Meanwhile a massive earthmoving exercise is being conducted in Barmera to hastily construct a levee along the west of Lake Bonney including the Nappers Bridge inlet that would protect wastewater infrastructure supporting the town and surrounding communities.

And at 9am yesterday the Berri Senior Citizens Club was officially converted to an emergency facility for flood-impacted Riverland residents, providing locals with assistance sourcing accommodation, food and finances.

In addition, the region's tourism providers have again reminded the rest of the state that the Riverland is still accessible, with most local activities available and the local scenery spectacular.

SA Premier Peter Malinauskas is expected to visit the Riverland again later this week.

Funding and support for region's 'resilient' tourism operators

JOSH BRINE

THE state's tourism minister has heard about the challenges facing a resilient Riverland tourism industry, with the sector's recovery from the ongoing flood event set to be supported with more than $4m in funding.

More than 40 representatives from tourism operators and industry stakeholders attended a meeting organised by the Tourism Industry Council of South Australia (TiCSA) at the Berri Hotel last week, with SA Tourism Minister Zoe Bettison, TiCSA CEO Shaun de Bruyn and South Australian Tourism Commission representatives in attendance.

Various local operators said their patronage had been impacted by negative and misleading messaging in Adelaide media surrounding the flood's impact on tourism businesses

"What we're really hearing now is how tourism businesses are being impacted when it's still safe for people to come," Ms Bettison told The Murray Pioneer.

"That's a really key message for me to take back - how do we look at that conversation and how do we encourage people to come, but also be aware of their safety...

"We need to go out with clarifications about what visitors can and can't do. You don't need to be in the river to enjoy the river.

"The image is that everything is unavailable and that's simply not true.'

As part of the $51.6m in funding to support SA river communities through the floods, $3m has been allocated for three rounds of $200 vouchers for visitors to use in the region, to be rolled out next year, with a $1.1m marketing campaign also planned.

The package also includes $10,000 grants for non-employing businesses and $20,000 for employing businesses forced to close prior to the flood, however some local operators whose customer numbers have decreased due to the floods expressed concern that funding was currently unavailable for them.

"We've come out with a package that at the moment is focused on businesses that have had to close for a minimum of two weeks," Ms Bettison said.

"It's always challenging from a government grant perspective to include everyone, (but) we'll look at what we can do.'

Destination Riverland (DR) general manager Pamela Canavan said the local tourism industry had shown it was "resilient, passionate and strong", particularly after Covidimpacted years.

"It's wonderful to hear the assistance being offered and that it's being thought about right now," she said.

"It's just going to be about balancing the timing of when it's launched, but any assistance is greatly appreciated by everyone here on the ground...

"It means so much, not just to our organisation but the entire community, to have these government and industry leaders here.

"I don't think you can fully understand what's going on and what people are feeling unless you're actually here."

Ms Canavan said DR was focused on "striking a balance" between promoting business still operating and supporting those already impacted.

"It's also about being gentle knowing people in the city may be apprehensive about coming here," she said.

"It's about reassurance and finding the right message and tone."

It's the season for our Riverland school proms

PROM season is back in the Riverland, with senior students across the region dressing up for the occasion this week.

Riverland Special School kicked off the season with its senior prom last Friday at the Berri Hotel.

Students dressed to the nines and posed for photographs before making their way down the red carpet.

Loxton High School students will celebrate their formal tonight at The Precinct, with arrivals scheduled to start at 6pm.

Economic flood support targets homes, businesses

RIVERLAND households and businesses expected to experience "large-scale flooding" events will share in the recently unveiled $51.6m state government economic support package. Premier Peter Malinauskas announced the support measures at the Berri riverfront last week, during a visit to the Riverland with deputy premier Susan Close, Minister for Emergency Services Joe Szakacs, SES chief officer Chris Beattie, police commissioner Grant Stevens and flood recovery co-ordinator Alex Zimmermann.

The state government's initial $51.6m flood support package included:

$9.3m to remediate existing levees and construct new ones on council land, including at Cobdogla and Lake Bonney more than tripling the support for levee

Grants of up to $50,000 to assist business owners with the cost of private levy works required to bring levees up to certified engineering standard.

Operators urging tourists to come see 'magnificent' region

A LOCAL riverfront caravan park is encouraging visitors to continue visiting the region to see the "magnificent" environment amid high river flows.

BIG4 Renmark Riverfront Holiday Park manager Gayle Gudgeon said the park is taking "every precaution", including the construction of a levee to 1956 flood levels, to protect both its guests and property from any potential flooding.

"Ensuring guest safety is paramount and we will continue to trade only while it is considered safe to do so," she said.

"Keeping the water out and returning to business as usual as soon as we can is our ultimate aim.

"The hard work, support and guidance from local businesses Stoneham Building Contractors, Scherer Contractors and (surveyor) Ralph Anderson in the construction of our levee has been incredible.

"We're also very grateful for offers of support and extra hands on deck from trades, local business and families, should we need them."

Mrs Gudgeon said guests had been "astounded" at how local waterways look due to increased inundation.

"It's wonderful to be welcoming families into the park to enjoy the facilities and encouraging them to explore the region," she said.

"The wetlands are full and the water looks just beautiful.

"This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for people to see this natural phenomenon.

"Taking many calls daily, my staff and I are busy assuring guests that at present it's a perfect time to visit the region, and we would love them to come and stay and enjoy the many things the park and the area have to offer.

Mrs Gudgeon said the support shown for the local tourism industry from emergency services, the state government and council, and the communication between these different bodies, had been "wonderful".

"I had (SA Tourism Minister) Zoe Bettison come through and walk through our park and she fully appreciates the situation tourism in the region is going to be in over the coming months," she said.

"The local guys from the council have been terrific and the SES has also been really great."

Riverland hotel takes home two national awards

A RIVERLAND hotel has this week been recognised with two award wins at a prestigious national hotel industry awards night.

Loxton Hotel took out Best Bar Presentation & Service-Regional and Best Redeveloped HotelGeneral Division at the Australian Hotels Association (AHA) National Awards for Excellence, held in Sydney on Monday night.

Loxton Hotel was just one of four South Australian venues recognised on the night, with winners from every state and territory across Australia.

The wins come after the local pub took out three gongs at the state awards in October for Best Overall Hotel-Country, Best Bar Presentation and Experience-Country, and Best Redeveloped Hotel-Country.

"It's so exciting," Loxton Hotel chairman Wendy Mudge said yesterday.

"To think that a community hotel, serving a small regional community in SA could come away with two major awards." PAGE 23 Hotel's healthy profit SAPN strives to keep power on, but warns of 1950 more disconnections...

Power struggle SA Power Networks says it is doing everything it can to keep FLOOD EVENT power to Riverland properties, but expects a further 1950 disconnections by the week's end.

SA Power Networks head of corporate affairs, Paul Roberts said while protecting the safety of the community and property remained a priority, SA Power Networks "does not want to disconnect one more customer than necessary".

"There are two areas of consideration around disconnections – one where there is flooding of property or it is imminent, and the other involving safe clearances under powerlines crossing floodplains or the river," Mr Roberts said.

"It is likely there will be about 1950 further disconnections by the end of the week, mainly in lowlying areas where there has been inundation, or flooding is imminent within days as the initial forecast flood peak moves along the river."

Mr Roberts said SA's sole electricity distributor would give customers "as much notice as we can of impending disconnections".

However, Mr Roberts also said SA Power Networks was working with government agencies on options to avoid disconnection of powerlines that run across flood plains and supply customers beyond the reach of floodwaters.

We are required to ensure compliance with legislated safe clearances to overhead powerlines, but we are working with the government's Office of the Technical Regulator on options such as boat exclusion zones on flood plains to allow us to have reduced, but still safe clearances to powerlines, that will mean the power can stay on," he said.

'We are also putting in more switch points to reduce the number of customers who might be affected by a disconnection. This will benefit many who live and work outside the flood zones.'

Mr Roberts said about 50 radial supply lines that cross over the river were well clear of the water, providing safe clearance.

He said the volume of water presented a substantial challenge for SA Power Networks.

"We have extensive infrastructure in flood plains and river crossings," he said.

"For example, the number of poles in the modelled flood zone at 160GL/day is 3312.

"At 200GL/day it is 4033 and at 250GL/day it is 6594." Mr Roberts reiterated SA Power Networks' public safety reminder. "Stay well clear of downed powerlines or powerlines that are low over the water and electricity infrastructure in floodwaters." For further information visit the website (sapowernetworks.com. au).

JOSH BRINE

THE region's first 'one-stop shop' for flood-impacted Riverland residents opened in Berri yesterday, providing locals with assistance with accommodation, food and finances.

The Emergency Relief Centre, located at the Berri Senior Citizens Club on Crawford Terrace, launched at 9am yesterday and will be open from 9am to 5pm, seven days a week.

The centre will assist residents, business owners and primary producers seeking to access elements of the state government's initial $51.6m support package for River Murray communities.

It will also provide services including accommodation assistance, Red Cross, Foodbank, financial assistance, community outreach and more.

Premier Peter Malinauskas said the relief centre was about "putting in place a full service delivery model" for locals to access in-person, to "aid communities in their time of need".

'The emergency relief centres are a one-stop shop that anyone from a local community can go to get assistance from key government agencies and even get access to professional services around mental health or even a lawyer," he said.

Human Services Minister Nat Cook said the relief centre was for anyone in need of outreach services due to their main residence being impacted by flood.

"We know how stressful this situation is for the Riverland community and we are providing support and assistance while people remain unable to return home," she said.

"A limited number of shortterm emergency accommodation options have been identified.

"Hotels will be used for immediate accommodation needs, but which hotels will be used will depend on where the floodwaters reach, and room availability.

"For people who would like to use their own caravan or camper trailer, we urge you to find your own caravan park in the first instance."

People can attend in person or call the River Murray Flood Relief line on 1800 302 787.

The state government's $51.6m package includes one-off Personal Hardship Emergency Grants, emergency accommodation assistance, business grants and tourism industry support.

Treasurer Stephen Mullighan said the government had worked "as quickly as possible to ensure financial support is available" to local communities.

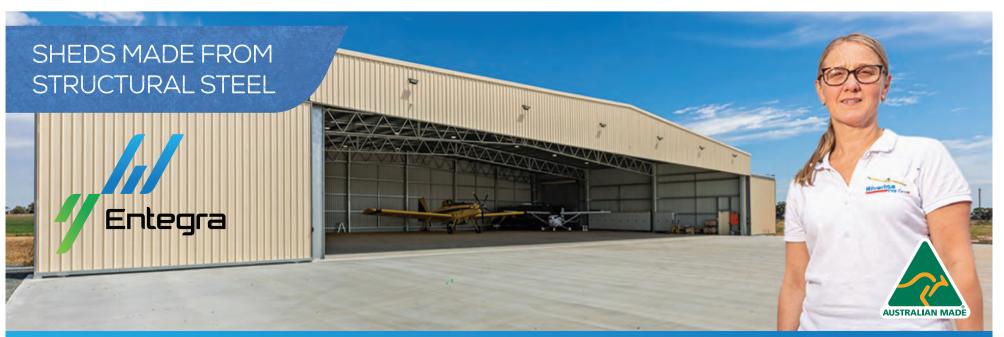

"We know that this is an extremely stressful time and we want to ensure the process is clear and straightforward," he said.

"We will continue meeting with locals to hear feedback and concerns, answer questions and stand with them during this tough time."

Small and Family Business Minister Andrea Michaels praised the "resilience and grit" of river communities.

"Support for businesses includes an early business closure grant to support businesses forced to close or cease trading prior to the flood, generator grants to help businesses who are switched off from the electricity grid, and financial counselling," she said.

WORKS on a levee along the west of Lake Bonney – including the inlet at Nappers Bridge –will continue into December as the local council seeks to protect essential wastewater infrastructure for Barmera and surrounding communities.

Berri Barmera Council CEO Dylan Strong said works were continuing to build the Barmera temporary levee and to remediate the remnant 1956 flood levee, with the levee network running north from the Sturt Highway near Cobdogla and including the inlet to Lake Bonney at Nappers Bridge.

"DEW (SA's Department for Environment and Water) are undertaking the necessary hydrology and environmental impact assessment of this option and will work with council on monitoring and management of the lake's health should the temporary closure of the inlet occur," he said.

"The levee is an effective way of protecting high-value assets and essential wastewater infrastructure situated in low-lying areas of Barmera near the lake's foreshore, with respect to the time available before the forecast peak flows.

Lake Bonney levee to protect wastewater system

"The wastewater network supports thousands of residents in Barmera, Cobdogla and Loveday townships...

"Council are working closely with the State Emergency Service (SES) and other state government authorities to continually review and respond to the increased flows and any flood advice issued for our council area.

"Our first priority is that, wherever possible, levee networks in the low-lying areas sustainable of the forecast flows." Last week, SA SES chief officer Chris Beattie said the service was working with council to protect the Barmera township.

"We're working closely with (council) around a new levee structure that will close off Lake Bonney to protect essential infrastructure that supports the Barmera town, as well as a number of surrounding areas in the district," Mr Beattie said.

"Part of that process is the deployment of the DefenCell product... around Nappers inlet, which will tie into an earthen levee that's being put in by the council."

Mr Strong said the temporary levee being constructed in 544

Cobdogla had reached a stage where it could sustain 175GL per day flows, and would increase to 200GL level by the end of the week.

"All levee networks will be continually monitored while under load," he said.

"Temporary levees may be removed when peak flows subside and it is safe to do so."

Mr Strong advised residents to stay informed on the co-ordinated response to the high flows by visiting www.sa.gov.au or contacting the SES River Murray Infoline (1800 362 361), and for those needing crisis support to call Lifeline on 13 11 14.

THE YEARS GO BY EDITORIAL Flood shows need

THROUGHOUT what future generations will surely label the 'crazy Covid years' much was made of Australian sporting codes recognising the value of being agile, or 'nimble' as a former prime minister once spoke about.

to be nimble

To combat unpredictable Covid breakouts, the AFL - for example - was suddenly able to program and re-program matches at a moment's notice, switching venues and timeslots as necessary.

Naturally, the sporting behemoth had selfinterest as its key motivator, determined to play all matches and fulfil its lucrative broadcast contract, made even more crucial given the dramatic drop in spectator numbers.

