3655). The Waikerie & Districts Cancer Support Group's motto is "to provide a supportive, caring environment for those people with cancer and their relatives and friends".

Although there was a slight concern at the predicted weather for the weekend, all was well with the four-day Riverland Rock 'n' Roll Festival at Waikerie, as we welcomed the many visitors who return each year to this popular and well-programmed event, which again included the Show 'n' Shine spectacular with hot rods, vintage cars, limousines and bikes on show, and excellent prizes for attending the event. The Rotary Club of Waikerie Markets stallholders were kept busy with customers, especially the tasty food and the coffee van. It was relaxing to sit with friends and watch the talented dancing groups in their colourful outfits and, as a friend said to me, we look forward to seeing them again next year.

A very special event coming to the Chaffey Theatre soon will be the talented Mark Vincent paying tribute to operatic icons Mario Lanza and the Three Tenors – Luciano Pavarotti, Placido Domingo and Jose Carreras. As a young child, Mark Vincent was inspired by the Three Tenors and followed his dream to sing and entertain others. Book your tickets now at the Chaffey Theatre for this event.

Julie Stapleton (née Crabb), formerly of Waikerie, has advised that the Waikerie reunion for this year will be held at the Wellington Hotel in Wellington Square, North Adelaide, from 12 noon on Monday, June 5. This is an opportunity to have a social get-together at lunch with former residents, family and friends who have left Waikerie over the years. I am prepared to take confirmations of attendance, which will help for the catering, and if there were enough we could arrange a coach or pool private cars for transport. This special event began 74 years ago, and if you haven't yet been to one, why not this year? Please contact me (0408 609 304) by May 27 if you are interested in attending, as it's only three weeks away.

Thanks to those friends from the Riverland who have commented on the Adelaide Football Club window display in Barwell Avenue, Barmera. It will be on display for several weeks yet so, if you haven't seen it, pop down to Barmera and check it out. Talking about Adelaide Crows and a little bit of history, Mark Ricciuto played his first game in the AFL for the Adelaide Football Club 30 years ago on Friday, April 30, 1993, in round 6 against Hawthorn at the then home of the Crows at Football Park. We congratulate Mark for his success for the Adelaide Football Club and his career with them, and we give thanks for the passion he has for our Riverland region and his home town Waikerie.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Joyleen Paschke upon her recent passing. Joyleen will be sadly missed by many.

This Sunday is Mother's Day. We give thanks to the love and care our mothers have given to us. For some it will be the first time being a mother – how exciting for you. For some families it may be the first time that your mother is not with you, but you will have special memories that are yours.

Thought for the week: Most of the other beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds. Plenty of roses, stars, sunsets, rainbows, brothers and sisters, aunts and cousins, but only one mother in the whole world.

Former teammates Ashleigh Haigh (left) and Paris Lawrie collided in the clash between Loxton North and Barmera in last week's A1 netball.

Netball's sole ladder leader

JUST one team remains undefeated in Riverland A1 netball after three rounds, with a top of the table clash headlining last Friday's fixtures.

Renmark welcomed Loxton to the Alan Coulter Recreation Centre for a clash of the titans, with both teams impressing in the early stages of the season.

Renmark went into the match off the back of an 11-point win over Barmera the week prior and carried that intensity into the first quarter of last week's clash.

However, the Tigers were able to match it and pull ahead by a slim margin at the first break, with Elise Foulds important early in mid-court.

Renmark was missing the star pairing of Shenae Rucioch and Kierra Schumann in the middle of the court and Loxton was able to take full advantage as the game went on.

The Tigers outscored the home side 17-7 in the second period to create a buffer going into the second half.

Reeni Blackley was working overtime in the Renmark mid-court but found it hard to link up with the Renmark goalies, with Summer Smith and Leah Uren standing tall in Loxton's defensive third.

Both teams switched it up in the second half but Loxton was well on top, with Mackella Hogan and Aimee Holmes scoring 10 goals each in the third quarter to put the game out of reach for last year's grand finalist.

