23 ways to be better prepared

STRONGER support for local councils and better communication between government agencies – including for levee maintenance – are among 23 recommendations the State Government has been urged to adopt before the next flood hits the Riverland.

Informed by over 75 witnesses and 37 written submissions, a new report into the government's response to the 2022/23 River Murray flood contains both praise and criticism of agencies involved in the flood event, which wreaked havoc on the Riverland for months, forcing major road closures and infrastructure damage, and impacting local businesses and councils.

Riverland-based opposition spokesperson for water resources and the River Murray, Nicola Centofanti, praised the resilience of river communities while condemning the government's "failure to initiate an independent review into its own handling" of the flood response.

"This select committee should never have needed to be formed," Dr Centofanti said.

THE Riverland's State MP says a report into the 2022/23 Murray River flood response shows preparations for the emergency "fell short" of what was necessary.

The final report of the Select Committee into the River Murray Flooding Event was released last week. Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said the report illustrated better preparations could have been made for the flood.

"The resilience and determination of our River Murray communities during one of the most significant natural disasters in South Australia's history is to be commended, and I can't thank our locals enough for their collaboration and community spirit during that time," Mr Whetstone said. "The final report from the Select Committee reveals some hard truths about how the government, at all levels, fell short of what our communities needed and deserved.

"Despite having weeks of notice, the report highlights unacceptable gaps in flood preparedness and the confusing, often incorrect communication around river flow data. PAGE 3 STORY

Dr Centofanti claimed the committee found a system "built for bushfires and short-term events, not slow-moving, complex disasters like this flood".

"Agencies operated in silos," she said.

"Communities were left in the dark. Vital infrastructure like levees was neglected. And the communication failures, both within government and with the public, put lives and livelihoods at risk.'

Dr Centofanti criticised the flood waste clean-up, managed by the SA Government's Green Industries SA (GISA) unit.

'What should have been a transparent, fair and locally focused process turned into a $56 million contract handed to a Melbourne-based Tier 1 contractor with little explanation and no competitive process," Dr Centofanti said. "Dozens of local businesses were misled, sidelined, or ignored. Cost-plus contracts were used, despite their known risk of cost blowouts and lack of accountability. And the Government's own probity review confirmed it failed to meet basic standards." Minister for Climate, Environment and Water, Susan Close, conceded that GISA "could have" managed aspects of the flood strategy better, but said it was a "unprecedented" event.

"(The) River Murray flood was an unprecedented natural disaster of significant scale, posing considerable challenges for emergency management, recovery, and clean-up efforts across the state," she said.

"The procurement process undertaken by GISA occurred under emergency management provisions, aiming to expedite recovery efforts and mitigate the immediate impacts of the flood disaster.

"Any confusion experienced by local businesses, while regrettable, was minor in scope and reflects the broader complexity involved in rapidly mobilising resources under such urgent circumstances.

"It is not uncommon in procurement processes, particularly those responding to emergencies, for businesses to submit tenders without ultimately receiving work, and we recognise the associated efforts and costs involved."

Dr Close said GISA has since strengthened capabilities and professional development for staff working in emergency response and recovery, and that South Australia was now "better prepared for and responsive to disaster events, including the resourcing of multidisciplinary teams for future recovery programs".

Dr Centofanti said the report's recommendations ranged from improving emergency governance structures and real-time cross-agency communication, to levee maintenance funding, fairer grant processes, and stronger support for local councils during recovery. "This is not just a report, it is a roadmap," she said.

"It calls for urgent reform, smarter planning, and honest reflection. But most importantly, it reminds us of what happens when government ducks responsibility and refuses to learn from its mistakes." Dr Centofanti called on the government to adopt all recommendations in full and commit to releasing a formal response within 60 days. "The next flood won't wait for this government to get its act together," she said. "The time to act is now."

Concrete set to be removed out from Chambers Creek

THE Department for Environment and Water (DEW) will next week commence works to remove the concrete materials in the base of Chambers Creek.

During dredging of Chambers Creek, undertaken last November and undertaken on behalf of the State Government to remove a leftover levee from the 2022/23 River Murray Flood, Berri Barmera Council found a significant block of concrete, previously thought to be removed in 2010.

A resolution with the DEW and Berri Barmera Council was reached, with the department committing $180,000 to remove a concrete slab from the River Murray, near where Chambers Creek joins Lake Bonney.

Installed during the Millennium drought, the slab was a base for a water regulator to control flows into Lake Bonney, and is now scheduled to be removed this month, with a period of four weeks needed for works to be completed, including:

□ Installing temporary cofferdams to create a dry watertight working environment at the site.

- □ Installing temporary silt curtains to control the settling of silt and prevent these particles from spreading within the channel.
- □ Installing temporary fencing and appropriate signage, with an approved traffic management plan in place.

Drivers stopped over the weekend

MURRAY Mallee Police charged two drivers with traffic offences in the Riverland over the weekend.

On Saturday May 17, Waikerie Police stopped a 36-year-old man from the mid north on the Goyder highway, at Morgan, for a mobile driver test.

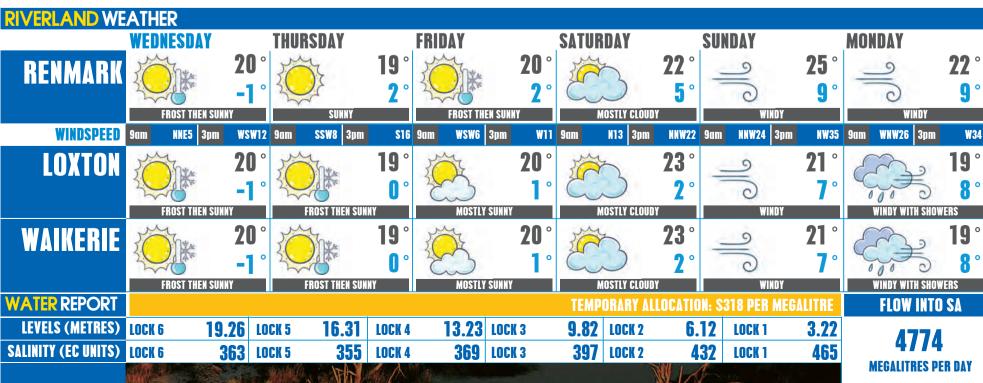

The man recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.058 and was reported for drink driving. He will be summonsed to appear at the Berri Magistrates Court at a later date.

On Sunday 19 May, Police stopped a 60-year-old man from Morgan on Seventh Street, at Morgan, after she was stopped for a mobile driver test.

The man recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.125 and further checks revealed the man was disqualified.

He was issued with a sixmonth instant loss of licence, had his vehicle impounded for 28 days, and will be summonsed to appear in Berri Magistrates Court at a later date.

'Hard truths' in final flood report

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

THE Riverland's State MP says a report into the 2022/23 Murray River flood response shows preparations for the emergency "fell short" of what was necessary.

The final report of the Select Committee into the River Murray Flooding Event was released last week.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said the report illustrated better preparations could have been made for the flood.

"The resilience and determination of our River Murray communities during one of the most significant natural disasters in South Australia's history is to be commended, and I can't thank our locals enough for their collaboration and community spirit during that time," Mr Whetstone said.

"The final report from the Select Committee reveals some hard truths about how the government, at all levels, fell short of what our communities needed and deserved.

"Despite having weeks of notice, the report highlights unacceptable gaps in flood preparedness and the confusing, often incorrect communication around river flow data.

"The government should have better prepared all the river communities and the river corridor for the flood, but they were slow off the mark to gain federal funding.'

Mr Whetstone said the economic burden of recovery from the flood event also impacted Riverland councils.

'There was little consideration around how much the river valleys have changed shape, with river constraints affecting the whole system," he said.

"People were asked to make life-altering decisions with shifting and sometimes inaccurate information.

"Additionally, there was a lack of transparency around procurement during the recovery process. Our local businesses were sidelined, and the use of cost-plus contracts raises serious questions about value for money and accountability, when the focus should have been about delivering fast support to the people who need it most.'

"Our local councils bore the brunt of the recovery work and responsibility without adequate resources, with most still counting the cost three years on."

Premier Peter Malinauskas - speaking to media last week - said "the response to (the) flood has been recognised as being one of the more professional and expeditious roll-out of services to support affected communities.'

However, Mr Whetstone said impacts from the flood were still evident on numerous Riverland communities.

"The Premier's comments, making light of the report and describing the response to the flood being 'one of the more professional and expeditious' in the state's history, was not the experience of many on the ground in our community," he said.

"To portray the government's response to the flood as positive is a blow to those on the ground who are still cleaning up the mess. Ignoring the shortcomings in this report would be a disservice to every household and business affected by this flood.

"Our community faced panic and uncertainty due to shifting forecasts, followed by a recovery filled with delays, confusion, and unanswered questions around public spending.

"We are still rebuilding roads, causeways, infrastructure, and housing, and we continue to witness the damage. However, we lack the necessary funding to repair and prepare for the next flood that is coming."

Tim celebrates national volunteer initiative

EFFORTS of Riverland volunteers are being celebrated by a senior local politician as part of a national initiative.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone is encouraging the Riverland community to come together to celebrate National Volunteer Week, taking place from May 19 to May 25.

Mr Whetstone said the invaluable contributions of volunteers strengthened the region's social fabric.

"As Chaffey MP and opposition spokesperson for social services, I take great pride in joining our community to recognise National Volunteer Week," Mr Whetstone said.

"Volunteers are the heartbeat of our region and across the Riverland they generously give their time and skills to support our local sports clubs, schools, health services, environmental projects, emergency services, and much more.

"Their dedication makes our communities stronger and more connected. National Volunteer Week is the perfect time to say thank you and encourage even more people to get involved

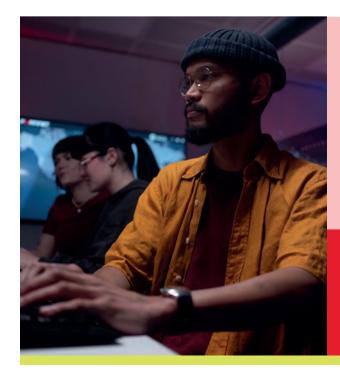

"This year's theme 'Connecting Communities', perfectly reflects how volunteering brings people together and strengthens the fabric

Mr Whetstone said so many people contribute to our community, often without the recognition they deserve.

"Some of our organisations that rely on volunteers locally include the Country Fire Service (CFS), State Emergency Service (SES), Rotary Clubs, Lions Clubs, Meals on Wheels, Cobdogla Humphrey Pump, Loxton Historical Village, local sporting clubs, community advisory boards, the Destination Riverland board, council volunteers, and our region's young citizens.

"Thank you to every volunteer across the Riverland for your ongoing commitment, you are the heart of our community, and you deserve to be celebrated every day. I encourage all Riverlanders to look for a volunteering opportunity that suits their skills and interests.

'Volunteering not only enriches our community, but it also helps build friendships and skills that last a lifetime.'

Bridge back open

HUGH SCHUITEMAKER

A REBUILT major bridge connecting the Renmark township to its surrounding areas has been unveiled to the community.

Renmark Paringa Council last Friday held an official opening for the new Twentyfirst Street Bridge, in Renmark.

Renmark Paringa Mayor Peter Hunter said the new bridge's completion marked a further milestone in the district's flood recovery.

"It's just magnificent," Mr Hunter said.

"The work staff have put in, at the same time as dealing with normal things, those big projects from the (Community Wastewater Management Scheme), to the wharf, the Paringa township and the rowing dock. These things have all happened in the background.

"To stand here as we are... it's just magnificent to see."

Mr Hunter said the new bridge would withstand similar water levels to those experienced during the 2022/23 flood event.

"If we were to just build it back as it was, the next generation might have to deal with it as well," he said

"This should last us 100 years."

Mr Hunter said contractors for the project BMD Constructions ensured economic benefits flowed into the local economy.

"There were 12 local contractors, and over $1.1m directed back into the community," he said.

"Over 20,000 tonnes of earthworks have been done here.

"The way BMD rolled that back into the community was really significant.'

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone – in a video posted to Facebook - said "it's a great outcome after the 2022/23 floods.' "I want to congratulate the council, and the local community that have waited very patiently for the rebuild.

"This bridge is a great piece of infrastructure."

Mr Hunter said attendance by locals at the opening event reflected the bridge's importance to the community.

We really weren't sure, as it was short notice," he said.

"I was very pleased to see 200 or 300 in the end. There was lots of smiles and it was a really positive atmosphere.

"It opens it all back up to how we were."

A large crowd of locals gathered to witness the new bridge's opening.

MADISON EASTMOND

ONE of Renmark's most recognisable businesses has celebrated two years of service to the surrounding region this month.

Found on 165 Fourteenth Street, the locally owned and staffed Harvey Norman Renmark marked two years of supplying computers, electrical, furniture, and kitchen products to Riverland shoppers last Thursday.