Nonethless, the AFL got through both of the seasons most heavily impacted by Covid, and showed that being flexible and open to problem-solving ideas was paramount.

It has come out the other side a better organisation, perhaps leaner, and possibly more prepared to move swiftly and compromise if circumstances dictate.

In the grand scheme of things, Gurra Road is only a tiny fraction of the Riverland caught up in the current flood crisis. And until a couple of weeks ago, it looked like its 25 to 30 households would be among the early victims of the rising Murray.

Residents faced having vehicle access cut off, and even worse, having power disconnected the moment their little river-side road became inundated. So, for those residents, that 300m stretch of road represented either the premature end of their freedoms and very way of life, or an opportunity to stay in their homes longer, possibly throughout the entire flood event.

Initial pleas for action seemingly fell on deaf, though not necessarily unsympathetic ears. It was going to be too hard, particularly with Renmark Paringa Council resources well and truly committed elsewhere.

However, the residents' persistence paid off when the council announced it would explore all options to help its Gurra Road ratepayers.

New life was breathed into what seemed a forlorn cause, and within a week a plan was formulated. Fast forward to last weekend and Gurra Road was being built up to withstand the predicted maximum river flows.

Residents were grateful that council had moved swiftly to problem solve - and rarely has that often-underrated quality been more important to Riverlanders.

Indeed, problem solving has been to the fore since it became obvious a serious flood event was headed our way. Witness the levee banks already constructed locally, transforming the appearance of numerous local areas, but vitally important to protecting property and infrastructure.

As the first predicted peak arrives, more problem solving will be required in the weeks ahead, all with an eye to the human side of this.

Yesterday afternoon SA Power Networks promised to do all it could to minimise local disconnections, while Renmark Paringa Council has set a good example with its handling of the Gurra Road situation.

Likewise the Department of Infrastructure and Transport with its sensible decisions regarding Bookmark Road.

A metropolitan-based, knee-jerk-prone bureaucrat could easily have closed the road days ago, citing often-fuzzy 'safety concerns'. Instead, the road has remained open - as it should have - and motorists have played their part by driving responsibly and obeying speed restrictions.

We trust all those making important decisions in the weeks ahead will display such empathy and common sense.

Loxton's 'old' post office in East Terrace, prior to its demolition and replacement in 1970: This photograph became the first in the weekly series of this column which, on October 18, 2006, began publication in the former Loxton News. This Years Go By column had followed an earlier weekly series which began on September 5, 2001, entitled Street Names Tell Stories. That series told the story behind the names of some 110 of Loxton's approximately 150 streets, focusing mainly on the town's military streets. As a prelude to the 2007 celebration of the town's centenary of proclamation, the Street Names series continued in The Loxton News until June 2004, but following the Loxton community's magnificent response to a call for photos of the district's heritage, it was decided to replace the series. A new weekly column, The Years Go By, would present a topical photo along with the story that this image inspired. The Loxton News incorporated into The Murray Pioneer in April 2020, but the series continues, and this week notched up the 800th story of the 'years going by'. With a wider readership in The Pioneer, this column is seeking a wider array of stories to tell each week. PHOTO: Pauline Mitchell

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bad decision to block Lake Bonney

HERE we go again.

Two questions regarding the decision to close Lake Bonney off: At what cost? What will it achieve?

It's nearly 50 years since the lake had a good flush and now a small few are going to disallow this.

In 1969 the lake reached its highest salinity level on record at almost 10,000 EC units - not counting 2009 when it reached 21,000 EC units when it was closed off.

Then we had 1974/75 high rivers which dropped the salinity to 2000 EC units. Before this high river, the salinity levels were approximately 7000 EC units.

If the lake was not closed we could have been as low as 500 EC units once the level dropped to pool.

Just imagine the amount of Murray cod and other native species that would be moving into the lake to spawn. This will now stop.

I would like to know what the reasons are for this stupid decision.

How many houses are expected to flood?

What was the point in erecting a flood bank around the caravan park?

Surely it would have been easier to bund off the effluent pump near the Bluebird Cafe, if that is the reason?

The craziest thing I have heard is that the camping infrastructure that Aboriginal people helped design would be destroyed.

I am on the Caring for Country Lake Bonney Committee. At one meeting I attended I mentioned to the committee we only need a high river and all of this infrastructure will be gone.

They looked at me as if to say What would you know?'.

I have lived through the 1956 and 1974 floods in this area, so there is a chance I do know a little.

JOHN BANNEAR

Barmera

The lake will sour immediately

IT is tragic for the health of Lake Bonney that again Berri Barmera Council agrees to the annexing of Lake Bonney from its lifeblood - the River Murray.

From the moment of disconnection, the lake will immediately begin to sour, soon leading to increased salinity and eventually native fish kills. Even during the 2007-2010 fiasco very few carp died.

Despite council regulation of no new construction on flood plains below 1956 flood levels, non-flood-proofed infrastructure was put in place on these flood-prone areas, including new sewerage infrastructure in the mid-1960s by council.

This is now used as an excuse to deny the flood flush that rejuvenates the lake and surrounding flood plains.

At the very least, now all endeavours must be made to allow some flood waters into the lake while it is sealed off.

And as the flood waters recede, the lake must be immediately reconnected. JOHN BEECH

Save Lake Bonney Group Barmera

Flood communication needs to improve

THE decision of the previous Berri Barmera councillors, while in caretaker mode, to close the Lake Bonney inlet has been made public, but I wonder if there needed to be more information flow from council?

The decision was made on a report that has not been made public at a meeting where the item was not listed on the agenda.

Council CEO Dylan Strong has cited "critical and essential wastewater infrastructure" as the reason for the closure.

Would it be possible for The Murray Pioneer to show some photos of this critical infrastructure?

The lake has not been closed in previous floods so it is obvious this "critical infrastructure" has been built since 1974.

It would be prudent to make this information available to all concerned so post-flood state government money can be sourced to relocate it, if possible.

With the approval to close Lake Bonney made by council on 11/11/22, subject to assessment by relevant authorities, will the water rise? If not, why did the Barmera Discovery Holiday Park close, build a flood bank and shift infrastructure?

Better communication regarding the upgrade to Berri, Winkie, Overland Corner and Loveday flood banks, the priority order set by council for reinstatement, would also be appreciated.

At the time of writing on Monday (28/11/22), the latest update on the council's website was on the 17/11/22. That's too long for concerned residents.

I appreciate that the CEO has stated council staff are working around the clock or 24/7, but accurate, up-to-date information prevents misinformation and speculation.

TREVOR CHAPPLE Glossop

Why are we building on flood plains?

IT is a well-known fact that, every now and again, all waterways - that's rivers, creeks and lakes – around the world will flood.

This flooding has been happening for hundreds of centuries and will continue to happen. I do not need a so-called knowledgeable expert to tell me this.

Almost 70 years ago, way back in 1956, the majestic Murray River flooded causing, much heartache and devastation through the states of Victoria, NSW and South Australia.

A good portion of what was flooded had not yet been built on.

In 2022 these flood-prone areas now have million-dollar homes, factories and warehouses built on them.

Why have the local governments permitted this building to happen?

In Renmark there is a brand new housing subdivision being filled with very expensive homes. Strangely and stupidly, this is happening on a known flood-plain area.

There is a good possibility that this building is is happening in other towns.

Again, why have local governments allowed let this happen?

I strongly suggest that it appears most people who run the local governments could not care less about the companies and families, as it is all down to revenue gained through the exorbitant council rates.

Gaining permission to build on these low-lying flood prone areas should cease immediately.

The 1956 levee banks, constructed to save the properties within the towns and the outlaying houses, have fallen into disrepair as they have never been maintained and, worse still, large sections have been removed.

Letting this destruction happen has, I feel, been a serious criminal act done by irresponsible local governments' managements.

After the 2022/23 waters subside, hopefully the newly constructed levee banks are retained, maybe strengthened and properly maintained for any future flood.

This future flood will happen. It's just a matter of when. TOM GRIFFIN Barmera

Berri Barmera's new council offices

IN a letter to the editor in The Murray Pioneer a couple of months ago ('Bungled Berri library relocation', 5/10/22), I mentioned how Berri Barmera Council CEO Dylan Strong was promoting a new civic centre and community hub as an "immediate deliverable".

My reaction and comments were:

"So, here we go again. We now need new council offices, as an 'immediate deliverable'. You have to be joking."

"Two questions regarding the decision to close Lake Bonney off: At what cost? What will it achieve?"

But was it a joke, as "detailed" in the agenda for this week's council meeting (adjourned from last week)? Well, nothing detailed, as council's hiding behind the old 'confidential item' caveat. Confidential Item 18.2.3: Principal Office – Accommodation.

What? Why? We already have an extremely suitable and well presented "principal office".

Yes, this is the first meeting to be held involving the newly elected mayor and councillors, but any chance of the new regime being open, transparent and upfront with ratepayers?

Is it 'here we go again'? A new leader, but same old, same old? Any respect for ratepayers?

An obvious question is what is wrong with the current council offices?

Why the urgency and need to run out and waste more of our rates money?

I would have thought that most pressing priority for Berri Barmera Council to address is the reduction of the exorbitant amount of rates we already pay. But no, let's just spend, spend, spend.

Oh, the amount of remuneration for mayor, deputy mayor, councillors, other top-up allowances etc. was also a major priority for the meeting.

Yes, all funded by us ratepayers.

Ambulance shortage impacting Loxton

RIVERLAND Mallee Coorong Local Health Network CEO Wayne Champion tells us that SA Ambulance Service had "adjusted its resourcing" (Murray Pioneer, 23/11/22). What does that actually mean?

How about an indication of the crewing statistics involved? Or is it more 'trust us – we're the public service'?

A good start would be by ensuring that the staffing deficiencies in Loxton are dealt with, so that members of the public no longer have to wait for an ambulance to arrive from another town, as so often happens now.

Loxton Hospital ED available 24/7

THE current uncertainty about road closures to Berri from Loxton may be causing some anxiety to the community on the Loxton side of the river in terms of their access to emergency medical assistance after a serious accident, or a worrying health episode.

We would like to assure all residents on the Loxton side of the river that the Loxton Hospital, and the dedicated team of doctors from the Loxton Health Centre, will continue to run a 24-hour, seven-days-a-week emergency service as they have done for many years.

Our highly proficient nursing team has ensured plentiful stocks of everything necessary to treat emergency injuries, including snake anti-venom for those unfortunate enough to have a too-close encounter with a snake.

Don't worry about your access to medical help in the case of an accident. If you live in the town or surrounds of Loxton, and need to visit a hospital ED, you can go directly to the Loxton Hospital Complex ED, with entrance via McIntosh Street in Loxton, any time of the day or night. And remember, always call triple zero (000) in an emergency. Check out the Riverland Mallee Coorong Local Health Network Facebook page – and be reassured.

Still no facts, just climate fiction

THE latest rant from Alf Rapisarda ('Fossil fuel lobby lies', Murray Pioneer, 6/11/22) is typical of the left-wing looney propaganda we get from the leafy green suburbia locations who still think their food comes from the supermarket.

The fossil fuel industries supply virtually all the human race consumes to remain alive.

It transformed the world over the past 150 odd years during the industrial revolution, and fortunately it continues today.

It will disappear no time soon, but nutcases who deter future exploration cause mankind the biggest threat.

The catastrophic doomsday predictions from the lefties is pure fiction. Not one catastrophe predicted has occurred and so-called climate science is based on repeatedly failed computer modelling, carried out by overpaid public bodies who suck up taxes internationally like a plague.

Human-created CO2 is only 3 per cent of global emissions, with the remainder occurring from natural sources. The most recent volcanic eruption in Iceland contributed more CO2 into the atmosphere in four days than the entire global population in the past five years.

New Zealand farm animals – or animals anywhere – emit next to nothing in comparison.

It is all BS to raise taxes and meet the demands of our masters at the United Nations and other woke institutions who aim to control the world.

You are just dribbling propaganda and my grandkids think you are a fake prophet. They study real, factual history and cannot be fooled by radical lefties.

Hopefully other kids are also smart enough to search for the facts about everything in the 'news'.

BUY FREEHOLD NOW: Owners of more than 4000 perpetual lease properties in the Riverland have six months to buy the freehold title to their land before the price goes up by 400 per cent. The State Government has agreed not to implement a new price structure for the service until June next year. It currently costs $1500 to convert land from perpetual lease to freehold title. It will cost $6000 by June. Rental charges for perpetual leases will also be increased from $5 to $300 per year.

THE festive season is officially under way in Loxton, with the return of Loxton Light Up Day to East Terrace last Saturday.

Loxton Chamber of Commerce business and events manager Sonya Altschwager said "it was a great opportunity to kick off the festive season with a positive note".

"We had one of the largest crowds ever; there were heaps of people there to see the fireworks leading from the riverfront back up to East Terrace," she said.

"We thought the weather would deter some people but we handed out the most Reindeer Road bags to the children we ever have and lots of giveaways were given out to the kids.

"The food trucks all had a great day of trading and all the businesses said they were really busy.

"I think everyone really embraced the opportunity to get together as we have a tough couple of months ahead of us."

Ms Altschwager said the highlight of the day was Bookpurnong Road staying open allowing people to drive over the Berri Bridge to attend Light Up Day.

"It was good that people were able to get across to Loxton," she said.

"I think everyone was in great spirits, we have hardly had any negative feedback at all. "Everyone was really positive about the craft activities and Reindeer Road, and they are just really grateful to be able to go to a free event and enjoy free activities.

"It's great that the Loxton Chamber of Commerce can put on an event like this. Thank you to all of our members of the Loxton business community and our sponsors." Christmas Wonderland is also off to a successful start at its new home, with Loxton North Sports Club president Michelle Hill saying the first weekend went "really well".

"We got a lot of positive feedback. A lot of hard work went into getting it where we got it to," she said. "It was great to see it all come together; we are very proud to have achieved what we did. To see the expressions on the kids' faces and to see the kids running around and looking for Wally was certainly the icing on the cake."

Christmas Wonderland made the move to the Loxton North Sports Club earlier this year, with Christmas Wonderland founder Peter Mangelsdorf passing away earlier this month. "That was really difficult for everyone, but we really think we have done him proud, and hopefully done his whole family proud," Mrs Hill said.