Sonja Modlinski and Denika Thorpe fought valiantly for Renmark, but it was not to be as Loxton ran out 24-point victors, giving Renmark its first loss of the year and keeping the Tigers' own undefeated streak alive.

Meanwhile, Berri moved into second spot on the A1 ladder with a clinical performance against Waikerie.

The Magpies have struggled in the early stages of the 2023 season but were able to match it with Berri across the first eight minutes of the contest.

The Demons then started to flex their muscle, utilising their superior strength and physicality against the young Waikerie side.

Amelia Morgan starred as Berri added to its 17-goal half time lead to run out 30-goal victors, with Megan Milburn the driving force behind a number of Demon forays forward.

Loxton North centre Brooke Pietrolaj was named best in the reigning premier's win over Barmera last Friday.

Loxton North also picked up a win, with the reigning premier now level on points with Renmark and Berri heading into round four.

The Panthers took care of a young Barmera side, with both teams playing a chaotic first half before settling into the action in the third quarter.

Ashleigh Haigh was in great touch for the Lakesiders in what was becoming a gripping contest with her former Barmera teammate Paris Lawrie.

Barmera outscored North in the second and third quarters, but the height and composure of the Panther mid-court eventually won out, with the 2022 champions finishing the match with a head of steam.

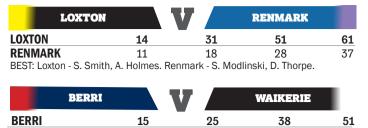

Brooke Pietrolaj was named best for Loxton North in the seven-goal win, providing plenty of service to North's goalies

BEN LENNON

WAIKERIE entrenched itself in first place on the RFL A grade ladder last Saturday, with a 34-point win over Berri making the Magpies the competition's only undefeated side.

Playing in front of a strong home crowd, the Magpies went into the clash buoyed by an impressive win over Loxton the week prior, and picked up where they left off in the first term against the Demons.

The home side blitzed Berri in the early stages, kicking away to a four-goal lead at the first break, but the game would become an arm wrestle from there on in.

Waikerie coach Mick Kilsby said he was impressed by the young Berri outfit that had been written off as a 2023 cellar dweller by a number of Riverland footy punters.

"We got off to a pretty good start, but I think they cop a bad rap," he said.

"They're better than people make them out to be and they'll definitely rattle a few teams.

"They probably just lack two or three genuine footballers, but they're zoning and everything, and they gave us a bit of a scare at some stages.

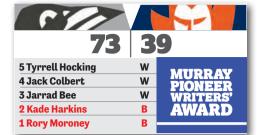

"But, we looked like we were on top for most of the contest."

The rest of the match was mostly goal-forgoal, with Waikerie narrowly edging further ahead in each quarter.

Youngster Rory Moroney was having an influence up forward for the Demons, booting two goals in the loss, while Kade Harkins played his best game since returning to Berri earlier this year.

The most impressive player on the ground, however, was Waikerie recruit Tyrell Hocking.

Hocking, son of former Adelaide Crow and current Waikerie assistant coach Eddie, had his strongest showing to date in a Magpie guernsey.

Kilsby hailed his composure as a key part of Waikerie's success against the young Demons.

"His ball use and his smarts around the stoppages are fantastic," he said.

"He's definitely going to be a key for us and he still hasn't played his best footy just yet.

"Once we start gelling a bit more, I think we're going to look really good. We've got 10 new blokes to the club plus a few younger guys playing up so it's a totally new group."

A highlight of the clash was the ruck duel between established Berri star Brody Thompson and Waikerie young gun Jack Colbert.

Kilsby said the youngster did "quite well", particularly given how important Thompson is to Berri's success.

Midfielder Jarrad Bee continued his hot start to the year, booting three goals in the win.

"He's playing midfield and swapping forward, but two of his goals were from the midfield on the weekend," Kilsby said of Bee

"He's super fit and playing really well. I love the kid."