After opening doors to the Riverland in 2023, Harvey Norman Renmark electrical proprietor Nestor Beale said the past two years have "flown by".

"It feels like we have been in the Riverland for a lot longer, but, it is also exciting because each day we get new customers coming through our doors," he said.

"Since opening, we have received great and positive feedback, particularly people loving how the store gives them more shopping options with high-quality products and high-quality service."

Providing sponsorships, supporting local groups, and taking part in major events such as the Renmark Christmas Pageant, the Renmark Rocks On Festival, and Barmera Coffee & Cars meeting, Mr Beale said Harvey Norman integrating the wider community "has been one of the major highlights".

"It's very easy to want to do things for the Riverland because it is such a good community," he said.

"It just makes it fun being part of things, and we love how community members come to us for their events and groups."

However, remaining true to their original aim to provide "the best service and the best prices", Mr Beale said "the biggest kick" has been "serving customers and finding them the right products for their homes".

"We have shown the region a different range of products, that maybe they might not have thought of or had access to before," he said.

"Because we have such a large range, people can be provided with a vast amount of different design options, or ways of cooking that potentially could suit them better to what they have been searching for online.

"We are also constantly training our staff on the latest products and the latest technology, so we also have amazing product expertise." Looking to the future, Mr Beale said Harvey Norman Renmark is working

Harvey Norman Renmark is working towards building the best range and fine-tuning their products and prices for local buyers. "Now we have been in the Riverland for two years, we can see what people want and what people might like," he said. "Therefore, we want to work on searching for the perfect product, and have them in stock and ready to go as soon as customers want it." Recently purchasing a range of Samsung TVs when renovating the bar area of the Renmark Club, general manager Mark Cahill said the "service and advice from Harvey Norman was fantastic".

"They were a great help and delivered (the TVs) exactly when we needed them," he said.

"In the future when we need things, whether a phone charging cord or a TV, we will definitely utilise the local Harvey Norman for it's great service and convenience."

Renewable energy shift necessary in the Riverland?

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

A RIVERLAND council's increasing utilisation of renewable energy sources is following national trends, according to the local mayor.

Loxton Waikerie Mayor Trevor Norton said "council is well in tune with the national trend to 40 per cent renewable energy sources as part of our response to ever increasing costs of business".

"We have installed solar panels with batteries at The Precinct, Loxton, and the Waikerie office/ library, with solar only at the Loxton office." Mr Norton said.

"Our Community Wastewater Management Systems (CWMS) at Loxton and Waikerie are also powered with solar and have battery storage.

"The savings assist in keeping operational costs in check, which means lower rates in most cases. "This also forms part of a responsible environmental management program demanded by the greater community." RE-Alliance, an independent not-for-profit, recently called for bipartisan support to put the energy needs of the regions first. National director Andrew Bray said "the Federal Election result was emphatic in removing any uncertainty of Australia's national direction towards an energy system primarily powered by renewable sources".

"We now need to redouble our efforts to ensure the shift to renewables is actively contributing to the strength and resilience of our regions," Mr Bray said.

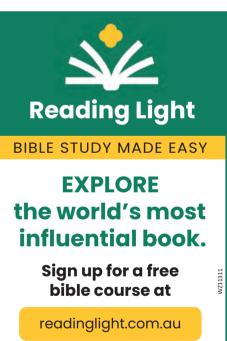

"Australia's national grid is already powered by a 40 per cent mix of renewables and storage. By the next federal election, Australia's main electricity grid is expected to be more than twothirds powered with renewables and storage.

"We now have a chance to reset and come together in renewable energy regions. Let's take the opportunity to work with our communities to ensure that renewable projects are done right for locals."

"Data shows people in the regions generally support the shift to renewable energy, as long as it's done in a way that benefits our communities and minimises impacts on nature.

"We look forward to working with regional MPs from all parties on practical solutions, like local energy hubs, that ensure regional communities have the information and resources to participate in and benefit from the energy shift that is underway across the country.

"There is no stronger way to indicate to rural and regional Australia that you're putting them first in the rollout."

EDITORIAL THE YEARS GO BY

Bridging the legacy

THE level of attendance by locals, and high excitement in the air, last Friday morning as the new Twentyfirst Street bridge was opened was a little surprising, but illustrative of how important a few-hundred metres of road can be in a country town.

It was shortly before the Riverland went into proper flood mode toward the end of 2022 that Peter Hunter was elected, and although the water levels peaked at the end of December that year, the flood event, and its lasting impacts, has arguably been the defining challenge of his first term in the mayoral chair.

The quick action of Renmark Paringa Council in reinstating, and making necessary improvements to its levee network early in the flood event, plus the round-the-clock monitoring efforts that followed, is always worthy of positive recognition.

However, recovery from the flood has taken far longer than the actual event itself, and may have caused even more headaches for Mr Hunter, and his fellow Riverland mayors.

There were high levels of pressure in the Renmark Paringa council chamber on the evening the options for the bridge's redevelopment were presented. The cost for the project was going to be in the millions, and the timeline for any of the possible designs would likely draw criticism from some sections of the community.

It was undoubtedly one of the tougher decisions Mr Hunter and the current Renmark Paringa elected members have had to make as a chamber.

The journey since has been one requiring patience from both those on the council side and the local community, particularly those operating the nearby mini supermarket, working at Angove's, or needing to take their children to the St Francis of Assisi school.

It took time, a sizeable amount of funds, and the largest crane ever seen in Renmark, however the first impressions of those who made the first steps across the bridge after its official opening appeared favourable.

With completion of the new Twentyfirst Street bridge, alongside the reconstructed Renmark wharf, Renmark has largely finished with recovery, with these two assets also – hopefully – better prepared for similar future flooding scenarios.

Council needing to balance out the economic effect of these two projects, while also trying to minimise potential rate rises for residents, is likely to present the next challenge.

While having to face an historic flood event within your first six months as a mayor is probably a task so daunting you would avoid wishing it on your worst enemy, it is the type of experience that makes a person, a group of councillors, or even a town, that much stronger.

Historian Joan Wachtel: A lifetime in view of the river. Joan was born to Claude (Tom) and Myrtle Lawrence Smith, in 1915, in Adelaide. She came home to a farm on the Murray River. At age four Joan's family moved upstream to Devlins Pound, an isolated spot on the river 8-miles (13km) west from Overland Corner. In the early 1930s Joan began nursing at the Loxton Hospital, and in 1936 moved to the Royal Adelaide Hospital. In 1937, Joan married Fred Wachtel and went to live in Moorook. The couple eventually purchased a fruit block there and ran a bulk meat business. Joan was active in the businesses and was the chief bookkeeper while being very involved in the community. After Fred died in 1976, it was suggested to Joan that she write a book about the history of Moorook. She threw herself into researching the project and produced a valuable book 'Moorook, Bend in the River', which soon sold-out two editions. Interested in 'everything and everybody', Joan enjoyed oil painting, lawn bowls and 'adventurous travel'. Moving to Loxton, she spent her remaining years in the independent units of the Lutheran Rest Home continuing to make new friends. Joan died in 2005. Her unit had a wonderful view of the river that she loved. Joan considered she had '...led a marvellous life' overlooking the river. WORDS: Carolyn Wood/Vicki Williams. PHOTO: Loxton News

Livin' ok in the region

I LIVE in regional South Australia. I love it out here.

Sure I will die younger because of healthcare, but I'll be happier.

I also live far away from traditional media. So far that every time I see it, I am amazed how far it is from my happy reality. For instance, the whole

'woke' thing. The other side seems to be arguing for life long sleep-ins.

Neither is good.

As we saw in the election where two ends of the argument lost their leaders' seats.

One aspect of the argument is called 'DEI'. Diversity, Equity and Inclusion.

To counter that, people argue for 'Uniformity, Inequity and Exclusion'.

Not an argument that I think will have a happy ending.

In the country, our biggest problem is control from afar. To be close to someone, to understand them, needs physical closeness.

How we do that, I have no idea.

The old media doesn't either, and the newer hate media of Twitter and Facebook wants to go the other way.

All I can say is I am ok. I hope you are ok too. JAKOB GAMERTSFELDER

Failed on energy pitch

DUTTON'S nuclear plan, in my eyes, morphed into a desperate pitch for gas versus renewable energy.

This disregarded climate change and sensible economics, and belies the fact that large electricity users and many homeowners are investing in solar because this lowers their costs.

On the roads, Coalition policy encourages use of vehicles that are reliant on expensive imported fuel, despite an electric vehicle alternative with steadily falling costs.

Instead of betting big on gas and continuing to bear the brunt of volatile oil prices, we need to transform our over-dependence on polluting and expensive fossil fuels. JIM ALLEN

Gender-based violence in schools

A LANDMARK new blueprint from national prevention organisation Our Watch is calling for stronger investment in respectful relationships education (RRE) in Australian schools — outlining key issues such as AI generated pornography, tech-facilitated abuse, sexual harassment of female teachers and students, and sexualised bullying.

Based on over a decade of research, Our Watch's Respectful Relationships Education: A blueprint for preventing gender-based violence through education systems provides evidence-based solutions to address the serious and pervasive problem of gendered violence in our schools.

The blueprint outlines the urgency for governments to prioritise and fund a 'whole-ofschool' approach to respectful relationships education (RRE), rather than one-off programs or a few classroom lessons.

RRE is focused on addressing gender-based violence through age-appropriate lessons about healthy relationships, gender and respect alongside changes to school policies, structures and environments. Research into RRE has shown reductions in sexual bullying, improvement in classroom behaviour, increased knowledge about gender and abuse, and schools developing more equal cultures.

The blueprint arrived at a crucial moment for Australian students and teachers who are facing alarming rates of gendered violence and looking for answers.

It is deeply concerning that nearly every week there is a new incident in the school environment – whether that be young men sharing deep fake porn of young women they know, or female teachers leaving the industry because they fear for their safety.

Research shows a clear connection between sexism, disrespect and gender-based violence. This landmark blueprint not only outlines the problems but also provides an evidencebased roadmap for governments on how the education system can help prevent gender-based violence.

Young people are increasingly exposed to harmful messaging about sex and relationships and report wanting more information and support.

This blueprint, developed in consultation with the education sector, provides a step-by-step plan to support schools to be places of safety, inclusion and respect.

Respectful relationships education in every Australian school will support young people to develop their ability to critique the world, cultivate strong and healthy relationships and contribute to ending violence against women and girls. Key findings from the Our

Watch blueprint included:
□ 40 per cent of 16 to 17 year olds experienced sexual harassment in a place of study.
□ Nearly 1 in 4 (24 per cent)

- Nearly 1 in 4 (24 per cent) young women aged 18-24 have experienced imagebased abuse.
   Girls are twice as likely as
- boys to feel pressured or blackmailed into sexting (16 per cent vs 8 per cent of boys) attitudes towards rigid forms of masculinities (such as being tough, stoic and hypersexual) are much more likely to have perpetrated physical (54 per cent), verbal (66 per cent) and online (56 per cent) bullying in the last month.

- ☐ Most Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander young people aged 14–17 have been exposed to potentially harmful online material such as violent images or sexual content (76 per cent).
- Teens with a disability are more likely to be asked for sexual information (26 per cent) and sexual images (15 per cent) compared to the national average of 18 per cent and 11 per cent.

Shock at survey findings

THE Salvation Army have released shocking new research highlighting the desperation of Australia's most vulnerable people, with the survey of those who reached out to the charity for help finding over half (55 per cent) were skipping meals because of financial hardship, 57 per cent could not afford prescription medication and almost a quarter (23 per cent) were forced to eat expired or spoiled food.

For families with children, the situation is even more dire, with 62 per cent of parents saying they went without food so their kids could eat, 43 per cent couldn't afford essentials like formula and nappies for their young children, and over a third (36 per cent) struggled to cover the costs of basic nonprescription medications like paracetamol or ibuprofen.

A 30-year-old mum who had received support from the Salvos said "I'm extremely depressed. I feel like I am failing as a mother. I'm a public servant and still cannot provide. I have considered quitting my job to save on the cost of petrol, parking, and childcare".

Another community member said "I just drink water to fill up my tummy. And the milk for the baby, for example, one bottle is for four scoops of milk, I always put two scoops in every bottle. I don't use nappies for the baby because I can't afford to buy nappies for her. And also, when we wash our clothes, we are not using soap. I can't afford that".

Further, over a third (35 per cent) of respondents were forced to use buy now, pay later services to cover essentials like food, utilities and medicine, and a disturbing 83% were living below the poverty line.

The research surveyed 3586 community members who had received food, financial assistance or material aid from The Salvos and found that 90 per cent of respondents said they wouldn't have managed without the support of The Salvation Army.

It is truly shocking in a country like Australia that we are seeing these devastating numbers. No one should be forced to eat expired food or to eat out of rubbish bins. The fact that over one in 20 (6 per cent) of those we surveyed said they were eating from dumpsters breaks our heart. Those presenting to us are some of the most marginalised and disadvantaged in our community, and the Salvos are there to not only bridge the gap, but to walk alongside Aussies doing it tough to see real change in their lives, and we need the support of the Australian public to help us do this.