"We made sure that it came to fruition on the weekend and he would have been very pleased with that."

Christmas Wonderland is on every night until December 31, with the lights display turning on just after 8pm and switching off at 11.30pm.

A HASTILY arranged meeting and a dose of common sense have saved Gurra Road residents from being disconnected from the Riverland community.

Renmark Paringa Council this week finished installing a 300metre stretch of built-up road that ensures Gurra Road residents can continue to access the northern side of Bookpurnong Road and consequently the Berri Bridge.

The speedy action followed passionate pleas from Gurra Road residents, who held an emergency meeting earlier this month after being told 25 homes along the road – including horticultural properties and at least two private businesses – would be inaccessible once the SES blocked Bookpurnong Road to all traffic from the Berri Bridge roundabout.

Renmark Paringa Mayor Peter Hunter said the outcome was a case of council listening to its community and acting "appropriately".

"Following community requests and the changing of the Bookpurnong Road status away from a 'hard closure', council assessed the engineering options to protect the low-lying section of Gurra Road and determined that the best solution in this situation was to build the road up higher instead of building levee banks to protect the road," Mr Hunter said.

"The works have now been completed and include approximately 300 metres of built-up road, with an unsealed road pavement constructed on top of the build-up, allowing for singlelane access."

A Gurra Road resident said locals appreciated the council's response.

"It would've been lapping the road today," the resident said. "Council has done a good job with it and the people who live along the road are grateful." Earlier this month, a sizeable number of Gurra Road residents gathered on the site for a crisis meeting, despite having just a few hours' notice.

Last week council said its existing contractors were fully committed, but that it would attempt to find capacity to enable the Gurra Road works to be done, before the existing road surface become inundated.

The meeting will be held tomorrow at the Renmark Greek Church Hall, on Twentyfirst Street, from 6pm to 7pm, and be livestreamed on the SES and Murray Pioneer Facebook pages (www.facebook.com/ TheMurrayPioneer).

Around 300 people attended Renmark's first flood meeting held earlier this month.

It is understood further community meetings are being planned for other areas.

A BOOKPURNONG Road business is facing an uncertain few weeks as the major road between Berri and Loxton is closed to traffic. Salena Estate Wines, which is situated on the road between the two towns, is facing potential staffing issues, with a number of employees living in Berri.

"I guess with staff getting to work in a reasonable amount of time, a lot of them are planning detour routes," Salena Estate Wines marketing manager Salena Muirden said.

"For our staff from Berri it becomes quite an ordeal, and some staff are evaluating if it's worth that extra drive to come out here."

Mrs Muirden said the winery had already received several Christmas party cancellations from Berri.

"People just don't know if they are going to be able to get here," she said.

"But there is just not much they can do, so they are just picking somewhere in Berri because it's the safer option.

"We have seen similar things from guests in Adelaide as well, people who are booking in for lunches around Christmas and that sort of thing, who are again cancelling.

"The media in Adelaide makes it seem like the entire Riverland is underwater and we are swimming from place to place; it's not that bad but the fear mongering is obviously deterring guests from Adelaide."

Mrs Muirden said the winerv would be keeping the same opening hours for now as it waits to see how the situation plays out.

BOOKY ROAD CLOSURE

"We have definitely noticed during the week it has been a lot quieter than usual," she said.

"I think people are a bit keener to make that extra drive if they have to on the weekend, but if you are popping out for a quick dinner you don't want to have to drive for 30 minutes when it should be 10.

"This is something we have no control over, so it makes it really hard to make decisions."

Mrs Muirden encouraged people to make the most of Bookpurnong Road while it is still open.

"Enjoy the food while we are open, because we don't know what's happening tomorrow," she said.

"For those who are booking and cancelling, there is always another road to take, there is always another way to get around.

"The Riverland has got pretty good infrastructure compared to other small towns, so you can get to each town more than one way.

"Still come out, still support and do what you can, so when the tough times do come businesses have had that support in the lead-up to sustain them for that potential closure until things open up again.

"If people aren't supporting now, it doesn't help in the long run at all."

Pasin supports $51m flood package

BARKER Liberal MP Iony Pasin has welcomed the announcement of SA government support measures for residents and businesses impacted by floods.

Mr Pasin, who has spent considerable time in recent weeks in communities along the river, said the $51.6m package was welcome news for residents and business owners in river communities who were preparing for water levels not seen since 1974.

"There has been considerable stress and anxiety among residents and businesses that has been heightened by uncertainty, lack of communication from authorities and a lack of coordination between government agencies," Mr Pasin said.

"I have been a strong voice for the community, in particular the smaller river communities that have felt they have been let down and left behind. I'm glad that these concerns have been heard and that the state government is now taking action.'

Mr Pasin said he would continue his efforts to "represent river communities" over the coming weeks and months as the water levels peak and the recovery effort begins.

A LEVEE bank to withstand River Murray flows of 200GL a day has been extended along the Waikerie river front.

Loxton Waikerie council director of infrastructure services Greg Perry said the existing levee on Edgar Bartlett Drive had been extended to protect the fauna park, Waikerie Holiday Park, football oval and other infrastructure up to Rowe Street.

Council, Waikerie Holiday Park owners, the Edwards Group and the state government have combined forces to fund the extension of the levee bank, which Mr Perry said had the capacity to be made higher if higher flows were predicted.

"It is completed for a 200GL

FLOOD EVENT "Or they may want to try at a later date to increase the height of the levee themselves if they haven't got the ability to move their cabins."

Mr Perry said the soil was tested to ensure the material being used to build the levee was suitable and that the "compaction of the levee" met appropriate standards.

The Department for Environment and Water (DEW) said the flow of the River Murray at the SA border was expected to reach 150GL a day over the coming week.

It said the high probability forecast flow into SA during the first week of next month was expected to reach 175GL a day.

Holiday Park prepared and open for business

OWNER of the Waikerie Holiday Park, the Edwards Group, has been planning and preparing for the high river levels for several weeks.

The group's division manager for parks Ash Guthrie said it "valued... guests' safety and concerns".

"We will have our own sandbags on hand should we require them," he said.

"Keeping a close eye on the flow rates, taking precautionary actions pre-emptively, and being agile with contingency plans in place when needed is how we'll mitigate affects at the park."

The Edwards Group owns both the Waikerie Holiday Park and the Riverbend Caravan Park in Renmark.

"Due to misinformation being promulgated about the high river levels we have experienced unnecessary cancellations," the Edwards Group said in a statement.

"It is important that travellers know the high river level is impacting areas of the Riverland differently."

The Edwards Group said Waikerie and Renmark were still accessible and safe to visit and tourists should not be deterred from visiting the region.

It said by next month, more would be known about the rising river level's impact on its Waikerie park.

"Until then, we are open and will remain open through the festive season based on the current flow rates predicted," the Edwards Group said. - CHRISTINE WEBSTER

Santa's Cave still popular

AN air of excitement was evident at Waikerie's Santa's Cave, which opened on Friday night following the Waikerie Christmas pageant.

Organising committee secretary Naomi Moxham said during the years when the pageant was cancelled in 2020 and 2021, the opening of Santa's Cave was something of an "anti-climax".

However, as one of Santa's helpers on Friday night, she witnessed the delight from families and their children who were able to visit him after the pageant.

Ms Moxham said many grandchildren of local grandparents visited Waikerie to experience the traditional Christmas pageant their parents had grown up with.

"There were lots of outof-town visitors..." she said. She said more than 450 people came through the door on Friday night, ahead of a steady stream of visitors over the weekend.

Ms Moxham said the elf count and lucky dips have been especially popular.

Meanwhile Mrs Moxham said the success of Santa's Cave's opening on Friday was marred by the theft of some Christmas decorations, which included candy canes and a Santa face decoration.

Ms Moxham said after hearing about the theft on social media, Jennifer Nitschke, from First National Real Estate Marschall donated the $50 prize her company received for its pageant float towards more decorations.

She described the theft as "disappointing".

"If someone really needs decorations and thinks stealing is the only way, we would be happy to give you a decoration if you asked," she said.

Local author not dragon his feet to Moorook

A LOCAL author is launching his newest book at the Carols at Sunset event at the Moorook Community Hall this Sunday, December 4.

Riverland author Adi Hogg's newest book, A Dragon's Unwilling Gift, is a tale of two boys who come from different countries and face the extraordinary challenges of dealing with dragons, magic, family, love and famine.

Hogg started the process of the book after he felt there was enough scope in the fantasy genre for him to create something he would like to read.

"I feel like (I have) the ability of freeflowing thought, that my mind can go wherever it wants," he said.

"I have always read fantasy books, because I read as an escape from my everyday problems, and it gives me some head space to face another day.

"That's why I started this first book; for 20 years the thought lay idle in a couple of handwritten exercise books that I would revisit at least once a year, have a play for a week or two and then put it away.

"It wasn't until my children were born that I started to take it a bit more seriously. I want to show them no matter your background or current situation, if you focus your mind and energy onto something you really believe in, you can achieve your goals."

The Carols at Sunset event commences at 4pm, and also includes craft and gift stalls, a barbecue, local entertainment and an appearance from Father Christmas.

Local Sakina's big training award win on the national stage

ELYSE ARMANINI

A YOUNG Riverlander was "left speechless" when she was announced winner of a national training award earlier this month.

Renmark High School year 11 student and Renmark Club staff member Sakina Qambari took out the Australian School-Based Apprentice or Trainee of the Year Award at the Australian Training Awards held in Adelaide on November 18.

"I was just overwhelmed with emotions of happiness, shock, and thrill," Sakina said. "Everything happened so quickly and within the two seconds of them saying my name, it changed my life."

Sakina said her main take away from completing her Certificate III in Hospitality through TAFE SA was that "despite having hardships and struggles, there's always a rainbow at the end of it".

"I never turn down an opportunity - I got to where I am today simply because I took an opportunity," she said.

"If there is an opportunity in the future, I will take it, and I encourage those around me to do it as well.

"I am in year 11, so I want to finish year 12 next year and get my SACE. I currently like the hospitality industry but I haven't explored other sectors, like tourism, accommodation or recreation.

Renmark Club general manager Lyn Wilksch attended the awards night, along with operations manager Kylie Newlyn, and said she was "very proud" of Sakina.

"This process has given her more confidence as a person. In the role she's working with customers and she's really blossoming," she said.

TAFE SA Hospitality lecturer Wendy Martin said she was "delighted" to see Sakina's success on the national stage.

'We were thrilled when Sakina was named School-based Trainee of the Year at the SA Training Awards and now she's been recognised at the Australian Training Awards which is fantastic," she said.

"Sakina has been an excellent student, always striving to do her best, and this award is a great reward for her efforts."

Riverland Secondary Schools Alliance (RSSA) senior leader-regional connections Michael Pater said Sakina's recognition was a "great demonstration" of local opportunities with "top-class training and employers"

"Sakina is a great, resilient, young woman and I have no doubt that she will be a leader in whatever field she takes on," he said.

Sakina will travel to Adelaide tomorrow for the TAFE SA Honour Awards as an Excellence in Employment Award finalist and will be a judge for both the South Australian and Australian Training Awards in 2023

Meanwhile, the SA government recently announced a 12-month Skills Agreement with the Australian Government which will see 10,500 fee-free training places across the state through TAFE SA.

Irrigator going for insurance as trust in SAPN drops

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

A SENIOR Riverland irrigation figure is purchasing alternative sources of power, due to a lack of "confidence and trust" in the state's energy supplier, despite remaining optimistic electricity to his pumps will be unaffected by the current flood event.

SA Power Networks (SAPN) earlier this month warned electricity supplies to some Riverland irrigation pumps and infrastructure could be impacted for extended periods due to flooding.

Murtho-based Omega Orchards owner Drew Martin said he had purchased a generator and a stockpile of diesel fuel in preparation for any power interruptions.

"Although our pump house is built for 1956 flood levels, it's amazing what you think of at the last minute when a flood is imminent," Mr Martin said.

"We've taken extra pre-

FLOOD EVENT

cautions and built a levee bank around our infrastructure, so we have room to install a back-up generator and fuel supply.

"As the water comes up we'll lose access to the site, so we'll have to get there by boat. The biggest challenge is re-fuelling the generator when everything is underwater.

"We've got enough fuel there to last three weeks of generation. It's a massive generator, but it still only runs about a third of our needs for that site."

Mr Martin, who grows almonds, said direct consultation with SAPN would have allowed individual irrigators to better prepare.

"It's about a $150,000 exercise, and that's money we're probably not going to make (back) this year," he said. "It's an expensive insurance policy.

"It's disappointing it's come to this, because all SAPN had to do was be a bit more rational. Contact the larger customers separately... and give them an individual assessment.

"Most people understand the risks, but the level of confidence and trust has gone."

However, SAPN head of corporate affairs Paul Roberts said the state's sole electricity distributor "need customers to contact us about their specific needs".

"We are reliant on customers contacting us if they have specific issues or need advice or help," Mr Roberts said.

"We have been working closely to assist a number of caravan park owners, irrigators (and others), and have been happy to provide advice and assist in shifting service points where we can.

"They will need to engage an electrician to assist if they need to make changes within their property behind the service point."

Mr Martin claimed electricity supplies in interstate irrigation communities had been unaffected by previous flood events.

"Everyone I speak to interstate, on a regular basis, in New South Wales and Victoria, have never had this conversation," he said.

"It's never even been in the back of their mind they would need to negotiate with the power provider about the power being cut off."

Mr Martin remained optimistic he would avoid any power interruptions based on current peak flow projections.

"We've taken measures to well and truly protect ourselves for 200GL/day," he said.

"We'll only be in trouble if the power goes out for consecutive weeks... (because) it will be difficult to transport diesel to the site. We'll still be able to do it, but it would be a lot of man hours and work each day.

NEWS 13

"If common sense prevails and we don't have a 1956 scenario... I won't use my generator.

"The investment in this insurance policy is done on the back of a lack of trust and understanding between customers such as myself and SAPN."

Renmark Paringa Council is engineering its 38 kilometre levee bank network to withstand a 250 GL/day flow with 200 millimetres of freeboard (buffer zone), with some levees built to withstand a much higher flow level.