The win sees Waikerie stand alone at the top and, although his side is yet to drop any points, Kilsby believes the newlook Magpies still have plenty of room for improvement.

"I said to the boys after that it's good to be winning games when we're not playing our best footy," Kilsby said.

"It's pleasing for us as a coaching panel to see that. We're still not moving the ball quite how we want to and setting up zones and things like that, but we're still putting wins on the board.'

Awaiting the Magpies this week is Loxton North, with the Panthers coming off their first loss of the season against BarmeraMonash on Saturday.

"I've been watching all the footage and we've been setting up for this one. This'll be our biggest challenge yet, I think," Kilsby said.

"We're up for it. We love the challenge and we'll go in with our gameplan and see how we go

"They play on at all costs but they make a lot of turnovers, so we're hoping we can press them in and make them create those turnovers often.'

Meanwhile, Berri welcomes Renmark to RFL HQ as Clint Ridgway's side continues to search for its first win of the 2023 season.

Round one done as Murray Valley gets under way

BEN LENNON and DEIRDRE GRAHAM

HISTORY was made in the Riverland last Saturday, as the Murray Valley Football Netball League came to life for round one of the 2023 season.

The new league, which has replaced the Independent competition, formerly governed by the RFL, saw six teams in action over the weekend, including newcomers Murrayville.

The former Mallee Football League club, previously known as the Bulldogs, has rebranded to the Blues upon entering the new competition and got off to a winning start, taking down Brown's Well at Paruna.

Club president Craig Kelly said it was a "massive weekend" for the Blues.

"We don't know what to expect with any of the teams this year and a lot of work has gone into preparing for our new era," Mr Kelly said. "It was great to see so many supporters follow us to our first game in the new league.' Nathan Wright-Bramfitt booted five goals for the travelling side, including the club's first goal under

Dillon Harding also kicked five, while 2022 Duthie Medallist Cam Thompson helped himself to three majors in an impressive outing. Ramco and Wunkar played out a low-scoring affair at Ramco Oval, with the Roosters leading from start to finish to win the match by 16 points.

The home side burst out of the blocks in its new-look guernseys to establish a 20-point advantage at the first break and never looked back, with ruckman Jack Parfitt starring in the win.

Paringa will get its first taste of MVFNL footy against Brown's Well after having the bye in round one.

BSR will have a week off to regroup following its shock round one loss, leaving Wunkar to host Murrayville in the second road trip in a row for the Blues.

Meanwhile, Sedan-Cambrai started off its premiership defence with a win over BSR in the A and B grade netball.

Wunkar secured wins in both grades against Ramco, while Brown's Well saw off Murrayville in a nail-biter to run out three-goal victors in the A grade.

Tigers maul Dogs at The Kennel

BEN LENNON

LOXTON officially kickstarted its 2023 RFL campaign with an important victory over Renmark at Renmark Oval last Saturday afternoon.

The Tigers were 0-2 heading into the clash after suffering defeats against Loxton North and Waikerie in the opening two rounds, but started the game with a bang.

Skipper Jesse Will won the toss and Luke Harder's side immediately began to utilise the breeze heading towards the Renmark Hospital end.

The Tigers controlled most of the play but struggled to make Renmark pay on the scoreboard due to some inaccuracy in front of goal, but they did manage to keep Renmark scoreless in the first term.

"Having kicked 3.6 in the first, that probably should've been 6.3, but every time we come in to half time or quarter time we drill into the group that they should have nothing left when they come off," Harder said.

Renmark made a fast start to the second term, booting two early goals to steady the ship, but from then on it was all Loxton.

Harder and star recruit Chris Knapp floated into the back 50 to play a loose role, and Renmark struggled to break down the Tigers.

Eventually, as the breeze died down, the Tigers got the ball moving in the other direction and managed to outscore the home side in the second term.

"I noticed in the first quarter that in the forward half of the scoring end, it was hard to get the ball out," Harder said.