A 43-year-old mum said "I go without and try to give my children what they need. I have payment plans with electricity so my power does not get turned off...I buy the same food every week because that's all I can afford. I haven't eaten meat in many months. I have to use Afterpay to get washing powder and food.

A 62-year-old woman added "(I'm) going without meals. I eat only one small meal a day now. I've cut down on my medication, only taking half of my meds. I have considered eating dog or cat food."

The level of hardship also extended to an inability to pay for utilities and bills. A total of 43 per cent revealed they often showered less to save on water and electricity, one in five (20 per cent) were living in darkness to cut electricity costs, and one in eight (12 per cent) relied on public bathrooms and shopping centres to avoid using utilities at home.

This research coincides with The Salvation Army's Red Shield Appeal, this year aiming to raise $38 million to ensure their 2000 services across the country can continue to support Australians doing it tough.

Across Australia last year, through The Salvation Army's network of centres in areas such as homelessness, family and domestic violence, youth, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, financial hardship and much more, the Salvos provided: Assistance to one person every 17 seconds

- More than 1.76 million sessions of care to over 250,000 people in need
- Over 1.1 million bed nights to those who needed accommodation
- More than 1.5 million meals to people who accessed our homelessness services. The Salvos can't do our work without the generosity of the

A lesson to learn from?

CHINA is the world's biggest emitter of greenhouse gases, the prime cause of humaninduced climate change, and is indicating it will reach net zero emissions by 2060. In 2022 Beijing approved new coal-fired generating plants at the rate of two per week.

To make matters a lot worse China is now experiencing terrible heatwaves, caused in the main by human-induced climate change according to scientists, which results in peak electricity demands.Thus, even more coal burning is required.

China now has a responsibility to the world to change its future industrial ambitions and actions to make its net zero target by 2060 a real possibility. Present indications are that the possibility of China reaching net zero emissions by 2060 is highly unlikely unless big changes are to be made. BRIAN MEASDAY

Big expansion for two Riverland Parks

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

A RIVERLAND mayor says expansions to the boundaries of two popular Riverland national parks will lead to environmental and community benefits.

Murray River National Park, near Loxton, and Maize Island Conservation Park, near Waikerie, will have terrains expanded as part of state government initiative.

Murray River National Park provides recreational activities and an opportunity for visitors to experience the Murray River floodplains.

Loxton Waikerie Mayor Trevor Norton said "the Loxton Waikerie District Council has handed over several riverfront areas to the control of National Parks SA".

"Previously, Thiele's Sandbar (Loxton), Mabel's (KOM), and most recently Maize Island Conservation Park, at Holder," Mr Norton said.

"This is a win-win for everyone as the natural flora and fauna will be protected and maintained to be experienced by all, well into the future.

"Ratepayers and council will not be required to pay to regulate their use, but will remain an active partner providing waste removal and some road maintenance at these sites.

"The ongoing benefits of keeping our riverfront parks as assets for use by locals and visitors cannot be expressed in just numbers - but current data indicates 70 per cent of South Australians visit them each year.

"They are key to ongoing economic activity as part of the visitor experience in the Riverland."

"Access to the parks from the river by boat or canoe is also part of the experience, and this drives council's continuing program to improve and maintain boat ramps and other boating facilities.'

Maize Island Conservation Park is home to one of the state's first village settlements along the River Murray, including ruins of some original dwellings and old horticultural plantings.

These additions will help the State Government better manage and protect land that is home to valuable biodiversity, and culturally significant and sensitive sites.

Minister for Climate, Environment and Water Susan Close said "this expansion will provide enhanced protection of threatened species and increased opportunities to connect with nature".

"Murray River National Park and Maize Island Conservation Park provide habitat for nationally threatened birds, including the regent parrot, southern bell frog and blue-faced honeyeater," Dr Close said.

"South Australia's national and conservation parks are home to an abundance of native animals and plants that we must protect now to ensure they remain sustainable in the future.

"They are also hugely popular with seven-out-of-10 South Australians visiting our parks annually."

The additions align with the State and Federal Government's 30-by-30 commitment, aiming to protect 30 per cent of Australia's landmass and marine areas by 2030, in an effort to halt further biodiversity loss.

SEBASTIAN CALDERON

A NEW art gallery opened its doors last week in Loxton, with the new exhibition set to showcase regional talent and serve as a dynamic space for exhibitions and community gatherings.

The Loxton Parish Hall Gallery, located inside the recently renovated Parish Hall, located on Edward Street, is expected to host a range of exhibitions throughout the year, featuring works from Riverland artists as well as visiting creatives.

Community leaders say the space will not only support the local arts scene but also provide a welcoming venue for workshops, gatherings, and cultural celebrations.

Local artist Jill Bond said the idea came from the Anglican Church and Anne Williams, who wanted to utilize the hall for other community events.

"Anne and I presumed the idea and approached a few local artists in Loxton to see if they'd be interested in hanging their artwork". "After a couple of meetings and debate, it's all come together. We thought it could be a really good idea to incorporate an interesting collection of tea related items," Ms Bond said.

"It has created a lovely social atmosphere where both the artist and people are coming to have a look, sit together and talk about their art.

"At the moment, we are just open on Thursdays and Fridays, from 11am to 3pm. But during the 2025 SALA in August, we will be open from Thursday through to Sunday.

"Loxton itself promotes arts, so this will work in well with workshops we have planned were people can do their painting onsite.

"It will be another small element for people to come and watch, and see how we start our artwork.

LOXTON Waikerie council has celebrated the contribution of volunteers in its district with events at both Waikerie and Loxton to mark National Volunteer Week.

Mayor Trevor Norton said volunteering benefits the wellbeing of local communities. He said those who received assistance benefit and those who donate their time also experience the rewards of connecting with others. About 80 volunteers attended a morning tea `to mark National Volunteer Week 2025 on Monday at the Waikerie Bowling Club, and an afternoon tea held at Loxton.

This year's theme for recognising volunteers across Australia is 'Connecting Communities'.

Mr Norton said statistics for South Australia show that more than two-thirds of the population over the age of 15 were volunteers.

'This means more than 950,000 people volunteer in SA per year," he said.

Mr Norton said this equated to 220 million hours of volunteer work per year.

He said 26 per cent of South Australians volunteered online or from their homes and 30 per cent were formal volunteers and involved with organisations such as The Men's Shed or Intercare.

Mr Norton said according to the data for SA, 46 per cent of volunteers did it informally without being attached to a group, one-third volunteered on their own, another third did it as part of a community, and the final third enjoyed doing a mixture of both.

At Loxton Waikerie council's National Volunteer Week morning tea at Waikerie were: Waikerie RSL volunteer Brent Bennett, Waikerie CFS captain Shaun Arnold, Meals on Wheels volunteer Des DeVroome and Waikerie Rotary Opp. Shop volunteer Robyn Cottle.

He said this indicated volunteering could be done in many ways.

Mr Norton said Loxton Waikerie council was grateful to the contribution of the district's volunteers.

"Thank you very much for everything you do," he said.

"While being a volunteer can sometimes be a thankless task, everything you do is of assistance to someone.

"Hopefully it is also assistance to yourself and your own wellbeing by being part of something, passing something on, or helping someone.

Mr Norton also encouraged volunteers to approach others to also join in on activities.

"Council depends on volunteers like yourselves and volunteering," he said.

Mr Norton said by donating their time, volunteers often assisted in reducing costs to ratepayers.

He said council also relied on volunteers to provide them with valuable feedback.

Mr Norton said it also needed the community to provide input by participating in its surveys and community consultations, which was also a form of volunteering.

Mid Murray's economic growth potential highlighted

CHRISTINE WEBSTER

SWAN REACH, west of Morgan, plus Truro and Mannum, have been suggested as having the most potential for accommodating development in a draft Growth Management and Housing Strategy for the Mid Murray.

Mid Murray Council has released a draft of the plan to the community and is seeking feedback on its recommendations.

The Federal Government provided funding towards developing the strategy as part of its $1.5bn Housing Support Program.

The program aims to help achieve the National Housing Accord's target of building 1.2 million new, well-located homes over five years, from July 1, 2024.

Mid Murray Council has engaged Adelaide-based planning firm URPS to prepare the growth strategy.

The document outlines key principles for supporting residential growth, prioritising Mannum, Swan Reach and Truro as focus areas for council investment.

"Regarding employment land, there is a reasonable provision across the council area," the study said.

"However continued employment land planning is essential for long-term economic sustainability."

The draft strategy said the River Murray Dark Sky Reserve presented significant economic development opportunities across several industries including tourism, science, and defence.

The reserve covers more than 3200km2 in the Mid Murray district, and its core site is located within the Swan Reach Conservation Park.

Significant economic potential for intensive agricultural production, processing, and ancillary industries have been identified in the Rural Intensive Enterprise Zone, west of Morgan, according to the draft strategy.

Mid Murray Mayor Simone Bailey said the draft Growth Management and Housing Strategy was developed following community and stakeholder engagement late last year. She said the document provided a strategic direction to accommodate envisaged growth and stimulate economic activity. "It aims to assist council in where it needs

"It aims to assist council in where it needs to strategically invest in infrastructure to support the identified growth opportunities," Ms Bailey said.

Ms Bailey said council was keen to receive community input on the strategy's content and direction.

port for the focus on the three townships of Mannum, Truro, and Swan Reach," she said.

Ms Bailey said feedback on the objectives and development opportunities identified for each of the nine planning areas was also being sought.

A survey on the draft strategy is part of the consultation.

The community consultation opened on April 28, and closes at 5pm on Monday May 26.

Stop risky road behaviours, help save lives and reduce the SA road toll

NEW research shows SA's road users, including those in the Riverland, are putting driving lifestyles ahead of priorities when driving, with the state's road toll continuing to climb due to preventable accidents.

The Australian Road Safety Foundation (ARSF) has launched its annual Fatality Free Friday initiative, urging South Australian drivers to rethink their priorities and put a stop to preventable road deaths.

Fatality Free Friday is one of Australia's largest communitybased road safety initiatives, which calls on all road users to take responsibility for their contribution to road safety in a mission to create a future that is fatality-free.

New research released today by the ARSF reveals, despite the devastating impact of road crashes, many South Australian residents place a higher value on staying socially connected and maintaining routines over making safe choices on the road:

- 44 per cent would rather give up social media for a year than stop speeding.
- 22 per cent rather give up coffee than stop using their phone behind the wheel.
- □ 43 per cent said they would find it harder to give up their phone for a year than their car.

Alongside these attitudes, the research confirmed the high levels of risk that drivers are engaging in on the road, with more than twothirds (69 per cent) admitting to dangerous behaviour.

Additionally, almost six-in-10 drivers, or 58 per cent, openly admitting to breaking road laws with speeding as the most common offence, with almost 49 per cent admitting to exceeding the limit.

Further to this, almost four-in-10 drivers (39 per cent) have driven while fatigued, a risk that significantly impairs reaction times and decision-making.

While distraction is one of the most underreported causes of crashes, almost seven-in-10 South Australian drivers (69 per cent) admitted to experiencing some form of distraction while driving.

This damning research comes as South Australia recorded 91 road fatalities last year, a decrease from 117 the previous year, which marked the state's highest road toll in a decade. However, 26 lives have already been lost on the roads so far this year.

ARSF chair and founder, Russell White said it was time to stop treating road safety as an afterthought and start making it a daily priority. "These findings paint a troubling picture because it tells us that despite the risks, too many South Australian drivers are still choosing convenience over safety," Mr White said.

"Road trauma doesn't just happen, most of the time it's the direct result of poor choices made behind the wheel, from the passenger seat, on two wheels or even just walking down the street.

"But that means we also have the power to create real change, to stop this needless loss of life by choosing road safety and encouraging each other to do the same."

The ARSF research confirmed the role education and awareness can have on driving change.

Almost nine-in-10 (89 per cent) drivers said road safety messaging inspired them to engage in safer behaviour, and more than eightin-10 (81 per cent) reported simply being reminded of the road toll makes them think or act more responsibly.

EGM CTP insurance and advocacy Michelle Bain said, "the keys to road safety, and achieving a fatality free Friday, are in all Australians' hands".

"We know that road trauma is preventable. Road safety is a choice we can all make and a responsibility we should all carry when we travel on the road, whether we drive, ride, cycle or walk," Ms Bain said.

Individual road users looking to help put a stop to road trauma can share their commitment by visiting the website (www.arsf.com.au) or via ARSF's social media channels.

MONASH Primary and Preschool students have prepared a showcase of music and talent for the local community this weekend.

Taking the stage at the annual Monash Mammoth Market held this Sunday, from 9am to 2pm on the Monash Primary and Preschool grounds, students are set to perform a daylong set of singing, ukulele, and dancing for the whole Riverland to enjoy.

"Each year level will be performing something at the market," Monash Primary and Preschool assistant principal Dee Barnett said.