Council is stockpiling clay in strategic locations and has the ability to increase the capacity of all levee banks.

Should the current flow forecasts increase significantly, Council will re-evaluate the levee bank network and take further action to increase levee bank capacities, if required.

Council's levee bank remediation works are progressing well, with all initial works scheduled to be complete before the first peak occurs (weather dependent).

Council will commence daily monitoring of the whole levee bank network this week. Please do not drive on the levees, as it is not safe and may cause damage to the levees.

Ferry moved to higher ground

CHRISTINE WEBSTER Riverland West reporter christine.webster@murra

THE Waikerie ferry was closed for six hours last week while the service was moved to its higher ramp due to the River Murray flood.

The Department for Infrastructure and Transport (DIT) said the process of changing the ferry cabling to the higher ramp was successfully completed last Wednesday.

The ferry was relocated after the river level depth reached 9.6m AHD (Australian Height Datum) last week and the service was closed from 9am to 3pm to safely facilitate these works.

DIT on Friday said use of the higher ferry landing was restricted to light vehicles, local school buses, and emergency vehicles, with the ferry presently using "single lane operations"

A DIT spokesperson said access would be increased to double-lane operations and all vehicle types (excluding B-Double and heavy mass permitted vehicles) once the water depth was above 10m.

This was expected to occur within the next few days.

The spokesperson said the ferry was expected to remain operational as long as Taylorville Road (Waikerie ferry access road) remained open.

DIT said Lyrup and Morgan ferries were likely to be the next to close due to flood conditions and rising water levels.

It said the Lyrup ferry could close as early as this week, while works completed on Friday to increase the upper limit of the Morgan ferry landing were expected to allow this service to remain operational until early next month. The department said the Swan Reach ferry was at risk of closure once flows reached between 120 to 130GL/day, expected to occur by the middle of next month. DIT said as much advance notice as possible would be provided for any ferry closures, including on its social media pages return to Renmark this weekend with the beginning of the local council's annual holiday festival, despite the event being modified to prioritise responses to the current flood event.

Flood response not stopping Renmark's Christmas plans

Renmark Paringa Council's minimised Renmark's Christmas on the Murray Festival 2022 will start on Sunday with the Carols In the Garden event - managed by the Renmark's Carols in the Garden Committee – at the Jarrett Memorial Gardens.

A Renmark Paringa spokesperson advised the festival was scaled back to "enable resources to be directed into council's flood response".

"It has been necessary for council to revise its festival program, as our highest priority is and must be the protection of our community," the spokesperson said.

The council spokesperson said a five-piece group of Adelaide Big Band members would play to residents at the Renmark Aged Care Facility, following the band's performance at the Chaffey Theatre on Saturday, December 10. "We understand that it can be very difficult and,

THE Christmas spirit will in most cases, not possible for residents to leave the facility to be able to access seeing a performance at the Chaffey Theatre or other venues," the spokesperson said.

> "Council, the Chaffey Theatre and Adelaide Big Band saw the opportunity to bring the performance to the residents to experience and enjoy during the festive season.'

> The Renmark Paringa Library will also hold the Christmas Party at the Library event on Saturday, December 17, involving a performance from Cool 4 Kids, a Santa's workshop display, and Christmasthemed face painting.

The Renmark Christmas tree, and giant festive star, will also be lit up for the festival's duration.

Local community groups and businesses holding an event or activity throughout December are encouraged to contact (discover@renmarkparinga.sa.gov.au) to be included on the council website.

Further details regarding Renmark's Christmas on the Murray Festival 2022 can be found online (renmarkparinga.sa.gov.au/ Christmas).

Celebrate Christmas with the Adelaide Big Band

THE Adelaide Big Band is heading to the Chaffey Theatre for one afternoon only for a magical Christmas performance.

As part of Renmark's Christmas on the Murray Festival, the Big Band Christmas Bash will see the band take the stage on Saturday, December 10, from 1pm-2.30pm.

Featuring Bill Patton and Emily Hatwell, the 18-piece big band - South Australia's premiere semi-professional jazz orchestra will play renditions of favourite Christmas songs over the 90-minute performance, including:

Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer □ It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas

□ Jingle Bell Rock

□ The Most Wonderful Time of the Year Bookings can be made via 8586 1800 or online (countryarts.org.au/events/big-bandchristmas-bash/).

Xmas Wonderland founder mourned

LOXTON and the wider Riverland Christmas season celebratoins. community is mourning the death of wellknown local Peter Mangelsdorf.

Mr Mangelsdorf was the founder of the Loxton Christmas Wonderland display, housed for nearly 40 years on his Fairweather Avenue property, just outside Loxton.

Earlier this year it was announced the Christmas feature would have a new home, at Loxton North's No.2 oval, from Christmas 2022 onwards.

After a battle with illness Mr Mangelsdorf passed away last week, just days before last weekend's 2022 Loxton Lights Up event, which heralded the start of the town's

The Christmas Wonderland Facebook page posted a poignant message last Thursday after learning of Mr Mangelsdorf's death. "We are very saddened that he isn't going to turn the lights on..." it said. "We are heartened that he was able to see the progress of the move even when in hospital. "We promise Peter that we will continue to deliver the message that he has delivered for 37 years to the people of the Riverland and far and wide - the message of the 'spirit of Christmas' and 'family at Christmas'. "Our thoughts, love and prayers go out to the Mangelsdorf family."

Free RATs for all as Covid wave emerges

ALL Riverlanders now have access to free rapid antigen tests (RATs), regardless of their close contact or concession card holder status, to help support the community during the emerging Covid-19 wave.

Up to 500,000 kits will be made available across existing RAT collection points - including the Riverland General Hospital at 10 Maddern Street, Berri - until the end of the year, and will also be rolled out at existing PCR testing sites and dozens of community centres and hubs across SA.

In line with the Covid-19 National Partnership Agreement coming to an end on December 31, South Australia will join other states in transitioning to the next phase of testing, which will see dedicated PCR testing sites and RAT collection sites close on January 8, 2023.

After that date, Covid-19 PCR testing will continue to be available to South Australians with a GP referral at many existing SA Pathology collection centres. Some private providers will also continue to offer PCR testing.

Chief public health offic-

Berri Barmera's former RAT collection point at the old Glossop High School campus. RATs are now available for free for all South Australians.

er Professor Nicola Spurrier said getting tested and staying away from others with respiratory symptoms "continues to be important to reduce the impact of Covid-19 in the community".

"The expansion of our free RAT distribution program will help South Australians access testing for themselves and members of their family to help reduce spread of the disease to others," she said.

"In addition, the RAT program will also be expanded to directly support emergency service volunteers and those living and working in vulnerable settings.

"Thank you to the South Australians who continue to report their positive RAT result, as it allows us to monitor the pandemic and enables us to support eligible people to access lifesaving Covid-19 oral antiviral treatments."

Berri to host energy regulation act info session

BERRI will play host to a public information session next week about proposed state government regulations for large-scale hydrogen and renewable energy projects in SA.

The public information session, led by Department for Energy and Mining (DEM) representatives, will help support the development of a Hydrogen and Renewable Energy Act for South Australia.

"There is enormous interest from companies in setting up renewable energy projects on governmentowned pastoral lands and state waters, which are also co-owned by native title groups," said a DEM spokesperson.

"This requires consideration of our policies and frameworks to ensure we are providing the best outcomes for communities, the environment and native title holders.

"To ensure the sector grows sustainably, delivers net benefit to the environment and respects native title, the state government is planning to develop a Hydrogen and Renewable Energy Act to regulate largescale hydrogen and renewable energy projects in South Australia.

"The informed, early and ongoing participation of Aboriginal people in developing the state's hydrogen and renewable energy industry is an essential part of this process to which the Department of Energy and Mining is firmly committed."

The Berri information session will be held next to Coles in the Riverland Central Plaza on Tuesday, December 6, from 1 to 5pm.

For more information, visit www.energymining.sa.gov. au/community/hydrogen-andrenewable-energy-act.

Local caught out hooning after drinking

A RIVERLAND man caught hoon driving while over the blood alcohol limit is among several motorists who will face court for recent offences.

A member of the public witnessed a car doing burnouts in Renmark at 6.30pm on Saturday, November 19.

Police located the car being driven on the Sturt Highway, at Monash, a short time later and when breath tested, the driver returned an alcohol reading of 0.067.

The 38-year-old Bookpurnong man was reported for two counts of misusing a motor vehicle and drink driving, and had his car impounded for 28 days.

Blanchetown police had previously detected a 47-year-old Happy Valley man travelling on the Sturt Highway, in Paisley, around 5.40pm on Friday, November 18.

The man, who returned a blood alcohol reading of 0.084 when breath tested, was reported for drink driving and issued a six-month instant licence disqualification.

It is understood both motorists will appear in court at a later date.

A Holden Colorado was also detected by Berri police driving on Fifteenth Street, in Renmark, at 2am on Sunday, November 20.

The 21-year-old male Victorian driver returned a positive reading of 0.105 when breath tested, was arrested and charged with drink driving.

The man was issued a six-month instant licence disqualification, and was bailed to appear in court on December 19.

Then, around 5pm on Tuesday, November 22, a 21-year-old Moorook man was located driving on Worman Street, in Berri, with a disqualified licence and when drug tested, returned a positive result for methamphetamine.

The man, who will face court at a later date, was reported for driving while being disqualified and may be further charged with drug driving.

Approximately 250 people attended the Brave for Dave Walk4BrainCancer event in the Riverland recently, with over $44,000 raised so far in the fight towards finding a cure for brain cancer. PHOTOS: Facebook

ALEXANDRA BULL

A RIVERLAND charity event to raise funds for brain cancer research has raised over $44,000, with $32,026 going towards the Cure Brain Cancer Foundation.

The Brave for Dave Walk4BrainCancer walk and head shave was held on Sunday, November 6, in Barmera and has so far raised $44,200 towards finding a cure for brain cancer.

The walk was organised by Barmera woman, Chloe Drogemuller-Fiebig, who sadly lost her husband Dave Fiebig to glioblastoma (GBM) in July this year.

"Around 250 people attended. We weren't expecting that at all, so to have that many people come together was wonderful," she said.

"To all our sponsors and volunteers, thank you for making the day a success.

"It is such a generous and supportive community, we are just so fortunate. Thank you just doesn't seem enough. "Cancer affects a lot of people, so to be able to

come together and show support for other families who have been through something similar is important to us.

"It's important to be a voice and advocate to change the story of not only brain cancer, but all cancers that results in raising crucial funds directed to towards research." Out of the $44,200 raised so far from the Walk4BrainCancer event, $32,026 will be donated to the Cure Brain Cancer Foundation, and $12,170 will go towards the Neurosurgical Research Foundation, with the plan to create a scholarship in Dave's name.

"We are very fortunate for our partnership with the NeuroSurgical Research Foundation. They have been vital in helping us share our Brave for Dave story," Mrs Drogemuller-Fiebig said.

"This will be an ongoing partnership, with the primary goal of funding crucial research on brain tumours."

Mrs Drogemuller-Fiebig said the support on both the day and towards the cause has been "just incredible".

"We had our wonderful community members here, but we had people travel from across South Australia including family and friends," she said.

"Personally, I am very touched by it; it's a legacy for Dave, and that's my long-term goal, to have a legacy for Dave and our two boys.

"I love talking about Dave; Brave for Dave isn't just something that rhymes, it's everything that he encompassed.

"It's also important to be able to help other people who are going through brain cancer. It's just such a complex and unrelenting disease that obviously affects the patient but it also affects the families and the carers."

Looking forward, Mrs Drogemuller-Fiebig hopes to work with local sporting clubs to continue to raise awareness of GBM.

"Brain cancer awareness month is in May – Grey in May – and I would really love to work with our local sporting organisations to have a round dedicated to brain cancer awareness during the winter season," she said.

"We are going to be looking at different types of events that we can have to bring the community together and support other people as well.

"After watching what Dave went through this is the least I can do to honour him and support others wherever possible."

THE "fast-walking speed" of 4 knots is the new limit for all boats travelling along builtup areas of the swollen River Murray.

The Department of Infrastructure and Transport says the new limit applies to all vessels and watercraft operating within 250m of any partially or wholly submerged building or levee bank, and all those operating at night or in restricted visibility.

Jet-skis cannot exceed 4 knots on any part of the river.

Further safety measures include banning people swimming or using canoes, kayaks, surf skis or other human-powered vessels or aquatic toys within 250m of a lock or weir.

"These additional restrictions are necessary for community safety due to the risks posed by higher flows and to limit damage to property and infrastructure caused by river users travelling at higher speeds," a department spokesperson said.

"Marine safety teams and SAPOL officers will have an increased presence on the water, with any person or vessel operator found in breach of any one of these restrictions subject to a maximum penalty of $10,000."

A 4-knot speed restriction will continue to apply within 50m of a person or a nonpowered vessel, and within 30m of any other vessel.

"During rising water levels and flooding, contaminants and debris can often become submerged and create additional risks for those operating vessels and in the water," the spokesperson said.

"River users are reminded not to swim, ride, walk or drive in high flow waterways.

"Locals are also urged to check that their vessel moorings are secure as water levels rise, if it is safe to do.

"Marine Safety officers are continuing to mark hazards on the river using yellow buoys and signage, particularly in high-traffic locations.'

The department also reminded locals that vessel operators are required to ensure each passenger on board is wearing a lifejacket (level 50 standard or above) on the open deck at all times, even when the vessel is at anchor.

BONNEY Theatre will see Santa's Cave back up and thriving this year, with visitors welcome to see the man in red from this Sunday.

Elf Rachel said she was looking forward to welcoming many more visitors to Santa's Cave this year after 2021 required a scaled-down event.

"We still had a Barmera Santa's Cave last year, but it was just a little bit smaller," she said. "This year we're hopefully going to be back to normal with more activities and everything." Activities on offer this year include writing letters to the big man, Christmas story time and colouring-in. "There will also be face painting and a little toy shop set up where kids can test their time with Santa. some of the toys and indoor games for them to play, plus some crafts," Elf Rachel said.

"We have a good number of volunteers this year. We've even got some really nice people coming in to read our stories for us in Christmas story time."