"We thought we might just play it safe and put an extra behind the footy at stages during that second quarter.

a good start and as the wind died off it went in our favour a bit.

"Coming into the rooms, we were pretty happy with how we'd gone but we knew there was a long road ahead of us.

"Renmark at Renmark are no easy beats, so we had to continue what we started in the first half."

Josh Vater and Nathan Zunic provided bright spots for Renmark, but the Rovers struggled to find a target inside their forward 50 throughout the contest.

Loxton defender Che Lange took a number of intercept marks as the Tigers were able to control the game from their back half.

Youngster Harley Campbell provided the Tigers with plenty of energy across the day, with his mark over Renmark coach Vater in the first quarter a highlight of the day.

"For a young kid, he's our barometer really," Harder said of Campbell.

'Harley's doing really well at West Adelaide, but they've got a bit of a rotation policy there.

"We'd love to have him all year but we realise his development in Adelaide is important because he's got a big future."

Will was named best in the contest as the Tigers put together their first four-quarter performance for the year, something Harder was pleased with after many Riverland footy pundits had question his side's fitness.

"It was good to run out the game," he said.

"I know there's been a bit of a thing on our fitness so it was good to put a few doubters to rest, so it was a good feeling in the rooms after the game."

Vater was named best for Renmark alongside hard-running wingman Dan Woolford and midfield bull Lachlan Lellmann, but the Rovers remain bottom of the table on -2 points following "We were lucky enough to get last season's points deduction.

Loxton playing coach Luke Harder celebrates a goal during his side's first victory of the 2023 RFL season. The Tigers travelled to Renmark and knocked off the reigning premiers by 32 points on Saturday afternoon. PHOTOS: Grant Schwartzkopff Harder hailed the work of ruck duo Craig Fisher and Knapp, who were able to limit the influence of Renmark star Zac Gartery.

"Gartery in my opinion is the best ruckman in the competition, so to nullify him or try to minimise his influence on games is hard, but I think we did that to a degree, although he still managed to play well," he said.

"Craig's (Fisher) tap rucking is underrated. He's a brilliant tap ruckman and at stoppages around the ground and at throwins, that's when we can utilise him the most and then Knappy can do the centre square stuff.'

Loxton hosts Barmera-Monash in this weekend's round of fixtures, while Vater and Renmark will look to bounce back at Berri.

Nathan Zunic returned to the Renmark side and booted two goals in the loss. after missing the week prior with an ankle issue.

Travelling Roos bounce the Panthers

BARMERA-Monash became the first team to defeat Loxton North in 2023, when the two sides collided at Panther Park last Saturday.

North came into the clash with a head of steam following back-to-back convincing victories over Loxton and Berri, but the Roos provided a sterner test in difficult conditions at the ground often dubbed Windy Hill.

A scrappy first half saw scores level at just 14 a piece at the main break, with neither team able to grab the ascendancy.

Barmera-Monash coach Fraser Sampson said neither team was able to break away due to the high-pressure nature of the game.

"Defensively both sides played quite well, so most of the game was played between the 50s," he said.

"It wasn't the free-flowing clean football that both teams would like to see with ball in hand, but sometimes you've just got to scrap it out.

"We put a bit of work into them, particularly Alek Kudra.

"I've watched a couple of games and he certainly got off the leash as their main connector, so we went pretty hard on him with the tag and that stalled a bit of their ball movement.'

The move paid dividends in the first half, but North was able to get on top in the third term, thanks largely to the impressive performance of gun recruit Scott Lewis.

The former Woodville-West Torrens star's larger frame and clean skills were serving Terry Eleftheriadis well in the guts before he dislocated his shoulder in the final term.

The star struggled to pop it back in, and the Roos would go on to dominate the final term, running out victors by 13 points

"We still had to keep adjusting things to slow them down," Sampson said.

"Putting pressure on the ball carrier up the ground allowed our half backs to turn a bit of ball over, and they were doing the same thing. We turned the ball over a bit too."