"Our performing arts teacher, Cindy Ridley, has put so much time and effort into supporting the kids to understand everything that is involved in giving a great performance and being a great performer. "The kid's have been practicing and practising, they're all very excited."

With 50 stall holders booked, providing homemade treats, knick-knacks, and artisan goods, the market goers can also enjoy a variety of Riverland food trucks, a raffle, a range of free activities and displays from local clubs, and additional performances from the Loxton High Rock Band, Rosie Clark Dance School, Riverland Gymnastics, Fit to Fly, and the Riverland Brass Community Concert Band in collaboration with the West Torrens Concert Band.

Though a school tradition for more than two decades, Ms Barnett said the 2025 Monash Mammoth Market was to be "the best yet", with "familiar favourites (and) new events and activities that the whole family can enjoy". "The market is a great effort from school staff, families, and friends to put it on each year, but it is always so well supported by the community," Ms Barnett said.

"New to the markets this year is a key-chain making activity run by our OSHC, and we also have Miracle Park Stables bring along their miniature ponies and the Miracle Hand petting zoo.

"But, we will also have a variety of local food trucks that everyone always enjoys, and have a range of stall holders, with some traveling interstate to attend.

"Our market is always very special — we're very excited to bring it back to the Riverland for another year."

The best start for your child

STARTING school is an important milestone for young learners and their families. While children focus on the excitement of finally making it to 'big school', parents consider how their child will fit in, what and how they will learn, and the kind of environment it all takes place in.

Rivergum Christian College aims to make this time of transition successful for everyone with small classes, experienced educators and a caring, Christcentred community where young learners flourish.

Students starting mid-year begin learning concepts that follow on from their kindy experience.

Principal Jessica Clark affirms "our littlest students get lots of special attention as they start school".

"They're introduced to new routines, new expectations and of course, new friends. Our initial priority is to make sure they feel comfortable and part of the class," Ms Clark said.

"As they get used to doing more things independently, learners grow in confidence with support across curriculum areas.

"Our teachers and support staff are skilled at building rapport and inspiring learning participation. So much great knowledge is born out of play times, story times and just plain fun."

Even structured core learning can bring smiles to little faces, Mrs Clark observes.

"Our Jolly Learning literacy program is a multi-sensory phonics system that teaches reading and writing using body movements that pair with sounds to prompt memory," she said.

"Maths and science are also often hands-on, with activities and experiments to build knowledge."

Rivergum aims to provided a safe, nurturing environment where students feel welcome and positive, and parents feel confident that their children will be cared for and learn to care for others.

Centrally located in Glossop, Rivergum features plenty of wide open spaces, well-appointed classrooms and renovated facilities. Our bus services include all major Riverland towns from Paringa to Waikerie along with some rural areas.

Support rallied for Riverland students

MADISON EASTMOND

A RIVERLAND school has received $10,000 to support playground upgrades for senior students.

Earlier this year, the Riverina Outback Rally donated $10,000 to the Riverland Special School, with the funds set to be used for play equipment in the senior play area.

Beginning in Barmera on March 10, the convoy used the five-day journey to Hillston to raise funds for Country Hope, with donations going to ill and disadvantaged children. "We were very lucky to donation," Riverland Special School principal Natalie Coote said.

"One of our (students) had a family member in the Riverina Outback Rally, so the rally ended up nominating to donate to the school as well, which was very special.

"It's just so amazing, and far beyond any amount we would have expected."

Ms Coote said the money would be going towards the development of a senior play area in the school.

"We have some upgrades happening at the moment in the whole school playground, and we have created some additional play space which will then be worked on next year (upgrade the senior play space)," she said.

"Students have already been brainstorming additions like an outdoor ping-pong table, and swings — these funds are going to be really important to fund a space like that for our senior students.

"We just feel very lucky."

MADISON EASTMOND

A RIVERLAND school has been commended and celebrated for letting the voices of their students be heard and listened to.

Invited by the Commissioner for Children and Young People Helen Connolly to the Student Voice Postcards Awards last April, the Riverland Special School has been named a champion school of the initiative.

Providing primary school students with the opportunity to have their voices heard, and their ideas and views considered, the Student Post Card initiative asks students to send a postcard to Ms Connolly responding to four questions, including:

□ What is important to children in this age group?

What aspirations do they have?

What are they most worried about?What would they change about their lives if they could?

Principal Natalie Coote said the Riverland Special School have been longterm participants of the Student Voice Postcard initiative.

"Generally, it was focused on years 2 to 6, but we have always run it as a whole-school initiative," she said.

"It has been something we have always taken part in, with nearly every single one of our students participating over the years. "To be nominated as champions was just such an honour." Being included among the 17,482 South

Australian postcards received in 2024, Ms Coote said the initiative makes students "feel included, heard, and listened to".

"An initiative like this allows our students to have a voice, which is what we strive for," she said.

"It also allows them to be included in our community, and the wider community itself."

Targeted grants available for struggling farmers

RIVERLAND primary producers experiencing economic strain can access targeted relief through a local financial counselling service.

The State Government recently launched the Rural Support Grants – delivered through the Rural Business Support (RBS) Relief Fund – to assist rural and regional communities experiencing financial strain.

The grants provide up to $1500 in financial assistance to eligible South Australian farmers and rural small business owners, and are designed to help primary producers, ruralrelated enterprises, and regional small businesses cover essential household expenses and bill relief during times of financial distress. RBS CEO Brett Smith said the funding was an acknowledgement of the serious impact ongoing dry conditions are having across the state. "This additional support is a direct result of listening carefully to farmers and industry leaders who've shared — sometimes with great vulnerability — how deeply these dry conditions are impacting them, their families, and their communities." Mr Smith said.

"Through the Drought Roundtables and our work on the Drought Advisory Group alongside respected voices from AusVeg SA, GPSA, Livestock SA, PPSA, the SA Produce Market, WGCSA and others, we've been able to bring those lived experiences into focus.

"We're grateful to the State Government for responding with compassion. By providing additional Rural and Small Business Financial Counsellors together with grants to be distributed through the RBS Relief Fund, we aim to give families the breathing space they need to regroup — because we know recovery starts with hope, and practical relief is the first step."

Rural and Small Business Financial Counselling teams provide practical, one-on-one guidance to help:

□ Understand your current financial position and identify options for managing cash flow.Explore strategies to arrest and reduce debt.

□ Plan for the future with sustainable business goals and decision-making support.

- Access the $1500 Rural Support Grant – to help with essential living costs like groceries, utilities, and medical bills.
- Navigate applications for the Farm Household Allowance and Regional Investment Corporation loans - it's important that you don't selfassess your asset test.
- □ Connect with other relevant grants and support services to relieve pressure and strengthen long-term recovery.

For more information visit the website (www.ruralbusinesssupport.org.au), or call 1800 836 211.

$650,000 available for regional environmental projects

APPLICATIONS are now open to Riverland not-for-profit groups (NFPs) for funding aimed to support environmental projects that reduce emissions and address the impacts of climate change.

The Foundation for Rural Regional Renewal (FRRR) is receiving applications for its Community Led Climate Solutions Program (CLCS) with a total funding of up to $650,000 available to enable community implementation driving positive and sustainable environmental, social and economic outcomes, via two streams:

- □ Engage and Deliver: Grants up to $20,000 for local projects that implement or build awareness of practices and solutions that can reduce emissions and benefit the community.
- □ Scaling: Grants from $20,001 to $75,0000 to scale locally-led initiatives that alleviate socio-economic challenges resulting from the changing climate and enable communities to decarbonise, adapt and thrive.

The available grants can be used for a range of purposes, including education of locals to adopt clean energy practices, support First Nations climate-focused initiatives, reduce emissions, implement low carbon power sources and embrace/reuse regenerative practices.

The funding is also available to support solutions that deliver sustainable agriculture and food systems, encourage biodiverse ecosystems and to ensure the transition is balanced.

FRRR Climate Solutions portfolio lead Sarah Matthee said "the CLCS program is flexible and funds a wide range of initiatives, because FRRR recognises that different communities are at different stages of their climate journey".

"Every place is different, and the priorities of each community are different, including when it comes to responding to the impacts of our changing climate," Ms Matthee said.

"That's why we have kept the guidelines for this program broad – enabling not-forprofits to seek support for the project that will be right for their context, their climate and their community."

"Anyone thinking about applying should first read the guidelines carefully to make sure we can back your project idea, and of course, our team is also available to chat about project ideas too."

An online Grantseeker Workshop, including a Q&A session on the Community Led Climate Solutions grant program, will be held on Wednesday, May 14, from 12 noon ACST, and registrations are now open via the website (www.events.humanitix.com/ community-led-climate-solutions-grant-seekers-webinar).

Expressions of interest can be lodged until May 22, with those shortlisted to be notified by June 5.

Full applications for the Scaling Grants, as well as for the Engage and Deliver stream, close at 5pm, June 26.

Progress made on Lyrup Road repair

BERRI Barmera Council is continuing to work towards the repair of Lyrup Road following last year's funding announcement.

In October, the State Government committed to fully funding the repair of Lyrup Road, which was considerably damaged by the 2022/23 River Murray flood.

Berri Barmera Council CEO Tim Pfeiffer said while the initial funding was for a like-for-like rebuild, council is now working with state government departments for potential flood-mitigation measures.

"The repair of Lyrup Road is going to be significant, and we thank the relevant State Government departments for wanting to futureproof and make additional upgrades to this important Riverland road," he said.

"Berri Barmera Council looks forward to completing this project as soon as possible and we thank Lyrup Road users for their patience and adhering to traffic-management measures in the meantime."

In November 2023, about nine months after flood waters subsided, Berri Barmera Council became aware of significant longitudinal cracks along the verge of Lyrup Road.

Had the damages been identified within three months of the water subsiding, the State Government would have fully funded the repairs as part of Local Government Disaster Recovery Assistance Arrangements (LGDRAA).

However, the damages were identified after the three-month deadline, meaning council was expected to fund 30 per cent of the estimated $2.99m repair cost.

Mr Pfeiffer said he was proud of the way the three Riverland councils "tirelessly advocated" for the road's remediation, resulting in the State Government funding agreement.

Renmark Paringa Council CEO Tony Siviour said it was a positive step for the project to see the State Government willing to make improvements to the road.

"The need to upgrade the road presents an opportunity to improve the infrastructure and to ensure there is a reduction in the impediment to flow in future flooding events," he said.

"We commend Berri Barmera Council for continuing to push for those improvements, which we have been passionate about in the past and have written to the State Government seeking their support.

"We look forward to seeing the road restored and the important access point to Lyrup reinstated."

SA business confidence still lowest in Australia

SENIOR local politician said businesses in the Riverland are struggling through uncertainty and challenging economic conditions.

According to the latest NAB Business Survey, ongoing economic pressures have seen South Australia record the lowest business confidence compared to all states.

Chaffey MP Tim Whetstone said "our regional community is feeling the brunt of this decline in business confidence more than most".

"Local tourism, retail and agriculture operators are telling me they're struggling with rising input costs, leaving less money in people's pockets to spend locally," Mr Whetstone said.

"The Riverland economy is built on the back of small businesses, and when they suffer, the entire region is affected.

"I fully support the Tarzia Liberal team's commitment to abolish payroll tax up to $2.1m and reverse Labor's water tax. These are practical steps that will help Riverland businesses thrive and grow."

Opposition treasury spokesperson Sam Telfer said this is the fifth report in as many weeks that highlights the growing pressure faced by small businesses in South Australia, Riverland included.

"We've seen highly regarded reports from CommSec, NAB and the South Australian Business Chamber, all pointing to a sluggish economy and weakening confidence," Mr Telfer said.

"South Australian businesses are doing it tough. They are paying more for their electricity and they are also facing skyrocketing water bills.

"Businesses have also pointed to restrictive red tape and imposing taxes as hampering their ability to stay afloat.

"That's why, if elected in 2026, we are committed to provide immediate relief for small business by lifting the payroll tax threshold from $1.5m to $2.1m.

"We are also committed to reversing the Government's tax on water bills, which will not only help small businesses, but will also put more money back in the pockets of South Australian households.

"Local business owners can't afford to wait any longer for support. The government needs to be listening to these concerns and do everything they can to ensure businesses stay open and thrive here in South Australia."

20 NEWS www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, May 21, 2025 Water safety group reaches key milestones

THE River Murray Safety Working Group has made significant progress in enhancing water safety and drowning prevention efforts in South Australia's Riverland region over the past 12 months.

The group was formed in part as a response to Royal Life Saving Australia Drowning Reports that 17 people had drowned in the Riverland between 2002 and 2023.

The Working Group is a collaborative initiative of cross-governmental departments, emergency services local councils, water safety agencies and community organisations, and is being led by South Australia Police, supported by Royal Life Saving.

The group has made significant strides in co-ordinating the delivery of water safety education messages and programs to users and communities along the Murray River, having now delivered a number of joint campaigns and programs over the past 12 months, leading to critical localised drowning prevention and water safety messages getting to more people and places across the region than ever before.