Parents and caregivers will need to bring their own camera or phone to take photos with Santa.

"We will have elves there to help with the photos and there will also be photo stops and photobooths throughout where they can take some photos," Elf Rachel said.

Children will have as much time as they like with the jolly man, and Elf Rachel said she loves to see young visitors to the cave enjoying

"Santa is very talkative, so depending on the child he could go on and on," she laughed. We did have to shuffle him along last year because he just kept talking."

Santa's Cave is open every Saturday and Sunday in December from 10am to 2pm, and on Thursday, December 22 from 3pm to 7pm.

The Cave officially opens this Sunday at 10am, however activities will unfortunately not be on offer.

Elf Rachel thanked all those involved in helping to set up and supporting Santa's Cave.

"We've had a lot of support from local Barmera businesses," she said, "so thank you to all of them for helping us out."

Councillor Margaret Howie

Margaret gets nod as deputy mayor HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

A RENMARK woman's "extensive" experience throughout the community is set to benefit the new-look local council after she was elected deputy mayor.

Renmark Paringa councillor Margaret Howie was made deputy at last week's general meeting and Mayor Peter Hunter said Ms Howie's previous council and business experience would be an asset to the wider community.

"Margaret is a primary producer and has an extensive background over some 50 years with community volunteer roles," Mr Hunter said.

"Margaret has a background in property management, risk management and finance, and has served on regional boards and worked within the export and investment advisor role for Austrade.

"Within council roles, she has been an active and positive contributor to general meetings, while also chairing the Policy Committee and supporting the Audit and Risk Committee across the past four years.

"Margaret has also been the council representative on the Murray Darling Association, Friends of the PS Industry, the Argo Barge Restoration Group and the Renmark to the Border Landcare Committee.'

Ms Howie was re-elected to council with 252 first preference votes at the recent local government election.

The deputy mayor role was previously filled by Henry Du Rieu, who ran for mayor this year.

BARMERA CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AND FIREWORKS! Barmera pageant back to former glory

FOR the first time since 2019, the Barmera Christmas Pageant will be back to pre-Covid strength, with large crowds anticipated for the popular event.

In 2020, Covid-19 forced the cancellation of the pageant and 2021 saw a scaled-back event with a small float parade due to Covid restrictions at the time.

This year the festivities are back to former glory, starting from 5.30pm on Friday, December 9

ADVERTISING EATURE

Large crowd numbers are expected for Barmera's pageant event this year after the event was cancelled in 2020 and scaled down last year due to Covid-19.

Barmera Christmas Planning Committee member and Barmera Central co-ordinator Kelsey Hogan said various amusements and entertainment options will be on offer.

"We'll have Mr Oopy, from Adelaide, here with a bubble machine, and we've got a petting zoo coming," she said.

"At 6.15pm we have the vintage car parade. At 6.30pm we'll have our Christmas floats and they'll do two laps (of Barwell Avenue) so after that, around 7.15pm, we'll announce the float winners and the cash raffle.

"After the parade Mr Oopy will do a bit of a performance, Rosie Clark Princesses will do a dance lesson, Santa will be available to talk with and put in all your Christmas wishes. And of course we'll have the fireworks at 9.15pm."

Ms Hogan said everyone was looking forward to this year's festivities after the 2021 pageant was scaled back due to Covid-19 restrictions and lack of volunteers.

"We are expecting a big crowd this year since we haven't had a proper one for a couple of years," she said.

The theme for the float parade this year is Christmas Around the World, and cash prizes are on offer for the four best floats, with a $250 top prize.

According to Ms Hogan, parade entrants are keeping the details of their floats tightly under wrap.

'We pick a theme every year and that's how we judge the floats but we don't know what entrants are doing this year," she said.

"It'll be a surprise for everyone when the floats make their way down the street.

BARMERA'S main street has been decked out with Christmas decorations to start the festive season off right.

The annual decoration effort by the Christmas Window and Street Display Group - under the Barmera Christmas Planning Committee – brings Christmas cheer to Barwell Avenue in the lead-up to the town's Christmas events.

Christmas Window and Street Display Group co-ordinator Julie Krollig said stage one of the process was completed last week, with help from Berri Barmera Council and elves Leigh Krollig and Mike Fuller.

"The second stage is currently in progress with elves Julie G, Vanessa and Janette working on two of the shop windows," Mrs Krollig said.

"The final window we're doing is where the Christmas pop-up is, next to Barmera Bakery, and we can't get in there until December 5. Stage two will be completed this week.

"This year we have been able to purchase a few larger items for our displays, so please look out for them."

Mrs Krollig said the committee and Display Group were fortunate to have a number of community groups helping behind the scenes and financially.

"These groups have included Barmera Men's Shed, Barmera Library Connect Circle, Barmera Bingo Club, Barmera Community Fund, Barmera Op Shop, Barmera Central, and Berri Barmera Council," she said.

"Berri Barmera Council have been fantastic. When you stop to think about what the council is involved in at the moment with floods, levee banks, storm damage ... yet they've still been willing and down here at 7.30am to help.

"Barmera Op Shop donated a number of Christmas trees to the cause and last year Barmera Bingo Club presented us with a $1000 cheque from their fundraising nights. I get blown away with all the support, I really do."

Mrs Krollig said the planning committee was "in desperate need" of more volunteers.

"We would really love for more people to come on board because the more people that are there, the more ideas we get," she said.

"We know when talking to the community some people may have a passion for a certain area of the Christmas festivities in Barmera, be it the pageant, Santa's Cave or the window and street decorations.

Waikerie embracing Xmas

THE Waikerie community is entering into the spirit of Christmas by placing decorations across the CBD.

Waikerie Christmas Decorations committee spokesperson Donna Matthews said this year three more giant Christmas trees had been added to the decorations.

She said the new trees have been funded by Loxton Waikerie council and the new additions brought the total number of trees to nine.

"That will run the trees all the way down White Street and Peake Terrace, which are the main streets with median strips," Ms Matthews said.

She said council also funded some marine grade plywood, which the Waikerie Men's Shed used to make giant reindeers.

Christmas wreaths have also been put up, while the Norfolk Pine's Christmas lights were also officially switched-on at dusk following Waikerie's Christmas Pageant on Friday.

The field of 100 3D wooden trees were decorated by local businesses, community organisations and schools and will be on display until January 15.

Ms Matthews said the trees were delivered to participating organisations to decorate and put solar lights on six weeks before pageant week and returned last Monday.

She said it had become a popular tourist attraction.

'We have a lot of tourists that say 'this is amazing I can't believe your community does this every year'," Ms Matthews said.

She said they are "especially a magical sight from dusk".

Hotel posts healthy profit

A HEALTHY profit of $542,000 has capped a milestone financial year for the Loxton Hotel.

The figure is around half of the previous year's number ($1.07m), however re-elected chairperson Wendy Mudge described the results as "outstanding", given the circumstances, including the end of federal government Covid-19 support and other pandemicrelated factors.

"In 2021 the hotel was supported by the federal government's JobKeeper payment scheme through a cash-flow boost of $373,000, while no payments were received in 2022," Mrs Mudge told last week's AGM.

"The other major impact on 2022 expenses was the temporary payroll tax reduction all companies received in 2021, which was removed in 2022. This increased costs by $100,765.

"Interstate and international travel restrictions were in place during much of 2021, which resulted in a boost for regional tourism and hospitality operators.

"The impact on trading, once travel restrictions eased, was forecast in my chairman's report last year. Considering these circumstances, the 2022 result was an outstanding achievement." The strong results announced at the AGM followed hot on the heels of the long-awaited completion of the latest stage of the community hotel's renovations, Alfresco on Pflaum, and earlier in the year the unveiling of its new bistro and sports bar.

The AGM heard that sales revenue of $9.678m for 2021-22 was up marginally on the previous year's figure of $9.616m. "Sales revenue was maintained across the entire hotel and costs have been extremely wellmanaged, considering the above changes and inflationary pressures," Mrs Mudge said. "Results were marginally above budget. "All cash generated in the current year will be used to cover shortterm liabilities, including tax, with the balance used to complete renovations, including the Pflaum Terrace Alfresco and beer garden projects."

The end of Covid-19 restrictions has also seen the hotel resume its level of community support and donations, Mrs Mudge said.

"As restrictions eased many of the 60 local groups, clubs, associations, charities and events to which Loxton Hotel contributes each year resumed their activities," she said.

"It has been rewarding to witness community life returning to normal, and we have been pleased to be able to recommence our support accordingly."

The hotel's recent success at the 2022 Australian Hotels Association Awards (SA) was also featured in the chairman's report. Loxton Hotel won four awards, including Best Overall Hotel (Country).

Hotel representatives were in Sydney this week for the nationThe Loxton Hotel's executive team at the recent Australian Hotels Association SA Awards, executive chef Daniel Anderson, general manager Darren Morrison, assistant manager Tracy Schulz and operations manager Mal Hahn.

al AHA awards.

"These achievements are only possible because of the continued support of our local community," Mrs Mudge said.

"Our successes, both in operational and awards terms, belong to everyone in Loxton.

"We congratulate and thank general manager Darren Morrison, acting general manager during the GM's extended leave Mal Hahn, executive chef Daniel Anderson, assistant manager Tracy Schulz and functions manager Danielle Anderson, and the scores of loyal, hard-working staff who have each contributed to producing another outstandingly successful year of operations."

Mrs Mudge told The Murray Pioneer that local firm Michael Kregar Building deserved special mention for its efforts with the renovations.

She said those at the AGM were "very positive about the hotel and what a fantastic development it is for the town of Loxton and the people of Loxton".

Loxton Hotel's directors are: Wendy Mudge (chairman), Shane Semmler (deputy chairman), Matthew Hutchinson, Murray Najar, Mark Fielke and Max Gray.

Mrs Mudge has been a board member since 1995 and chair since 2006.

Pub's staff face flood challenge

ISSUES arising from the Riverland flood – including the Bookpurnong Road closure inconveniencing up to 20 staff members – are the latest hurdles that need to be overcome for the Loxton Hotel.

Fresh from enduring over two years of Covid restrictions, the hotel – along with other Riverland businesses – now faces an extended period of flood-impacted trading, however chairperson Wendy Mudge remains positive.

"We've been through tough times before as a business and as a community, and we will prevail," she said, speaking after the hotel's AGM last week.

"We'll adjust to the circumstances that are occurring at the time, although the next few months are not going to be easy – for us and for anybody.

"The last couple of years have been very difficult, but we'll get through it again."

A sizeable portion of the hotel's workforce live in Berri, presenting an extra challenge for management, given the closure of the section of Bookpurnong Road linking the two towns.

"We've got about 20 staff who live in Berri and that's including our executive chef," Mrs Mudge said.

"That's going to be a major issue for them and the hotel. That's something that our team is working through at the present time. "They're looking at all the

"They're looking at all the rosters and working out how best we can help our team overcome what they're going to have to do to get to work and home from work."

Business group backs $51m flood package

THE state's leading business group has given the stamp of approval to the $51.6m assistance package announced by the SA government last week for the state's flood-hit river communities.

Business SA's chief executive Andrew Kay says the government's response reflects the urgency he heard from businesses when visiting the region a fortnight ago.

"When emergency situations like this happen, the business community need support that is simple to obtain and readily accessible for a broad range of operators," Mr Kay said.

"The grants of up to $50,000 for business owners should be delivered immediately and without unnecessary red tape to support businesses with the costs of bringing levees up to a certified engineering standard.

"The Early Business

FLOOD EVENT

Closure Grant will go some way to support those businesses who are now without trade for the foreseeable future because of the floods and also those affected by cuts to power supply."

Ahead of additional looming power disconnections as the River Murray continues to rise, Mr Kay said Business SA was keen to see plenty of generators available for local businesses.

"It would be a good additional support if the government would provide a temporary fuel subsidy to run them too," he said.

Measures provided for the region's tourism operators – including $3m for three round of time-limited $200 vouchers and $1.1m for a Book Them Out-style marketing campaign – were also welcomed. "Previous rounds of the accommodation/tourism vouchers had a really positive impact across South Australia and particularly in the CBD.

"The $1.1 million for a tourism marketing campaign is an excellent initiative, but I would encourage South Australians not to wait until post floods to visit as the Riverland is looking absolutely beautiful right now, and these businesses need their support while the region is still open."

Mr Kay said a Business SA report on the impact of the Covid-19 lockdowns revealed that up to 80 per cent of business operators or their teams suffered a mental health impact as a result.

"Therefore, the $1m in mental health support will absolutely be necessary to support everyone in the Riverland right now," he said.

Red Cross supports flood-hit Riverland

AUSTRALIAN Red Cross is lending its support to the flood-hit Riverland community.

"Trained staff and volunteers are working with the community, from primary school students to vulnerable community members, to ensure they are preparing themselves and taking steps to look after their wellbeing during a time of high stress," an Australian Red Cross spokesperson said.

The spokesperson said Red Cross teams are:

Running the group's Pillowcase emergency preparedness program in seven primary schools in the area.

Calling vulnerable community members to complete wellbeing checks, encouraging them to take steps to prepare before the emergency impacts them. Information gathered in these calls also helps assist Red Cross and other agencies with response planning.

Preparing to support the community as they access relief centres as they open.

Staff are available at the Berri office at 2A Ahern Street, Monday to Friday, for community members to visit to get further information and support face to face.

The roar of motorbikes will heard around the Riverland this Sunday morning for the annual Toy and Tucker Run for the Riverland Christmas Appeal. The region's flood event has forced a change to routes.

Amended route for Toy and Tucker Run

DUE to the closure of Bookpurnong Road, amendments have been made to the route of this year's Riverland Christmas Appeal Toy and Tucker Run.

The start point for the ride is still on Industry Road, Renmark, between Twentyfirst Street/Renmark Avenue intersection, and motorcyclists will be leaving this area at 9.15am to head to Loxton via Paringa, instead of taking Bookpurnong Road.

FLOOD EVENT

Motorcyclists from Waikerie will be leaving Waikerie Hotel at 8.45am to meet with the group at Loxton.

At 10.30am motorcyclists will be leaving for the Riverland Plaza, Berri via Renmark and Paringa, stopping at the plaza before departing at 11.45 am for the Barmera Markets' new site opposite the Lake Bonney Yacht Club.