New Roos recruit Aedan Lyon played a pivotal role in keeping star North forward Ryan Proud quiet during the first half, before moving to Zac Wooldridge part way through the second term.

"Part way through the second quarter, him (Lyon) and 'Mocky' (Michael Mock) did a little change," Sampson said.

"In the air he doesn't lose a contest but his work at ground level is great.

"He's really quick and tackles well and he actually added a bit more run and attacking flair than he has in the first couple of weeks.'

Wooldridge would go on to kick two goals but his influence was limited compared to the previous two weeks, while at the other end, Barmera youngsters Dan Westley and Ayden Hodgson booted two goals each, with both of Westley's coming in the final term.

Co-skipper Sam Butterworth was named best for the visitors, while Lewis was man of the match for the Panthers despite playing just three quarters.

North captain Codi Voumard also put in a strong showing, while youngster Jonty Koehne kicked two of his side's five goals.

Barmera-Monash also emerged victorious in the B grade, with the reserves set to play a pivotal role in the Roos' push for the A grade top four.

'We've got a few areas we need to work on like everyone, but the morale around the group is really good," Sampson said.

"Coming from Renmark and seeing their depth be their biggest advantage, the A grade is built off the strength of the whole club, so that's the way to do it.

"In my opinion, your squad is only as good as your bottom five or six. It's important to bring in top end talent, but it's just as important to make sure you build the depth of the team."

last weekend is returning club legend Dillon Millard, who is back on Lakeside after a stint as playing coach of Loxton.

Millard has suffered from a number of injuries in recent times, but the 2011 Whillas Medallist and 2012 premiership player is still on Sampson's radar in 2023.

"He's just trying to focus on getting his body right," Sampson said.

"He just wanted to come out and enjoy his footy and I think he's keen to play in the twos for a bit.

"I'm obviously on his back to get him in the senior squad because he'd be awesome to have.

'But, there's no pressure from me really. I'm just working with him to see where he's keen to play his footy.

"Ideally I'd love to have him playing in the ones at some point, but the ball's in his court a little bit."

AROUND THE GROUNDS

WAIKERIE'S senior footy dominance continued last weekend, with the A grade and B grade sitting on top of their respective ladders, remaining unbeaten to start season 2023.

The Magpie B grade saw off a spirited Berri side, thanks largely to the goalkicking ability of veteran forward Ben Venning.

He booted five majors in the victory, bringing his season total to 12 in three games as he continues to enjoy life in the reserves.

Meanwhile, Loxton picked up an impressive win in a hotly contested game against Renmark at Renmark Oval, while Barmera-Monash secured its second win of the season, knocking off the Panthers and moving into second spot.

Keen observers will notice a big name in the Roos' reserves, with club legend Dillon Millard lacing up the boots for the first time since returning from a stint as head coach of Loxton.

Renmark continued its unbeaten start in the under 18s, with skipper Harry Papageorgios leading from the front in his side's 73-point win over Loxton.

Waikerie and Barmera-Monash were the other big winners as the top four begins to take shape early in the season. The Roos were able to bring Loxton North's streak of clean sweeps to a halt in emphatic fashion, travelling to Panther Park and running out victors in every grade on Saturday.

Renmark remains the team to beat in the under 15s, while Barmera-Monash's undefeated streak from the 2022 under 13s season has extended into this campaign, with the Roos currently 3-0.

This week's round of fixtures sees Loxton host Barmera-Monash, Berri welcome Renmark and Loxton North travel to Waikerie.

THE Riverland Women's Football League kicks off this weekend, with reigning premier Berri hosting Renmark at home to get season number five under way.

After a slightly tumultuous preseason, which saw Loxton and Waikerie combine due to a lack of numbers at Tigerland, the competition returns with four teams playing across nine rounds, plus two rounds of finals.

Games will be played on Saturday and Monday nights, with the grand final set to be played on Saturday, August 12.