"The River Murray Safety Working Group is a powerful example of what's possible when multiple individuals and organisations come together with a shared purpose,' Brooke Cherfils said, on behalf of Royal Life Saving.

Updated drowning analysis by Royal Life Saving has shown that 16 people also drowned in the Murraylands region over a similar period of time. With the success of the Riverland model, advocates are seeking to expand the model to address drowning in the Murraylands as well. "Driven by principled collaboration and a deep commitment to community, we are seeing significant progress in the co-ordination and sophistication of drowning prevention initiatives across the Riverland, and we now look forward to seeing what can be achieved in the next twelve months as this model expands into the Murraylands region," Ms Cherfils said.

Initiated under an Australian Governmentfunded Inland Communities Water Safety blackspot program, which supports the aims of the Australian Water Safety Strategy 2030, the Working Group has measured its success by developing and delivering on the four key goals of a Riverland Water Safety Strategy.

SAPOL Senior Sergeant First Class -Riverland operations Mark Howie said the group's impact is being felt at both a local and state level, thanks to its alignment with key strategic priorities.

"By intentionally addressing local challenges through these four focus areas, we are not only meeting regional needs but also contributing to state and national goals to reduce drowning," Mr Howie said.

"The group's success has now led to broader collaboration, with the launch of the Murraylands Working Group. These groups will not only expand coverage across a greater area of the state, but will also allow for crossover between the Riverland and Murraylands regions and the sharing of resources where drowning risks and water use patterns are similar."

Last year's achievements include:

- Ongoing Collaboration: Identified highrisk swimming zones and existing CCTV in the region with councils and agencies, co-ordinated resource deployment through a special event calendar, shared resources, such as lifejacket clinic schedules and boating safety strategies, and aligned messaging on water user behaviour.
- □ State Policy Engagement: Rolled out stronger enforcement initiatives during peak periods, with co-ordinated marine safety patrols, alcohol and drug testing on vessels, and expanded jet ski patrol coverage thanks to partnerships between SAPOL, the Department of Infrastructure and Transport, and the State Emergency Service.
- □ Joint Campaigns and Messaging: Rolled out high-visibility awareness campaigns with consistent messaging across multiple media outlets and social platforms for World Drowning Prevention Day, South Australia Water Safety Day, and the Riverland Dinghy Derby.

□ Swimming and Water Safety Skills: Circulated key messages to migrant workers in the region (following the highprofile drowning of a migrant worker), targeted programs delivering resuscitation training through the Indo-Australian community, and supported ongoing swimming lessons offered by Belgravia Leisure, migrant water safety and inland water safety programs delivered by Royal Life Saving - South Australia, and a VACSwim partnership with the Department for Education.

The Riverland and Murraylands Working Groups will meet jointly for the first time, in Loxton, to celebrate the wins of this past year and set the trajectory for the next 12 months. The two working groups intend to meet quarterly in their regions and join together annually.

Farming collaboration for this year's children's Book Week competition

THE Rabobank Rabo Community Fund has partnered with George the Farmer to educate Riverland children about the origins of their food and fibre for Children's Book Week.

The food and agribusiness bank will award 72 educational institutions across Australia with a collection of 14 Australian-made George the Farmer picture storybooks for their libraries.

Rabobank head of community and client engagement Glenn Wealands said George the Farmer's relatable approach and grassroots appeal "strongly resonates with voung readers in rural areas".

"This is now the fourth year Rabobank has partnered with George the Farmer to celebrate Children's Book Week," he said.

"Every year, we are inundated with applications from educational institutions nationwide, including primary schools, kindergartens, preschools, early learning centres and childcare centres.

"It has been exciting to witness such enthusiastic interest from children, teachers and librarians in learning about farming."

George the Farmer began as an interactive story app in 2015, and founder Simone Kain has since expanded the brand to include virtual reality experiences, music, performances and paddock-to-plate videos available on YouTube and ABC iView, alongside free, curriculum-aligned educational resources. "These free resources, focusing on STEAM subjects (science, technology, engineering, arts and maths), involve children in agricultural education through dynamic and interactive methods," Ms Kain said.

"In a 2024 survey, 100 per cent of George the Farmer users reported that the platform helped children develop a love for reading and learning, while 98 per cent noted an increase in their knowledge about food and fibre.

"Every year, we receive photos of enthusiastic children dressing up as George and Ruby Farmer for their school Book Week parades.

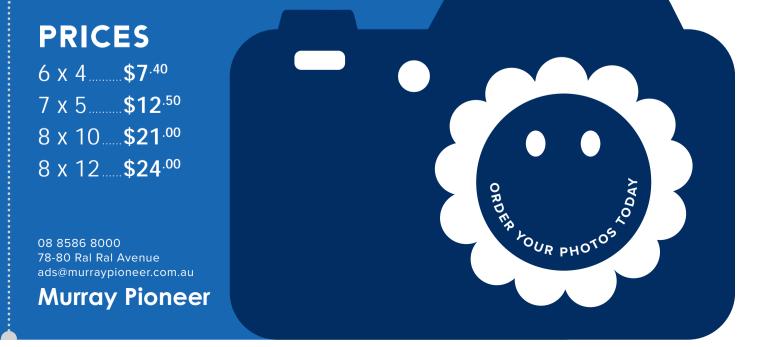

"The Rabobank partnership promotes agricultural literacy, which will not only educate many children but also hopefully inspire them to pursue careers in agriculture."

The competition for the book sets closes on June 15.

St Agnes distils history for 100th year

ONE of the Riverland's most recognisable distillers has marked its 100th season by releasing a new piece of Australian spirit "history"

Renmark's St Agnes Distillery – operated by Angove Family winemakers – last week unveiled the St Agnes XXO 50 Year Old Exceptional Reserve brandy, the oldest bottled spirit ever produced in Australia.

The spirit was released alongside the XO 30 Year Old Centenary Reserve, at the St Agnes 100-year anniversary event, at the National Wine Centre on Friday, May 9.

St Agnes Distillery co-managing director Richard Angove said the limited release, of 500 bottles, "honours five generations of distilling excellence at Australia's oldest family-run distillery". "This release is the pinnacle of our centurylong pursuit of greatness," Mr Angove said.

"When my grandfather Thomas Angove decided to distil incredibly small parcels of exceptional spirit, he wasn't thinking about today or tomorrow

- he was thinking decades ahead.

"He believed this spirit had the potential to become something truly exceptional, and that's exactly what happened. We've watched and waited, allowing time to do its work, and have been rewarded with an incredible spirit that we can't wait to share.

"It's more than just a brandy-it's a reflection of everything we stand for.

"This release is both a tribute to the last 100 what's still to come."

Have your say, shape Riverland Wine's plans for future

RIVERLAND grape growers can currently participate in a major industry survey run by tl peak representative body.

A statement from Riverland Wine regarding the survey said feedback would "directly shape the projects and programs we deliver".

"From sustainability initiatives to regional promotions, your voice helps us zig when others zag, and ensures your levies are spent where they matter most." the statement read.

Those who complete the survey will also go into a draw to win a three-day South Australian holiday package for two.

The survey can be completed by visiting the website (https://shorturl. at/4e5dB).

Big change for state house planning rules

CHANGES to current house planning rules are set to be introduced later this year, covering the Riverland, in a bid to increase housing diversity and provide affordable homes within existing suburbs across the state.

The Minister for Planning recently adopted the Future Living Code Amendment, which will introduce a new form of co-located housing, allowing more homes to be built in established suburbs without impacting their existing character, heritage and streetscape.

The new policies are aimed at allowing existing homes to be retained, altered, and extended to create 'co-located' housing, rather than demolishing a house and subdividing the site to build multiple homes.

The reform will also state all homes within the development have to be of similar scale.

These changes will aim to preserve the character of these suburbs, including mature trees and established gardens, as well as build a greater sense of community, through shared open space rather than small private gardens.

Each home inside the co-located housing development could be bought and sold separately and would be managed through a community title scheme, which would include rules governing behaviour and responsibilities.

Minister for Planning Nick Champion said "this is an example of the State Government working with local government to explore unique and creative ways to tackle the housing crisis".

"This type of housing could allow large families to live in multiple homes on a big block or suit people looking to downsize or age in place," Mr Champion said.

The State Planning Commission has worked in partnership with the University of South Australia and different suburbs across the state to develop the code amendment.

Participating councils will be able to review the policy framework and upon their confirmation, the new planning rules would come into effect in their specific area.

Any interested councils can now apply through their own code amendment processes, which would include consulting with their local communities.

There will be clear guidelines to help inform design and development plans, such as specifications for a minimum of 24m2 of communal open space per dwelling on the block of land, with required safe and convenient pedestrian access throughout the site by avoiding steps in pathways, parking areas and common areas.

There will be a requirement for at least two off-street car parking spaces for colocated housing comprising three or more bedrooms, with all car parking to be in a shared arrangement.

While this new form of housing was originally conceived for older people wishing to downsize in their own community, co-located housing is also expected to appeal to a range of South Australians looking for more diverse, small and affordable housing options.

Information on how to better prepare for and manage the impact of future fire and flooding events will be provided at Disaster Relief Australia's Big Map sessions this weekend. PHOTOS: supplied

Disaster Relief's Big Map heads to Riverland

RIVERLANDERS are invited to an information session highlighting how to better prepare for and manage the impact of future fire and flooding events in the region.

Volunteer-run non-profit organisation Disaster Relief Australia will this weekend hold two of its Big Map events in the Riverland.

The 'Big Map is a giant floor map, prepared by Disaster Relief Australia's Geographic Information Systems (GIS) specialists. During the session, community members walk the map alongside the organisation's experts to identify areas at risk of flooding and fire and explore ways in which to build community resilience and help reduce the impacts of future disaster events.

Disaster Relief Australia director of preparedness Wayne O'Brien said the event combines local knowledge with the organisation's disaster management capability to plan for scenarios and discuss topics including flood warnings, bush-fire mitigation and hazards.

"Communities across the country are facing growing challenges from disasters, with these events becoming more frequent, intense, and widespread," Mr O'Brien said.

"It is therefore imperative that we equip ourselves with the education and strategy to manage the impacts.

"Effective disaster management, mitigation and preparedness help a community build resilience and that is why initiatives like the Big Map are essential for Australia's changing landscape.

"Collaboration between governments, individuals, businesses, and industry increases awareness and readiness for a disaster event and helps reduce property damage, economic loss and disruption to assets and services."

Big Map sessions will be held between 10am and 12 noon at the Bonney Theatre, in Barmera, on Saturday, and at The Precinct, in Loxton, on Sunday.

To register interest, complete and submit the online form (https://forms.office.com/r/Q66nHPCc47).

State road safety program drives message home to school students

RIVERLAND high school students are among those participating in a statewide program highlighting the dangers of irresponsible driving.

The Prevent Alcohol and Risk-Related Trauma in Youth (P.A.R.T.Y.) Program will this year hold sessions in 30 regional high schools.

Minister for Police Stephen Mullighan said the initiative was "designed to get high school students thinking about the consequences of risky decisionmaking".

"The aim of this powerful program is to help young South Australians understand that one poor decision on our roads can change their life forever and have a lasting impact on everyone around them," Mr Mullighan said.

"Between 2019 and 2023, young drivers and riders aged 16 to 24 accounted for 19 per cent of all lives lost and seriously injured in South Australia.

"It's important we continue to drive home these road safety messages with more students than ever getting an insight into life-long impact risky behaviour and poor choices can have on the community."

state. Between 2019 and 2023, an average of 19 people aged 16 to 24 lost their life on South Australian roads each year, while 148 were seriously injured.

Minister for Education Blair Boyer said young people living in regional or remote areas were also more than twice as likely to lose their life, or be seriously injured in a crash, compared with Adelaide residents.

"We want to do everything we can to inform the next generation of road users on the impact their decision making can have, which will in turn improve the health and safety of our communities," Mr Boyer said.

"The power of the program is in its realness. This is a one-day experience that sticks with young people long after they leave the hospital.

"The program is a unique opportunity for young people to see firsthand the consequences of risky behaviour."

Trauma ambassador Najee Al-Sarawi shares his story of a near-fatal motorcycle accident, which left him with a 10 per cent chance of survival and requiring 17 surgeries, as part of the program.

Mr Al-Sarawi said the sessions gave students insight into the real-world consequences of trauma and the physical, emotional and social costs associated with risky and dangerous driving behaviours.

"Every choice on the road is a life in the balance," he said.

"If my story can stop one crash, it's worth telling a thousand times.

"Surviving was one thing, seeing what it did to my loved ones was another. My friends and family lived every second of that nightmare with me."

Risk remains as fire danger season ends

RIVERLANDERS have been advised to avoid complacency regarding fire dangers, despite the region's Fire Danger Season officially ending last week.

Minister for Emergency Services Emily Bourke said current soil dryness, high forest and scrub fuel loads, and forecasts of no meaningful rainfall had increased potential fire risks.