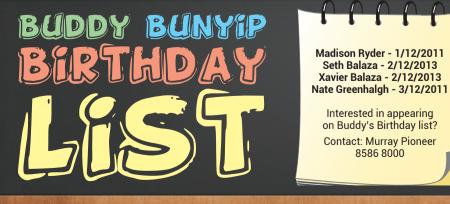

A large van will be following the motorcyclists and will accept money, nonperishable foods and toys at each of the stopping points for the Riverland Christmas Appeal.

www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, November 30, 2022 NEWS 27 December 2022 Horoscopes: week 1

ARIES (March 21st - April 20th)

You have put in a lot of effort over the past few days and deserve to get the rewards. Don't be too demanding for the time being, however. Romance. A compliment from somebody whom you hardly know could take you by surprise. This person is interested in you, but is very shy.

TAURUS (April 21st - May 21st)

A financial issue needs to be solved as soon as possible. You have more money coming in but it will be a while before you have more than you need. Romance. A favourable aspect to Venus around the middle of the week will help you to understand your partner's concerns.

GEMINI (May 22nd - June 21st)

An improvement in your finances will help to cheer you up. If you keep a better track of things you will avoid getting into problems in the future. Romance. At times this week you may feel a little lonely. A phone call will help to put you in touch with some more people but you will have to take the initiative from then on.

CANCER (June 22nd - July 23rd)

A favourable aspect to Jupiter will bring some luck your way. A long-term gamble will come off, so long as you are prepared to keep going. Don't give up until you are through with everything. Romance. Your love-life may have been in the doldrums recently. A get-together later in the week will help to turn the tide.

LEO (July 24th - August 23rd)

A favourable aspect to Neptune will boost your powers of intuition. An idea which you have in an unusual place will prove to be worth following up. Romance. A get-together with your partner will be rewarding. You will be in a calm and romantic mood and will enjoy spending time together.

VIRGO (August 24th - September 23rd)

A get-together with a friend later in the week will help you to get a better perspective on your relationship with this person. You may need to think carefully before you criticise them again. Romance. A favourable aspect to Neptune may make you a little dreamy and unrealistic at times.

LIBRA (September 24th - October 23rd)

Check through all the details of an agreement before you sign it. You may be tempted by a situation which is not as rosy as it seems. Romance. At times your partner may not be quite as supportive as you would like. There may be some issue which hasn't been properly dealt with.

SCORPIO (October 24th - November 22nd)

A decision which has been hanging over you for several weeks must finally be sorted out. Any answer will be better than none. Romance. A favourable aspect to Mercury early in the week will help you to communicate well with your partner. A few concessions will help to smooth things over in the coming weeks.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23rd - December 21st)

People at work may be a little tense at the moment. Don't be surprised if you are criticised more than normal: just do your best to keep up the pace. Romance. Try to be more consistent in your responses to a new admirer. This person is very serious and will be disappointed if you are not as well.

CAPRICORN (December 22nd - January 20th)

This should be be an excellent period for new ideas. A favourable aspect to Uranus will give your creative juices a boost. An idea you have later in the week will be especially fruitful. Romance. An unsubtle approach by a person whom you hardly know may embarrass you slightly at first.

AQUARIUS (January 21st - February 19th)

A difficult aspect to Mercury early in the week could lead to some misunderstandings with your friends. Write down an important detail rather than trying to commit it to memory. Romance. Stress from work may cause problems in your social life, especially at the beginning of the week. Do your best to keep the two separate if possible.

PISCES (February 20th - March 20th)

A meeting will focus your thoughts on the future. Time will tell if everything plays out the way you expect. Romance. A get-together with friends will put you in touch with a new contact. Be patient and this person will gradually become attracted to you.

REACHES DOWN RIVER CENTRES

CARAVAN PARK UNDER

FLOOD PEAK

Several feet of water now cover parts of the Renmark Caravan Park but the two ablution blocks, the house and canteen are still above the flood level. Lynette McIntosh, 15, the caretaker's daughter, was wading through the park when this photo was taken. She is standing on the roadway between the entrance and the first ablution block.

The flood has now passed last week's predicted peak of 24 ft. 11 in., at Renmark, making it the sixth greatest in history.

The latest figure of 24 ft. 111 ins. this morning on the town gauge has ex-ceeded both the 1952 and 1955 peaks, leaving it be-hind only 1870 (est. 29 ft. 5 in.), 1890 (25 ft. 3 in.), 1917 (27 ft.), 1931 (26 ft. 10 in.) and 1956 (30 ft. $7\frac{3}{4}$ in.).

No further predictions or revised estimates were issued by the Engineering and Water Supply Department this week.

The estimated peak for Morgan in Prediction No. 4, issued on October 22, was 25 ft. 8 in. Yesterday's level was 23 ft. 11 in.

The flood has caused the closure of Twenty-first Street to traffic and both the Renmark Cara-van Park and Grimshaw's Tourist Camp at Paringa | have been forced to close.

The Renmark town clerk (Mr. R. E. C. Thompson) reported that a section of road had subsided near the entrance to the caravan park and this had been temporarily repaired last Thursday to enable vehicles to be moved before the park closed on Friday. A sandbag levee was constructed to protect the first amenities block, but (Continued on page 4)

The peak of the River Murray flood reached Renmark y esterday (Wednesday), when a rise of just one centi-metre was recorded at the town gauge.

The reading of 18.13 metres (about 25 feet) was only slightly less than the peak of 25 ft. 2 ins. reach-ed on November 5 last vear

The river level has re-mained stationary at Lock 6, upstream from Ren-mark, where the peak was reached on Monday.

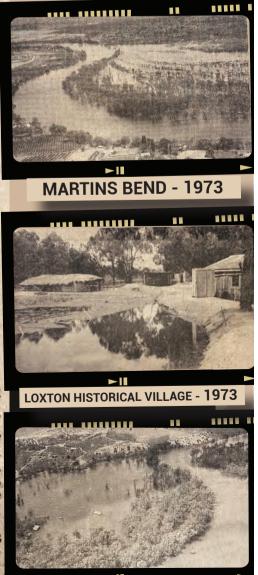

A spokesman for the Engineering and Water Supply Department said in Adelaide yesterday that the peak would now pass slowly downstream and was expected to reach Morgan on July 24.

roadway.

However, all ferry serv-ices are being maintained and it is now considered unlikely that any will be forced to close.

Museum, club and Industry team up for history's sake

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

SUPPORT from the Renmark Club has helped a local museum showcase the history of an iconic steam ship.

The Renmark Paringa Community Museum recently used a $2000 donation from the Renmark Club to establish a new rotunda exhibit dedicated to the ps Industry.

Museum chairman Wayne Howell said the rotunda – also donated to Industry group - would be restored by volunteers.

"Friends of the ps Industry approached us and said they wanted to display historical memorabilia surrounding the vessel," Mr Howell said.

"The problem we have with the rotunda is that it's full of white ants, so we'll use the funding to upgrade it.

"Renmark Club is a great community the museum by the Friends of the ps club, and it's about to support two great community organisations."

Renmark Club general manager Lyn Wilksch said supporting local tourism attractions would benefit the whole area. "Wayne dropped a letter in and approached us," Ms Wilksch said "It's a very understated attraction, so we should get the word out about it as much as possible. "I want to bring my grandkids here."

> SIMPLIFYING recordkeeping processes and the implementation of food safety guidelines for Riverland citrus growers is the goal of new resources being created by a state industry body.

> Citrus SA, in partnership with New South Wales-based company Freshcare, earlier this month announced specific tools and resources would be developed to assist growers with standards program management and

Citrus SA chair, and Sunlandsbased citrus grower, Mark Doecke said utilising the new resources would "save growers time and money".

"The aim of the review was to cut audit preparation times by up to 50 per cent, without compromising on food safety," Mr Doecke said.

"Citrus producers have an exemplary record of producing safe food and these changes streamline the system without compromising food safety. "We believe other commodities could benefit from working with Freshcare. A reduction in time spent doing paperwork means growers can concentrate on producing the highest-quality and safest food possible."

The new resources will focus on implementation of the Food Safety and Quality Standard version 4.2 for single or specificcommodity crop growers.

Freshcare CEO Jane Siebum said specific risks and needs were provided for different crop types, ensuring "certification is accessible while still fulfilling international benchmarking requirements".

"This is a great step forward in supporting growers' certification journey and shows what can be achieved when industry works together," Ms Siebum said.

"We've listened to the feedback from our participants running smaller-sized, or single-crop farms and worked together with Citrus SA to provide this resource.

"We are proud to provide a robust and comprehensive certification program, giving our citrus growers access to international markets, through a resource which has expanded beyond a 'onesize-fits-all' approach."

For further information contact Freshcare on 8039 9999, or email (info@ freshcare.com.au).

3O NEWS www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, November 30, 2022 WAB learns about nursing in remote indigenous Australian communities

HEATHER EVERINGHAM

CHRIS Haar, of Renmark, recently spoke to the Paringa branch of Women in Agriculture and Business on the subject of her 50-year nursing career, spent mainly in rural/remote communities of WA, NT and SA.

Chris was born at Moorook - an Aird descendent from the Moorook Village Settlement era - and after initially wanting to join the army, chose a nursing career starting in Berri and moving onto the Royal Adelaide Hospital.

Marriage followed while training in midwifery in Melbourne, and her first placement was to Ceduna SA. This was also her first introduction to traditional indigenous owners Transfers followed to Port Broughton and Port Pirie – the latter for 10 years – until a promotion meant a move to Jamestown, by then as a single mother with two sons.

As director of nursing with good mentorship, her qualifications grew and after her sons had left home she applied to work at Fitzroy Crossing in the Kimberley region of WA.

There was no hospital there at that time but a clinic, and after earning acceptance from the indigenous population there was mutual respect.

Chris met the Ngangkari, who are the tra-

THE festive season is here. The Waikerie Christmas pageant is over, with Santa in residence at Waikerie Santa's Cave until Christmas Eve. The Christmas Tree Trail is set up behind Waikerie Rain Moth Gallery and Loxton Lights Up is glowing with colour and fairy lights. We welcome the festivities and events of all local towns, with Morgan looking forward to welcoming us at the twilight pageant on Saturday, December 10, from 6pm.

Despite the serious and unknown concerns we have with the River Murray, now in flood, we are still able to carry on, thanks to the strength and positive attitudes of our communities. I recall when, as a few friends together, we started Santa's Cave all those years ago. It was when our region was having difficult times, particularly families on fruit blocks and farms, and businesses in the towns. We wanted to give something special to local children, as families were unable to take them to ditional Aboriginal healers, and was privileged to be taken to special places. She witnessed firsthand an Ngangkari feeling all over the body of a patient and identifying the internal afflicted area which was then treated with western medicine.

On her part she learnt the protocol of "sideways talking", when it was respectful not to look directly into the eyes of the person with whom you are speaking.

Chris recalled the beauty of the reefs, gorges and sand country, but there was also adventure and danger when attempting to reach Derby during flood season.

Some years later she was proud to leave Fitzroy Crossing with a 14-bed hospital, with integrated services and a great staff.

Her next appointment was to Wingellina, an indigenous community 12km south-west of the borders of WA, SA and NT, where traditional hunting and gathering of bush tucker was followed. Here the Flying Doctor Service visited every fortnight and once again Chris had a working relationship with the Ngangkari.

There followed another move to Norseman as CEO/director of nursing for four to five years before applying to become a rural/remote nurse practitioner.

This involved several hours of interviews which took into account all areas of her nursing experience. The outcome was that Chris

WAB member Lorraine Pinyon, guest speaker Chris Haar and Jenny Curtis at the recent meeting of Paringa branch of Women in Agriculture and Business. PHOTO: supplied was appointed 13th nurse practitioner in Australia.

Her next posting was Marble Bar hospital where once more she found herself engaging with traditional owners and sometimes found herself in challenging situations, but she had earned the trust and protection of the elders.

Emergencies were sent to Port Hedland, but she often dealt with serious wounds as the result of mining accidents.

After seven years at Marble Bar, Chris undertook skin cancer studies for 12 months in Brisbane. Her final appointment was to venue change, as many senior residents enjoy catching up with friends for a cuppa and chat, enjoying lunch, and supporting the many stalls - particularly the cakes, biscuits and produce.

As many residents have been busy setting up the coloured lights on their homes and gardens this week, we say thank you for sharing this. Many families drive with their children to see these displays. Thanks to Waikerie Men's Shed members for assisting Warrawee residents with their lights again this year.

Have you called in at the Rain Moth Gallery lately? There's an extensive range of hand-crafted gifts for sale - or something for yourself. Check out the garden accessories in metal or the popular, handmade bucket hats in several colours to keep the hot sun off your face (hot sun will come eventually) when you're out in the garden. The Waikerie Photography Club

Coober Pedy, then a diverse community of 76 nationalities with a largely cash economy. Retirement came next and it seemed only natural to return to the river country of her birth. Chris enjoys volunteer work in the mobile skin cancer unit of the Lions Club and playing bowls with a local Renmark club.

WAB members are invited to a Christmas lunch at the Renmark Hotel on Tuesday, December 6 at 12 noon.

Meetings will be in recess until February 2023.

has 2023 calendars for sale at the Rain Moth.

If you want to be creative and enjoy playing with flowers, don't forget to book for the Christmas wreath- making workshop with Natasha, from Flowers on Segneri, this Sunday, December 4 from 2-4pm. Bookings at 0435 648 282. This workshop will be held at the Waikerie Youth Hub adjacent to the Waikerie Uniting Church.

Congratulations to community members recently elected to local councils. Thanks also to those who won't be there after many years of continued service to their community.

THE FAIR-WEATHER GARDENER

WELL, it's hard to believe that November is almost over and until this coming weekend, we had no sign of our usual hot weather.

It has been an extremely wet and cool spring. This finds many plants loving the conditions and some others being slow to move. My self-sown tomatoes have produced the odd fruit, but newly planted are only about to flower.

I have two gardenias in pots that have excelled, as have alstroemeria, clematis and penstemon

In the vegie patch the rhubarb, silverbeet and spinach are going flat out.

GINGER, TURMERIC and GALANGAL I recently read an article about growing these tropical plants. They add another dimension to your cooking.