Last year's premier Berri will host Renmark this Saturday night, with Berri aiming for an astounding five premierships in a row this season, with the Demons having won four premierships from four grand final appearances since the competition began in 2018.

Barmera-Monash, the runners up from last year's grand final, will host a combined Loxton and Waikerie side on Monday night.

Last year's grand final best-on-ground winner and Berri young gun, Amy Shapley (16), said her teammates are "pretty keen" to get back out there on Saturday.

"Our trainings have been pretty good. We have been getting pretty consistent numbers," she said.

"I am not sure how the other (sides) are going, but hopefully they have a few girls so we have a good competition."

The under 15 girls will also kick off next week on Monday, May 15, which will see Berri host Renmark and Waikerie take on Barmera-Monash, the latter followed by a senior game.

Important round of RFL footy awaits all six clubs

A TRIFECTA of important RFL clashes is on offer this weekend, with plenty at stake for all six clubs as the competition continues to heat up.

Barmera-Monash's win against Loxton North last week helped to level the RFL playing field, but Waikerie still sits alone at the top of the table as the only undefeated side thus far.

New coach Mick Kilsby has predicted this weekend will be his side's sternest test so far, with the Magpies set to host the Panthers in a blockbuster clash.

Terry Eleftheriadis' North side suffered its first loss last weekend and will likely head into this clash against the ladder leaders without star recruit Scott Lewis, with the SANFL premiership player badly dislocating his shoulder in a marking contest with Roos coach Fraser Sampson last Saturday.

Still, the Panthers will be keen to make amends for the loss and boast plenty of quality around the ball.

Waikerie could follow the blueprint of Barmera-Monash, with Sampson's side playing physical footy, pressuring the ball carrier at all costs and applying a hard tag to gun wingman Alek Kudra.

North will likely run with the same gameplan that was so impressive in the first two rounds, which should provide for an intriguing contest.

Meanwhile, Renmark will head into its clash with Berri one spot below the Demons on the RFL ladder, despite winning one more game than Clint Ridgway's side.

The Rovers are still feeling the affects of a points deduction after last season's player eligibility breach and currently sit on -2 points, coming off a loss against Loxton last Saturday.

The Demons are yet to register a win in season 2023 but have already shown early signs of improvement, with a crop of youngsters leading the way.

Despite starting the season slowly, many will be expecting Renmark to break the shackles this weekend, but Ridgway's Demons will be keen to make a statement on their home deck. In what could be the match of the round, Barmera-Monash travels to Loxton, buoyed by a galvanising win against Loxton North on Saturday.

Sampson's side defeated the Panthers in a scrappy affair, while this Saturday's match will likely be more free-flowing.

The Roos will be sweating on the health of a number of players after a brutal encounter on Saturday, while Loxton will go into the clash with a settled line-up, with most of Luke Harder's biggest weapons now fit and firing. The Tigers knocked off the reigning premiers away from home last week and will go into this clash full of confidence, but the organised Roos will likely provide a more difficult test.

44 SPORT www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, May 10, 2023 Founders' Medal day off to a flyer

A LOCAL golf club honoured its 100-year heritage on Saturday by introducing a new tradition that is set to become a permanent fixture in the calendar in years to come.

Barmera Golf Club is celebrating its centenary year in 2023 and hosted its inaugural Heritage Round for the Founders' Medal on Saturday afternoon.

Members flocked to the links to compete for the top prize in its first year, with plenty of onlookers also in attendance in what president Neville McPherson described as a "great success".

"Normally on a Saturday we will have 40 to 50 playing but on Saturday we had 63, as well as 40 to 50 visitors, so it was a really busy day," Mr McPherson said.

"If you get 60 of your own members playing a comp in this day and age, it's a great thing and it doesn't happen very often."

The competition will be held annually going forward on the first weekend in May, replicating the first-ever competition held at Barmera in 1923.

Mr McPherson believes honouring the history of the club and its members is important, given how much volunteer work has gone into the upkeep of the club across its 100 years.