"The end of Fire Danger Season does not mean communities can start to become complacent," Ms Bourke said.

"Conditions are some of the driest we've seen and risk remains across the state, with lack of rainfall continuing to have a severe impact.

"Our aerial fleet will be on standby... to support volunteers, who tirelessly serve their communities year-round."

The Bureau of Meteorology recorded the period from October 2024 to April 2025 as one of the hottest and driest on record, with maximum temperatures the highest seen for much of the state, and rainfall in the bottom 10 per cent for most districts.

CFS chief officer Brett Loughlin urged locals planning to conduct any burn offs – especially in proximity to any scrub or timbered vegetation – to maintain safe practices.

This includes preparing a clean field break of at least 4m around the area, ensuring a sufficient water supply, and that a responsible person is on scene.

"CFS volunteers have worked incredibly hard through one of South Australia's hottest and driest Fire Danger Seasons and have ensured the losses and impacts of major fires have been significantly minimised," Mr Loughlin said.

"Every volunteer should be proud of the work they have put in to protect the community. As an all-hazard agency our volunteers will continue to respond to incidents across the state, despite the end of the Fire Danger Season.

"Complacency is a major risk for our agency at this time of year, particularly with dry conditions and minimal rainfall forecast for the near future, so it's imperative the South Australian community are adequately prepared and vigilant should they decide to conduct any burn offs, especially in proximity to any scrub or timbered vegetation."

Current dry conditions mean bushfires remain a risk for Riverland communities, despite the Fire Danger Season having come to an end. FILE PHOTO

SA palliative care report recommendations welcomed

A MAJOR report into palliative care in South Australia has been delivered, with the State Government accepting all recommendations to best meet the needs of Riverlanders into the future.

The inquiry was commissioned by Health and Wellbeing Minister Chris Picton in 2022 to examine the current provision of palliative care services in SA, best practice models in Australia and internationally, and recommendations to enhance services.

Palliative care helps people live their life as fully and as comfortably as possible when living with a life-limiting or terminal illness.

It identifies and helps treat physical, emotional, spiritual or social symptoms.

As it is based on individual needs, the services offered for each person will differ, but early referral can often support a better quality of life in a person's final stages. The Health Performance Council's report projects with an ageing and growing population there will be a significant increase in the number of deaths that could require palliative care services over the next 20 years in South Australia.

It made several findings and recommendations, including:

- Lack of access to consistent and reliable data across national, state and private sector systems to help inform palliative care service design and funding decisions.
- □ There is an under-reporting of patients accessing palliative care across all sectors.
- □ The number of people dying in South Australia that could benefit from palliative care in their final stages is increasing due to rising rates of chronic disease and our ageing population.
- □ The Department for Heath and Wellbeing's existing 2022-

27 Palliative Care Strategic Framework could provide greater clarity for the future intentions of palliative care services within SA, with better connection between key goals, objectives and actions and outcomes.

- □ The Department should continue to focus on increasing outof-hospital services, including virtual care and in-home care palliative care services, aligning with recommended best practice approaches and enabling patients' access to care in their preferred setting.
- By reviewing resource allocations, SA Health should aim to increase equity in palliative care service usage rates across the regions of the state.
- □ The need to improve equity of access for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.
- □ A recommendation to engage with ministers from the Federal Government, and other states and territories on cross-jurisdictional improvements.

Minister for Health and Wellbeing Chris Picton said "palliative care is an incredibly important service for South Australians with a life-limiting or terminal illness".

"It helps people live as fully and comfortably as possible in the later stages of their lives," he said.

"I commissioned this report to provide a better understanding of palliative care services and needs in South Australia and to examine best practice models around Australia and the world, so that we can make our services even better.

"I thank the Health Performance Council for its report and we accept all its recommendations.

"We want to ensure that all South Australians have access to the highest-quality services for themselves and their loved ones."

Following the report's findings, Mr Picton has asked the

Department for Health and Wellbeing to provide an implementation plan on the review's recommendations.

The implementation plan will include a review of the 2022-27 Palliative Care Strategic Framework.

SA Citizen Science Awards nominations now open

THE 2025 South Australian Citizen Science Award nominations are now open, for Riverland projects that currently engage citizen science activities and promote and increase community participation in initiatives that encompass quality science, engagement and education.

Held by Inspiring South Australia, the Department for Environment and Water and the South Australian Chapter of the Australian Citizen Science Association (ACSA), the award offers two prizes - a first prize of $5000 and a finalist prize of 2500 — which can be used to further support scientific projects or to generate new ones.

National Parks and Wildlife Service manager of community and nature partnerships Helen Donovan said being involved in citizen science was a great way to support your local environment

"As well as benefiting research, citizen science projects foster community engagement," Dr Donovan said.

"Regardless of our day-to-day roles, we can all actively participate and help expand knowledge of the world around us through citizen science projects.

Citizen science appeals to the young and old. Being hands-on, it sparks an interest in connecting with science and contributing positively to society."

PUBLIC CONSULTATION Proposed Heavy Mass Limit (HML)

Gazettal of Key Road Sections The District Council of Loxton Waikerie is seeking community feedback on two proposed road network changes that would allow Road Trains operating under the Heavy Mass Limit (HML) scheme to use specific local roads. These changes aim to support local industry and improve freight efficiency while ensuring safety and minimal community impact.

Proposed 30m Road Train HML Gazettals

- Council is considering the gazettal of 580 metres of Railway Terrace, and 145 metres of Schubert Road in Paruna.
- 2. Taplan Road, Badcoe Road and Kokoda Terrace (from Taplan to Bookpurnong Terrace, Loxton) are also proposed to be gazetted.

This would allow current 30-metre Road Trains operating under the HML scheme to access these sections without the need to seek permits for use, potentially improving freight access for agricultural and industrial operations. These roads are important links for commodity transport between rural areas and major freight routes.

Public Consultation will take place between Wednesday 21 May and Wednesday 11 June 2025. An indicative map of the proposed road gazettals is shown on Shaping Loxton Waikerie, via https://engagement.lwdc.sa.gov.au/proposedhml-gazettal-key-road-sections/.

- Submissions from the community are encouraged
  Online at https://engagement.lwdc.sa.gov.au/
- by email at council@lwdc.gov.au, or
- by post to PO Box 409, Loxton SA 5333, or in person, in writing, at the Council's offices at 35 Bookpurnong Road, Loxton or Strangman Road, Waikerie.

If you wish to present your submission to the Council in person or by advocate, please indicate that in your submission.

Written submissions will be accepted until 5.00 pm on Wednesday 11 June 2025.

For further information please contact Greg Perry, Director Infrastructure Services, on 8584 8000.

Gill-Lehmann Cup remains at the Kennel

LACHLAN DAND

FOR the fourth year in a row, the Gill-Lehmann Cup will be staying at Renmark Oval, following a professional performance from the Rovers last Saturday against the Magpies.

In a tight start to the battle, Renmark held a three-point advantage at the first change, which only extended to nine at the half time interval, with Waikerie structuring up well throughout the half.

However, the Rovers were able to break the game wide open in the third term, kicking four goals to nil, and the domination continued into the final term, helping the Rovers run out 33-point victors.

Renmark playing coach Josh Vater said he was pleased with the way his side fought it out, knowing his group had an ability to go to another level after the clash with the Demons the previous week.

"I was much happier this week with the things that are in our control, and that's around effort, intensity, and intent," he said. "We've been well off where we need to be, and the standards that we set for ourselves, so it was nice to have those areas rectified this week.

"I thought our effort, work rate, and energy was much better this week, so I was very pleased with the performance, considering we had a few injuries across the day."

Renmark had nine individual goalkickers across the day, but it was the returning Nick Gillard who stood tallest.

Gillard showed his class around the big sticks, finishing with three majors, while the performances of Matt Woolford, Ricky Garrett, and Lachlan Lellmann were particularly impressive.

For the Magpies, Shaun King showed why he is one of the most important off-season signings, kicking three majors, while reigning Whillas Medallist Kade Hilton finished with two, and was at his dangerous best throughout the afternoon.

The cup win is Renmark's seventh overall, with Waikerie leading by three wins, but Vater said his side doesn't put a great deal of emphasis on keeping the cup at the Kennel.

"More of what we do is about the contributions of what the Lehmann and Gill families have made to both clubs on and off the field," he said.

"We had Trevor Gill come in and speak to the group before the game, and he spoke about what the rivalry was born out of, and that it stems back a bit further than the first official one in 2008.

"It was nice to get a bit of historical perspective, and everyone likes to get a bit of silverware, but it's more around informing players of the history of what we're playing for, and celebrating the families."

This weekend sees Waikerie return home for the first time since round two, ahead of a clash with a Berri side that is set to be full of confidence.

Renmark were hit by injuries throughout the afternoon against Waikerie, with full back Alex Haynes and gun midfielder Tim Woolford both suffering injuries. While the extent of the injuries remain unclear, the pair will likely be on the sidelines this week at Tigerland.

Vater said his side will be conscious of a Loxton side that is set to be full of confidence following a win at the Lakeside Oval against Barmera-Monash last weekend.

"They've had a few personnel changes over the off-season, and this will be our first look at them this year which is exciting," he said.

"We've gone down in a few first round clashes against them in the last few years, so it's a nice challenge for us to come up against a team that will be absolutely firing.

"We'll have some more changes this week with the injuries, so there's going to be a bit more pressure on, and an opportunity for those who get selected to come up against a good side."

Both A grade clashes will kick off from 2.40pm this Saturday, with Waikerie's contest set to be called live by the 5RM team, directly following The Sideline View.

Swans strangle Bulldogs for first victory

LACHLAN DAND

PARINGA secured its first victory of the 2025 campaign in a thrilling fivepoint win over Wunkar last Saturday in the Murray Valley Football Netball League competition.

A fast-starting Swans side burst away to a 23-point quarter time lead, and although the margin was cut to 17 by half time, Paringa remained in control.

Despite a late second half comeback from the Bulldogs, including three majors at the start of the final quarter, Paringa held on for a tense win.

Paringa coach Nick Dillon said he was pleased for his playing group after the victory, noting the reward for effort.

"It was just good for the lads to see some success because they've worked really hard over the off-season," he said.

"For them to get some reward after a tough pre-season and a tough game was really positive to see, and I'm really happy for them.

"I was happy with the way we started because we'd had some poor first quarters, whether that's not taking our opportunities or getting blown away, but I was more impressed by the finish.

"They kicked three quick goals in the last with the wind, but we held them off in the last 10 minutes and played some positive football and had some composure."

Wood, and Brock Morey all fought well, at times in new roles.

For the Dogs, Cameron

Rankine showed his class in a valiant effort, and snuck forward with two majors. Elsewhere, an inaccurate Brown's Well side proved too good for Sedan-Cambrai, earning a 17-point victory over the Magpies on home deck.

Bradley Truscott escapes out of a Matt Woolford tackle as the Magpies suffered a second loss in as many weeks.

In a game that had 25 scoring shots to 13, it was Levi and Nathan Francis, as well as Brian Hampel, who converted two opportunities each, while Jake Woodhouse kicked three for the visitors.

Meanwhile, BSR stormed home in the final quarter to take out a 25-point victory over the winless Ramco at Blanchetown Oval.

Just four points separated the two sides at three quarter time, but the Redbacks managed three goals unanswered in the last quarter to notch up the win.

Matt Gibson was the star of the show in attack for the home side with four majors, while Max Speyer and Josh Shepherd also impressed. Just two games are fixtured next week, with Murrayville taking on Brown's Well over the border, and Wunkar returning home for a contest with the Redbacks. Paringa, Ramco, and Sedan-Cambrai all have the bye, and the Swans coach said his side will train as normally over the break. "We'll train all the way through, and we see it as an advantage that we train twice a week, and other clubs are only on once a week," he said. "We'll work really berd

"We'll work really hard over the next few weeks, and anytime there's a bye, we'll put in some hard yards, which should be good for the lads, and hold us in good stead for later on in the year."

38 SPORT www.murraypioneer.com.au Wednesday, May 21, 2025 Demons deliver first win under Labastida

LACHLAN DAND

ALL six Riverland Football League A grade sides have officially recorded a win in 2025, after Berri recorded its first of the campaign against Loxton North, at Berri Oval, last Saturday.

Berri came into the contest after three losses to open the season, however, proved competitive against Loxton and Renmark in the fortnight prior.

Meanwhile, Loxton North entered the clash high on confidence after securing the Proud Cup against the Tigers the previous week.

In a slow start to the battle, Berri held the lead by three points at quarter time, and missed opportunities in the second term had the margin at 12 points at the major break.

A gritty third term both ways saw Berri leading by just 11 at the final change, after neither side booted a major in the penultimate quarter.

However, Berri stormed home in the final term, kicking five goals to two, largely thanks to Tyson Lindsay, who dominated the quarter with three goals to get the home crowd rocking.