If you have ever bought them from the supermarket or local fruit and vegetable shop you will have been taken aback by the high price they command.

They grow well in tropical areas requiring both heat and humidity. I am expecting that our climate this summer will probably take on these properties.

It is suggested that in temperate areas they be grown in a pot in sheltered areas.

If you are adventurous and decide to give it a go, buy ready-to-grow rhizomes from a garden centre or reputable online company.

PLANT AND SOW NOW

There is a long list of seeds and seedlings to plant now in the vegie patch. Beans, beetroot, cabbage, capsicum, carrot, Chinese cabbage, cucumber, eggplant, herbs, lettuce, melon, mustard, okra, parsnip, pumpkin, radish, rhubarb crowns, silverbeet, spring onion, sweet potato, tomato and zucchini. SUNFLOWERS

Plant some sunflowers now for some summer cheer. They are great plants for children as the seed is large and the results are exciting.

They can be planted in the garden or in pots. Sow 2cm deep in full sun, in soil enriched with compost or a few handfuls of manure.

Use 30cm pots for dwarf varieties or 45cm for taller varieties. They require a good quality potting mix.

As well as producing brilliant flowers they are great pollinators, attracting beneficial insects and butterflies. If left to dry on the plant they will attract many birds, who will devour the seeds.

If you want to save seeds you will need to cover the flower heads.

They are fascinating to watch as the flower heads follow the movement of the sun.

ROSES

Once again the Riverland Rose and Garden Festival was a great success. Some blooms were a little slow however this did not detract from the many events and open gardens. Well done to all concerned.

It is a good time to dead-head, and give a mini prune, as well as fertilise to encourage further flowering. The weather has made everything a little later than usual.

Watch out for rust and blackspot, and remove affected leaves and spray. FLOOD WATERS

2023 Vintage

Vintage is the perfect time to enter the wine industry with the opportunity to secure full-time employment. If you prefer seasonal employment, we welcome you to join our high rate of returning vintage team members.

Vintage commences in Late January/February and concludes in April/May. To increase your chance of gaining employment, you are encouraged to submit your application as soon as possible.

Cellar Hands

Cellar Hands perform various tasks that contribute to the production and dispatch of wine. This position will suit you if you enjoy working in a team along with being outdoors and physically active. Experience in general cellar activities will be highly regarded although not essential. You will possess basic literacy and numeracy skills. A current forklift will be considered an advantage.

Vineyard Operators

Vineyard Operators are responsible for performing safe vineyard operations including tractor and tote bin driving, observing and mechanical harvesting activities. This position will suit you if you enjoy working in a team along with being physically active outdoors. Experience in harvesting operations and/or general tractor experience is preferred.

Winemaking Technical Assistant

Laboratory Technicians are responsible for accurate and timely analytical testing, calibration reporting, data entry and trade sample preparation. Ideal applicants will possess excellent attention to detail and effective literacy, numeracy, communication and analytical skills. Relevant experience or qualifications in the laboratory environment is preferred but not essential as training will be provided.

Transport Supervisors

Transport Supervisors will provide leadership, training and expertise to transport team members ensuring all transport operations are achieved on time, safely and compliant with road transport regulations. You will have experience in managing schedules, ensure that turnaround times are minimised, and that fruit deliveries and pickups occur on time. Applicants must have an MC licence and also have the capacity to work shift-work and possible weekend work

Truck Drivers

Truck Drivers are responsible for the safe cartage of grapes and grape juice within the regions. This position will suit Truck Drivers looking to work consistent hours close to home. Grain carters are encouraged to apply. Applicants must be willing to undertake shift work and possible weekend work. A current MC drivers' licence and experience driving a semi-trailer is essential.

Vintage Intake Scheduler

The Vintage Intake Scheduler supports the Grower Relations/Technical Advisor to coordinate and schedule grape supply into the winery from company vineyards and external growers.

This position will suit you if you possess accurate and high-speed data entry skills, are proficient in the use of Microsoft applications, have a commitment to meeting deadlines and can liaise effectively with people. Experience within a similar role or in a supply chain position will be considered an advantage.

Successful candidates will share the values of our Company;

Accountability, Teamwork, Continuous Improvement, Integrity and Respect. To apply please complete an application or email your resume and covering letter, stating the position you are your applying for to hr@kewines.com.au or apply via our website (click on the 'Careers' tab). To increase your chance of gaining employment you are encouraged to submit your application as soon as possible.

For all enquiries contact Sean Leesue Human Resources Advisor on 08 8583 0568.

Murray Mallee Community Consultative Committee

Expressions of Interest sought for Committee Members KNOWLEDGE - INNOVATION - EXCELLENCE

Murray Zircon is planning to recommence mineral sand mining at Mindarie in the Murray Mallee region of South Australia, and is currently working through the approval process for this activity.

The Murray Mallee Community Consultative Committee (MMCCC) was first established in 2004. When operations discontinued in 2015, and with a care and maintenance regime in place, the MMCCC ceased.

The MMCCC is now being re-established as a forum focused on engagement between the local community and Murray Zircon. It will consider opportunities being presented by the mining project to local stakeholders, as well as the local social, economic, and environmental impacts of the mine.

Expressions of Interest are sought for five positions from community members to participate in and contribute to this forum. Applications are encouraged from people who have a genuine interest in community activities.

Please contact the Murray Mallee Community Consultative Committee to receive an application form and a copy of the MMCCC Terms of Reference.

Tammy's got it down to a fine art

A LOXTON student was one of two South Australians to be recently selected for a prestigious art scholarship.

Loxton High School year 11 student Tammy Tran won the National Summer Art Scholarship for 2023, with just 16 students from around the country chosen.

The scholarship, now in its 25th year, is an immersive and comprehensive arts program for young Australians interested in a career in visual arts.

Tammy will spend a week at the National Gallery of Australia in Canberra in January where she will experience the Gallery's environment, meet art professionals, engage with artworks in the national collection and participate in artistled studio workshops.

"We were asked to create an A4 artwork in a response to the work of Joel Bray's, Giraaru Galing Gaanhagirri, 2022," Tammy said. "I decided to show a mix of my Australian and Vietnamese culture.

"The blue dragon is a symbol of water in Vietnam and the decorative foliage is a clear link to Australian botanicals.

"I used Prisma pencils to create this colour rendering which took about 30 hours

THE Riverland-based 410 Army Cadet Unit is gearing up to celebrate its end-ofyear parade and dining out luncheon which engages the cadets in ceremonial activity.

The end-of-year parade, which is this Sunday, December 4, is the culmination of all the drills the cadets have learnt throughout their time with the 410 Army Cadet Unit in Berri, and gives cadets the opportunity to show parents, guardians and community leaders what they can do.

"Our dining out luncheon is a formal meal for cadets, invited guests and staff," captain (AAC) Trudie Biddle, officer commanding, 410ACU Berri said. "Throughout the meal presentations and awards are announced, and these awards cover many aspects of the Cadet Development Program.

"Events like these put together many of the program modules cadets have been learning throughout the year and gives them a way to showcase their newly developed skills.

"It also gives the cadets an insight, and a way to experience formal Army activities."

The 410 Army Cadet Unit was established 24 years ago as part of a national youth development organisation that shares the character and values of the Australian Army, and the organisation is a partnership between the Australian Army and the community. "The cadet program is enabled and supported by the Australian Army; it is supervised by adult volunteers, with cadets not only participating but also having opportunities to develop their abilities and lead their peers," captain Biddle said.

"Australian Army Cadets is a diverse organisation open to young people aged between 13 and 18 years of all abilities.

"Part of youth development is providing challenging opportunities in a safe manner that also encourages fun and friendship."

Cadets parade during the school term on Monday nights between 6.30pm-9.30pm, with some activities held over selected weekends and during the school holidays.

Bill for in-utero babies killed by crime

A BILL that would legally recognise deliberate or negligent criminal acts that result in the death of unborn babies will be introduced to the SA upper house this week.

The Bill aims to bring SA into line with NSW, which passed similar legislation – known as Zoe's Law – last year with bipartisan support.

"At present, the loss of an in-utero baby due to a criminal act is legally recognised only as an injury to the mother," said proponent Sarah Game, a Legislative Council Member for One Nation.

"There is no validation for the profound loss and grief for the mother and family.

"(However), let me be clear: this Bill does not, nor has any intention of, impacting a woman's right to choose an abortion." Ms Game said the NSW law was sparked by a terrible tragedy. "Zoe passed away at 32 weeks in-utero after a collision caused by a drugaffected driver," Ms Game said.

"Brodie Donegan was walking in her neighbourhood before she was struck by an out-of-control van and pinned against a tree.

"This could happen to any expectant family. South Australian families deserve the same recognition and support as is now available in New South Wales.

"Earlier this year, charges were dropped against an Underdale man, accused of kicking his pregnant wife deliberately in the stomach with steel-capped boots.

"Had he been successful in procuring a miscarriage and causing the death of that baby, there would be no charge under South Australian law for that death. It would be listed only as assault against the mother.

"I have tabled this Bill with empathy to all the unnamed children and unknown pregnant women who never met their expected child."

Berri Regional dives in to its new era

orts@murrayp

IT looked a bit different to what students are used to, but Berri Regional Secondary College's inaugural swimming carnival was held at Renmark last week.

Covid-19 caused the event to be delayed from its usual spot at the start of the school year and ongoing works at the Berri swimming pool meant the location had to change, but HPE and sport co-ordinator Josh Vater said the day was "really successful".

"Because it's the first year as Berri Regional Secondary College, we didn't want to fully cancel it," Mr Vater said.

"It was a balance of trying to find a suitable time when the pools open and it's warm enough.

"The Berri Pool was still under maintenance so we had to move it to Renmark and we thank them and the Renmark Swimming Club for having us.

"It was a great success and heaps of kids had fun. The weather could have been a bit warmer but it was still okay.

"All our house leaders did a fantastic job of organising it which was not easy when you consider all the hurdles we had.

"The year 12s were finished by then, it was in the wrong time of the year so it doesn't have the momentum of summer and we had to travel, but then on top of that the weather wasn't that nice, so all that considered our students and house leaders did a great job."

McIntosh took out the Championship

Shield after an impressive performance from its students, with Deakin narrowly behind in second place.

Mr Vater said the day provides students a chance to showcase a skillset they otherwise don't get to show off.

"We see that sort of event as really important for two reasons," he said.

"One is that we love our whole school events and it's our first swimming carnival as BRSC, but also because although not everyone is a swimmer, for some of our students that is their main sport and their time to showcase their ability.'

The experienced campaigner was impressive on the mound and limited scoring opportunities for Riverland Pirates, with the side amassing just three runs in the match.

Excellent pitching from Pirates Riley Halupka and Kane Liddell kept the score from blowing out further, but strong showings from Jesse Stemberger and Jamie Frazer meant the table-topping side was never under any true pressure.

Elsewhere, Renmark kept up its strong form with a 14-run win over Berri Blue, with Nick Tregeagle impressing with the bat.

Top three triumph

THE gap between the top and bottom halves of the Bowls Riverland Saturday pennants division one table widened after last weekend's round of fixtures, with Barmera, Berri and Waikerie all picking up wins.

The latter ensured it would remain at the top of the tree with a comfortable win over The Lawns at home, with all three rinks picking up a victory.

Wayne Collins' quartet was the standout, securing a 24-shot victory over Ron Adam's four.

Berri kept the pressure on the ladder leaders with the biggest win of the round, after impressive performances from Mason Kaufer and Andy Hill's fours secured the side a 40-shot win against Renmark.

Dennis Treloar's quartet made it three wins in three rinks for the home side, with Berri still just one win behind Waikerie.

Meanwhile, Barmera saw off a spirited Loxton outfit to keep pace with Berri in the top half.

The Lakesiders won just one of the three rinks, with John Morena's side emerging victorious over Des Schliebs' four by 12 shots.

The margin was enough to cancel out wins to skippers Peter Kimber and Richard Coombs for the travelling side, with the Pelicans on top by five shots at the end of the day's play.

Berri suffered just its second loss of the campaign in second division when it went down to Loxton by 13 shots, while Renmark and Berri split the points in third division, with both sides locked on 56 at the end of play.

Hey now, you're an all-star Sienna

AUSTRALIA made history by defending its FIBA under 15 women's Oceania Championships crown in Guam last week, and a local rising star was at the heart of the action.

Waikerie's own Sienna Lehmann starred for the Australian side that went through the tournament undefeated, taking down New Zealand in the grand final by 46 points.

Lehmann's impressive play saw her named alongside Australian teammates Jesse-May Hall and Sophie Taylor, as well as L'Oreal Hiko of Samoa and New Zealander Pahlyss Hokianga-Heather in the tournament's all-star five.

Playing a myriad of roles for the team, Lehmann impressed on both end of the court, averaging 11 points per game from her four appearances as well as four steals

Her stand-out performance came in game two against the eventual silver medallists, when she dropped 15 points to go with her six rebounds, seven assists and three steals in just under 22 minutes.

Lehmann was able to stuff the stat sheet as well as make an impact on the scoreboard, with the 170cm utility amassing 19 rebounds for the tournament as well as 21 assists, making her one of the highest contributing overall performers at the championships.

The win means Australia has earned its spot in the FIBA under 16 Asian Championships next year.

The top four sides from the Asian Championships will then progress to the World Championships the following year in the under 17 age group.

Steam train rolls on as Renmark tops the table

RENMARK made it five consecutive wins to start the Riverland men's division one basketball season last Thursday when it handed Waikerie a 64-point loss.

The Steamers were unstoppable on the offensive end, with six of their eight players registering double figures in the points column, headlined by 26 from Declan Johnson.

Alex Curtis dropped 20 on the Warriors, who are still searching for their first win in the campaign.

The travelling side was at least able to hit the scoreboard with some regularity, with Ryan Turner and Luke Exton combining for 34 points, but Waikerie was unable to stop the considerable scoring power of the Steamers.

Loxton rebounded well following its first loss of the season the week prior, with the Supercats running out victors over Barmera by 13 points.

Rogan Kennedy returned for his first game of the season and topped the scoring charts with 23, while Dillon Millard suited up for Barmera for the first time this campaign and registered 10 points.