"We've decided that our club wants to celebrate the fact that it's 100 years old," he said.

"There's a good vibe around the place at the moment because there are lots of volunteers and lots of people involved.

"Having a celebration like this gives us an opportunity to get those people together and recognise how we got to 100 years, and it's because members have been willing to work hard.

"Every time we get a chance, we celebrate with our members, because we wouldn't be able to do what we're doing if we didn't have our volunteer members."

Christopher Neilson took out the inaugural Founders' Medal, shooting one under with his handicap of 10, while Jordan Marr took out the B grade competition.

The Medal will be presented officially at the club's centenary dinner on Saturday, September 9.

"We'll be inviting our neighbouring clubs along to the dinner as well and will make it a really good occasion," Mr McPherson said.

"Leigh Krollig is heading a sub-committee that's organising it all and he's really into the history, so it's great to have someone that's willing to go in and do the research."

A NEW school holiday soccer program has been welcomed by locals, with "promising" early attendance numbers at a plethora of recent events.

Football SA recently brought in regional development officers to help assist with growing the game in regional areas, with Barmera United captain James Wallace taking on the Riverland role.

Mr Wallace facilitated a number of soccerbased school holiday activities recently and said the events were "well received".

"I think parents were just happy that something was on in the region for their kids, because there hasn't been too much on offer like this before," Mr Wallace said.

"I tried to hit a few different towns.

"We had to cancel in Berri, but I had single day sessions in Renmark and Loxton which was really fun.

"There were lots of small-sided games, some one-on-one king of the court stuff and they seemed to love this game called soccer tennis, which is about just keeping the ball up. "We touched on the four main moments in soccer - first touch, striking the ball, running with the ball and one-on-ones.

"We had just under 10 for each of those single day sessions, which isn't the best of numbers but it's a really good starting point."

Along with the single day sessions, Mr

Riverland youngsters Logan Stark (10, left), Jordan Lewin (11), Football SA regional development officer James Wallace, Denver Kimberley (13), Blossom Kimberley (13), Jax Flowers (9), Patrick Hallam (8) and Luca Bascomb (10) enjoyed a day in the sun as part of Football SA's new school holiday soccer program. PHOTO: supplied

Wallace also hosted a three-day advanced camp for Riverland youngsters, comprising of three six-hour days under his tutelage.

The camp was designed to cater to all skill levels and help equip children with skills they can use during a game of soccer.

"Some were technically gifted and others not as much, but they all really tried and had a great time which is good," he said.

"I had one of the parents get back to me saying their child used the skills they learnt at the camp on the weekend in their game, so that stuff is lovely to hear."

Mr Wallace plans to build on the successful start in the near future, with some ideas already in the works for the next school holiday period.

"We tried to do a futsal world cup tournament but it didn't quite get enough traction, but in the next holiday period it'll be on at the same time as the FIFA Women's World Cup, so hopefully we can run it then," he said.

"We'll also hopefully try and host some watch parties for the World Cup.

"If we can have a training session in the morning and then watch whoever is playing after that, that's something we will hopefully line up.

"We've got the development centre starting now with about 35 kids signed up at the moment.

"It's split up into three age groups but that will only be for the first term. After that we'll probably change it around a bit depending on the skill level of the kids in the second term."

While Mr Wallace acknowledged participation numbers could improve, he is hopeful to welcome more children into Football SA's programs in the near future.

'The first game of Riverland soccer was only last fortnight, so these events were prior to any games happening," he said.

"The feedback I got was all positive.

"Especially for the parents as well, the single days and the three-day camp were six-hour days, so the parents could still go to work as they normally would.

"The kids really enjoyed it. I had a couple that were shy at first but really got into it by the end which was really good to see.'

RENMARK and Barmera have opened their account in the 2023 Riverland soccer season, picking up wins over Berri and Loxton respectively in last Sunday's round of fixtures at Loxton.