After a winless three weeks to start the season, first year Berri coach Henry Labastida praised his side following the 40-point victory. "It's always good for the boys to get a win, and to do so early in the season gives them a lot of confidence," he said.

"The message throughout the day was around the occasion because it was our captain's 100th game, the club had Ladies Day, and it was also the Malcolm Hill Tribute Match.

"Everything was set for us to get a win in front of our home crowd, the boys just had to perform on the big stage, which they were able to do.

"You have to understand where this group has come from over the last few years, and only winning two games last year.

"For the young kids to believe in themselves, and we know we've got a good group, it's just that after you've been down for so long, it's hard to get out sometimes.

"With the extra new blokes in, we've got a bit more energy, so getting that early win gives us a bit of momentum for the next weeks."

Alongside Lindsay's three, returning key forward Darcy Minchella continues to provide a spark for the Demons, with three of his own on the day.

Young forward Mitchell Foulds also booted one, as did defender Brad Rosenzweig, while Patrick Minchella proved strong in the middle of the ground.

However, one of the most impressive factors of the win for Berri was its backline, headlined by Archie Holtham, who took home the Malcolm Hill Tribute Award. Holtham held up well alongside Rosenzweig and veteran Peter Safralidis, while new recruit Jacob Grieger also impressed. Loxton North were held to just two goals on the day, from Scott Meneghetti and the improving Tyler Wagner.

Scott Lewis and Joel Worsfold worked hard through midfield for the Panthers, with an early red card to Masud Akaso forcing the veteran pair to stand tall.

Labastida said he was pleased with the way his back six held up, acknowledging the work of his defenders over the season.

"You want your back six to really gel together and be in sync, knowing what each other are going to do," he said.

"Saf's (Safralidis) getting a little bit older now but he still plays like he's 20, so his experience alongside Shay (Hawkins), Brad (Rosenzweig) and Griegs (Grieger) combining youth and run is exciting.

"Ultimately it's about sticking together with defence first, and attack second, because that's our motto."

This week sees Loxton North return home for a clash with Barmera-Monash at Panther Park, while Berri will be looking for back-to-back wins when it travels to Waikerie for a clash with the Magpies.

Labastida said while he is wary of the opposition, the focus for the Demons is about controlling what they can.

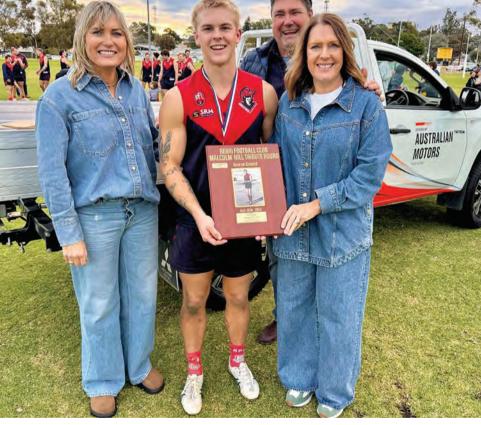

"I try to not worry too much about the opposition, for us and where we've been, the focus is on ourselves and to keep improving," he said.

"If we get things right, we'll just get better, so for us and the club, it's about developing and continuing to improve every week.

"We know teams are always going to be hard to beat, but for our sake, we just want to keep being competitive."

Darcy Minchella comes over the top of Panthers skipper Codi Voumard, and takes a strong mark in Saturday's 40-point win.

Riverland holds Teams Tennis Cai

LACHLAN DAND

DESPITE tennis finishing up locally in March, a whopping 74 teams converged on the Riverland last weekend for the annual Teams Tennis Carnival.

Held for across the entire region, tennis was played across Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, with some sides entering the region from as far as Sydney.

With local players also involved, the tournament offers players a chance to hone in on their skills, in what is considered the largest grass court tennis event in Australia.

Co-ordinator Mike Horsman said the tournament was a successful one, with the Riverland Tennis Association hoping to continue to register more numbers in the future.

'We had 43 women's sides and 31 men, from as far a field as Sydney, Canberra, and Victoria, and the rest come from all around the state, with places such as the Barossa and the South East," he said.

"It's a massive event because there are 500 players, and almost that same number of spectators and spouses hanging around.

"We start on open grade, and veteran tennis starts at aged 30, and then we go to 40s, 50s, 60s, and 70s, and all grades are well supported in numbers, but we can always have more teams.

"The standard of the open has been very strong, and it's something we hope to only get bigger over time.

"To have this event in the Riverland over four venues, speaks a hell of a lot for our clubs and the fact we can do it.

"We had 99 teams pre-Covid, but like a lot of things, people were unable to go back, and the cost of living and cost of fuel is significant."

Mr Horsman said the tournament is one that can continue to grow, hoping to delve into the online side of things in the near future.

"Ultimately the numbers we've had have been solid, but we're still looking to get bigger, and one way to do that is through Facebook, and promote it on websites," he said.

"Given that we've got 54 lawn courts available to us, 90 teams is something we feel is definitely achievable, we'd just need to work out that logistics around it all.

"We changed from moving players all around the venues, and that makes it easier for a lot of the players.

"Giving each club the chance to get involved and cater was a bit of a radical idea initially, but it's certainly been something which has worked.

"The clubs are all behind it, and that's been really helpful, with most of the clubs on the committee so they all get involved."

Mr Horsman said keeping the momentum of tennis flowing in the region, even during the off-season is particularly important for helping grow the sport.

"There are a lot of advantages of it, because a lot of the club people see it, as do the juniors, and they've been helping out at the clubs too," he said.

"It's kept tennis still up front in the middle of May, and one of the problems with tennis is that we die off a bit in the winter.

"This keeps it alive through to the next month, and then we'll have a bit of a hiatus between now and September.

"If we can get more locals involved that would be awesome because we can get more people involved in their age group and keep it competitive for everyone.'

Nominations open for community volunteer award

THE efforts of Riverland locals unsung footy heroes and to say community can be highlighted for a major state award.

Nominations are now open for the 2025 SANFL Volunteer of the Year Award, shining a light on the contribution of volunteers toward their local football club or league.

SANFL executive general manager football Matt Duldig said the thousands of volunteers in footy across the state are the lifeblood of our leagues and clubs, and the work they do goes well beyond getting footy teams on the field.

"The SANFL Volunteer of the Year Award celebrates the behind the scenes who make our game great," Duldig said.

"Whether they be administrators, umpires, coaches, trainers, Auskick co-ordinators, fundraisers, scoreboard attendants, timekeepers or work in the canteen or barbeque, now is the time to honour a volunteer for their unwavering loyalty to your football club or league.

'It is also vital that we start building a future generation of volunteers, showing today's young footy participants how much volunteering gives us purpose, builds self-esteem and teaches some great life skills.

"It's also great to be able to Awards, with various award of the Year for a second time and foster the next generation of volunteers."

A shortlist of up to eight finalists will be selected from across South Australia.

The 2025 SANFL Volunteer of the Year Award winner will also be nominated as the SA entry for the national AFL Volunteer of the Year Award. The national overall winner will be awarded a Toyota vehicle and three-day AFL Grand Final experience.

THE Riverland Crows Supporters Group (RCSG) have been busy as bees at the end of April and have had an engrossing start to May.

Despite some bumpy results, the Crows supporters are still flying high after some encouraging wins, and the supporters are licking their lips for the rest of the season.

April reached its crescendo with the Gather Round in South Australia, and several members of the RCSG travelled down to Adelaide for the carnival of football and all its colours and pageantry. Despite the negative result for the Crows, with a 19-point loss to the Cats, a fun weekend was had by many.

The RCSG had a successful overnight group trip down to Adelaide for an afternoon game against Carlton on May 3. A total of 15 members travelled down by car and had a lovely lunch at the Cross Keys Hotel. Everyone got to their accommodation and checked in at the Adelaide Oval for the big match. RCSG member Mick Kelly helped raise the banner on the ground before the match.

Three-hours later, after everybody had destroyed their larynx with ear-bursting screaming, victory was claimed over the Blues by 60 points.

The next morning the still-buzzing group visited the new AFL ground, at Lyndoch, and had coffee with AFC board member Imelda Lynch.

On May 11, Mother's Day, the RCSG was treated with a dinner with 40 members of the Adelaide Crows AFLW side at the Barmera Club. It was perfect timing, as the night before the Adelaide Crows had won a heart-stopping Showdown against Port Power by five points, which had all involved on a high. The night was a great success.

The Crows girls were all fantastic and welcoming to the RCSG members and those who attended the dinner. Members were able to have a chat and get a photo with their favourite players on the night and the evening was fun and engaging for all, as everyone got involved in a quiz night. Many laughs were had between RCSG members and the AFLW girls, as the quiz questions included physical competition like orange-squeezing and donut eating

Many thanks to the Adelaide Football Club and the RCSG for a fun evening. Coming up on May 25, the RCSG is having a day trip down to Adelaide to watch the boys play West Coast. I'm sure it will be another entertaining and enjoyable trip.

The Adelaide Crows also travelled to Perth and came up short by 18 points against the Dockers, and blew the Giants away at the Adelaide Oval, also by 18 points. Congratulations to Taylor Walker on AFL life membership, and Rory Laird's 250th game.

Well done Tex and Desk.

RCSG members are advised to keep an eye out for club gatherings and game screenings, through the club newsletter and social media.

All RCSG members and Crows fans are feeling the excitement and anticipation for the rest of the year. All involved are wishing the Crows boys and the girls all the best.

Go you mighty Crows.

LACHLAN DAND

THE biggest surprise of the 2025 RFL A grade season was seen on Saturday afternoon, when Loxton earned an 11-point win over Barmera-Monash at the Lakeside Oval.

In a low-scoring affair, Loxton got the jump in the early stages of the match after tall forwards Carter Wright and Talyn Eagle kicked truly, giving the visitors a 12-point advantage at the first break.

Young Roo Lucas Warnett continues to impress, and did so again on Saturday, kicking the only major of the second quarter, cutting the deficit to five points at half time, with both sides missing golden opportunities in front of goal.

With just one Matt Wutke goal the only action of the third term, the gap was closed to two points at the final break, before the visitors broke it open in the final quarter.

Although the Roos briefly took the lead through Steve Burton, Loxton quickly settled, and booted the final three goals of the game to secure the points.

Harley Campbell and Nathan Brown kicked the final two goals of the game for the Tigers with little time left on the clock, capping off outstanding days from the pair.

Campbell shone from minute one, dominating in the middle of the ground, and providing a spark in attack.

His showing earned him the Brave for Dave medal, with his efforts throughout the game assisted well by captain Jesse Will, and experienced defender Che Lange.

Eagle finished the afternoon with two majors, while Brown, Campbell, Will, and Wright all recorded singles in an even display.

For Barmera-Monash, big man Mitch Wellington produced his best game of the season so far, and was named in the best for the hosts, while young midfielders Rory Moore and Jameson Whitbourne continue to impress.

Warnett finished with two for the hosts, but it ultimately proved to be a low-scoring affair, with Burton and Wutke's singles the Roos' only other majors.

This weekend sees Barmera-Monash in action on the road against Loxton North, hoping to bounce back, and remain in first place, with the Fisher Cup to follow before the Interleague bye.

The fixture fails to get any easier for the time being for a Loxton side hoping to hold onto a spot inside the top four, when it welcomes Renmark to town this weekend.

Following that, the Tigers will play host to Waikerie in a rematch of last season's elimination final, prior to the competition-wide bye.

Barmera-Monash star recruit Steve Burton gets a kick away in the Roos' surprise loss to the Tigers.

AROUND THE GROUNDS

BARMERA-Monash officially gained revenge for the 2024 RFL B grade decider, getting the better of Loxton by a whopping 92 points at the Lakeside Oval, on Saturday,

Despite a slow start to the game, with the Roos ahead by just seven points at quarter time, the home side quickly kicked into gear, bursting away to a 34-point advantage.

Barmera-Monash's domination continued into the second half with a massive eight goals to nil, putting the Tigers to the sword.

Dan Westley pushed his case for an A grade recall with four majors, while Hayden Johns provided a spark with four of his own.

In a disappointing effort from the Tigers, Taylor Eagle and Sid Johnston booted the only goals for the visitors, while Braden Falting and Aaron Baptie also performed well.

Elsewhere, Loxton North's B grade side made it two wins in three weeks with a classy performance in Berri, securing a 36-point win.

The Panthers proved in control from minute one, but it was a clinical second half that told the story. North finished the contest in a flurry with a six-goal-to-three second half, extending a 15-point half time lead to 36 overall.

Veteran Panther Justin Proud finished the day with two majors in a classy performance, while Joe Mitchell and Sam Holbrook each also finished with two.

For Berri, Michael Voigt and Luke Dunn both performed well, while Nathan Geyer kicked two.

Elsewhere, a Blake Hendersoninspired Renmark side earned a 63-point over Waikerie in a curtain raiser to the Gill-Lehmann Cup.

The Rovers started on fire with four goals to nil, opening up a 23-point quarter time advantage, and when the lead landed at 44 by three quarter time, the result was put beyond doubt.