The win means Loxton remains just one win behind Renmark, with the Steamers' 5-0 record leaving them top of the men's table.

The good fortune has not spread to the women's side however, with Renmark going down to Barmera's second team in the combined division one/two competition by four points.

Meanwhile, Barmera's first team recorded a mammoth 58-point win over Renmark's second division side, with Tahlia Dillon in top form, scoring 17 points.

Loxton picked up a win over clubmates Loxton D2, while Berri handed Waikerie its third loss of the season.

Revamped Rovers facing new challenges in 2023

AN ever-changing list and the need to adapt are two challenges facing Josh Vater ahead of his fourth year in charge of the Renmark Rovers A grade football side.

Grady Obst, Tom Charlton, Fraser Sampson, Will Stockman and Matt O'Loughlin are all on the way out for differing reasons after featuring heavily in Vater's A grade side in 2022.

"Don't get me wrong, I'd love to still have them all and they've all been amazing contributors to our football club over the last few years on and off the field, but there's always going to be player movement," Vater said.

"No group stays the same forever so in a sense it's actually really exciting.

"It's more challenging when you lose experience but it opens the door for opportunities for other people to develop.

"We've got a lot of juniors coming up from the under 18s. I think someone told me there's 20 players coming out of that grade now that it's changing to under 17s.

"When you think about that, we need to make sure we keep as many of those involved in footy as we can, because that's massive numbers.

"That's on top of a number of guys that played last season that are going to continue to develop.

"Some guys have probably been starved of opportunity in the last few years, so there's a chance for them to take a spot of their own because we've had some experience move on.

"It's a natural progression and the list never stays the same.

"It excites me as a coach because it's a new challenge..."

Plenty of speculation surrounded whether the Berri Regional Secondary College teacher would return to The Kennel in 2023, but Vater said that contrary to popular belief, a move elsewhere was essentially off the cards.

"There were all these rumours about me going to Adelaide, but the only club I spoke to about next season was Renmark," he said.

"The only contact I've had from another club was (Paul) 'Dougie' Stewart from Berri, who sent me a text and it was a link to the Glenelg reserves job. He's a mad Glenelg man, so he said 'Can you apply for this so you can leave up here?'.

"That's literally the only contact I've had with anyone else."

While interest from outside the club was evidently minimal, Vater said there was still plenty to be ticked off before he committed to another season at the helm.

"I did go through a more extensive process this time than previous years and the main two things were whether I have the desire and if I can still add value," he said. "From a family point of view, it was about can we manage it and really can my wife Sarah manage it, because we've got two young kids now and they are my number-one priority.

"I needed to make sure the club and playing group were keen to have me as well, so I ticked all those boxes and if I didn't think I could offer any more then I'd pull the pin."

In a Riverland sense, Vater has achieved all there is to achieve in the past three years, with three back-to-back premierships and a host of individual honours to his name.

Although playing the game is still the thing he enjoys most, the former Central District Bulldog was unwilling to put a ceiling on his coaching career.

"I took on coaching because I thought I could offer something, it wasn't even that I really wanted to coach," he said.

"It stems a bit from my teaching background, but I've enjoyed coaching and continue to enjoy it.

"I don't know where it will take me, but I do also want to play as long as possible and if I had to pick one I'd play rather than coach right now.

"I'm 31 and I hope I've got a few years of playing left and if that meant I dropped back to just playing for a bit, if it was right for me not to do it, then that would be okay.

"I don't have any set ambition or plan, but it does sound pretty cool to be a fulltime coach at a professional club. That would be alright, but it would come with a lot of pressure as well."

Will's stock could be on the rise at The Bay

BEN LENNON

A RENMARK triple-premiership player has decided to make the move to the city and try his luck with SANFL juggernaut Glenelg, with PHOS Camden a potential backup if he doesn't make the grade.

Murray Pioneer medallist for his best on ground performance in the 2021 RFL grand final, Will Stockman, is set to try his luck at The Bay after moving to the city with his partner, leaving Renmark after three successful years under coach Josh Vater.

Vater himself is no stranger to the SANFL set-up, having been involved with Central District for a number of years in the early 2010s.

Having coached 'Stocky' for the past three seasons, Vater identified what assets the backman possesses that could see him become an asset for the Tigers.

"He's super athletic and can play big or small... so he's got a lot of potential and I'm really hoping Glenelg can help him develop as a footballer," Vater said.

"I encouraged him strongly to go and give that a crack.

"I remember one person talking to me about recruiting, particularly from an AFL perspective, that you can't teach someone to be athletic.

"You can teach them how to kick, you can teach them skill but you can't teach athleticism, so from that standpoint he's at a real advantage.

"At the same time, he'll have some areas to develop and work on and it won't be easy necessarily, because he hasn't been in the junior program and had that experience with high level coaching."

Vater noted the differences between performing week in and week out at the elite level compared to turning out for a country outfit.

But, he remains hopeful that Stockman's time at Renmark can stand him in good stead for a potential SANFL career.

"It is a much bigger demand mentally, playing at that level, than it is at country level and the level of thought that has to go in to every decision and to follow team structure and that kind of thing," he said.

"Hopefully with what we've been doing at Renmark for the past few years he's got a leg-up and a bit of experience with that. I'm really hoping he does well."

Stockman played 13 games for Renmark last season, featuring predominantly on the half backline and providing some trademark forays forward with ball-in-hand.

Superdogs' strength set to continue

RIVERLAND Superdogs over 35s Aussie rules football club held its 2022 AGM at Lyrup Oval recently, with all positions declared vacant ahead of the 2023 season.

A solid turnout of past and present players attended and were updated on the current state of affairs of the club, which a spokesperson said "continues to go from strength to strength on off the field".

Rob Romeo was reinstated as president, as was Dave Setchell as secretary.

Shannon Harkins will also return as treasurer but with Paul Hall as co-pilot as he plans to take the reins at the next AGM. "A succession plan is also shaping up as Romeo and Setchell look to step down over the next couple of years to let some new faces have a crack at running the club," the spokesperson said.

Rob Johnstone is the new coach, with Paul Glassey as assistant coach. The AGM wound up with Setchell being presented with a life membership award for his 11 years as a player & eight years on the club's management committee

Meanwhile the club's 2022 best and fairest count happened on the team's recent end-of-season footy trip to Crystal Brook. The winner of the 2022 Dog Tag award for best and fairest was Dale Lellmann, ahead of runner-up Greg Schloithe.

"It was well deserved," a spokesperson said. "Both guys were rock

"Both guys were rock solid and ever-reliable contributors on the field throughout the season."

Best first year player was a tie between Norm Edwards and Dave Ireland. Most games played was a tie between the club's two oldest players, Robbie Johnstone and Ian Forsyth, who both played every game.

Super Sunday

A BLOCKBUSTER weekend of Riverland futsal saw four of the association's best sides square off across the men's and women's competitions.

Previously undefeated reigning champions ABCDE FC went head-to-head with That's Cooked, with neither side having lost a competitive match all season to date.

It was the latter that prevailed in dramatic fashion, with star tall Cooper Ebert finding the back of the net in the dying stages to give That's Cooked a 6-5 advantage.

Ebert finished with four goals in the clash, as did ABCDE FC's Jacob Trudgian, but it was Marty Barber who was named best for the reigning premier after another expert display of skill.

The match attracted plenty of hype in the lead-up and the result sets up a thrilling final few weeks of futsal action, with the two teams neck-and-neck on the table.

Barmera FC won the other contest in the men's competition, picking up a 6-2 win over The Saints, while a Renmark Thunder forfeit saw Under Construction take the points.

Meanwhile, the top two women's sides couldn't be split as Banana Slugs and Chicks 'n' Kicks played out a thrilling 3-3 draw.

Jiji Mitchell and Holly Amos were named best for their respective sides, with both players hitting the scoreboard in the stalemate.

Sam failed to muster a team, handing Deadly Daggers a default 5-0 victory in the other women's fixture.

Tastes Like Chicken continued on its merry way in the mixed division, handing a nine-goal defeat to would be challengers Rooney Tunes.

Angry Plovers took an early two-goal lead against The Bradys courtesy of a Zakk Gallo double, but Michael Cartwright wrestled back control for his side, booting eight goals of his own on the way to a nine-goal victory. RESULTS

Softball stalemate yet again

BERRI was made to split the points for the second week running in Riverland softball A grade, with its match against Cobdogla last Saturday ending all square.

It was the second draw for the club in the past fortnight, with its match the week prior against Loxton ending prematurely due to rain. This time around the match ended 6-6 after a full day's play, with Cara Venning again in the best for Berri, continuing her impressive start to the season.

Jo Gregory and Jade Pech were named best for Cobdogla, with the side looking to get back on the winner's list this week against Loxton.

B grade returned after a week's hiatus with Berri emerging five-run victors over Cobdogla, while Loxton and Cobdogla picked up wins in the C grade competition. RESULTS

TENNIS Australia took to the Riverland last week to meet with some of the region's key stakeholders and find solutions to the low number of female players in the region.

The nation's governing tennis body was contacted earlier this year by Riverland president John Pick, who brought forward concerns around the lack of females involved in tennis in the region.

The call was answered and Tennis Australia's head of women and girls, Andrea Buckeridge, hosted the workshop, which was the "first step" in a broader plan that fits into Tennis Australia's strategy of increasing girls' participating in tennis by 30 per cent.

"We had five or six young players, club presidents as well and then president of the association John Pick," Ms Buckeridge said.

"We had coaches and we had a \overline{f} ew parents as well, so it was a wide cross-section of the tennis community."

The workshop saw stakeholders identify barriers to participation, as well as brainstorm solutions to issues facing women and girls playing tennis locally.

"We originally were looking at increasing competitive play. John reached out to me and now what we're looking to do is go a bit broader than just competition and looking at how we can engage girls in tennis," Ms Buckeridge said.

"The first part was really sitting down within groups and assessing what's going now, so coming up with what they like and don't like about tennis, and why their friends might have moved away from tennis.

"We're pulling together that information now, but after that we went on to defining the problem –how can we increase participation as well as how can we promote tennis in the region?

"In the final part of the workshop we started to look at what's worked well in the past, what would we change if we could, and what are some possibilities in the future.

"One of the things that came out was that they obviously love the social connection and they love getting better.

"They love spending time with their friends and they want to have girls-only opportunities.

"What can happen is as you get better you start to play against the boys and then you lose that social connection.

"They also identified that they wanted to have more family opportunities, so being able to play with mum or dad and their siblings.

"There were lots of ideas so over the next few weeks we'll formulate what some possible formats or opportunities we can offer." Ms Buckeridge is based in Melbourne but relished the chance to get involved in the Riverland community.

"I think nothing beats a face-to-face experience," Ms Buckeridge said.

"We broke into small groups so people could have a say and did lots of Post-it notes and things like that, so I think the energy was really good."

Tennis Australia will now collate the results of the first meeting before coming back to the region early in the new year.

Tennis Australia's head of women and girls Andrea Buckeridge hosted the session, with the governing body set to return for a followup workshop next year.

"This was the first stage of the process that we're going through and we're looking to have another workshop with the group in January," Ms Buckeridge said.

"So the next part is to pull together a prototype and figure out what kind of programs we can run.

"Then in the next workshop we'll check that with the group and ask what they think and then we're looking to roll things out in 2023.

"It was a really strong start and we'll be providing feedback to each of the groups because that's really rich information to keep and it can get them thinking heading into the next workshop.

"The important part is that the young people in the room had a really strong voice."

Top two looking set in Riverland tennis

A DOMINANT duo has emerged as the Riverland Lawn Tennis Association's division one competition continued last Saturday, with Cobdogla and Loxton White still undefeated to start the season.

White dropped just three sets on its way to a fifth consecutive win, with a 9-3 victory over Barmera Hall of Framers solidifying the side's hold on second place.

Phil Smith returned to the line-up for the first time since round three and won well in his singles clash against Justin Bannear.

Meanwhile, Cobdogla remains the team to beat after it handed Loxton Black a thumping 12-0 defeat last weekend.

Sam Butterworth's impressive form continued as he led from the front with comprehensive wins in his doubles and singles clashes.

Renmark bounced back following the previous week's defeat with a strong win over Loxton Yellow, losing just one set in the process.

Clubmates collided when Berri Red took on Berri Blue, with the former emerging on top after a strong showing from Phil Cresp. SENIORS

A FIVE-star performance 'Rosie' fell to Jackson, with the Tigers.

A FIVE-star performance from one of Riverland cricket's most revered players helped Renmark North escape from a tough position against Berri in last Saturday's round of Riverland A grade cricket.

It was the first game the Bluetongues had played at home all season, but it was Berri that had the upper hand early on the first day of the two-day clash.

Wes Frankel and Nathan Scadden opened up and looked comfortable before one of Jackson's effort balls slipped through the cracks, dismissing Frankel for 10 and bringing Brad Rosenzweig to the crease.

Opening bowler Ben Lennon dismissed Scadden before too long, thanks largely to an excellent catch from Jackson, leaving Berri 2/54.

Wayne Scadden entered the fray and together with Rosenzweig helped Berri to a strong position before 'Rosie' fell to Jackson, with the score now 3/138 and plenty of overs remaining.

A procession of wickets followed, with Jackson's off-spin continuing to cause problems for Berri's batsmen, while Colin Packer began to find his length from the other end.

Packer finished with three wickets and Jackson claimed his fifth to bring the innings to a close, with Berri one player short on the day.

Renmark North batted out the remaining seven overs without loss and finished the day 150 runs away from victory.

Meanwhile, Gerard batsman Gary Abdulla produced a sensational century in his side's B grade clash against Loxton.

He raised the bat and finished his innings unbeaten after being well supported by a number of his teammates, as Gerard finished its innings 9/285 which proved to be too much for Brown's Well claimed its sixth-straight win of the season, defeating Waikerie Ramco by 21 runs and continuing the side's unbeaten run in the B grade competition.

RESULTS A GRADE

Berri 9/158 (B. Rosenzweig 70, N. Scadden 30, W. Scadden 21, W. Frankel 10, L. Jackson 5/34, C. Packer 3/33, B. Lennon 1/37) vs Renmark North 0/9. Loxton vs Berri Colts (details not provided).