Last year's top two came into the weekend with one point each to their name after their 4-4 draw the week prior, but wasted no time in picking up the three points on Sunday.

Renmark veteran Michael Cartwright starred for Olympic, finding the back of the net four times in a best-on-ground performance.

Chris Miller added two of his own, with Berri struggling to replicate its form from the week prior against Loxton.

Josh Sawyer was best for the River Rangers, while Thomas Pipinis and Ripley Bray bagged a goal each.

Barmera put 10 past Loxton in an emphatic win, as the Pelicans kickstarted their title defence.

The home side struggled to deal with Barmera's attacking threat, with Dimitri Kanakaris and Kosta Zois producing hat-tricks in the win.

Experienced campaigner Marty Barber and youngster Riley Haigh added two each as the Pelicans stormed to victory.

Meanwhile, Renmark and Barmera picked up 4-0 wins in the women's division.

Maggie Lock bagged a brace for Olympic against Berri, while Sarah Beames' double helped Barmera over the line against Loxton.

Berri and Barmera picked up wins in the under 16s, while four goals to Blossom Kimberley helped Renmark run out 8-1 victors over Berri in the under 14 girls competition.

Open season as dinghies return

THE third round of Riverland Dinghy Club action saw Ben Pilgrim and Travis Thiel propel themselves up the championship ladder, with a win in the annual Renmark Auto Service circuit race.

Racers were met with difficult conditions as rain threatened on Saturday afternoon, but the 45 boats in action made the best of it in an exciting day of racing in front of the Renmark Club.

Pilgrim and Thiel negotiated the conditions well to secure the fastest time in the 30hp sport final, edging out Matt Voigt and Dan Gilgen in second place, with Adam Price and Michael Preen rounding out the top three.

The victory sees Pilgrim and Thiel leapfrog a number of duos into fourth spot on the overall ladder, with Kodi Morena and Douglas Mowbray overtaking Shane Palat and Matt Thur in the race for first place.

Cooper Newman and Che Gillespie continued their strong start to the season, narrowly outpacing Hudson and Ollie Pearce in the super standards, while Cameron Price and Luke Gordon took home the win in the rookie class.

The club's next event is the Woolshed Brewery Amazon sprint on June 17, with valuable championship points on offer for the victors.

www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, May 10, 2023 SPORT 47 Riverland hockey here, there and everywhere

RIVERLAND hockey was spread out over the course of a week, as the region's best left for Adelaide to do battle in the state country championships.

Although returning sans silverware, the Riverland's men's and women's sides gave a good account of themselves at the tournament, held at MATE Stadium in Gepps Cross.

Back home, action kicked off last Wednesday night, with Waikerie taking on Berri at Glassey Park in the A grade men's competition.

Rowan Hope notched three goals as Waikerie stormed to a 7-1 win over its rivals, with Lucas Hocking named best in the victory, scoring two goals of his own.

Berri skipper Lachlan Suckling was best on for his side, but the home team struggled to stop Waikerie's ruthless attacking play.

Meanwhile, Loxton picked up a default win due to a forfeit from Renmark.

The women's A grade round two fixture will be played tonight between Waikerie and Berri, with Renmark and the combined Sunraysia and Mildura side both having the bye this week.

Sunraysia also has the bye in the men's division and will return to action this weekend.

The combined Loxton and Renmark side secured a comfortable win in the men's under 18s competition against Berri, while seven goals to Amahli Kelly helped Berri over the line against Renmark in the women's under 18s.

One, two, three, four... high five?

THE Riverland Women's Football League kicks off this weekend, with reigning premier Berri hosting Renmark at home to get season number five under way.

After a slightly tumultuous pre-season, which saw Loxton and Waikerie combine due to a lack of numbers at Tigerland, the competition returns with four teams playing across nine rounds, plus two rounds of finals.

Last year's premier Berri will host Renmark this Saturday night, with the Demons aiming for an astounding five premierships in a row this season, having won four premierships from four grand final appearances since the competition began in 2018.