> Henderson dominated for the Rovers with four goals, and with the A grade side suffering injuries, he and Harry Papageorgios will be strong candidates to play in the seniors at Tigerland this week.

> In a highlight for Waikerie, Lachlan Nitschke played in his first A grade match of the season, but it was Taran Brock and Benny Baker who stole the headlines.

Under 18s action saw Renmark get the better of Waikerie by 79 points in what could only be described as a domination from the first-placed side.

Berri also remained in touch with top spot, defeating Loxton North by 67 points, and Barmera-Monash earned a 45-point over Loxton.

The Demons' under 13 outfit secured the biggest win of the weekend, defeating the Panthers by 117 points at Berri Oval.

Loxton completes hockey double over Sunraysia

IT was a successful weekend for Loxton in the latest round of Riverland hockey, with both of its senior sides enjoying wins over Sunravsia.

The Tigers' senior women's outfit secured a tight win, getting over the line by just one goal against a formidable outfit.

Loxton found the back of the net through Ella Pick, Carla Reay, and Steph Robinson, while Rory Giddings scored twice for the visitors

Elsewhere, Berri was forced to forfeit its match against Waikerie on Friday night due to a high level of injuries ravaging through the group.

The Tigers' A grade men's side outclassed the Victorian-based outfit by two goals to nil, with both coming from the stick of Joel Hopper.

Liam Richardson impressed in the middle of the pitch for the Tigers, and was well supported by both Darcy Everett and Tayte Botton.

The biggest winning margin of the weekend came through the B grade men's competition, where Renmark secured a nine-goal-to-nil thrashing of Loxton Punjab.

Michael Vowles scored on seven occasions for the Blues, and Toby Heimann finished with a brace, following a clinical performance from Scott Jones.

B Grade women's action saw Renmark dominate Loxton by six goals to nil in a dominant performance, while Berri enjoyed some success with a three-goal win over Waikerie.

Berri also enjoyed a big win over the Knights in the under 14 mixed competition, scoring eight goals to nil in a strong performance.

Sebastian Coote showed why he is an exciting prospect for the future, scoring four goals in the Berri win, while Jude Vallelonga finished with a brace.

Barmera superstar Amelia Koumbarakos stunned spectators with a 10-goal haul in Sunday's crushing of Berri. PHOTOS: Grant Schwartzkopff

In a rematch of last season's A grade men's Top Four Cup final, Renmark and Loxton were unable to be separated on Sunday.

Barmera completes five-card trick

WITH three rounds of the 2025 Riverland soccer season officially in the books, Barmera is shaping up as the team to beat in the A grade men's competition.

Dealt a home fixture last weekend, Barmera took on cross-town rivals Berri, and secured a dominant win, scoring five goals to one.

Taking a healthy two-goal lead into the interval, Barmera's true dominance came in the second half, netting on three occasions, compared to Berri's lone goal from Mitch Cawse's at the 54th minute.

Tony Mitchell finished the day with two goals for the Pelicans, while Crispin Mitchell and Jake Sweet dominated in the midfield, which appears to be a recurring theme.

Elsewhere, a rematch of last season's top four cup final ended level, with nothing splitting Renmark and Loxton from one another.

While Olympic took the lead into the break through Vincent Vu, Loxton levelled on the hour mark through Josh Sansucie.

Damien Crettenden and Josh Ekisa both performed well for United, with the two set to fight out close contests across the remainder of the campaign.

Elsewhere, Barmera's women's side secured the biggest winning margin of the weekend, putting a whopping 17 goals past Berri in what can only be described as a comprehensive display.

Crossing back from Renmark in the off-season, Amelia Koumbarakos made herself feel comfortable with an incredible 10-goal haul.

The Berri defence ran out of answers for Koumbarakos' trickery, with her efforts putting her in rare air, while Matilda Mitchell also chimed in for a hat-trick.

Chaima Bouglada also starred for Barmera in the comprehensive display, finishing with two of her own, in what was an utter domination.

Renmark itself made life without Koumbarakos work fine against Loxton, securing a massive ninegoal win.

Olympic found the back of the net on 12 separate occasions, with Chanel Gadaleta the star of the show, scoring six.

Gadaleta was well supported by a Penny Eleftheriadis hattrick, with United's goals coming through Sarah Setchell, Ellena Tsakerellos, and Macey Paull.

Riverland soccer will this week head to Loxton, with the A grade men's clash between the hosts and Barmera expected to excite spectators.

RIVERLAND DARTS

LYRUP Lionhearts and Lakeside Joeys had a close match, going down to the doubles in the latest round of Riverland darts.

Joeys won the first and second doubles to level the score seven all, and continued the momentum into the first leg of the last doubles, before Lionhearts took home the next two to claim an 8-7 victory.

Monash Wanderers and Waikerie Vipers also had a close match going down to the last doubles, but ultimately it was the Wanderers who were able to win the last doubles to take out an 8-7 victory.

Wayne Bonham and Calib Martin stood out for the Wanderers, with Martin having low games of 20 and 22 darts.

Shane McKinnon again had a good night for Vipers with an average of 25.17, scoring a 180 and low games of 17 and 22 darts.

Elsewhere, Cobby Eagles had a good win against rivals for the premiership R C Ones, winning by 12-3.

Jeff Broekers had an excellent night for Eagles scoring 180 twice, averaging 22.16, and low games of 15 and 22 darts.

Lake Leviathans had a clean sweep over

Half-century Hogan the difference for Loxton

LAST year's Riverland netball A1 grand finalists Loxton and Loxton North enjoyed a positive night last Friday, both notching up wins away from home.

Both games proved to be a similar battle, with Loxton recording a 20-goal win in Barmera, and Loxton North getting the better of Berri in a preliminary final rematch by 15 goals.

Loxton took a depleted side to Barmera to face off against last season's wooden spooners, and proved too classy for the hosts.

The Tigers took a five-goal lead into quarter time, which grew to 10 by the half, and although the third term proved sloppy at stages, Loxton held a 12-goal lead at the final change.

The visitors put the foot on the pedal in the final quarter, putting in 15 goals to seven to enable a crushing 20-goal victory.

Missing Aimee Holmes from the squad, star mid-courter Bailey Hahn was also out of the Tigers line-up in the contest.

Yet Loxton remained unbothered, with star captain Elise Lange, and Shenae Rucioch's lightning play proving a key factor in the win.

At the defensive end, Leah Uren continues to work well alongside boom recruit Tarnie Shinnick, limiting repetitive attacks.

On the attacking end, Mackella Hogan proved her status of the best shooter in the region, pouring in 50 goals, while youngster Nyah Uren also finished with 12.

For Barmera, Hallie Hodgson fought admirably with 25 goals, while Layla Moore worked hard throughout the night, finishing the game in centre.

Loxton North left Berri scrambling in fourth spot, getting the better of the home side at the Toyota Arena in comfortable fashion.

In a similar script to what was seen in Barmera, just seven goals separated the two sides at three quarter time.

However, North stormed home with 15 goals to seven in the final term, notching up an important win, and bouncing back from the loss to the will follow directly after, from Loxton the previous week.

In a game that had several momentum shifts from start to finish, the North defensive pairing of Paris Lawrie and Kiara Harman stood tall.

Lawrie had the difficult task of shutting down Berri captain Brooke Franks, holding her to 22 goals for the night, while Harman repelled well throughout the night.

Maddie Groth was clinical on the attacking end with 25 goals, while it was shooter Ellie Thomas who led the way with 28.

Abby Fenwick provided Berri with a high amount of run throughout the evening, and was named in the best, while Amelia Morgan held up well defensively.

This weekend sees the Riverland Netball Association celebrate Brave for Dave round, with both A1 matches to be held at The Precinct in Loxton.

Underwater adventures

MAY 21-27, 2025

CINEMATOGRAPHER on David Attenborough's Planet Earth documentaries as well as a National Geographic explorer, adventurer and wildlife filmmaker, Bertie Gregory has fit an incredible amount of experience into his 32 years.

For his second standalone TV series [after 2022's Epic Adventures], Gregory braves sub-zero seas, climbs snowcapped mountains and sleeps suspended in mid-air to bring the daily lives of extraordinary animals and the challenges they face to your living room.

Tuesday's episode finds Gregory and his team in the Galápagos Islands, where they spend time with marine iguanas, sunbathe with sea lions and swim with eagle rays and sharks.

"For the opening of this episode, we filmed marine iguanas [on Fernandina Island]," Gregory told Forbes. "They are the only lizards in the world to regularly swim in the sea. They look like mini-Godzillas. They eat seaweed. The best nutritious seaweed grows where they live, an area with very strong currents and waves. These marine iguanas have adapted to be pro-surfers that can duck dive under 10-foot waves."

"We wanted to show their unique skill — and the only way to do so was to be in the waves with them. I found rather quickly that I got a big slice of humble pie. Those marine iguanas are very at home in the 10-foot waves. We camera people struggled more."

You won't believe your eyes when you see what Gregory can reveal thanks to those struggles – his team's footage and insights are a modern marine marvel.

May 2025: week 3 Horoscopes

This is not the best time to get started on a new idea. You have other projects which you need to finish off: if you are not careful, you will have a lot of loose ends which go nowhere. Romance. A favourable aspect to Mercury at the beginning of the week will help you to communicate effectively with your partner.

GEMINI MAY 22ND - JUN 21ST

Don't be afraid to ask for reinforcements if necessary! You have a lot on your plate at the moment, and will need all the help you can get in order to finish everything off in time. Romance. A difficult aspect to Pluto could cause a deep-seated emotional problem to come to the surface. You need to deal with this immediately.

A dream will tell you everything that you need to know about a new friend. Your feelings towards this person may be ambiguous, but if you go through your dream carefully you will be able to piece everything together. Romance. Don't let a personal remark upset you.

You might be upset by criticism from a close friend; however, taken note of what this person says and act on it. Romance. Don't confuse your own need for security with a desire to control your partner. A bossy approach will do more harm than good.

Take time to think through a risky move before it's too late. You may find success with this in a few days, however. Romance. Your partner might appreciate a few more compliments. A powerful aspect to Venus later in the week will give you a chance to express your feelings more openly

You can be too conscientious for your own good at times. Don't allow other people to push you into doing work which they should be doing themselves. Romance. Don't intervene in another person's relationship unless you are sure that you are doing the right thing. The wrong move now could do more harm than good.

A positive aspect to Jupiter will help to give your confidence a major boost. At times you may be a little full of vourself. However, if you focus your energy constructively you will get a lot done. Romance. Time spent alone with your partner will help you to understand each other's needs and draw you closer together.

Don't be afraid to ask for reinforcements if necessary! You have a lot on your plate at the moment, and will need all the help you can get in order to finish everything off in time. Romance. A difficult aspect to Pluto could cause a deep-seated emotional problem to come to the surface. You need to deal with this immediately, before it gets out of hand.

A meeting with an admirer will help to raise your spirits. A recent disappointment will soon be forgotten. Romance. You may find it hard to understand a recent decision by your partner. When you know all the details it will make sense: in the meantime, you will just have to trust that they are doing the right thing.

Don't be too suspicious of other people's motives. A recent disappointment may cause you to look for problems which don't exist. Romance. Time spent helping a close friend will bring you both closer together. You understand this person well, but there is something about them which you are not aware of.

A major decision should not hinge on the advice of a single person. You need to ask as many people as possible and work out your best strategy before you make a move. Romance. Your standards may be a little too high at times. Do your best to find things to praise your partner for, rather than looking for mistakes.

A powerful aspect to Neptune could make you a little dreamy at times. You will need to keep your wits about you, and should avoid making major decisions if you can help it. Romance. A meeting with friends later in the week will put you in touch with a new admirer. This person will want to see much more of you.

REIMAGINED LANDMARK SERIES WALKING WITH DINOSAURS PREMIERES ON THE ABC THIS JUNE

THE ABC is thrilled to announce that BBC Studio's landmark television series Walking With Dinosaurs will make its Australian premiere on Tuesday, June 3, at 8pm, on ABC TV and iview.

Narrated by award-winning actor Bertie Carvel, Walking With Dinosaurs is a captivating reimagining of the beloved factual series 25 years after it first stomped across our screens.

The six-part series will showcase the dramatic stories of six dinosaurs, including the spinosaurus – the largest carnivorous dinosaur to ever walk the earth – roaming the rivers of ancient Morocco, a triceratops battling a ravenous t-rex in North America, and a lonely giant lusotitan risking it all for love in Portugal.

Each episode of Walking With Dinosaurs tells the dramatic story of an individual dinosaur whose remains are currently being unearthed by world-leading dinosaur hunters.

Thanks to cutting-edge science, experts can reveal how these prehistoric creatures lived, hunted, fought and died more accurately than ever before.

As the dinosaurs' bones emerge from the ground, the series will bring these prehistoric stories to life with state-of-the-art visual effects – making each episode a gripping dinosaur drama based on the very-latest evidence.
